Assemble July 4th at Fallasburg

Area residents are invited to celebrate the Fourth of July holiday with members of the West Central Michigan Historical Society at beautiful Fallasburg Park, north of Lowell.

Festivities will get underway at 1 p. m. with the "Ringing of the Bells for Freedom," fol-lowed by an old-fashioned pot-lowed by an old-fashioned potluck dinner. After dinner, the guests will hear from several servicemen who have recently returned from the war zone in Viet Nam.

Army Sfc Benjamin Ball, with the 25th Division in Viet Nam, will tell of his experiences, and introduce his guests-Sfc James M. Schable; Sgt. Richard A. Falls, and Sgt. Harry T. Dragoo. All men will be available during a question and answer per-iod following their brief, but informative talks.

Interesting Exhibit

Of special interest this year will be the exhibit of Early American Arts and Crafts in the Recreation Building at the Park.

The committee, composed of Norton Louis Avery, Jan John-son and Alice Bauer, are busy assembling the displays which will feature a collections of hand-crafted furniture reproductions by Albert Hermans; an historic collection of items used during the clam button making days on the Grand River near Lowell, by Dr. Ruth Herrick, and a collection of paintings, drawings and photographs de-picting the early history of an, and particularly, the

New centennial farm designated

A farm owned by Robert and Judy Huver of 9283—36th Street, Ada, has been designated as a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission. The farm, located in Cascade Township, Kent County, has been in the possession of the family since 1860. It was originally purchased in May of 1860 by Loren Lewis Sr. great great-grandfather of the present owners, from Lucues Bolthouse. According to Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose department directs the activities of the Historical Commission, the Centennial Farm program in Michigan was establish ed in 1948. Since that time, certificates and metal markers have been awarded to more than 1,800 Michigan farms. The pregram is administered under the direction of the Commission, while markers are provided by Detroit Edison and umers Power Companies.

According to Hare, a Centen-nial Farm is one which has been in the continuous posses-sion of the same family for 100 years or more. For this pur-pose, the Historical Commission considers a farm to be 10 or more acres having estimated sales of more than $50 yearly, or less than 10 acres but hav-nually.

Grattan voters refuse school annexation

Voters in Grattan, Chittle and Orleans rural school districts turned down Monday a proposal that would annex their districts to the Belding School system. Their refusal involves about 500 school age children and $4 million dollars in state equalized valuation for the Belding district.

On the question of annexation, Chittle voted 26 to 22 against it. Orleans decided with a 48-27 vote, and Grattan voiced its opinion with a 71 no, 58 yes vote. Figures released by Murl Conner, Belding's superintendent, concerned three separate issues on which each of the districts decided. First proposal considered the

The first step in constructing senior-citizen housing unit, for Lowell, was taken last week with the purchase of 8 acres land from Mr. and Mrs. George Hale, land, located on Bowes The Road, runs back to undeveloped Grand Street and has frontage along Cherry Creek. The actual purchase of the property was made by the Schneider Fund at a cost of $12,000. Members of the fund trustees are Ray Rittenger and Phillip Schneider, and Donald O. Johnson of the Old Kent Bank.

Approval for the purchase was given by the full senior-citizen housing committee Ray Rittenger, Phillip Schneider, Dr. Donald Gerard, Norton Avery, King Doyle, E. C. Foreman and C. H. Runciman. C. H. Runciman, chairman of the committee, said this week that preliminary plans are underway by Kalamazoo Architect Robert Kiefer. Before the purchase of the land, a study was made of the location by a consultant of the committee, Dan Vos. Ada Contractor and Build-

Runciman said that the study shows that there is no problem of high water on this land, which is higher than the surrounding area. Sewer hook-up available across one end of the property and city water mains are adjacent to the loca-

Larry Upton, representative of the Ford Foundation, has made a community study for the senior-citizen housing committee and approved the location The committee agrees that this is the best location available which meets all the requirements of the needs of senior citizens of the community.

Building Plans

Plans for construction will be presented to the committee soon with several different styles, to be proposed by the architect. One would be of separate units for 70 with a central administration building and common use lounge and activity areas. Another plan under consideration is for a connected series of units fanning out from central use area. Some consideration is being given for community dining facilities with one meal a day served at the option of the tenants.

Also under consideration by the committee, in connection with the 70 unit housing de-velopment, is a 20 bed convalescent home at the same location. This would have to wait for the completion of the housing for able-bodied senior citizens

Under the plans now pending, elibibility for one of the housing units will be limited to persons or couples at least 61 years of age.

homes. As Mrs. Rockett mentioned, "It is really sad to see some-one spend as much or more for a print or reproduction as they would need to spend on an or-iginal. The difference is truly noticable when a painting is hanging in your home." Most of the paintings will be representational work, although at least one local abstract art-ist, Helen Runciman, will also have a display. Jeanne Laird, who also paints, will this year show her stained glass work. Some of the others who have been working in oils and poly-mers are: group. That year one painting was sold. The second year brought more well-wishers to the local artists and more paint-ings were taken home by de-licited guidements lighted customers. Last year there were over 700 people at the exhibit and Mrs. Thomas Rockett, who is in charge of the showing, says she does not remember just how many paintings were sold, but that it exceeded the former mers are:
