AL to Honor Veterans of Vietnam War

Veterans of the Vietnam war will be honored guests at the regular meeting of the Clark Ell's Post 152, American Leplanned for Monday,

A special program has been planned for their entertainment, including a short talk by Past Department Commander Ray C. Conlon of Grand Rapids and action pictures of the Vietnam conflict.

The major address of the evening will be given by Fran Smith, editor and publisher of the Lowell Ledger. All members of the post and auxiliary are urged to attend in honor of these young men. Lunch will be served at the conclusion of the meeting, which starts at 8 p. m.

the Kent County Sheriff's dis-Campaign in Lowell

Although Lowell's municipal election is only 11 short days away, political talk around town is as scarce as the proverbial hen's molars.

And unless one or more of the four candidates, seeking the three available seats on the city council on Monday, April 1, generate some political steam very soon, the 1968 city election will go down as the quietest in many a year.

A spot check among the voters here and there failed to reveal any trend as to how the election is going. Most of the answers are:

"I just don't know. The four candidates, two of whom will be elected to twoyear terms and a third to a one-year term, are:

Carlen Anderson, incumbent councilman; Richard Curtis; Harold F. Jefferies; and Mrs. Virginia Myers.

Anderson is completing his first year of service to the city. He is employed by the Kent County Highway Department as an engineer.

Curtis is a dry-cleaning and coin-operated laundry executive. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the council in the 1967 election.

Jefferies is former editor and publisher of the Lowell Ledger and Suburban Life. This is his first attempt at elective office. Mrs. Myers, who operates an antique shop and eating establishment, was defeated in

Battle-WearyFiremen Welcome Rainy Spell

The mid-week rains have brought relief to weary members of the Lowell Fire Department.

Chief Frank Baker and his men were literally suffering "battle fatigue" after answering a record number of grass fire calls in the previous five-day period.

Over that span, the local firemen hit the road to put out a total of 14 blazing fields, including one plea for assistance from Grattan Township,

Saturday afternoon alone, the firemen and rigs were kept on the run to snuff out four grass fires.

Two alarms came in on Sunday. The first call sent Fire Chief Frank Baker and his men to fight a field fire at the Ada Township address of Earl Vosburg on Grand River Dr.

The other Suncay run was to Lowell Township where a grass fire was in progress on the property of Arthur Orcutt on Lowellview Ave.

On Monday two rigs and a crew put out another grass fire on West St.

The four Saturday alarms were listed as: grass fires at Riverview on M-21: Earl Starkweather at 116 S. Jefferson; Louis Yalacki, on East Main; and to Vergennes Township to the Covered Bridge Rd.

In other fire action, the firemen responded to alarms to: Paul Malone, on Five Mile Rd., Grattan Township; Ray Havinga, Lincoln Lake Rd. David Styles, Foreman Rd.; the Miller property on Grand River Dr., Lowell Twp.; Rusty Balcom, on Montcalm, Vergennes Twp.; Sherm Row-land, 3203 Timpson; and Red Bristol, Hunt St.

Grass Fires Outstrip '67

Lowell Fire Chief Frank Baker, in his annual report to the city council, listed a total of 40 fire alarms turned in during 1967

An interesting sidelight of the report showed that where-as there were 7 grass fires in 1967, there were more than that number recorded in February of this year alone. Of the 40 fire runs made. Chief Baker said, 15 of them were for Lowell, 11 for Lowell Tornship, nine in Vergennes Township, two for Boston Township. The 1967 fire report showed the volunteers battling blazes

What happened next was almost unbelievable. I felt a tap on my shoulder. It was the Western Union operator, who had a message from the office which said:

"Please write 8-60 . . . Michigan lost to Ohio State." Translated, this meant that the editor at the Times wanted me to write an eight-column headline in 60-point type. Taylor is extremely proud of the system, which feeds programs into all grades of the elementary, junior and senior high schools. Closed circuit TV (better known as CCTV) is more practical in its usage than film projection, simply because teachers and students alike are not required to be mechanically inclined. "And what's more," says Taylor, "it has far greater potential as an educational tool than do films."

Virtually all of the school's TV system was built by Taylor and his students, with two of them, in particular, doing yeoman work. They are Scott Prosser and Rich Guessner, the latter having graduated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL --- 11:15 A, M.

"In the Cross of Christ I Glory" The title of this meditation is taken from a familiar hymn which we often sing. These words are based on the thought expressed by the apostle Paul in Galatians 6:14 "But far b it from me to glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus readily understand that he would glory in Jesus Christ.

What was there about the cross of Christ that caused Paul to glory in it? For him the cross of Christ was not just a beautiful example of martyrdom. He gloried in Christ's cross because it was through the crucified Christ that he was saved from sin. The grace of God had brought him, proud and legalistic Pharisee, to the foot of the cross. He gloried in the Christ who brought about his salvation on the cross.

Love and mercy brought me; In the cross, in the cross, Be my glory ever."

ASPIRING BALLERINA PAMELA MARTIN

Career As Ballerina Beckons Pam Martin

The month of May will mark an important milestone for the John H. Martin family of 1132 Orchard SE.

At that time, 15-year-old Pamela will begin preparations to receive special training toward her goal of becoming a ballerina. and bachelor's degree in education from Aquinas College.

Pamela was recently selected, along with 29 other young dancers from throughout the nation, from a list of hundreds who aspired to receive special training from the Harkness School of Ballet in New York City.

Mrs. Martin will receive her

A student at the Academy of Dance Arts locally, Pamela auditioned for the training program, which, when successfully completed, could bring about a career with the Harkness Ballet Company.

Pamela is scheduled to train for six weeks at Watch Hill, R.I.

Pam has been studying ballet for seven years. While living in Texas, she had an asthmatic condition and took up dancing to build up her lungs.

While attending a ballet at the Dallas Civic Theater, she became inspired to become a ballerina. She started her training by taking one lesson a week. When her father was transferred to Phoenix, she studied under Robert Lindgren, now the dean of The School of Performing Arts in North Carolina.

Upon the transfer of her father to Grand Rapids, Pam again took up the bailet with The Academy of Dance, under the direction of Ed Riffel. She now takes nine lessons a week and works as receptionist after school at the Academy.

Pam's goal is to become a famous ballerina and she is more than willing to devote the time and a strenuous schedule to see her ambition become a reality. With her many hours of lessons and practice, she doesn't have time to enter into extra-curricular activities at East Grand Rapids High, where she is a sophomore.

Pam will be the soloist in the premier performance of the newly-formed "Thornapple Valley Children's Ballet," to be presented May 17 and 18 at the St. Cecilia Auditorium.

This company of young dancers from all over the Forest Hills, Grand Rapids area and as far as Muskegon and Grand Haven is under the direction of Edward Riffel. The company's orchestra is being conducted by Prof. Daniel Kovats of Grand Valley State College. They will perform excerpts from the "Gaync Ballet" and the entire "La Boutique Fantasque."

Sets are being designed by Wilma Janczwnska, local artist and executed by her husband, Robert, art director of the Grand Rapids Public Museum.

Tickets will be available at all Wurzburg Stores on April 1. For reservations and information, call Mrs. Buck Matthews, 949-0963.
