School District organizes steering committee

by: Thad Kraus

In an effort to become proactive instead of reactive to challenging problems and issues that confront the Lowell School District, the Board of Education has set forth a resolution for the development of a strategic long range district plan.

The plan calls upon citizens of the school district and school district staff for assistance in the study of the current and future status of programs, services and facilities of the school district and in developing a course of action for the district's future.

The board appointed a steering committee composed of seven members who shall serve as chairpersons of one strategic planning sub-committee in the following areas: instructional programs and related services, staffing and staff development, facilities, technology, community services and administrative services.

The sub committee membership will be made up of parents, community leaders from business, industry and labor, representatives from community organizations and agencies, teachers, administrators, and support staff and high school students where appropriate.

Serving as the strategic planning chairman is Ray Quada. Chairpersons include Mary Yost, Dan Vollink, Charles Kohler, Barry Breckon, Peggy Idema, and Dave Douma.

The planning committee will develop a strategic plan for district improvement from July 1, 1989 through June 30, 1994 and prepare the final report to the board on or about June 15, 1988.

Some of the significant demographic trends and implications that will affect the committee's decisions are talked about in a report prepared by Shirley Kane Lewis, which is intended to assist administrators in the Kent Intermediate School District with long-range planning.

Information on population is one of those demographic trends that weigh heavily in long-range planning.

"Lewis' report is fairly accurate, but it does not account for move-ins or new home developments," Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch said. "They accounted for the 70 plus students over the school's projection."

The report states that educators can look forward to increased enrollment in grades kindergarten through fifth grade and sixth through eighth but a decline in grades nine through 12 by 1990.

"I don't think we'll see a baby boom like that of 1957, you must remember then there were soldiers, and no pill," Esch said.

According to Kane, with the population projections through 1990, future declines in elementary and high school enrollments will lessen as the younger population stabilizes.

Kane's report adds that elementary enrollments will grow due to the recent recovery in births while high school enrollments will drop due to relatively fewer births in the late 1970's.

The aging populations in communities with stable or declining enrollments will have a serious impact on school budgets.

Kane's report continues to say, that the issue of school millages will become more complicated and difficult to pass in communities where those individuals without a stake in the local school system (those whose children are out of school) will not support local millage elections.

Another area in which education will have to maintain an awareness will be in the occupational area.

The growth projections are expected in the areas of computer technology and recreation. Many reports have also touted that there will be a need for teachers but that conflicts with the occupational projections chart for Kent County.

That chart does not project a substantial gain in teachers. Esch agrees that the need is not there. "Most of the eligible teachers out there are in general education, and there isn't a need for teachers in that area.

"However, teachers are needed in the areas of math, biology and other science fields."

Unemployment in Michigan has gradually improved, however, despite improvement it remains among the highest of the 11 most populous states.

It is projected that spot shortages of labor may occur in selected occupational and demographic areas as a result of the small birth cohort (a group of people sharing common, temporal or demographic experience) of the 1970's reaching working age during 1990's.

Kane's report adds that the elderly population in Michigan may return to the workplace in order to meet the labor shortage.

"Reports such as this are helpful to the strategic planning process," Esch said. "The planning process allows us to look where we're at, ahead to where we're going, and it gives the school district direction."

Council is cool to $4,000 engineering proposal

Lowell City Manager David Pasquale ran into a brick wall Monday night when he proposed a $4,000 engineering study for space needs among the various city departments. The study would have been conducted by WBDC Architects, Planners & Engineers of Grand Rapids. The study would have evaluated the present and future office and work space needed by such departments as police, fire, D.P.W. and city hall.

The $4,000 expenditure ran into stiff opposition from Councilmen Dean Collins and Jack Fonger. Collins said, "If we don't have people heading our departments that can determine what they need, then maybe we should get new people". Fonger was a little less blunt, but was obviously not in favor of another engineering study.

Mayor Maatman and Councilman Bill Thompson were in favor of the study. Both agreed with Pasquale's theory that long range planning when dealing with capital expenditures such as building construction or major renovation can help cut costs. Maatman said he would like to see the city avoid what he called "crisis management", and pointed to a new fire truck that is on the way, with no garage to house it.

Councilman Charlie Doyle didn't offer a strong opinion either for or against the study, but did point out that this study coupled with a $15,000 required study for the water treatment plant and another $15,000 required study for the sewage treatment plant, brought the total to a healthy $34,000.

After a lengthy discussion,

Maatman asked for a motion on the subject. None was offered, and Thompson suggested that the proposal be tabled while Pasquale conducted a survey of cities that have had similar studies done by WBDC. The councilmen concurred with the suggestion, and the issue was tabled.

The $15,000 water treatment plant engineering study is a water system reliability study required by the Michigan Public Health Department. The work is to be completed by the city's engineering firm of Fishbeck, Thompson, Carr and Huber. Collins was again vehemently opposed to the expenditure, but the issue passed by a four to one vote.

The Council approved pay-

Kent Red Cross needs volunteers

The Kent County Red Cross needs about 30 volunteers to help administer the Red Cross/MichCon Heat Bank Program. The Heat Bank, funded by MichCon, provides emergency assistance to cover heating costs for low-income families, primarily the elderly.

Volunteers are needed to work as caseworkers and to provide telephone screening for the Heat Bank. Caseworkers will interview persons requesting emergency heating assistance through the MichCon system. Persons providing telephone screening will be advising callers as to eligibility documentation required, making referrals, and scheduling appointments with caseworkers.

"This is the 6th year the Red Cross has worked with MichCon to provide the Heat Bank Program," said Barb Weiland, Red Cross Chairperson. "The MichCon Heat Bank program is the largest utility assistance project in the nation." The Heat Bank program begins December 15, 1987, and continues through June 30, 1988. Volunteers will work one-half or one day shifts at the Red Cross Chapter building, 1050 Fuller, N.E. The heaviest need period for volunteers is from January 1 through April 30.

A Heat Bank orientation and training for volunteers will be held Wednesday, December 2, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Red Cross Chapter building. Prospective volunteers are urged to call Dennis or Joe at the Red Cross at 456-8661 for questions and registration. The Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Local Moose Lodge 809 helps sponsor "Just say NO to drugs"

The third Student Congress, "Just Say No To Drugs", training seminar for high school students and sponsored by The Loyal Order of Moose, was held on November 7, 1987 in Fenton, Michigan. Lowell High School students, Kris Stouffer and Brad Briggs represented their school at this day-long event. As a result of their day, they will write an essay on how to tell the "Just Say No To Drugs" story to 4 to 9 year olds in elementary school. In addition, the students, along with Lori Esch, who attended the seminar last year, will conduct classroom activities with young elementary students.

The "Just Say No To Drugs" program is presented throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain by the Loyal Order of the Moose. The two students were transported to the Student Congress by Lowell Lodge 809 "Just Say No To Drugs" coordinator, A.J. Zengri.

Flat River Snowmobile Club

The Flat River Snowmobile Club met on Sunday, November 15th for their regular meeting and potluck dinner. The attendance was down a little as some of our members were away chasing venison.

The clubhouse is looking really good after a thorough cleaning, a new tile flooring, and ceiling with a new paint job. We also have a new woodstove installed and are ready for winter.

The trail groomer is sporting a new Omaha Orange paint job and is ready. The Trail Crew has been out for the past three weekends with the brush-hog and has installed new gates and snow fence in strategic places. The signs will be installed immediately after deer season ends. When they are installed before the season ends, they are often used as targets, so it is wise to wait.

Brad and Judy Potter and Jim and Kathy Puchalski recently attended the Michigan Snowmobile Association annual convention on Mackinac Island. Brad reported that there were over 650 snowmobilers from all over the state in attendance. All the new sleds, groomers and clothing were on display. It was quite a project to ferry them to the island and they had to be hauled on a horse drawn dory to where they were displayed. The groomers had to be taken by way of the beach and lawns as they were not allowed on the streets. There was a costume dance and party on Friday night and an Awards Banquet and Dance on Saturday night with seminars and meetings during the day. The General Membership Meeting and election were on Sunday. Bill Manson, a member of our club is the new President of MSA. Congratulations, Bill. We know that you will do a fine job.

A Constitution and ByLaws committee was appointed by President Potter to review them and present any possible changes to the members for their approval. Don Souser will chair this committee.

Gerry Bryant reported that plans are shaping up for the Christmas parade float.

Brad Potter was presented with a gift certificate to a nice restaurant in appreciation of all the legal and other work he has done for the club.

A beautiful Memorial Plaque was presented by Ed and Faith Marshall in Memory of their daughter, Laurie Ellen, who passed away ten years ago on November 19th. The plaque honors members of the club who have passed away. They are Fred Althaus, Robert Chrouh, Wayne E. Will, Laurie Ellen Marshall, Imelda Priebe, Linda Street, Steve Stephenson, George Scheck, and Robert Harvey.

We will be publishing new Trail Maps this year as there is a big demand for them. We will be selling business ads on the reverse side as we did last year, so if you want to place an ad call 897-6509 and we will take care of it for you. We finance the cost of printing in this way and it gives you good exposure to the public for your business.

Our new shipment of Club Caps has arrived and are available at the Club.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

While I live will I praise the Lord... (Psalm 146:2)

It takes effort to be either good or bad. We have to work at being grumpy; we have to work at being joyful; we have to work at creating the atmosphere of our surroundings.

Shall we enjoy the sunshine? Or, shall we worry about the ground that will thaw and the dirt that will be tracked into the house? Which will our lives express - "gloom or gladness?"

Fellow Christians, we have not been promised a trouble-free existence. In fact, Jesus said His followers would have tribulation. But with the promise of tribulation, Jesus also gave commandment for His followers to be of good cheer.

Much depends on the attitude we assume at the beginning of the day, fellow Christians. If we crawl out of bed dejectedly, view the twenty-four hours ahead pessimistically, the whole day will no doubt be boring. But if we rise with a song on our lips and sincere praise to the Lord in our heart, living can be exciting and rewarding. Determination plays a big part in the amount of "gloom or gladness" we possess.

Prayer: "Praise ye the Lord. Praise the Lord, O my soul." As long as I live I shall praise Thee for all Thy numberless blessings. It is the least I can do when Thou has done so much for me. Amen.

With numberless blessings each moment He crowns, And filled with His fullness divine, I sing in my rapture, oh, glory to God

For such a Redeemer as mine! Fanny J. Crosby

Nazarene Church appoints new choir director

Jim and Diane Geldhof, Kristin, & Juli

Rev. Jim Geldhof is the new choir director at Lowell Church of the Nazarene, 211 N. Washington Street, according to an announcement by the Pastor, Rick Upchurch.

The Reverend Geldhof and his family come to Lowell from Clyde Park Church of the Nazarene where he has been directing the choir and ministering in several other support capacities. He was raised in the church and testifies to the experience of sanctification. Jim is personable and easygoing, and will provide a much-needed boost to the Lowell church. His wife, Diane, works in Grand Rapids and has been active at Clyde Park. She is also a member of the District Women's Ministries Council and plays the piano as well as sings with her husband. Their daughter, Kristin, a senior at Grandville, plays a clarinet and plans to attend a Nazarene college in the fall. Daughter, Juli, is a freshman at Grandville and plays the flute.

Beginning after the evening service, on Wednesday, November 18, Rev. Geldhof will begin practice for a choir special on November 22 and will discuss the Christmas cantata.

Choir practices will be held on Wednesday evenings at 7:15 and Sunday evenings at 4:45. One of the expectations for the new choir is a contribution to the Sunday morning worship service. While not everyone will be able to make both practices, those wishing to sing for the specials must have been in at least one practice. Work on a Christmas program will also begin immediately.

Membership in the choir is open to anyone who will commit themselves to being at one practice a week and in attendance at the performance unless providentially hindered. The fact is - you are wanted to be a member of the choir. Why not come out and join them on Wednesday, November 18 for the first practice, following the Bible study?

Clore; car sales and tool rental owner likes being his own boss

by: Thad Kraus

With a knowledge of where he's been and what he's done and the foresight of where he'd like to be and what he'd like to do, John Clore, owner of Clore's Autos, Inc. and L & A Rent-All, has found immediate success in the selling of used cars.

The 1969 Ionia High School graduate moved to Lowell in 1976 to be closer to his work. Eleven years ago, that meant being a planning and scheduling supervisor for Amway.

Clore scheduled mixing and production centers for powder, liquid, and aerosol lines. He did this for five years, "I burned myself out at Amway," Clore says.

Tired of the corporate world, Clore went to work for Harold Zeigler Ford selling cars. He did so for six years before reacting to a desire for the freedom to be his own boss.

"Now I am my own boss during the day, come evening though that changes and my wife Kris becomes the boss," Clore said.

Kris, Clore's wife of 17 years, does the paper and book work for her husband while John tends to the sales.

In 1982 after Smith & Clemenz Auto Sales vacated its lot, Clore seized the opportunity to purchase, and then get into the used car business.

"At least for me, sales have been increasing," Clore said. "I think the cost of new automobiles has kept people interested in purchasing used cars."

Clore adds that cars brought to their lot have complete reconditioning and are mechanically sound before being resold.

These used cars are purchased from new car dealers, individuals trying to sell their cars, and from auctions. Clore recommends that regular servicing of one's car is more important than ever before, if a person is to have good upkeep, and wants good trade-in and or selling value.

John and Kris Clore of John Clore's Auto and L & A Rent-All have been successfully selling used cars for five years. Clore is in hopes of owning his own new car store someday.

"With all the small cars and four cylinder engines on the road today, routine or regular maintenance helps detect small problems before they become BIG problems," Clore said.

Despite belief that the depreciation value of a car varies from dealer to dealer, Clore claims that dealers are usually within $300 of one another in deciding a car's value. "We all use the same books."

Clore is not only active in car sales, he also is a member of the Lowell Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Equipment Rental Association, the American Rental Association and the National Independent Automotive Association.

After having his used car business firmly on its feet, Clore decided in February to open up L & A Rent-All, which offers a full array of items for home owners

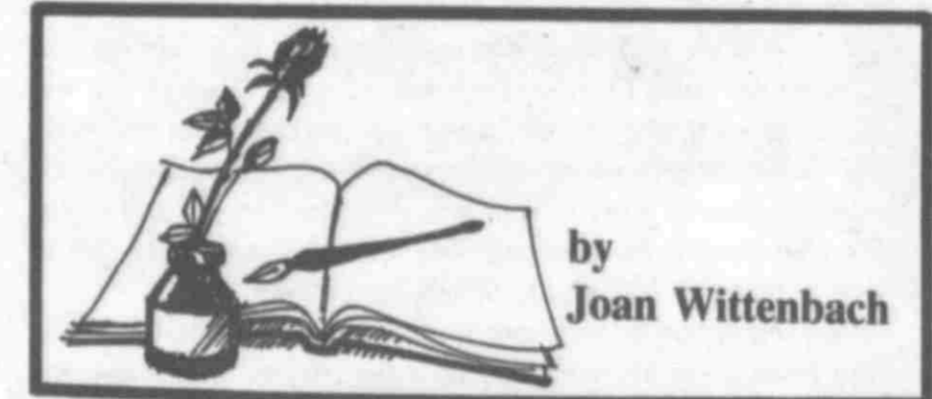

So where and what does Clore's foresight and "dreams" have him doing? "I'd like to stay in the automotive business and someday own a new car store."

READ IT AGAIN, GRANDMA

The anticipation got to me as I pulled into the long winding driveway. The palms of my hands got sweaty, my heart thumped and then I panicked. "Oh no, I forgot my bag."

This was the day (several months ago) that Yankee Clipper Library in Grand Rapids was having their annual book sale. My forgotten bag was a grocery bag that I hoped to fill with book treasures. An hour later, my friend and I came out with a bag each filled with choice books. The library had supplied the bags—bless 'em.

When I got home, I spread the books on the kitchen table and took a closer look at my selections. Such bargains! I picked out one, the only children's book in the lot. I sat back in an inviting looking chair and read, "The Little Engine That Could," by Watty Piper. I remembered how I had loved it when I was young. I had read it to many kids I had babysat for when I was a teenager. Our children had it read to them and now once again, I am reading it to one of our children—our grand-daughter. When Amy Jo and I sit down to read it, it is like sharing an old friend with her. "Read it again, Grandma." It has become one of her favorites, too.

Tonight while doing dishes, I got to thinking about that story. The more I thought about it, the more excited I got. I could hardly wait to finish the dishes and get back to the book. I kept muttering to myself, "the hero of the story is not the little blue engine. I just know it's not."

Do you remember that loved story? Let me give you a quick rundown. A train full of toys and all kinds of goodies was on its way to the boys and girls that lived on the other side of a mountain. All of a sudden, the wheels of the train give out. Now, how do the children get their toys and goodies? One of the toys, a funny little clown sees another engine coming down the track. He and the rest of the toys stop the train and ask for help. The engine refuses to help them. Later, the clown sees another engine coming, and let me tell you folks, this clown means business. He doesn't just yell for the engine to stop—he's found a little red flag and runs toward the oncoming engine waving and yelling for it to stop. This engine, as well as two others refuses to help. But now, down the track comes a little blue engine, (children love the word "little" in this story). She sees the flag and stops to listen to the problem. Looking at the situation, mulling it over, she comes to her famous conclusion—"I think I can, I think I can, I think I can." The train is hooked up to the little engine and off they go toward the mountain. The clown is sitting in the back of the engine, all smiles. The book ends with the train reaching the top of the mountain, ready to go down to the children in the valley. As she puffs down the mountain-side, she seems to say, "I thought I could, I thought I could, I thought I could."

Remember that earlier I had questions about the real hero? Happily, I guess him to be the funny little clown. He is the one that did something while everyone else was crying. He saw the trains and flagged them down. Honestly, I never did remember the clown, years ago, only the little engine that could.

Like many people, I like happy endings, and this book has one. It tells about the victory after a struggle. About the whisper of the heart that says, "I thought I could," after it's all over. It's about an encourager, and how much we all need someone like that.

I've been fortunate in my life to have had some clowns of encouragement. Some only passed along their concern and love for a short time. The others have been around much longer. They wave their flags of caution and warning, and give their suggestions. But it has been their steady love and encouragement that got me through a difficult time. Even though the victory came, often I looked like I had been defeated. I was picked up, cleaned up and sat up—long enough to hear the shouts of the clown, "I knew you could, I knew you could, I knew you could." Often I'd cry, and with the little strength I had left, I hugged my clown.

Now you know why I get excited about going to a book sale. I never know who will become a part of my life. That particular day, a clown came through an old familiar friend, "The Little Engine That Could." Tomorrow—who knows?

I wish as much for you. A clown or perhaps, two or three. Look for them, they are there—I know they are, I know they are, I know they are.

Successful deer hunters . . .

Wesley Adrianse, 114 Smith Street, Lowell, arrived at the Ledger office at 9:00 a.m. on opening day to claim his prizes as winner of the "First Buck" contest, sponsored by the Lowell Ledger and several area merchants.

Wesley shot his 8 point buck north of Lowell at 7:30 a.m. with a 12 ga. shotgun. He estimated the bucks' weight to be 140 lbs.

Wesley received free processing for his deer from Gary's Country Meats; $20 gift certificates from Thompson's Gun Shop, Pfaller's Riverfront Clothing and Anderson Family Shoes; free oil, lube and filter from Harold Zeigler Ford and a 2 year subscription to the Lowell Ledger. Congratulations Wesley!

Other successful hunters included Harold Wittenbach, who shot a 6 point buck at 7:30 a.m. on his own land in Vergennes Township, and Dennis Wittenbach, who shot a 9 point buck at 1:30 p.m., also in Vergennes Township.

Big day for Dumas

Mike Dumas, a 6-0 freshman from Alto and Lowell High School had a big day in Indiana's victory over Illinois. Dumas recovered two fumbles on kickoffs in Indiana's victory of 34-22.

Dumas' first recovery set up Indiana's go ahead touchdown. Indiana, 7-2 and 5-1 in the Big Ten, traveled to East Lansing last weekend to play Michigan State.

Arriving one hour behind the winner with a 9 point buck was Steven Uzarski, 9925 E. Fulton, Ada. Steven shot his buck in the Fallasburg Park area at 7:15 a.m. with a 20 ga. slug. He estimated the deer to weigh 150 lbs.

Fourteen year-old Randy Crawford, 10807 Lockwood, Lowell, bagged a 7 point buck in the Fallasburg area during his first year of hunting.

Sometimes I wonder if it isn't time to give up on this column. Some of my best sources of material are drying up on me. Thor the Wonder Dog died over two years ago, and his replacement is a big, well-mannered, affectionate golden retriever. Duffy's a nice dog. He's a smart dog. He's a great family dog. But, he just doesn't make good column material. Duffy's idea of a good time is to chase a squirrel up a tree. Thor would have chased the squirrel up the tree, then gone on to rape, pilage and plunder the entire neighborhood . . . with me in hot pursuit. Now that's column material.

The kids used to be a constant source of material. Up until the last couple of years they were constantly saying and doing cutesy things. Now that they're fourteen and twelve, some of their antics aren't so cute. For instance, I asked Angie, who just turned fourteen, if she sat with a boy at the movies last Friday. She said she sat between two boys. She didn't offer names, so I asked. She told me, and I only recognized one of the names. So I said, "Who's Brett?" She replied, "A person". We were in the car at the time, and I said "You don't give your dad that ☆#%*%×/ or he'll reach back there and slap your @/#@# face right off!" See what I mean about not being quite so cute any more.

I've often used my wife as a source of material, but her patience with being publicly ridiculed is wearing thin. Just last night, she scraped the bumper and broke the lens out of a side marker light on her car as she backed out of the garage. I made a bit of an issue of it at the time. But, when she snapped back and told me it was all my fault, I figured I'd better let it lie. It seems she was worried about hitting my car, which was parked about thirty feet away. When an argument starts out with the opposing sides that far apart, and one party is your wife, I've learned it's best to just shut your mouth. Most of all, I've learned not to make fun of these incidents in my weekly newspaper column.

I'm even drying up as a source of material. I can only carry on about about being overweight, gray and crowding 40 just so many times. I realize I'm a bit of a clumsy buffoon, but even I can't blunder into enough problems to single-handedly generate quality material for a weekly column. Oh, I suppose if I were willing to share everything with you, I might be able to, but I do have some pride!

We visited my wife's sister and her family on Sunday. While we were standing around in the kitchen, my first-grader niece Amy said, "Why don't you write about me in the newspaper so I can read it? Well, I mean, so my mom can read it to me".

I thought about what Amy said, and decided I have plenty of neat stories to tell about lots of my little nieces and nephews. So, that's what I started out to do this morning. Trouble is, I've rambled on so long with an introduction, it looks like I'll have to save my nieces and nephews stories until next week. By the way, that's a bit of a luxury. I don't remember having a column topic planned a week in advance since I did the trilogy on my wisdom teeth surgery, and I won't even have to wince as I write this.

Mahogany formerly referred to 67 different kinds of wood that shared similar characteristics and so could be sold in the U.S. under the name mahogany.

Lowell teacher wins state mini-grant

A lot of neat things are about to happen in almost 200 Michigan public school classrooms, thanks to Teacher Mini-Grants awarded by the State Board of Education.

The State Board awarded a total of 199 Teacher Mini-Grants in this third year of the State Board's direct-to-the-classroom mini-grant program to successful teachers. The teachers awarded grants were selected from a total of 2,176 teachers who applied.

Grants were awarded that totaled $105,000 from applications that totaled $1,233,051. One of those receiving a Teacher Mini-Grant is Norma Lane of Lowell Area Schools, Runciman-Riverside Elementary. She received a grant in the amount of $455.00. Some creative uses for the funds include: Science projects with amateur radio equipment, a computer learning project, sign language videotape, a microcomputer telecommunications system, a computer simulator and much more. Included in the $105,000 in Teacher Mini-Grants were 38 for adult education teachers, 27 for teachers of reading and math for disadvantaged students, 61 special education teachers, 26 vocational teachers, and 47 awards for teachers of math, science, computers or foreign language.

Phone service will soon improve

Michigan Bell will bring customers in five Kent County communities new calling options early next year when it introduces state-of-the-art telephone call-processing equipment at an estimated cost of more than $4 million.

In late January, approximately 16,000 business and residence customers in Rockford, Sparta, Lowell, Caledonia and Alto can have Custom Calling features, according to Phil Gould, Michigan Bell's local corporate affairs manager.

Gould said the new services will be available in the 866, 868, 887, 891, and 897 telephone exchanges.

By late the following month, Gould said, Michigan Bell also will offer customers in those exchanges "Dial 1 Plus" long distance service.

"Dial 1 Plus" will enable customers to use any long distance company available in their areas by dialing "1" plus the area code and the telephone number," said Gould. "In the past, placing a call through any long distance company other than AT&T required dialing as many as 22 digits."

Customers will receive information in the mail describing the new services as they become available.

Michigan Bell Service Bulletin

Important: Action you must take if your phone number begins with 897.

Now you have a choice of long distance companies for Dial 1 Plus service. Don't leave that choice to chance.

Watch the mail and make your choice soon.

If you have not already received it, you soon will be getting complete information from Michigan Bell by mail, along with a ballot listing your choices of Dial 1 Plus long distance companies. Your Dial 1 Plus options and the steps you should take are described in detail. And you will be given the date by which you must make your selection to avoid having a long distance company randomly selected for you.

If your phone number does not begin with the number above, don't worry. You will be notified when your area is ready for Dial 1 Plus service.

Don't give up your right to choose.

As part of the restructuring of the telephone industry, you must choose a company for Dial 1 Plus service or such a company will be chosen for you. Should this happen, it will be a random selection by computer. We urge you to make your own choice—because a company selected at random will not necessarily be one that best serves your specific needs. The information you receive will include telephone numbers for the various long distance companies, so you can easily look into their services and charges before you make your choice.

What is Dial 1 Plus?

Dial 1 Plus is simply dialing "1," plus the area code (when necessary), plus the telephone number to complete a long distance call outside of your LATA. Companies offering long distance service can now offer you the same Dial 1 Plus service previously available only to customers of AT&T.

Need more help? Let's Talk!

Michigan Bell cannot recommend a long distance company, but if you have any questions about Dial 1 Plus service, or if you have misplaced the ballot we mailed, just call the Michigan Bell Let's Talk Center at this toll-free number:

Public Hearing: Request to vacate a portion of Hillside Ct. Mayor Maatman opened the public hearing. Bill Thompson, petitioner, explained that the section of road requested to be vacated, 137.5 feet, is surrounded by and dead ends on his own property. He stated the City would reserve the utility easements. Mr. Thompson stated he would be willing to trade off a portion of his property for the turnaround needed for traffic and road maintenance vehicles. Jim Wernet, 730 Hillside Ct., and Mrs. Wm. Doyle, 800 Hillside Ct., both questioned the location of the turnaround and whether or not it would be paved. Mayor Maatman stated the City Council would need to see a preliminary plan before considering approval. The public hearing was closed and the consideration of the street vacation was tabled until the next regular meeting of November 16.

Presentation of M-21 Speed Limit Study. Michael Jones, MDOT, and Sgt. Roger Kling, MSP, were in attendance. Sgt. Kling explained Lowell's existing speed limits were set in 1969. He continued by explaining how the current speed limits are set: studies are made of existing roadways, traffic data, volumes, land use, accidents (types and causes) and prevailing speeds. He stated the current study, which takes 2 to 3 days to conduct, on M-21 is not yet completed, but will possibly be early spring or summer with changes in the speed limits possibly next year. He also mentioned that traffic lights generate accidents and only cause gaps in traffic and he noted that no parking signs would improve visibility. Mike Jones concurred with Sgt. Kling and added that the studies by MDOT of West Street and Valley Vista are complete but that the installation of a signal was doubtful. He referred to a Lowell accident study map of Jan.-Oct. 1987 which shows that most of the accidents in Lowell occur at the intersection of Main and Hudson where a traffic light is in operation. He stated the data from the accident reports from the Lowell police department and will prepare a report.

Amendment of Sanitary Sewer Service Charges. Manager Pasquale reported that the City has received concerns from the Lowell Medical Care regarding the debt service charge which is calculated on a residential equivalent. He also stated that he had met with Larry Yachik, director, representatives from Fishbeck and Scott Smith, city attorney. It has been determined that .25 rate per bed is a proper corrected figure for the facility. The attorney has recommended that the rate ordinance be amended by resolution with only nursing homes being affected. He also noted that other businesses, namely restaurants, are concerned. The rates are based on national standards, which must be consistent, and not consumption on a given day. No final determination has been made for restaurants.

IT WAS MOVED by Fonger and supported by Doyle to amend the charges for nursing homes.
YEA: ALL.
NAY: NONE.

Award demolition bid for 725 E. Main. Manager Pasquale stated the house at 725 E. Main has been determined to be an unsafe structure and is slated for demolition. Bids received for the project are as follows:
O.E. Bieri $2,500
Pitsch Wrecking $3,468
Simmons $3,500
Work will be done within 14 days of approval. The owner will be billed for the work, if unpaid the amount will be applied to the tax roll.
IT WAS MOVED by Thompson and supported by Fonger to accept the low bid of $2,500 from Bieri.
YEA: ALL.
NAY: NONE.
MOTION CARRIED.

Consideration of a resolution allowing application of a permit for construction on M-21. According to regulations of MDOT, a resolution is needed to allow the application of a permit for work on M-21 sanitary sewer rehabilitation project. The work will take place in 5 locations along the state trunkline.
IT WAS MOVED by Doyle and supported by Collins to approve the resolution.
YEA: ALL.
NAY: NONE.
MOTION CARRIED.

Shared Police Computer Program. Chief Emmons and Sgt. Eckman were present to explain the proposed system. Chief Emmons explained the shared program will link Lowell's P.D. with the county for more effective communications. The system proposed from Honeywell one year ago had a cost of approximately $8,000. The county has since chosen I.B.M. as they are more able to supply the adequate software and hardware. At present, Kent County Sheriff Department dispatch services for Lowell are provided for free and if Lowell chooses not to join the system, we could be charged for those services. This system will allow our department to access all records available at county. Current cost for hook up will be $13,000 plus a monthly line charge. It has been determined that there are adequate funds available in the P.D. to take care of the monthly line charge. There are also two options for the shared cost: 1. utilize federal revenue sharing funds, 2. contingency funds in the general fund.
IT WAS MOVED by Thompson and supported by Collins to approve the purchase of the county shared program with transferred monies from the contingency to the equipment fund.
YEA: ALL.
NAY: NONE.
MOTION CARRIED.

CITIZEN SUGGESTION: On a suggestion of a street light at the corner of Ridgeview Dr. and M-21, Tony Siciliano replied that he has spoken with Herb Haines from Light and Power to propose 3 lights. 1. Sibley intersects the new street, 2. driveway to Ridgeview Mall, 3. main intersection of M-21. The wiring would be laid underground. Questions were also raised regarding any long term options for new roads and the reconstruction of S. Hudson bridge. Manager Pasquale replied that a meeting had occurred with Kent County Road Commission for shared costs in regard to the bridge. No determination has been reached. The sidewalk project was also noted and what means to finance.

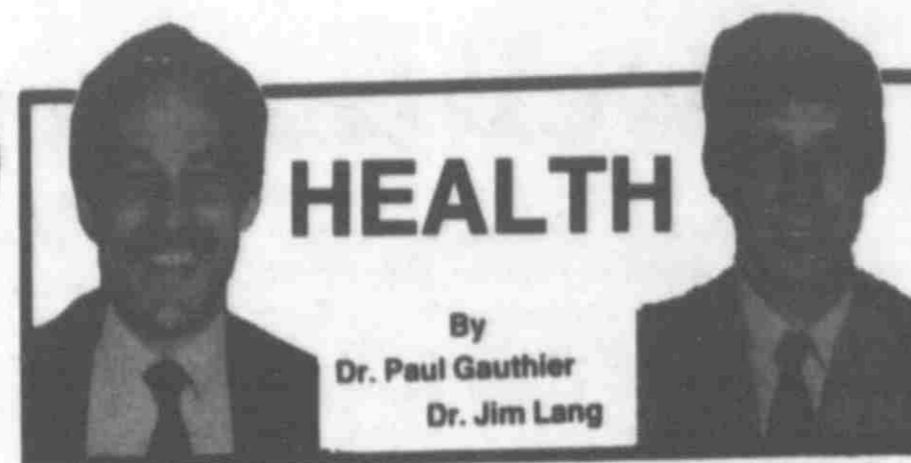

COUNCIL COMMENTS : Thompson inquired as to the progress of the tree project. Tony complimented Poortenga Tree Service on the project and reported that they will be back the third week in December to complete the project. There are also no plans for replanting at this time. Fonger noted the abandoned school bus in the woods on S. Jackson which could be the start of a junkyard. Chief Emmons replied the situation would be looked into. Fonger also noted the growing number of junk cars at the garage on W. Main, Sam's. He also inquired on Parks Committee planning. Manager Pasquale replied the Committee is looking to develop an ordinance for their organization. Doyle noted in regard to the high M-21 traffic levels, numbers have increased due to time and he also noted the upcoming City Council election.

MANAGER'S REPORT: Manager Pasquale reported that the new fire truck has been ordered through the county and a motion is needed to approve the funds for equipping the truck at a cost of $20,585.16. These funds have been allocated in the budget.
IT WAS MOVED by Thompson and supported by Fonger to approve the funds for the fire truck equipment.
YEA: ALL.
NAY: NONE.
MOTION CARRIED.

He reported that the Planning Commission had reviewed a preliminary site plan for the Erb Lumber addition; garage requirements for multiple with carports being recommended; performance guarantees for developers and current zoning on Main St. FTC&H have developed bid specs for the sliding hill, no bids were received due to the lateness of the year. He recommends the job be rebid in the spring and approach the Look-Daley for funding.
IT WAS MOVED by Doyle to adjourn at 10:12 p.m.

APPROVED NOVEMBER 16, 1987

James D. Maatman, Mayor David M. Pasquale, City Clerk

BACTERIAL VS. VIRAL INFECTION...WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

You've probably heard your doctor refer to either "bacterial" or "viral" infections after he or she has examined you. You've also probably had questions about what the difference between the two is and, more importantly, how these respective infections are best treated. Let's talk about bacteria first.

Basically, bacteria are micro-organisms that are normally present in all parts of our bodies. Bacteria become "pathologic" or dangerous when they overgrow to the point of causing the typical symptoms of bacterial infection: local redness, heat, swelling, pus formation, "chills", and elevated body temperature. Examples of bacterial infections are: "strep" throat, most ear infections, many pneumonias, scarlet fever, and skin boils. Bacterial infections generally respond well to antibiotics such as penicillin, erythromycin, or sulfa, depending on the location and type of bacteria being treated.

Viral infections, on the other hand, are caused by a completely different class of micro-organisms, namely, viruses. Viruses are universally present in our environment as are bacteria, but they tend to be passed from person to person with greater ease and with more efficiency than do their bacterial counterparts. Viral infections usually manifest as "flu like" symptoms: muscle and joint ache, fatigue, nausea, diarrhea, and low grade temperature. Examples of viral infections are: the classic "flu", gastroenteritis or stomach flu, colds, "sinus", herpes, measles, mumps, and chicken pox. Unfortunately, viral infections do not respond to antibiotics, and therapy consists of symptomatic measures only, i.e., increased oral fluids, aspirin, decongestants, cough syrups, etc. While it may be frustrating to hear your doctor say that you have a basically "untreatable" viral infection, rest assured that virtually all viruses are self-limiting and eventually will go away with one of the doctor's more valuable therapies, "tincture of time".

Lowell High School's Academic Wall of Fame which was established by Principal Dick Korb and other high school faculty has become a reality. The plaques on the wall are in recognition of student academic excellence since 1964.

L.H.S. Football Banquet Celebrates sparkling season

The Lowell football banquet officially brought the 1987 football season to a festive and emotional conclusion. On the year Burritt was 30 of 79 for 400 yards while rushing for 84.

The three clubs (varsity, junior varsity, and freshmen) had a combined 16-11 mark. However, the varsity Red Arrows sported a sparkling 8-1 record and a second-place finish in the OK-White Conference.

The Lowell junior varsity finished at 6-3, and the freshmen finished at 2-7. Team closeness and unity earned Lowell Coach Phil Christensen's team throughout the season and that was never more evident than at the banquet.

The Most Valuable Player Award, usually given to the team's outstanding player, was presented to the 26 seniors on the roster.

"This is the closest team I've ever coached," Christensen said. It was also Christensen's largest team, for that matter, it was the largest Class B (56 players) team in the state.

Finishing his eighth year, the Lowell coach reminded the freshman team that four short years ago this year's seniors finished at 2-7 also, and with hard work and dedication that it too can turn things around.

Senior Ken Nelson was the recipient of the "Oil Can Award" which is given to the player who helps keep things loose on the club.

Nelson rushed the ball 42 times for 300 yards this year. He had six receptions for 75 yards, and scored 24 points. The halfback was third in tackles with 27.

by: Thad Kraus

Four years ago members of the Lowell High School faculty and Principal Dick Korb got together to establish goals that would recognize students for their accomplishments in academics and in school and community service.

Steps were taken by the academic recognition committee to get such aspirations in motion and out of a spiral notebook.

Today those goals can be clearly and visibly seen running parallel to the high school offices.

The goals formulated included instituting a student of the month, a yearly academic awards banquet, awarding varsity letters for academic achievement, and starting a student Wall of Fame which would recognize students past and present who were salutatorians, valedictorians and those who finished in the top 10 of their class academically.

"I came up with what I thought was a realistic way to formulate this and then I've had much help in carrying through with the idea," Korb said.

Jill VanAntwerp, faculty advisor for the national honor society and chairperson of the academic recognition committee, volunteered to do the research required to get information for the Wall of Fame for each year, starting with 1964.

"We knew it wasn't feasible to ask the board for supporting funds so we had to find another way to finance it," Korb said.

Financing was found through what is referred to as the "Sun-Glo Fund."

"Sun-Glo is a machine that sells canisters of fruit juice, and this has paid for the pins and certificates for our academic banquet, our academic trophy cases and for the Academic Wall of Fame," Korb said.

The construction for the wall mounted design work that is now on display in the high school was done by Lowell hockey coach Dick Graham.

Korb added that the Lowell Sport Shoppe provided good prices on the plaques, and also did a "perfect job on the engraving."

The committee also used the talents of the Lowell High School students.

Art instructor Bill Ingraham and his art class drew up sketch designs for the wall. And Dave Steghuis, drafting teacher, and his drafting students put up the plaques so they looked symmetrical.

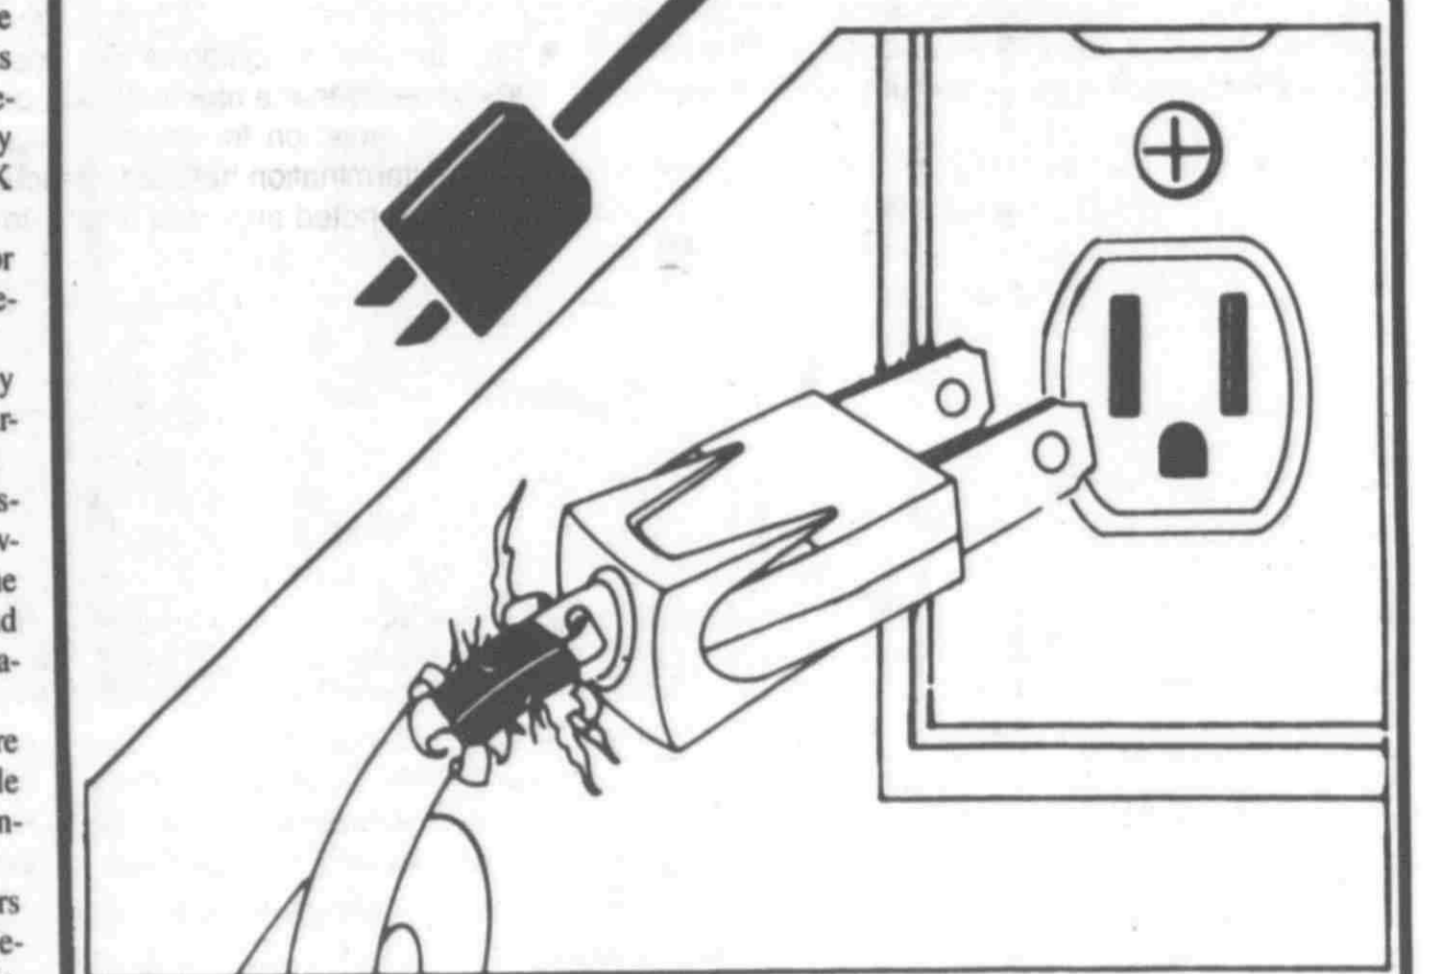

"The Wall of Fame is like a reference for the students," Korb said. "I've heard students say 'look there's my brother' or 'that's my uncle.'"

The wall, however, is well over half full and Korb believes sometime around the year 2,000 it will be full.

Then what? "I don't know, but that's about the time I should be retiring" chuckles Korb.

Korb does however encourage local residents to visit the high school and check out the Wall of Fame.

Holiday is taking the stuffing out of Thanksgiving

by: Thad Kraus

With that in mind, whatever happened to talking turkey in November?

Remember the turkey? That American gallinaceous bird that is of wide range in North America and is domesticated in most parts of the world, well, so says Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary.

It's the same bird we stuff with bread and assorted herbs and spices on the fourth Thursday in November every year. Then, with family, we sit around the dining room table and give thanks for all the good in our lives, and then proceed to stuff ourselves full of our feathered friend from fowl descent.

Or at least on that Fall, November day, the turkey is a friend. On any other of the 364 days, to be mentioned in the same breath as a turkey is to be dumb and inept.

So why, with all the great joy the turkey (Thanksgiving Day) gives our appetites, and with the closeness Thanksgiving Day brings to our families, do we hear whispers of Christmas starting on the first of November and not even a faint echo of a distant "gobble gobble"?

"It's a money-maker for merchants everywhere," a local merchant reports. "It's too bad we start so early, because come Christmas time people are tired of it."

Duane Lambert, owner of Lambert Variety adds, "In Grand Rapids the stores and trees are all decorated. This way we keep up with the big cities."

The buildings on Main Street are decorated by Christmas Creations.

"They do quite a few towns, so somebody has to have their decorations up early," Lambert adds. "Lowell Chamber of Commerce provides the funds for the lights. And the town really looks neat with the decorations up and a light snowfall coming down."

Lowell dentist, Bob Reagan would like to see the merchants get together and not have any Christmas decorations put up until the first of December.

And that way we could have our Christmas and eat our turkey too!

L.F.D. observes fire safety week

October was Fire Prevention Month and the Lowell Area Fire Department was busy showing area kindergartners the fire trucks and telling them about fire safety.

The children's favorite activity was taking part in the coloring contest. Each student colored a picture of a fire truck. A winner was chosen from each class and three were chosen to ride in the Christmas Parade. The top three will also be treated to breakfast at McDonalds before the Parade, and a tour of the Fire Station.

The Grand Prize winners are Laurie Biener from Ms. Burd's a.m. class; Joseph Patterson from Ms. Grotenhuis's a.m. class and Angela Schmidt from Mrs. Peterson's class.

The classroom winners were: Ms. Burd afternoon Alan Stiver; Ms. Grotenhuis p.m. Brandon Gerke; Mrs. Hoag afternoon, Carrie Wagner; Mrs. Pierce morning, Amanda Stouten and afternoon Rachel Rice; Mrs. Stormzand morning, Karrie Akers, and afternoon Jeff Buitenhuis; and from Mrs. Donahue's class, Danielle Sherwood.

The Fire Department would like to thank the Patton JRB, Roger Chapman-State Farm, and Blodgett Memorial Medical Center for their donations of handouts to help make the week more informative. Also thanks to McDonalds for the donation of breakfast on Parade Day.

City Council, cont'd.

ment of $14,245 to Poortenga Tree service of Grand Rapids. Over the past several months, Poortenga has been removing and trimming problem trees along the city's right-of-ways. About 35 large trees were removed, and are currently piled near the Foreman Building. Pasquale told the Council he plans to seek bids from wood cutters for the entire lot. D.P.W. Director Tony Siciliano said the trees vary in size and condition.

Joe Nowak has been serving as the city's building inspector and assessor since the retirement of Al Orlyk last July. Nowak has been working without a contract since that time. Dick Wendt, the city's attorney drew up a contract, but Nowak told the Council Monday night that he wouldn't sign it as written.

Nowak said the contract obligated him to a one year commitment, but allowed the city to replace him at any time. Nowak had other objections to the terms of the contract. It was agreed that Nowak should be given time to review the contract, and meet with Pasquale at a later date to iron out any problems that he might have.

The council voted to vacate an unimproved portion of Hillside Court. Councilman Thompson made the request. The street right-of-way divided property owned by Thompson. He exchanged a small portion of his property to accommodate a cul-de-sac at the end of Hillside Court.

Thomas Jefferson invented the dumbwaiter.
