Lowell Woman Charged With Infant's Death

A 19-year old Lowell woman, Darci Lynn McCready is being held in lieu of $50,000 bond, on an open murder charge, for the death of 19-month old Allen M. Drayton, according to Ionia County Prosecutor Gary Gabry. McCready, the girlfriend of the boy's father, Allen M. Drayton, originally told police the boy had fallen from a porch. According to Gabry, an autopsy Wednesday, June 29 showed the young Drayton boy died Tuesday, June 28 of internal bleeding from a lacerated intestine. "The injuries were not consistent with McCready's initial report on what happened," Gabry said. Ionia County Sheriff Terrence Jungel's department was informed of the incident by the Lowell Police Department, which was contacted by the office of Dr. Paul R. Gauthier, according to Gabry's report.

Lowell Ambulance and Lowell Police officer Jim Valentine were first to answer the call. "The call was in regards to a child that had fallen and had respiratory arrest," Valentine said. "After we arrived treatment was rendered, irregardless of the cause, whether it was accidental or intentional," he said. According to Valentine, his job was to establish the venue

Where and what had occurred. "Once it was established that it happened in Ionia County, I contacted the Ionia County Sheriff's Department and asked them to send a report officer," Valentine said. Valentine added that shortly after the investigator, Sergeant Julie Wiles arrived, detective Kevin Ingram also arrived. Valentine then assisted them in obtaining additional information. "I also did some leg work in Lowell for them the following day," Valentine said. The Lowell officer said he did not feel he was in a position to release McCready's responses to his questioning. Ionia County Sheriff Jungel added, he felt Valentine's answer was a good response "We refuse to try a case in the media. Releasing that type of information can sometimes have a bearing on the case." L.I.F.E. Ambulance transferred the Drayton boy to Butterworth Hospital. Drayton was pronounced dead on arrival at 12:37 p.m. The preliminary hearing is scheduled for July 8. Motions will be heard July 6 in an effort to set the hearing for a later date.

LOCAL LIBRARIES OFFER SEVERAL PROGRAMS TO PROMOTE SUMMER READING

The Lowell and Alto branches of the Kent County Library System are offering children ages 10-15 the chance to write or re-write their favorite folk tale. They can turn it into a mystery, a comedy or even change the inevitable happy ending. Aspiring playwrights are invited to submit an original script of a favorite folktale. The winning scripts will be published and distributed at the library and the plays will be performed by Kent County Library Children's Services staff at the Plainfield and Kentwood locations. All scripts must be in no later than Saturday, July 16. For more information, call Children's Services at 774-3253 or your local branch in Lowell, 897-9596 or Alto 868-6038. The Alto branch is also offering a free program for 3-8 year olds. "Adventures With Storybook Friends" is a festive get-together with many picture book characters dear to children's hearts, including a celebration of the anniversary of one of the best-selling children's books of all time, Where the Wild Things Are. The program is scheduled at the Alto branch, 6059 Linfield, on July 14 at 11:00 a.m.

LOOK UP AMERICA . . .

A special presentation entitled, "Look Up America" is coming to the Lowell Showboat stage Friday, July 8 at 7:00 p.m. The patriotic program is sponsored by several area churches. Admission is free, but an offering will be taken. Don't miss this dynamic performance!

EXCUSES . . . EXCUSES . . . EXCUSES . . .

You may find your Ledger to a little shy of its normal news content, and what news there is may contain a few more errors than you're used to. There is a reason. Our hard working proof reader, Barb Davis, is taking a well deserved vacation this week. Our ace reporter, Thad Kraus, is tacking an extra day onto his Fourth of July weekend to enable him to visit relatives in Pennsylvania. Lowell Police Officer Cal Kamphuis is on vacation, so there will be no police report this week. Of course the holiday cut us short a day, and we're feverishly trying to kick an edition out by our scheduled press time this evening.

So we ask that you bear with us this week. Look forward to a better edition next week when the whole staff is back onboard and we have a full week to work with.

Never cut your flowers in the morning. Since all day the leaves manufacture food which is transported around in the form of sugars to feed the plant, cut your flowers in the late afternoon when they are the fullest of sugar, if you want the flowers to last.

MILLER - Blanche C. (Walter) Miller, aged 95, of Saranac, passed away Friday evening July 1. Funeral Services were held Tuesday at the Lake Funeral Home in Saranac with Rev. Stanley Hagemeyer officiating. Interment Saranac Cemetery.

Krause at the House

Vic Krause
19th District
State Representative

The Michigan Department of Public Health would be responsible for locating children with birth defects and referring them for appropriate treatment, under legislation approved last week by the Michigan House and sent to the governor's desk.

I was a strong supporter of House bill 4007, sponsored by my colleague Rep. David Honigman, which will provide a tracking system that will lead to prompt referrals of children and families to diagnostic and treatment services.

Public health officials estimate that five percent of all babies are born with major birth defects, and early intervention is extremely valuable in these cases. An effective system that identifies, tracks and follows up on children could make a dramatic difference in thousands of lives.

For example, a tracking system would allow health and social service agencies to be aware when a child was born with defects linked to a mother's alcohol or drug use.

This approach will hopefully prove valuable in Michigan, where infant mortality is a major concern.

The legislation will take effect immediately after it is signed by the governor.

Letters to the Editor

The following poem has been contributed to the Ledger by Autumn DeVries, a Lowell Middle School student, in response to the drought article in last week's issue:

The Flowers How They Cry
The flowers how they cry,
for too long they stayed dry.
No rain water to wet the down,
the flowers began to frown.
"Water Me, Water Me", the flowers would say,
yet the poor wilted flowers say that everyday,

but the people kept walking through.
"How would you like it if you were me and me were you.
So water me before I die,
I'm much to pretty to lay here and cry.

Kid's Krusade at Missionary Church

Kid's Krusade is the big news for next week at the Lowell Missionary Church! "My Shepherd" will be the theme of this action paced five-day Krusade for Kids ages 4-14. Tuesday, July 12, through Saturday, July 16 are the dates and 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. is the time.

Presenting the program will be Paul and Nila Mast with their puppet family including "Bones" the sheep dog, "Chocolate", a ventriloquist muppet and a great favorite of the boys and girls, will be along to help explain the concepts of the various lessons. Using the Twenty-Third Psalm as a foundation, "My Shepherd" seeks to portray Jesus as a personal shepherd and people as the sheep who need His care and guidance.

The Masts have been missionaries to Brazil and have also pastored several churches in Indiana. They have had extensive experience ministering to children in churches, Camps, and Vacations Bible Schools.

Kids, don't miss this exciting time! It has been planned especially for YOU! The Lowell Missionary Church is located at 10501 Settlewood Drive, 1/2 mile north of M-21. For more information, contact Rev. Glenn Marks at 897-9110.

KNEE ARTHROSCOPY

Knee arthroscopy is an exceedingly common surgical procedure in the United States. What is it? How does it work? Are there problems associated with it? Perhaps we can answer some of these questions in today's article.

If you are a sports fan, you may have heard of "arthrosco" in connection with an injured athlete. It is many times used to correct certain knee problems in professional and college athletes. In arthroscopy an orthopedic surgeon looks inside a joint such as the knee through a tubular instrument called an arthroscope. The arthroscope has a special lens, and you can think of it as a small telescope.

Anesthesia is given prior to the arthroscopy. The arthroscope is then passed through a small skin incision into the knee joint. If the surgeon detects a surgically correctable problem, he will make a small incision at another place in the knee and put instruments in there. Because of the small size of the instruments, scarring is minimal.

Not every knee problem is arthroscopically correctable. On occasion, if the abnormality warrants it, the surgeon may need to make a longer incision to correct the problem.

Even though arthroscopy is considered a relatively minor surgical procedure, there may be some postoperative pain. Fortunately, the recovery period for this procedure is much shorter than that for conventional surgery. If your job does not require you to use your knee at full strength, you'll return to work in two to four days. If your job is physically demanding or if you are active in sports, it may be four to six weeks before you are back to full activity.

Arthroscopy is a safe, effective means of examination and correction of many knee problems. In addition, it has the ideal benefit of restoring full activity much quicker than did the older more conventional modes of knee surgery.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

...Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself (Matthew 22:39).

When I see dresses made of polka dots, I am reminded of one my mother wore when I was a girl. My minister-father's salary was small, and times were hard. It took a lot of pinching of pennies and planning to manage for so many of us. For months the only "Sunday" dress my mother owned was a dark blue one with polka dots in it. Every time she dresses up to go away, she had to wear it. No doubt she could have denied one of us seven children something and used the money to purchase for herself some different apparel, but she didn't. Why? Because she loved us more than she cared about her personal desires. Her love for us constrained her to deny herself. That is why, to me, polka dots always will symbolize sacrifice and self-denial.

A lawyer came to question Jesus. Jesus told him that if he would gain eternal life he should love the Lord with all his being and his neighbor as himself. Jesus' commandment to the lawyer applies to us modern-day Christians, also. And if we are to carry it out, it may mean the wearing of "polka dots."

Prayer: Dear Jesus, if I would be like Thee, I must emulate Thy example of self-denial. Enable me to give of myself for others, even if it means wearing "polka dots." Amen.

It is indeed true we never find the heights of spiritual happiness until we touch the fountain of sacrifice.

During the Middle Ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

Glory Days of Fallasburg Cubs Remembered

Bill Bollock first started the Fallasburg Cubs in 1930. Bollock recalls those glorious baseball days as if they were yesterday. Bollock holds a book recently put out by him and Mary Mason entitled "The Fallasburg Cubs."

"Maloney... Briggs... Kerr... any '27 Yankee fan can spit out Burns... Topp... Baker... Ruth, Gehrig etc... Kropf." The 87-year old self-made man, whose family came to the states (Topeka, Kansas) from Russia, may tell you he roots for Chicago, but there is only one Cub team he's ever really taken to heart. The Fallasburg Cubs!

Bollock first formed the team in 1929. "In the later part of 1929 I saw my first major league baseball game at Wrigley Field in Chicago," Bollock relates. "This inspired me to start a ball team."

So he did, in the spring of 1930 Bollock got Maloney... Briggs... Kerr etc... together and formed a club. The Fallasburg Cubs. They were named after the Chicago Cubs.

"Within four years' time we were a winning club," Bollock said. "Large crowds of people came from all over to watch games on Sunday afternoon. It was during the depression and there was no money for entertainment, so Sunday afternoon at the ballgame was a great way to spend your time."

Bollock managed the club up until 1935, that's when Sam Myers took over and remained the manager until the war broke out.

"The last game we played together as the Fallasburg Cubs was in 1948 at Fallasburg Park, which we won by a lopsided score," Bollock said.

The last pitch by Cub's pitcher Lud Kerr was hit to left fielder Roman Maloney for the final out.

Bollock remembers those 18 years with the Fallasburg Cubs, today, some 58 years later, as if it were yesterday. He managed the club for 15 years.

"Our group of players had fun and we were happy to be together," Bollock said.

He continues, "Grand Rapids teams used to make fun of our field and uniforms (patched and faded bib overalls), but when the smoke went away Lud Kerr had won."

Bollock and Mary Mason, widow of Kayren Mason, recently published a 35-page book entitled "The Fallasburg Cubs."

The book was written in dedication to the memories of the Fallasburg Cubs. Memories that are still very much vivid and alive for a boy that came over from Russia with his family to a town in Kansas called Topeka. "People referred to it as the 'Little Russian Town,'" Bollock remembers.

While Mason did the writing, much of the research and information gathering was completed by Bollock. A project that was first stirred around in 1979.

Bollock provided the monies to print 500 copies of the storied history of the Fallasburg Cubs. Copies may be picked up at Fallasburg Park Schoolhouse Museum or by calling Bollock (897-5965) or Judy Baird at 897-9081.

'Broken Wheel Cafe' Is New Main Street Eatery

Steve DeHaan will serve up a fare of hot dogs, hamburgers, chili dogs, chips and cheese and soft drinks. The Broken Wheel was brought into Lowell because of the city's nice atmosphere.

It rolled into town with a broken wooden wheel. It now sits on the corner of Broadway and Main kitty corner from Larkin's Saloon.

It's red, with a patio deck, benches and two tables. The trim comes from the dumpsters at the old Colonial Clock Company.

The windows look to be in the shape of Grandfather Clocks. That's because the windows came out of Grandfather Clocks.

The trim on the bottom half came off from dressers. The old wooden buggy, was picked up in Newwaygo at a flea market for $350 by Steve DeHaan.

After some work on the paint, stained glass, wheels and trim, DeHaan had himself his "Broken Wheel Cafe."

"A couple of years ago Ron McCullum stopped, seeing the buggy sitting in my yard, suggested that I turn it into a cafe," DeHaan said. "I've been working on this for five years."

DeHaan said he chose Lowell because it has a nice atmosphere. The Kentwood native opened the Broken Wheel Cafe on June 30, a little bit off his target date of Memorial Day weekend.

DeHaan's first day at the Broken Wheel Cafe, he drew 25 people for lunch. "I think lunch will be the busiest time for me," he says.

That may not sound like many, but consider the seating capacity on his deck is anywhere from 12-15 people.

The Broken Wheel Cafe will be open seven days a week 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

His menu will include hamburgers, hot dogs, chili dogs, chips and cheese and soft drinks.

The business venture cost DeHaan roughly $10,000. Unlike most businesses, if the venture doesn't take off in Lowell, DeHaan can fold up his deck, tables and benches and roll into another town with his Broken Wheel Cafe.

Dirty Dancing: Almost all birds bathe regularly, but not necessarily in water. International Wildlife magazine reports that pheasants, quail, wild turkeys and many other birds prefer to clean themselves in dirt. This process, known as "dusting" is not only pleasurable but also beneficial. Dust absorbs excess oil in feathers, and it may also prevent the spread of parasites.

Emperor Alexander I of Russia and Napoleon I of France agreed to divide the world up between them in 1807.

Mother and Daughter Team Operates "Blue Crocodile"

Vickey Grieves holds a ceramic crocodile. Grieves and her daughter, Christy Craig purchased the Blue Crocodile Ceramic Store in October of 1987.

was asked a couple weeks later if she was interested in buying the store.

Along with the arts and crafts and greenware, Grieves has scheduled summer classes at the store, which includes ceramics, country painting (taught by Christy), canvas painting with oil (taught by Dixie Hendrick) and porcelain dolls.

Grieves and Craig will offer the same classes in the fall. They will add to that list, classes in stain glass (taught by Chris Engle) and porcelain dolls. The majority of the ceramics sold at Blue Crocodile are poured, kilned and painted by Grieves and Craig.

"We've increased our craft line (wood decorations). More items are now available," Grieves said. "Including new molds." The number of molds now available at Blue Crocodile, numbers into the hundreds.

What's in arts and crafts stores? "Anything country is in --cows, barns, chickens and pigs--" Grieves said. "What's out at arts and crafts stores? Ducks are on their way out. Frogs and owls are also out," she says.

Not unlike any other job, Grieves has days where the creativity and imagination isn't there. "That's when I go to other stores and see what they're

Just a sample of the variety of the handcrafted merchandise offered at the Blue Crocodile.

Grieves' interest came through arts and crafts classes, but Craig honed her skills through art classes in high school and at Lansing Community College. "She has talent and she's a hard worker," explains Craig's proud mother. "We've worked well together and get along real well." Grieves' husband, Greg, who owns Saranac Tank and Coating, is happy for Grieves' business venture. "He's happy for me. With two husbands, mine and Christy's (Mark Craig) we get a lot of free maintenance," smiles Grieves. Grieves and Craig will hold an open house Wednesday, July 13. The open house will include small paint project demonstrations and "make and takes" to paint. There will be door prizes and sales on all merchandise.

LEAD PUBLIC NOTICE

Sampling by the Michigan Department of Public Health has confirmed the presence of lead in drinking water from certain piping systems where the water has remained stagnant for a period of time. Levels in excess of the current drinking water standard (50 parts per billion) have been detected. Laboratory testing has shown that the principal sources of lead are lead piping and lead based solders and fluxes used to join copper piping. Based on these results and those from other studies, the Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Construction Codes and the Michigan Department of Public Health have supported legislation which prohibits the use of lead based solders and fluxes in potable water piping systems. The plumbing industry and homeowners who may construct potable drinking water piping systems must no longer use lead based solders and fluxes for joining copper piping. Other solder materials or joining methods are available and must be used. Lead piping has not been allowed for new installations for about the last ten years. Building copper piping water systems constructed to date likely contain lead based solder and flux.

Water is the universal solvent and even relatively stable water when stagnant for a period of even a few hours in contact with lead solder and flux can result in a significant concentration of lead in the water. The health department is recommending that those piping systems in which the water has remained stagnant overnight or for longer periods be flushed for several minutes prior to using the water for drinking or cooking purposes. This typically has been found to satisfactorily reduce the level of lead and other metals that may concentrate in the water within the building's piping system.

"The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

"Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

"EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

"Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

- .if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
- .if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
- if the home is less than five years old, or
- if you have soft or acidic water, or
- if water sits in the pipes for several hours."

Besides lead in water from certain piping systems, there are other exposure pathways to lead including:

- air - from industrial discharges, automobile exhaust
- food - from airborne deposition of lead on crops and lead solder seams in some food containers
- nonfood items - lead based paint, dirt, solder, or any object containing lead

It should be noted that the major source of lead exposure and lead poisoning in the United States is due to children consuming lead based paint chips.

People who may have concerns about the concentration of lead from their building or household piping are advised to contact a reputable private laboratory for a water analysis. Others who may have specific concerns relative to any possible health effects are urged to contact their physician.

For more information about this matter, please contact your water department, Water Treatment & Filtration Plant - 897-5234. C31,34,38

Sunday's paper had some comments from Detroit Tiger pitching ace Jack Morris. Even the slightest of Tiger fans know Morris is having a miserable season. Morris' comments included his ideas about where his problems lie. He said at age 33, his legs aren't as strong, and his arm isn't as lively as five years ago. I thought, "Boy, this guy's really sharp! What does he expect, stronger legs and a more elastic arm with age". Sorry Jack, it just doesn't work that way.

Five years ago two buddies of mine and I decided to have a pig roast for all the sailors and beach bums at Silver Lake. We picked the Fourth of July as a good day, and began soliciting recipes and techniques for roasting a pig in a pit like the Hawaiians do. We buried the pig in a sand dune, just like we knew what we were doing. The first year the pig was a little too done. The next year some of it wasn't quite done enough. The last three years, the pig has been done to perfection, and I'd say we finally do know what we're doing. At least nobody has died on us.

The annual pig roast has evolved into quite an event. Well over a hundred people show up. Commemorative T-shirts have been printed for the last three years. People go to great extremes to bring wonderful dishes to pass, and there is always a good selection of beach punch recipes to sample. Partygoers swim, sail, hike the dunes and just have fun in general. The pig is dug up about mid-afternoon, everyone eats, and compliments on the pig and side dishes abound. Taco salad recipes are exchanged for seafood salad recipes. The pig chefs are slapped on the back and heartily complimented. And the party begins to wind down. By dark the beach is picked clean, and with the exception of about a million footprints, you'd never know a party had taken place when the last boat pulls out. So, what's all this got to do with Jack Morris. Well, I'm getting to that.

The pig roast has really evolved into a two day ritual. The day before the feast, the pig sections are seasoned and wrapped in tin foil. That evening a pit is prepared in the sand dunes, and a huge charcoal fire is built. When the charcoal is going real good, it's buried with a few inches of sand. The pig sections are then arranged in the pit, and the entire thing is buried with about a foot or two of sand. We then build a campfire on top of the pit, and begin an all night vigil. The campfire isn't necessary, and neither is the vigil, but they're now part of the pig roast tradition.

Now here's where Jack Morris comes in. Five years ago, I could stay up all night with that pig, and roll right on into a party the next day. Now I find myself rolled up in a sleeping bag some where around the wee hours, waking up when the sun gets too hot, and not quite what would be defined as a "Party Monster" for the rest of the day. Morris is jerked after a few innings, and I'm falling asleep mid-party. Sounds to me like we've got the same problem, and that is the fact that age is creeping up on us.

According to the paper, Morris seems to think martial arts training will help his pitching game. I wonder if a few Karate lessons would bolster my party stamina. I think I'll have a sleeping bag handy next Fourth of July, just in case.

Lightning Strikes Twice: The idea that lightning never strikes twice is a myth. National Wildlife magazine says that not only does lightning strike some places more than once, but some areas like Castle Rock, Colorado and Cape Canaveral, Florida are struck frequently. Upward moving air causes the frequent strikes near the Continental Divide, while converging sea breezes attract the lightning on the Florida coastline.

People believe if a fly lands on your nose, somebody has something to tell you.

Michigan truckers are being put on notice: either shape up or keep off our roads. The era of "free rides" for unsafe trucks is coming to an end.

The Michigan House is considering a package of Senate-passed legislation and House bills that crack down on dangerous trucks and drivers. Among them are bills to:

-require loads to be covered or tied down

-make trucks travel in the right lane of a two-lane freeway, or the right two lanes of a three-lane freeway

-increase penalties 50 percent for trucks which exceed axle weight limits

-require a trailer or semi-trailer weighing at least 5,500 pounds be equipped with brakes on all wheels

-prohibit recapped or re-treaded tires on trucks or truck tractors

-require lower rear bumpers to prevent a car hitting the rear of a truck from sliding underneath it

-restrict truck drivers to one license so they can't use a spare from another state when they lose one for violations

-require an audit after a certain number of truck log violations

-increase registration fees, with the extra money going into driver education programs.

Recent statistics provided by the Automobile Club of America in Michigan show that from 1982 through 1985 fatalities rose 41 percent in accidents between cars and trucks, while all traffic deaths combined rose by just 10 percent.

Officials of the Motor Carrier Division of the Michigan State Police say that truck accidents are increasing, and that most truck accidents in Michigan are caused by driver error and faulty equipment.

Last month, the state police in 19 states and two Canadian provinces conducted a three-day inspection crackdown to get rid of dangerous trucks. Nearly half of 400 trucks checked during the first day's inspection were immediately ordered off the road. The same day, 58 drivers were cited for violations such as invalid licenses, and inspectors wrote 140 tickets, including 18 for transporting hazardous materials improperly.

Many of the problems are unique in the last few years, stemming from the deregulation of the trucking industry. Since competition is greater, there seems to be a new breed of trucker who disregards both the speed limit and basic highway safety rules. This is a great concern to both the long-time truckers whose reputation for consideration and safety has been eroded, and to the many automobile drivers who are fearful, with good reason, of driving in heavy truck traffic.

Our Michigan legislation is in step with Federal attempts to improve this serious situation, and has the support and influence of both the Michigan AAA and the Michigan Trucking Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Neubecher of Freeport, are the proud parents of a baby boy, Kyle Mark, born June 18, at Blodgett Hospital. He weighed 8 lbs. 10 ozs. and has a 2 year old sister, Melissa. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Neubecher of Freeport and Robert Rittenger of Lowell. Great-grandmothers are Marcella Humphrey of Hastings and Alice Neubecher of Freeport.

Jason Andrew Beaton arrived June 8, 1988. He weighed in at 7 lbs. 4 ozs. and was 20" long. Proud parents are Will and Julie (Rutherford) Beaton of Grand Haven. The proud grandparents are Dr. James and Eleanor Beaton of Grand Haven and Marion Rutherford of Lowell.

Tree Value: Keep in mind those trees that are dropping those leaves in your yard are also saving you money. National Wildlife magazine reports that trees may cut cooling costs fifty percent or more by shading a house from sunlight. And come winter, trees may lower heating bills by as much as 15 percent by deflecting winter gusts.

Dan VanderMeulen Boy's State Lt. Governor

Dan VanderMeulen was one of 900 high school juniors to participate in the week-long 51st Boys State program sponsored by the American Legion and held on the campus of Michigan State University.

The program takes the high school students through the election process. "It allows them to nominate, elect and run a government. Program director of the Boys State Program, Tom Stahr said.

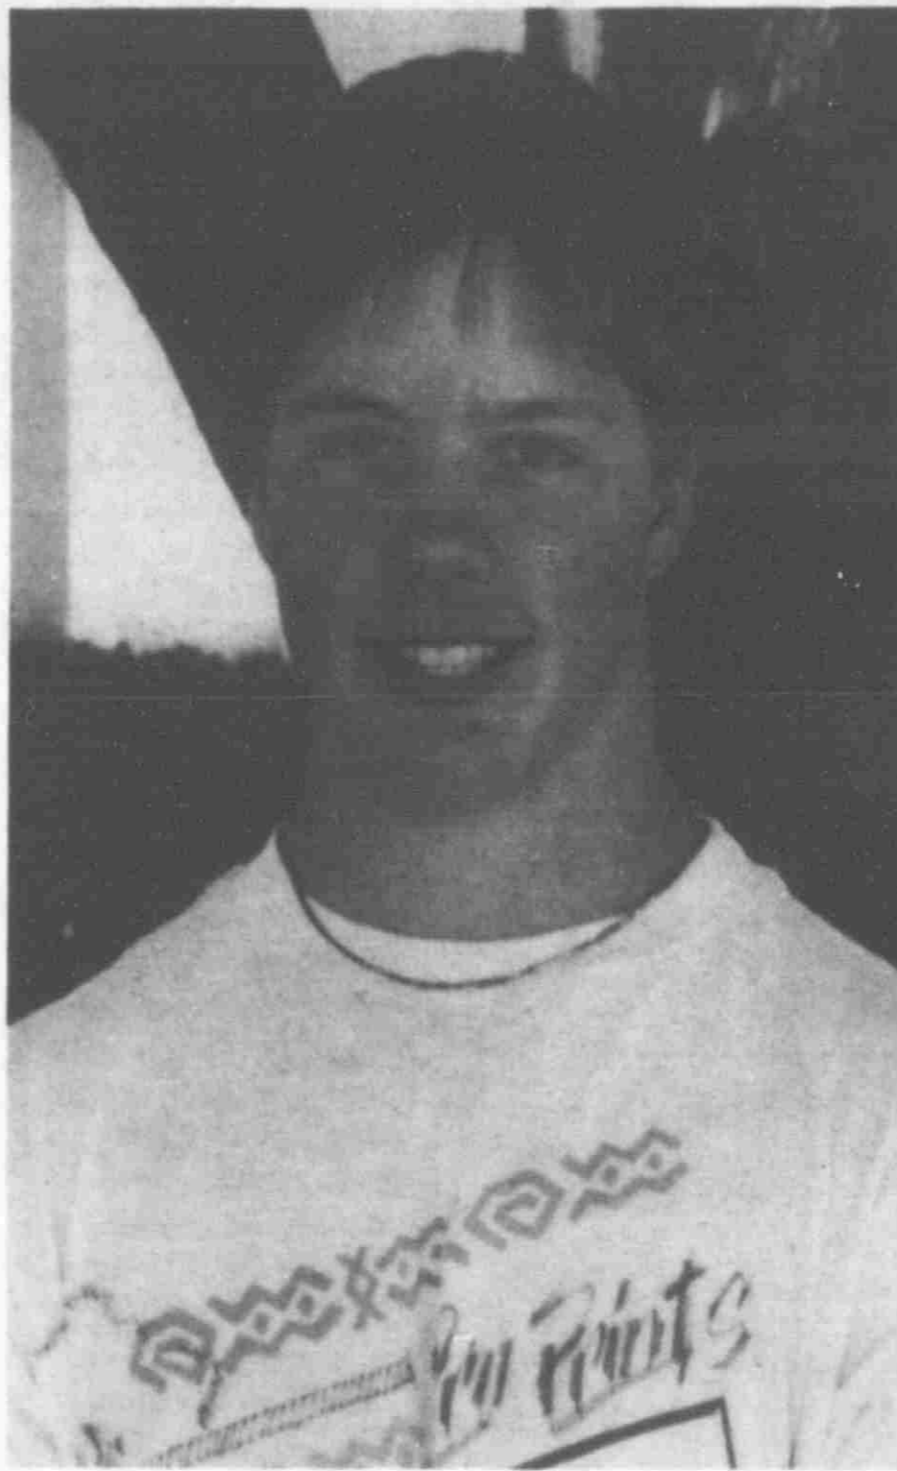

Along with VanderMeulen, five other Lowell High School students made the trip. "It's a mass simulation on how people get elected as city, county and state officials," VanderMeulen said. The Red Arrow student was selected Lt. Governor at the state convention.

Pete Kemp was appointed to the highway transportation committee, Todd Carless and Pat Nugent worked for the city, while Mike Geisert and Dave Kniola ran for state posts, but were unsuccessful at their bid for the nomination.

Most of the students were selected by teachers, while others, like VanderMeulen, were sponsored.

VanderMeulen says that through the help of his uncle, the head of the 5th District for the state, he was sponsored by Furniture City American Legion Post

Dan VanderMeulen

258. The cost per student was $190.

According to VanderMeulen, the students were divided up into two parties. The federalists and the naturalists. "Neither party was designated as democrats or republicans," VanderMeulen said.

The 900 students were then divided up into cities, 40-50 people per city. Each city was named after a president. "My city was called Fillmore," VanderMeulen said.

He continues, "Anyone can run for a position, but the city then selects who it wants to represent it at the state level."

VanderMeulen, a member of the LHS Young Republicans group, would highly recommend the Boys State Program to any and all juniors. "You meet many people and learn of the benefits from teamwork," VanderMeulen said. "Not only that, but it's lots of fun and helps build your confidence."

When the students were not simulating the election process and the duties of the officials, volleyball, basketball and many other events took place.

VanderMeulen has no political office aspirations after high school and college, but will pursue a career in the communications arena.

Local Residents Receive Honors at "Cow Camp"

Thirty-six kids from all over Michigan, including the Upper Peninsula, participated in the "Cow Camp" sponsored by the Michigan Junior Holstein Association on June 20 and 21 at Calhoun County fairgrounds in Marshall, Michigan. The annual two-day event is an educational setting including a seminar on advertising, a mock auction, the Michigan Junior Holstein Association annual meeting, and features a fitting and showmanship contest.

One of the events was for each kid to "adopt" a calf. The object was to break the calf to lead, clip it, wash it, and get it ready for a showmanship contest by the next day.

The next event was the mock auction. Each "buyer" was allowed $2,000 in cow camp money; pedigrees and calves were studied, and the sale began. Eleanor Richmond of Lowell was the buyer with the best record based on the price paid compared to the appraised value.

The annual meeting of the Michigan Junior Holstein Association was held. The new officers and directors were elected for 1988. Among those elected were: Tom Nugent of Lowell, Vice-President and Jamie Cook of Lowell, Secretary.

The event culminated with the showmanship contest. The winner in the Junior division was Cindy Cook of Lowell, and the winner in the Intermediate division was Rene Nugent, also of Lowell.

The Michigan Junior Holstein Association promotes and educates youth up to 21 years of age who are interested in Holsteins.

Tyler Creek Reports Two "Hole-in-Ones"

Tyler Creek Recreation Area manager Karen DeSmet announced that the first two holes-in-ones were recorded at the Alto golf course during the month of June.

On Thursday, June 23, Bret Courtney teed up at the par-three, 210-yard 12th hole. With club in hand, Courtney's shot found the hole. Playing the round of golf with Courtney was his brother, Nick Courtney.

Three days later, Saturday, June 26, at the par-three second hole, George Johnson's tee shot from 156 yards away landed in the cup before stopping.
