Dukakis rallies support in Grand Rapids

Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis visited West Michigan's Research and Technology Institution on Wednesday, Aug. 24, before a spirited Grand Rapids following. Dukakis, politicking in a state which in recent elections has been decisively Republican, concentrated on trade, the economy and the deficit. "If America is going to be number one and stay number one, the next 12 years leading into a new century must be years of investment; years of innovation; years of growth; and years of teamwork.

Dukakis talked of the thousands of American he has talked to over the past 18 months who are worried about their jobs and the future of their families. He added that Americans have lost buying power and jobs to foreign competition.

"The average family income is right where it was 20 years ago, even though in most families today both the husbands and wives are working," he explains. "Between 1979 and 1985, the average weekly wage of the jobs we lost in this country was $440. Jobs that have replaced them are paying on average one-third less."

Roughly 600 people packed the second-floor conference room to listen to Dukakis speak, while nearly 200 watched on closed-circuit television in the faculty's teleconference center.

Dukakis touched on all the issues that concern labor. He called for labor and business to work together. He covered health care issues, including basic health care for all Americans, minimum wage, the trade deficit and the trade bill.

Being at an educational site, the governor had favorable remarks for Governor James Blanchard and the Michigan Education Trust, a program that allows parents to guarantee their children's college tuition by investing money with the state. He added, "We should have college opportunity funds in every state."

The national deficit is a bill our children and grandchildren will have to pay. To add insult to injury Mr. Bush wants to cut taxes for the wealthy again. If this were a movie we'd call it "son of voodoo."

Governor Michael Dukakis in reference to Bush's remarks on the 1980 Reagan economic program.

He adds, "If you don't think our nation is ready to make good on that, look at what happened when Governor Jim Blanchard's college opportunity program began taking applications in Michigan three weeks ago. Some 60,000 applicants applied."

On Republican nominee George Bush and his platform, Dukakis had this to say:

Swiss Cheese Economy -- Our economy has been booming on the two coasts and full of holes in the heartland of America. In 1981, we sold $18 billion more in manufactured goods to foreign customers than we bought from them. Last year, we bought $137 billion more from foreign producers than we sold to them.

Deficit -- This is a bill our children and grandchildren will have to pay for the generations to come. To add insult to injury, Mr. Bush wants to cut taxes for the wealthy again. If this were a movie, we'd call it "son of voodoo," in reference to Bush's remarks on the 1980 Reagan economic programs.

Trade -- In 1983, Bush, managing our trade problems with Japan. After visiting Japan, he came back and said our trade relations were superb. Our deficit with Japan was $22 billion.

CHURCH PAGE

...all things work together for good to them that love God... (Romans 8:28).

Who ever heard of anyone sitting down and eating plain dry, cake flour? Does anyone enjoy the taste of baking powder, or relish the flavor of vanilla? Would you expect your guests to eat nothing but granulated sugar for dessert?

I'm certain we all agree that cake flour, granulated sugar, salt, raw eggs, baking powder, and vanilla flavoring are unpalatable if eaten "as is". Yet, when these ingredients are correctly and proportionately combined, they produce cake batter. After being baked the required time, at the proper temperature, the batter produces delightful and mouth-watering delicacies.

Joys, sorrows, heartaches, gladness, trials, and victories all come to the one who loves and obeys God. These experiences go together to make up the substance of Christian living. God knows how to combine these ingredients and make them work together to produce a thing of goodness. He knows how to use the variety of experiences which will come into the lives of His children to work His sovereign will.

We may not understand everything that happens to us, but we can rest assured that our experiences work together for our good. Legislation that will give greater definition and more "teeth" to Michigan's child cruelty law was recently signed by Governor Blanchard. I was a strong supporter of PA 251 that eliminates the vague, inadequate and outdated language in the previous child cruelty statute. The new act will provide courts, prosecutors and the public with clearly outlined and enforceable child abuse offenses that cover a wider range of situations than the previous law.

PA 251 establishes four degrees of child abuse and their penalties as follows:
---First degree: an act that knowingly or intentionally caused serious physical or mental harm to a child will be a felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison.
---Second degree: failure to provide food, clothing, or shelter or the willful abandonment of a child that caused serious physical or mental harm will be a felony with up to four years in prison.
---Third and fourth degrees: causing serious physical harm due to a reckless act or failure to provide food, clothing or shelter will constitute a misdemeanor, with one to two years in prison.

Michigan Governor Jim Blanchard introduced Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis at West Michigan's Research and Technology Institute.

Gauze, the thin, open cloth made of cotton and other fibers, probably takes its name from the ancient city of Gaza where this type of cloth was first made.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

Prayer: Dear God, I do not understand "why" many of life's experiences are mine. I do not understand "how" Thou canst make good come from them. Yet, I trust Thee to work these together for my good. Amen.

Deep in unfathomable mines Of never-failing skill, He treasures up His bright designs, And works His sovereign will. Author Unknown

The bill also extends the protection of the law to children up to 18 years old, as opposed to the previous limit of 16 years of age. The act will not prohibit a parent or guardian from taking steps to reasonably discipline a child. Its intent is to revise the previous statute, which simply prohibited torturing a child, by defining more explicitly what constitutes child torture.

LAAC resumes fall workshops

Summer is nearly a memory and leaves are beginning to think about new colors and hues. It's also time for the Fall workshops to get underway at the Arts Center.

A watercolor workshop with noted artist, Dick Zayac, will be held Saturdays, Sept. 3, 10, & 17 at 9:30 a.m. Mr. Zayac offers instruction in the elements of watercolor at on site locations, weather permitting. If weather is inclement sessions will be held at the Art Center. Fee for this workshop is $40.00 for members and $46.00 for non-members. (classes limited to 10 participants)

Life Drawing sessions begin again on Monday, Sept. 12 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. as a seven week series. This is not an instructional workshop but rather an opportunity for area artists to work from professional models in the media of their choice. Fee for the Life Drawing is $30 members and $36 for non-members. Workshop is limited to twelve participants.

Sandra Bartlett will conduct a creative drawing after school workshop for children grades 2 through 6 on Wednesdays, Sept. 14, 21, 28 and October 5, from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. All materials provided. Fee is $16 members and $20 non-members. Class limited to 15.

An evening workshop for lovers of baskets will be led by noted West Michigan basketry artist Barbara Caddick. The workshop will be held at the Art Center Thursday evenings, October 6, 13, & 27 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Fee is $12 and supplies for non-members.

A lot more is happening and the Arts Center seems to be the place to be! For further information on workshops or registration or if you would like to be on the Center mailing list or would like membership information. Please phone the Center at 897-8545 Monday through Friday, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

High tech aids music teaching profession

It's not so long ago that technology was expected to spell the ultimate doom of the music-teaching profession. First the phonograph, then radio, then television, and finally the VCR were systematically reducing reliance on the piano or other instruments to bring music into the American home.

Today, thanks to the very technology that was supposed to bury them, the teachers are dancing at their own funeral! They've utilized high technology in every way—from advances in keyboard instruments to nationwide videoconferencing—to uncover new students, new techniques, and a new enthusiasm for their own calling.

"There's been an enormous shift just in the past year," says Tom Long, director of music education for Baldwin Piano & Organ Company. "The trend of losing music teachers to other professions has been reversed. And the teachers themselves have changed. In past years, a large majority of their students were elementary school pupils in the 8-to-12 age range. Teachers would think of their adult students as big kids and preschoolers as itty-bitty kids, and teach everyone the same way."

But at the most recent Keyboard Teacher Videoconference involving more than 14,000 teachers at 150 sites in 44 states, the District of Columbia and Canada, fully three-quarters of the audience stressed their work with adults and younger children.

"The hottest thing now is preschool music," Long says. "And with it come new teaching attitudes. They're dealing now with the students' goals, not their own. They understand that preschoolers are game-oriented, and can be approached that way. As for adults, maybe their only purpose is just to have a good time at the piano."

Baldwin is the originator and the sponsor of the ongoing series of videoconferencing forums dedicated to upgrading the piano profession, and has issued a 250-page manual, endorsed by the National Piano Foundation, for independent studio teachers. The Baldwin manual is now becoming an integral text not only for college piano teacher majors, but also in the continuing education of established teachers.

"To have a good product you start with the best possible teacher," Long says. "It's that simple."

Tips on using credit wisely

Did you overextend your budget during the holiday season? Many of us splurge on our loved ones and others who have made our lives easier in some way—the newspaper deliverer, hairdresser, gardener or the children's teachers. In essence, our hearts tend to take control of our wallets. How can you avoid spending too much?

- Know your budget! Figure out how much you can afford to spend and stick to it. Don't be fooled by the magic of plastic—you may end up playing a bad trick on yourself. Credit card purchases should be regarded as expenditures just as cash and personal check transactions are.

- When you do choose to charge, remember to save your receipts. These not only serve as reminders of money spent, but provide you with a record of the transactions which should—or should not—appear on your monthly statement. When the stores are busy, items may be incorrectly billed to an account by a rushed (or temporary) sales clerk. Regardless of the form of payment, a receipt will not only expedite the exchange process, if necessary, but may be required in certain stores. And, always be sure to tear up your credit card carbons immediately after making a purchase.

- You'll probably notice that many companies offer you additional lines of credit through the mail. Always think about what new credit will cost you when you take it on—and be sure that you know the annual percentage rates on these credit card offers.

- A good rule of thumb to keep from overextending yourself is to limit the total monthly payments required on credit obligations to 15 percent of monthly after-tax income.

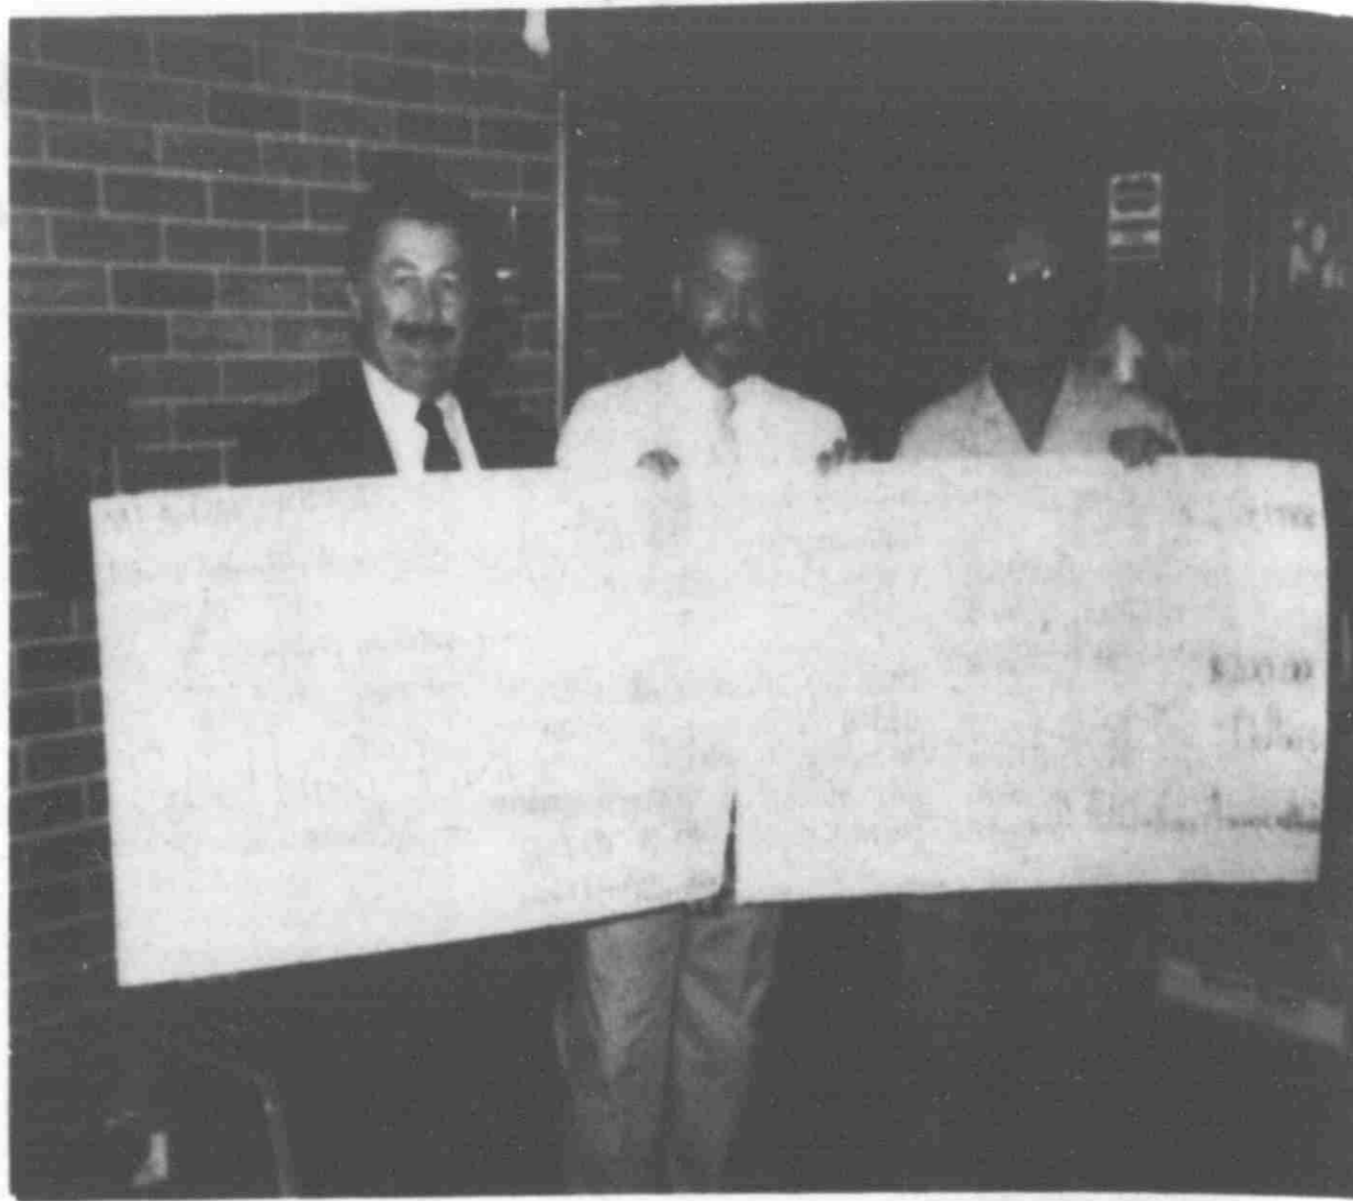

- Be wary of over-the-phone credit card offers.

What may seem to be an offer you can't refuse, may turn out to be the beginning of a credit fraud. While on the phone, get the name and phone number of the caller—this way you can check to make sure he or she is indeed employed with that company. Don't provide personal financial data on yourself before verifying the legitimacy of the offer. By supplying this personal financial data—banking institution, savings and checking account numbers and a few credit card numbers—you may be offering a stranger carte blanche with your finances. And you'll probably never receive that credit card.

Lowell's 1988 Fall Sports Preview

Go Red Arrows!

Lowell Red Arrows gear up for Ionia opener

It used to be that when a team lost a majority of its offensive and defensive starters from the previous year to graduation, that constituted labeling the upcoming season as a rebuilding year.

Times have changed, coaches don't like using the word rebuild. It insinuates not being competitive, needing time to restore to the previous state.

Coming off a 9-1 1987 season, Lowell varsity football coach Phil Christensen brings back one offensive starter and four defensive starters from a year ago. Time to rebuild? "We never feel as if we should be counted out," Christensen said. "I believe we will be competitive in the O-K White."

In his ninth year, the Arrow coach has competitiveness and depth in many areas, however he is short on returning starters and experience.

Brad Strouse, center, is the only Red Arrow starter who will bring experience onto the field on offense.

There's a chance that the line-men suiting up alongside Strouse will all be juniors, although senior David Kniola is a safe bet to see plenty of quality time at the guard position.

Filling the quarterback spot vacated by Rob Burritt will be 1987's backup QB Tony Nauta.

"Nauta's throwing has improved and he does a fine job reading defenses," Christensen said. Behind Nauta will be junior Ryan Holtz and sophomore John Borg.

There are a half-dozen backs that could lineup behind Nauta. Christensen seemed to lean toward Todd Nauta at the power halfback slot. But with Kevin Goggins, junior; Bobby Adams, junior; Aaron Adams, senior; Dan Schmidt, senior; Rich Marvins, senior; and Steve Lenger, junior (out with collarbone fracture), the combinations are endless and the answer won't be forthcoming until Sept. 2 at Ionia.

Competing to fill the tight end shoes of Jeff Phillips will be Tom Moore and seniors Brian Bennett, Ben Richmond and Brian Gabrion. Christensen, however, would not give a favorable nod to the probable starter.

Senior Tim Weststrate, a part-time starter last season should be the full-time wideout in '88.

On defense one would be hard pressed in not figuring seniors Rick Stockreef, defensive end; Tony Stepek, tackle; and Dallas Kirkbride, tackle into the defensive line equation.

Again competitiveness and depth best describe the fight for Lowell's linebacking assignments. Returning seniors Tim Antcliffe, Eric Kelley, Aaron Wester, Dan VanderMeulen,

Bar Olin and junior David Or-ganek will vie for starting roles. Olin may have the edge, he brings the most experience at linebacking into the season.

According to Christensen the strength in the defensive corps lies in the secondary. Seniors Pete Kemp and Todd Probst return. Kemp will return to his safety spot, while Probst will position himself at safety.

Mason transfer, Jason Pines has impressed and the junior could see some quality time. Also pushing for playing time are Craig Mersman and Aaron White.

Kicking duties again will be carried out by Bennett. Punting duties are still open according to Christensen.

The '88 Arrows and Christensen haven't set any long term goals. "I don't like to do that because if a team doesn't meet goal early in the season then there's a chance of it getting down," Christensen said. He then added that its first and most immediate goal is to beat Ionia.

"Ionia will be hungry. We've beaten them six straight times," Christensen said.

When asked to point to a favorite, East Grand Rapids, Northview, Wyoming Park and Zeeland rolled out of Christensen's mouth. "EGR and Northview have a lot coming back -- and Zeeland and Park should be tough," Christensen said.

Zeeland, in its first year in the O-K White, moves up from the O-K Gold, replacing Kenowa Hills.

Other names Lowell fans may see on the gridiron this fall include Mark Mulder, Joush Duhr, Scott Nagy, Jeff Zillmer, Tom Barnes, Todd Carless, Jeff Schmidt, Ben Peters, Derek Lar-

A big key for the '88 Arrows will be its senior leadership. "With that, our season can be bright," Christensen adds.

"Owned By The People Of Lowell"

New coach upgrades soccer schedule

John Turkal is stressing two things in his first year as Lowell's soccer coach -- movement and improvement.

The movement will come from a quicker South American oriented offense.

The first-year Lowell coach who has been actively involved in soccer since 1955 either as a player, a coach or an official, hopes the improvement will be on the 1987 6-6-7 record.

Most coaches with such a goal might soften their schedule. That's where Turkal is separated from most coaches. He went out and upgraded the Red Arrows' schedule.

Lowell will play some of the premier Class B soccer teams in West Michigan -- East Grand Rapids, South Christian, Holland Kentwood, Grandville and Forest Hills Central.

"I wouldn't have added Kentwood and South Christian if I didn't think we could beat them," Turkal said. The Lowell coach saw a lot of his competition in recreational ball league in East Grand Rapids last year.

Helping Turkal will be assistant coaches Matt Quada, Mike Ryan and Mike Korte, three players which were lost to graduation from a year ago. "Those are three players everyone in the league remembers."

The Red Arrow coach, however, is happy with the balance that returns for 1988. "We have good balance and a nice number of players (17)," Turkal said. "We may not have a lot of experience but we do have depth."

He adds with the offense Lowell will be running, it is not possible to run an ironman system. "Everyone will have lettered by the end of the season with the new system."

Leading the charge will be senior co-captains Erik Fulkerson, goalie and Jeff Gurney, halfback/midfield.

Senior Tom Cichon will also see plenty of action at the halfback/midfield position. Bob Dine, senior, meanwhile, will provide quality time at the sweep spot.

"The midfield/halfback spots will be our strength," Turkal said. The coach added that junior Dave Kelley also figures into that formula.

Sophomore Jason White, will fill a void at the leftside winger position. "He will be a good offensive threat," Turkal added.

Turkal believes the freshmen prospects (Ryan Peel, Jon Kohler) are excellent and are comfortable within the system.

Others expected to contribute include sophomores Jay VanAntwerp, fullback; Doug Sanford, backup goalie; Tim Thuston; David Korte; Andy Quada; and Jason Spoor. Junior Aaron Corcoran and Sherene Ward should also see quality playing time.

Ogle looking for continued improvement

For Jack Ogle and his Red Arrow linksters, 1988 will be a year for enjoying the game of golf and developing young players.

Ogle's young and enthusiastic group, well being a strong representative outside the O-K White, will find the competition inside the conference "unbelievably tough" each week, according to Ogle, who is in his fourth year as Lowell's golf mentor.

Lowell's linksters will consist of eight sophomores, seven freshmen, three juniors and one senior.

"We're looking for continued improvement from week to week," Ogle said.

The Lowell mentor will look to Gerud Mierkalns to lead the way. In his first test, the sophomore recorded an 80 at the Forest Hills Northern Invitational.

Two Hole-in-ones recorded at Tyler Creek

Two hole-in-ones were recorded at Tyler Creek within the last week.

Dirk Huntly, of Lowell, recorded a hole-in-one on the 220-yard, par-3 eighth hole, on Tuesday, Aug. 30.

Huntly was accompanied by Mary Ann May.

Two days prior to Huntly's gem, Aug. 28, Kim Gillette, of Grand Rapids, holed her tee shot on the 156-yard, par-3 second hole.

Playing the round of golf with Gillette was Jim Salzwedel, Tom Cook, Frank Jakubowski.

Girls' team speed has first-year coach smiling

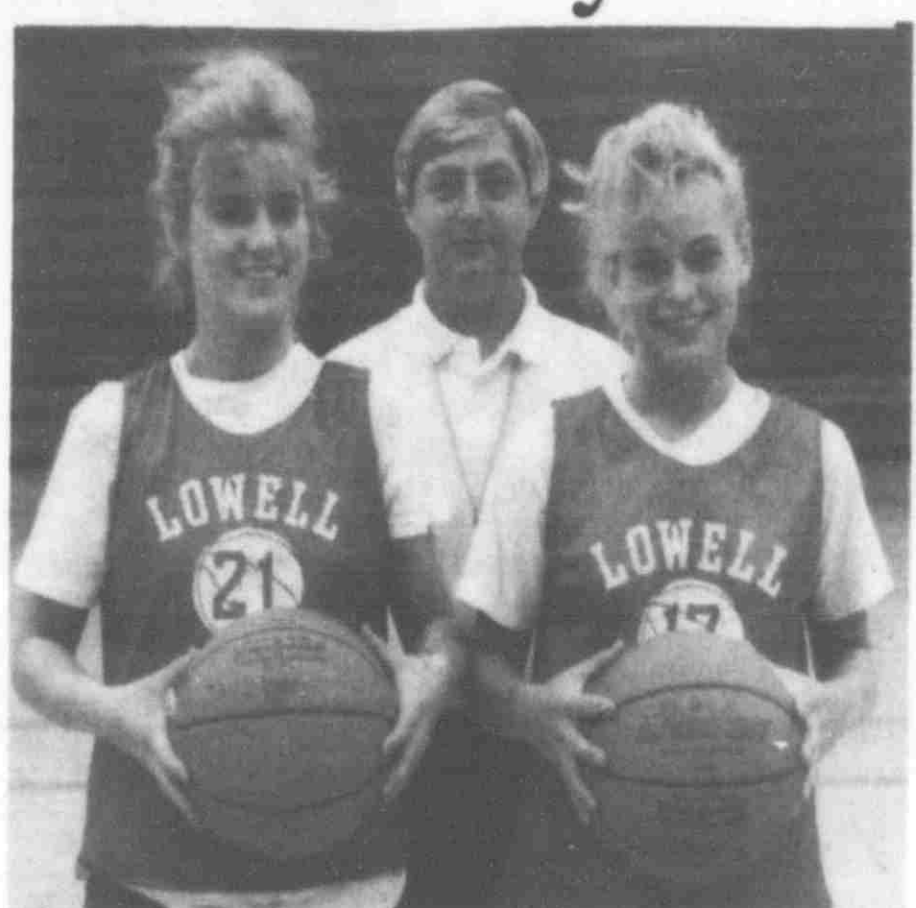

It will be a speedy and quick Lowell girls' basketball team that first-year coach Ken Akers sends out onto the hardwood floor against O-K White Conference foes in 1988.

Akers relishes the thought of having the speed and quickness to press full court. He also knows that speed and quickness out of control may serve as a self-inflicted press against his Arrows.

"With the type of defense we hope to play, I would not want to play against us," Akers said. "The key will be using our quickness to our advantage and not to our disadvantage."

Advantage being -- not picking up quick and silly fouls while in the press, and knowing when the fastbreak is there and when to slow it up on the offensive end.

"The girls can't be going faster than they're capable of," Akers said. Lowell, 8-13 overall and 5-9 the latter part of last season in that role. She will be a floor leader with quickness and the ability to shoot.

The off-guard spot will be filled by Megan Kirby. She possesses good hands and is a solid defensive player.

Iteen and Zywicki will both provide strength on the boards. Iteen, who averaged roughly 12 points a game last year, will use her quickness in battling for position. Zywicki, although not very big, jumps and boxes out well.

"Zywicki knows what to do with the ball underneath," Akers said.

Juniors that should help out include Kim Marvin, a good ball handler; Tonya Stepek, also a good ball handler, is exceptionally quick and can shoot; Deb Adams, a good shooter with fine in the league last year, has five seniors returning (four of them lettermen) along with five juniors and a sophomore. "There's a good blend of returning players and players who competed at the JV level last year," he adds.

Speed or no speed, Akers believes that to be a contender in the O-K White at the boys or girls varsity level you need a space-eater, an oak tree, someone that can clear the boards. He smiles because he believes the Red Arrows have that in young (sophomore) Erica Hackenbruch. "She's good, big and can clear out on the boards," Akers said. "As Hackenbruch improves, so will the team."

The sophomore will also need senior leadership, calling on Julie Tarak, LeAnn Iteen, Megan Kirby and Kerry Zywicki.

Tarak will be the point guard atop the 1-2-2 offense. She spent

High expectations for girl harriers

With the capabilities of being the best girls' cross country team coach Tom Harper has had in six years, the expectations are running high for the red and white.

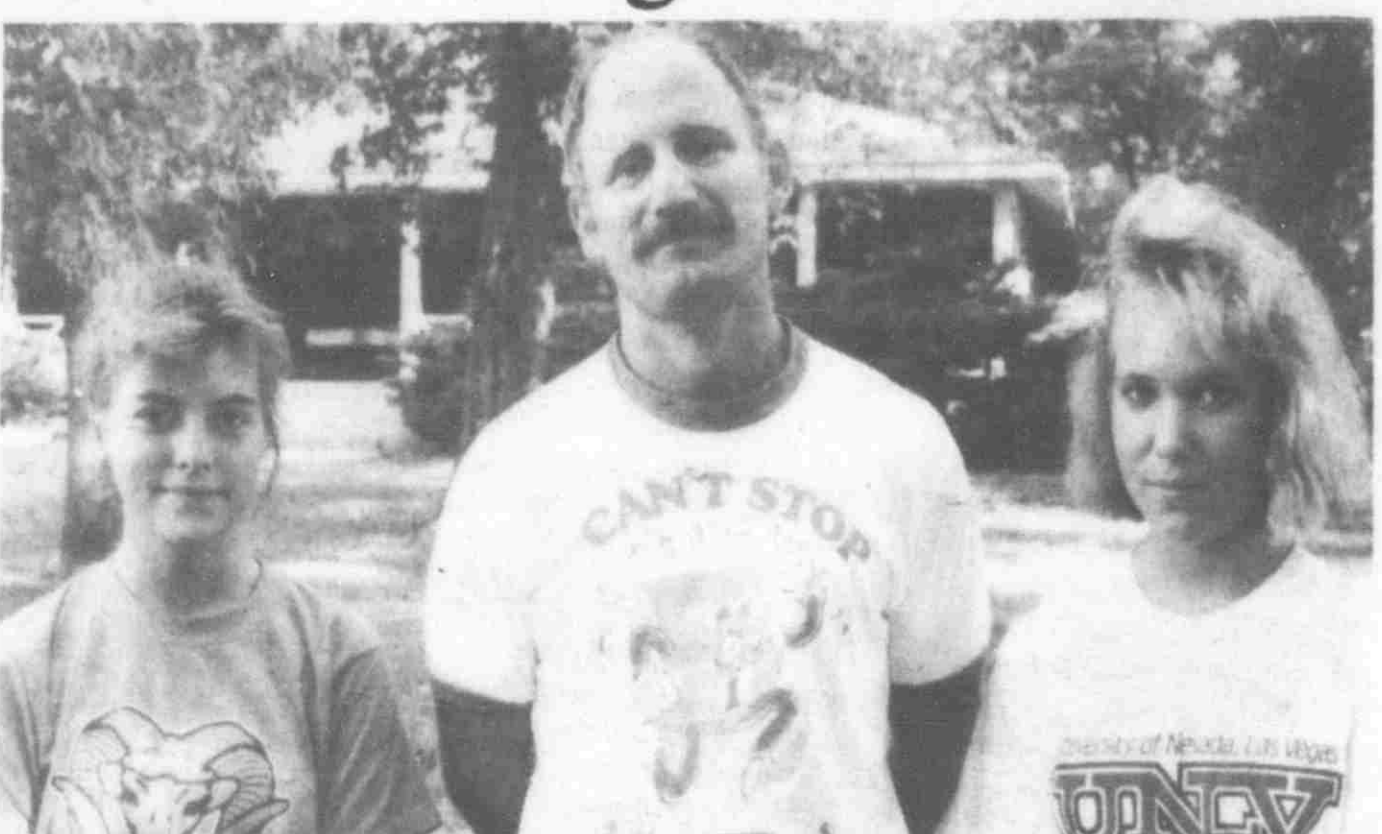

The Red Arrow charge, 4-6-1 a year ago, will have senior and junior co-captains Amie Kanoza and Betsy Dommer at the front of the pack.

Kanoza a four-year runner, her third as captain, was clocked in and around the 22-minute marker.

Dommer, a third-year harrier, an '87 state qualifier, and a second-year captain, recorded a 20:33 at state, placing her 24th.

Following the team's one-two punch, third-year runner Stacy Beute, junior, should provide some help. Beute was right around 23 minutes in '87.

Good cross country teams usually have five runners within a couple minutes of one another. Harper expects his top five will all run between 20-22 minutes. If that's the case, the Red Arrows should do well in the O-K White Conference.

"East Grand Rapids again should be strong," Harper said. Heather Slay, state champion, will be returning for the Pioneers.

'87 track performers who will bring their talents to cross country in '88 and should provide plenty of help include Karen Bussler, Hillary Kirsch and Dina DeCator. For DeCator it will be her second year as a Red Arrow harrier, but for Bussler, a junior and Kirsch, a sophomore, it's their first year.

Also pushing for top five honors will be freshman Kristin Shuster and junior Elisa Peel. Other freshmen that could help out in '88 are Jessica Stone, Chris Decke and Kelly Walters.

Helping coach Harper will be Jackie Schank and Mike Dey. Levi Harper will be this year's manager.

Smith, young Go-Kart racing enthusiast

Most people wait until they're 16 before they drive, Jonathan Smith started at the age of six. Before you pick up the phone to call your friendly Mr. Policeman, Smith was driving a GoKart, not a car.

He's been driving something with a motor on it since the age of two, according to his Dad, Kevin Smith.

The 11-year old practiced on the driver education course, in the Lowell Middle School parking lot, for two years with the careful supervision of his dad.

But soon, driving in a parking lot wasn't enough, and with enough practice, honing his driving skills to where Smith and his Dad felt comfortable, he began racing under the governed rules of the World Kart Association.

Where does an 11-year old go to race his GoKart? Mattawan, Lansing, Buchanan, Wayland and Battle Creek, the home of the Cereal City Grand Prix. The Grand Prix takes place on the streets of Battle Creek, in front of roughly 3,000 people.

"Nervous? Yes! Especially if I'm in the middle of the pack," the Smith youngster said. The nervousness doesn't end there. Father is nervous too - especially at the start when all the GoKarts are bunched together. "Usually if there is going to be a problem or an accident that's when it happens," Kevin Smith said.

How does mother handle it? "At first she was real leary of Jonathan being in a GoKart. I think now she enjoys it," Kevin Smith said.

The young Smith boy is pretty well protected. He wears a fire proof suit, a helmet, a neck brace and gloves. "Accidents rarely happen," assures his father.

The father and son duo built nearly the whole Go-Kart, with the exception of the frame, a factory built chassis from New York called Bulet.

"We had to build our own pedals so he could reach the buttons," Kevin Smith said.

The Kart has state of the art handling components, a digital tachometer and temperature gauge. The engine is a 6,000 rpm, alcohol burning blue printed five-horse Briggs and Stratton engine.

With each race, the weight and kart adjustments change. "The kart doesn't doesn't just sit between races, adjustments are made. That includes the weight of the kart which changes from race to race, as does the gear ratio. The speed is also controlled by limiting the amount of fuel that goes into the carburetor.

Smith races in the 8-12 bracket and in some races he contends against 15-16 year olds. Although the advantage he lacks in age, he makes up for in weight. His smaller, lighter framed body is an advantage coming off the corners.

In his biggest race of his young GoKart life, Smith won his first feature race at Wayland on Aug. 13. He took a third place at Battle Creek.

When he isn't buzzing around in th GoKart, Smith enjoys biking, skate boarding, football and baseball.

His racing idol? Cale Yarborough. "I'd like to road race someday," Smith said.

Jonathan Smith has been driving something with a motor in it since the age of two.

Local horse named American Quarter Horse champion

Mr. Poco Rose, an 8-year old sorrel American Quarter Horse gelding owned by Rolf Ludge of Lowell, Michigan, recently was named AQHA Champion by the American Quarter Horse Association. The gelding has earned 15 halter and 60 performance points in AQHA open division show competition. Points are awarded based on the number of entries and a horse's placing in a particular class.

To be named AQHA Champion, a horse must win a minimum of 35 points at official AQHA shows. Two grand champion honors must be earned, in addition to a minimum of 15 points each in halter and performance classes. The AQHA Champion Award is but one of several awards provided by the Association to youth, amateur and professional exhibitors.

Headquartered in Amarillo, Texas, AQHA is the world's largest equine registry, claiming more than 2.6 million Quarter horses in its files. More than 2,400 approved shows were conducted in 1987, attracting 689,362 entries in amateur, youth and open division competition.

HEALTH COLUMN GENITAL HERPES

With all the recent hoopla and news regarding AIDS, genital herpes, a much more common viral infection, has been pushed into the background. However, the prevalence of genital herpes infections are increasing and it is estimated that there are 7 to 20 million Americans infected with the virus. In today's column we are going to review the clinical aspects of this common infection.

Genital herpes is caused by the Herpes Simplex virus. The infection begins with the presence of small fluid filled blisters located on the penis or vulva which are usually painful. The blisters will usually rupture after a day or two leaving small ulcers that will heal spontaneously over 2 to 3 weeks.

The first episode (primary infection) is the most severe and prolonged, lasting up to three weeks. Outbreaks of vesicles usually occur within one week of sexual contact, rarely after a month. Some patients will experience fever, headache, or symptoms like the flu during the primary infections. Once the vesicles appear the patient will experience, itching, pain, and swelling of the lymph nodes located in the groin.

Recurrences of herpes are usually shorter and milder than the primary outbreak. The lesions will only last for 7 to 10 days and discomfort is much less severe. Some patients will experience burning or tingling for a day or two prior to the outbreak. Recurrent episodes occur in about 60% of those who have experienced primary infections. The average person will experience 3 to 4 episodes per year. Stress, fever, other infections, and even menstruation have been felt to be factors that trigger recurrences. Between outbreaks the virus remains dormant within the body. Once infection has occurred the virus will always be present in the body but it may not actively cause symptoms.

The only way to contact genital herpes is to have direct contact with a partner who has infectious lesions. Patients are infectious when lesions are present and possibly a day or two before lesions appear. Intercourse should be avoided at these times to prevent transmission. Shedding of the virus can occur even when lesions are not present, between outbreaks, but this is uncommon and the risk of getting the infection is much smaller.

Anyone who contracts genital herpes should be aware of the risks of transmitting the infection to their partner. Condoms and spermicides have been effective in preventing transmission of the infection, however, intercourse should be avoided when active lesions are present. Women who contract the infection have additional concerns, that is, the increased risk of cervical cancer and possible transmission of the infection to their child during delivery.

All women should have pap smears done annually to detect any cervical abnormalities. Pregnant females should have close surveillance near the end of their terms to rule out any active lesions which could be transmitted to the fetus during vaginal delivery. If any active lesions or viral shredding is found, your doctor will recommend a cesarean section.

There is no cure for herpes genital infections. Medications can be prescribed which will decrease the duration or lessen the frequency of outbreaks. Herpes infection may be a chronic problem, but it should not be as devastating as some have portrayed it. By understanding its course and taking proper action it shouldn't be disruptive your activities of daily life.

Consumer Power warns campaign signs not welcome on utility poles

Political posters and signs are important parts of modern-day election campaigns, but Rann C. Lincoln, senior vice president, energy distribution, warns that electric utility poles are one place where signs are not welcome.

"Attaching signs poses a safety threat to our lineworkers," Lincoln says. "Under certain circumstances, we still must climb poles. If the lineworkers' climbing gear strikes a nail or other piece of metal used to attach a sign, they can be misled into thinking their spike is firmly in the pole. That could cause a fall, with serious injury a possible result," Lincoln said.

The same danger exists when signs are posted for garage sales, auctions or other purposes.

"Please remember that our poles are private property and that they serve the general public. Posting signs on them could pose a danger to our lineworkers," said Lincoln.

Alto woman receives top Mary Kay award

Pat Ringnald, of Alto was named to the Consultant Court of Personal Sales at Mary Kay Cosmetics' "Silver Celebration" national seminar, celebrating the company's 25th year in business. Ms. Ringnald, who joined the company in 1983, received the prestigious award for her outstanding achievements in the 150,000 member sales force.

"Pat is a wonderful career role model," said company founder Mary Kay Ash who presided over the series of meetings, Aug.

1-13, which attracted a record attendance of more than 25,000. The annual seminars provide management and sales training opportunities and recognition for the company's outstanding achievers.

Ms. Ringnald was honored during a gala awards ceremony where she was presented with a dazzling diamond ring.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc., manufactures premium skin care and personal care products including cosmetics, toiletries, and fragrances. The company was founded on September 13, 1963 by Mary Kay Ash and her son Richard R. Rogers.

In the Service

Brian A. Garrett, son of Richard I. and Phyllis J. Garrett of Lowell, was commissioned a second lieutenant through the Army's Early Commissioning program after completing the ROTC advanced camp at Fort Lewis, WA.

Garrett was commissioned before obtaining a bachelor's degree because the advanced camp allowed the officer to complete ROTC requirements for assignment to either an Army National Guard or Reserve Unit.

The lieutenant will continue working toward a degree at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

Wonder worm: A 12-foot long worm that makes a sound like a bathtub draining may not seem like much of a tourist attraction, but the bizarre giant earthworm has proved the economic salvation of one Australian town. According to National Wildlife magazine, after the local coal mine shut down, the townsfolk of Korumburra (pop. 2,800) turned to their one notable resource: the great Gippsland gurgling earthworm. Colorful toy earthworms began appearing in shop windows, and the town launched an annual worm festival complete with parades and an earthworm queen.

by Roger Brown

As promised, here is the story of a reprisal for the snowmobile sent to my friend in Florida. By the way, the snowmobile ended up as the property of a fellow employee at the plant where my friend works. The employee had a pickup truck to haul it away with, so it immediately became his. He told my friend he planned to put wheels on it. Perhaps the best idea would be to see how well it works as a jet ski, and then leave it at the bottom of a 'gator infested lake. Of course we were all disappointed that our friend didn't follow our suggestion of placing it in his front yard, jerking the seat off from it and planting flowers in the thing. Oh well.

Back to the reprisal. About three weeks ago I began receiving packets of information in the mail from various packaging manufacturers. The packets included information on cartons, labels, label applicators, ink-jet printers, shrink wrap machines, various types of padding, pallets, banding, scales, etc. You name something that has anything to do with packaging, and I have information on it. And not just brochures and letters. I have posters, samples, three ring binders of specifics, catalogs, etc. All I could do was scratch my noggin' and wonder what the heck kind of mailing list had I gotten on, and how did I get there.

Then the phone calls began. Some days I'd field as many as a dozen phone calls from sales representatives in the packaging industry. A typical call goes something like, "Hello Mr. Brown. This is Joe Sales from the Handy Dandy Ink Jet Printer Co. following up on your request for information on our product." At first I simply brushed these guys off, but after twenty or thirty calls, I began to get inquisitive. "Where did you get my name and number?", I'd ask. They'd invariably say, "Well, I've got it right here on one of these reader response cards. It says Roger Brown, C.E.O., Lowell Litho, 105 N. Broadway, Lowell, Michigan 49331, Phone 616-897-9261". At first I told these guys to file a complaint with the reader response card service, because the card was obviously a fraud. It's really unbelievable how dense I can be at times.

Finally, after explaining the mystery to one of these sales guys, I asked him to describe the handwriting on the card. When the guy said it looked like a "lady's hand" the pieces suddenly all fit together. My friend in Florida with the unwanted snowmobile has beautiful handwriting for a man. He works in the wholesale food business where he would get a packet of reader response cards for packaging products. And, I knew he wanted to get even with me badly enough to sit down and fill out a hundred or so of those cards by hand.

I told the sales guy that I thought I might have an answer to the mystery. "How's that?", he said. I replied, "I think this reader response card business is a pay back for a snowmobile sent to a friend in Florida". "Ah-ha!", he said. "You may be right. The postmark is Gainesville". That did it, I had solved the mystery!. I told everybody who had been involved in snowmobile shipment, and they all laughed, and hooted, and hollered. I told 'em not to be so quick to laugh, because their turn is probably coming.

A few days later, I called my friend on another matter. When it came time to close the conversation I said, "Yup, I'd better get in gear. I've got another business going you know." "No, I didn't know. What have you got going now Brownie?" he said. "Well" I said, "I'm a consultant for people in need of any information on packaging. I've got specs, samples, brochures, catalogs, etc. And besides that, I can put you in touch with a sales rep. for any kind of packaging product you can think of. I know all those guys on a first name basis."

Needless to say, he laughed, roared, giggled, tee-heed and bel-lowed. "I gotcha you old son-of-a-so-and-so" (or words to that effect) he yelled. Well, I'm still receiving packaging information on a regular basis, and I get an occasional phone call. But, I still say he's got a way to go before he tops that snowmobile shipment.

Labels help the schools purchase needed equipment

Labels from foods that can be a part of good nutrition can also contribute to a good education.

Over the past 14 years, billions of labels from a major soup company's products have been turned in to schools, which then submit them to the company. The schools receive items from an extensive catalog, which includes audio-visual equipment, books, computers and sports equipment. If a school gets very ambitious and collects 975,000 labels it can even get a 15-passenger van.

Now in its 15th year, Campbell's Labels for Education program has provided more than $35 million worth of education equipment free to schools and libraries that collect the labels from Campbell products between November first and March first. Hundreds of millions of labels are turned in every year. Tens of thousands of schools from throughout the U.S. participate and receive equipment by the end of the school year. In many areas, Labels for Education becomes a community effort. Students benefit from the Teamwork: That's all it takes for many schools to receive free educational equipment.

Lowell Fire Department practices their skills

An abandoned and condemned house in the 12,000 block of Grand River Drive served as a training exercise for the Lowell Fire Department, Saturday, August 27. The department used the house as a means of studying fire behavior in a controlled situation.

AAA cautions drivers to be alert

With school bells about to ring across the state, AAA Michigan is reminding motorists to be extra alert for 5-19 year olds who make up 24 percent of the state's population but were the victims in 43 percent of last year's 4,649 pedestrian traffic injuries and deaths.

"Drivers should be on the alert for the unexpected--restless and carefree youngsters darting out between parked cars or rushing across the street at mid-block rather than at the intersection," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic Manager.

"Parents can also do their part to ensure safe school crossings by walking children to school until they are familiar with the roadway," Cullen added.

Safety tips parents should stress to their children include: * Cross at intersections, not between parked cars.

* Obey safety patrol officers and crossing guards.

* While waiting for a bus, stand in a safe place away from the road.

AAA Michigan will donate safety patrol belts, badges and training booklets to more than 1,500 Michigan elementary schools and provide "School's Open-Drive Carefully" bumper stickers free to the public at AAA offices.

When you have forgotten to take the butter out of the refrigerator for a recipe, shred it like a carrot. The pieces will be soft enough to use.

1987 Michigan Pedestrian Casualties

SCHOOL BELLS RING CAUTION for 5- to 19-year-olds who make up 24 percent of the state's population but accounted for 43 percent of the 4,649 pedestrian traffic injuries and deaths last year. To help lower this figure, AAA Michigan is currently sponsoring a series of state-wide adult crossing guard supervisor seminars in conjunction with the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning. The training sessions are designed to promote uniform school crossing procedures. Motorists can assist crossing guards by heeding AAA Michigan's annual fall reminder, "School's Open-Drive Carefully."

Aronson is new Lowell Public Librarian

Jane Aronson has been named the new librarian of the Lowell Public Library.

There's a new face at your friendly Lowell Public Library -- Jane Aronson.

The 10-year Lowell resident, and new librarian as of Aug. 15, fills the position left by Janet Andrews.

Aronson, who has a degree in Elementary Education from Indiana State University, left teaching because she enjoys books and likes working with kids.

"The difference between working with kids in the classroom and in the library, is that the library serves as an equalizer for all ages," Aronson said.

"They're not second class citizens."

She added that the second class citizen type role is necessary in a classroom. "I just didn't like being in that role as much. I'm more a service oriented person."

Aronson's teaching background includes six months as a substitute teacher at a public school and work at a day care center in Terre Haute, Ind.

The Richmond, Ind. native following her stint in teaching, worked one year in the Winamac Public Library. Aronson worked from 1976-78 in Broward County Library System (reserve department) in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She worked from 1985-88 in the audio visual department at the Kent County Library prior to transferring to Lowell.

The scarcity of teaching jobs after Aronson's graduation in 1972 also played a role in her vocation switch. "My goal is to gain my Masters Degree in Library Science at either Wayne State or the University of Michigan.

Aronson has been married to her husband, Armand for 15 years. The couple has a five-year old daughter named Libby.

"I'm happy to be here at the Lowell Public Library and hope to be here for a while," Aronson said.

A change that has been approved and should take place in the not too distant future -- is an hour increase. Two more hours have been approved by the board. According to Aronson, depending on the interest expressed, those hours will probably be added on to the morning schedule.

Currently, the library is open four days a week (Mon. Wed. Fri. and Sat.).

The drought of '88 was one of the worst disasters ever to strike Michigan agriculture. In claiming its victims, it was not choosy -- all of Michigan's more than 50 commodity products were hurt. The Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service reports that this year's corn crop is 44 percent below 1987. Oats are forecast for a 55 percent drop from last year's harvest. Dry bean production is expected to be half of last year's yield. The lack of rain has prevented apples and peaches from growing to their normal size. All told, the drought of '88 will have cost Michigan farmers an estimated $800 million.

And that's just this year's toll. Next year's fruit crop may also be drastically smaller from the damage the fruit trees sustained in this year's drought.

What is more, fewer farmers will likely be around to plant next year's crops. According to the Cooperative Extension Service, as many as one out of four Michigan farmers could be forced off the land by their losses in the Drought of '88. With thousands of Michigan families making farming their livelihood, the economic displacement and misery suffered by Michigan's bankrupt farmers is the most troubling dimension of the drought.

Sadly, the drought came just as the agricultural industry was beginning to make a comeback after several lean years caused by high interest rates, deteriorating asset values, declining commodity prices and floods. The industry was just starting to turn the corner, and play an even bigger role in Michigan's diversifying economy, when the rains stopped.

But, Michigan farmers are as hearty as they are resourceful. In spite of their setbacks, agriculture remains Michigan's second largest industry, contributing $16 billion to the Michigan economy. We lead the nation in the production of five crops and are second or third in the production of several others. While most states have only 10 or 15 commodity agricultural products, Michigan boasts more than 50.

However, support for Michigan's farmers is needed now as never before. Because of the overwhelming severity of the drought and the importance of agriculture to this state, I feel strongly that the state should initiate a low-interest drought-relief farm loan program to help those farmers most severely hurt by the drought.

The Senate Republican Drought Task Force has recommended a low-interest loan program that follows similar guidelines spelled out in recent drought legislation passed by Congress. I will urge my colleagues to consider this measure carefully when the Legislature returns in a few weeks.
