District rejects millage increase

$300,000 worth of board cuts await in the balance after voters say no to millage hike.

Sitting on Dick Korb's desk this Tuesday morning, the morning after the millage election, was a folder labeled 1988-89 budget. It was opened to the page that read potential cuts.

Those cuts have been changed from potential to probable after the Lowell School District was denied its request for a 2.9 mill increase in 1988-89 and an additional .3 mills in 1989-90 and 1990-91.

"It's disappointing in that I felt the election was a decision to keep the programs intact, one that would allow voters to acknowledge their support to keep our quality programs intact," Lowell High School Principal Dick Korb said. "Obviously that was not the case."

Korb added that what was disappointing about the election results (No-952, Yes-873) was the school district did better in Bowne Township (No-133, Yes-76) and as well or better at Runciman (Yes-507, No-439). However it did not do as well in Vergennes Township (No-357, Yes-273). The absentee vote was No-23, Yes-17.

Although Korb was willing to say it hurt, one can only speculate the degree of hurt the full-page advertisement that Township Supervisor Jim Cook ran in the Buyers Guide opposing the millage hike. The school district was 79 votes short, it lost in Vergennes Township by 83 votes.

Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch said he did not believe the results in Vergennes Township were representative of the voting district. "I believe it was the view of the minority."

Korb does not believe he will be able to keep Lowell's academic offerings at the level their at. "As a building supervisor, it's my job to save the integrity of the academic offerings. I won't be able to do that now," he said.

He continues, "Unfortunately the kids will suffer from the across the board cuts in extra-curricular activities and academics."

Those cuts will total $300,000 in 1988-89. "We will have to reduce our planned expenditures in all areas," Esch said. He added the proposed $10.8 million budget for 1989-90 will have to be reduced $1 million to balance the budget.

Both Esch and Korb said the school district will go to the voters again in the early spring.

The "Keeping in Step for Kids" campaign did not sound the urgency alarm. "The cuts forthcoming will sound the alarm," Korb said. "There will be no sacred cow."

The total number of millage voters numbered 1,852 which was labeled moderate by school officials. "We were hoping for 1,900 of more voters," Korb said. "I believe there are more supportive voters out there than 873."

The school district's mission is to activate those voters in time for the projected early spring election.

Festival weekend pleases thousands

Thousands of people traveled around and through detours last weekend to get to Fallasburg Park and spend one of the nicest weekends this fall enjoying the sights, sounds, and tastes of the 20th Annual Fallasburg Fall Festival, sponsored by the Lowell Area Arts Council.

With steady traffic in and out of the park each day, the ten non-profit groups from the Lowell-Alto area felt like winners in their hard work reaped funds for all of their special projects in the year to come.

There were some special winners, however, in three events. The first was the food booth contest. The groups who sponsor booths are urged to follow a theme in menu, booth design, and worker costume. First prize in this competition went to the West Central Michigan Historical Society, the group who started the Festival twenty years ago. Second prize was won by a new group, the Vergennes United Methodist Church, and third prize also went to a festival newcomer, the Boy Scouts. Honorable mention went to the Congregational Church.

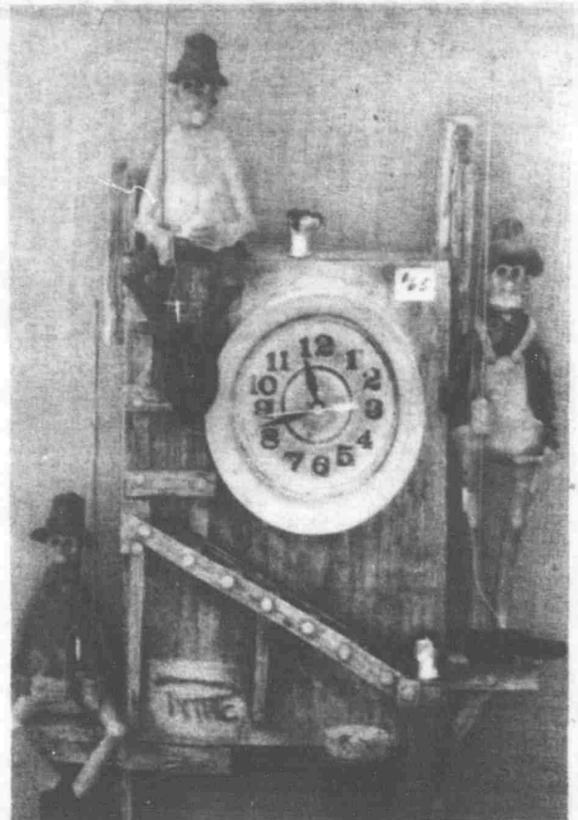

On Saturday, a pie baking contest was held. Judges were Mike Whitman, Marilyn Bovee, and Marsha LaHaye, who had the hard job of tasting seventeen wonderful pies. The pies were divided into fruit pies, and "other."

Betty Hessler of Belding had the expertise to win both divisions, with an apple pie with almonds, and a butterscotch pie. Second and third prizes in fruit pies were also apple, with Maureen Arnett of Lowell winning second, and Judie Silvis of Lowell winning third. Sharon Crandall of Ada won second in the "other" division with a chocolate pie, while Dianne Milley of Lowell took third with a pumpkin pie.

A special event which is always highly anticipated is the annual raffle of a special quilt, always featuring the Fallasburg Covered Bridge. This year's design was the eleventh such quilt. All eleven can be viewed this week at the Arts Council center. Winner of the 1988 quilt is Mary Wernet of Lowell.

Other prizes and their winners are: Potpourri donated by Laurel Rock won by Ray Zandstra of Lowell; a pottery pin donated by Mary Kingsbury won by Jim Ball of Lowell; a wooden rhythm instrument donated by the Folkerstmas won by Perry Bieber of Lowell; a spoon pot donated by

What time is it? Time to go fishing.

TEMPERO-MANDIBULAR JOINT DYSFUNCTION (TMJ)

Temporo-mandibular Joint dysfunction, also called TMJ is a sometimes painful condition affecting the jaw. The temporomandibular joint is located just in front of the ear, where the upper jaw meets the temple. If the muscles which control this joint work ineffectively or become cramped, this may cause your jaw to become stiff and sore. Consequently, chewing, laughing, or yawning may become very painful. Some people with TMJ also hear an audible clicking or popping noise when opening and closing their jaws.

If you are affected by this painful jaw disorder try some of these suggestions:

1. Don't eat foods which are difficult to chew or require you to open your mouth wide. Try softer food such as applesauce or pureed items.
2. Avoid placing undue stress on your jaw when sleeping by lying on your back rather than on your stomach or side. This prevents your jaw from being pushed to one side, which can aggravate your pain.
3. Don't chew your fingernails, pencils, pens, etc. Don't bite your lips or clench or grind your teeth. Even though this may require serious life style changes, the rewards in terms of less jaw pain are well worth it.

4. Generous use of moist heat will be helpful. Use a hot compress 3 or 4 times a day directly at the site of pain. Occasionally heat will not alleviate the pain. As an alternative, try alternating heat with ice packs.

5. Exercising the jaw will sometimes relieve the pain of this. Contact your doctor for a set of these specialized jaw exercises.

6. Medication, primarily the nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory agents will also help. Over the counter medicines such as Advil or Nuprin, or prescription anti-inflammatories like Motrin or Anaprox seem to work very well.

If these suggestions don't afford you much relief, you should probably be evaluated by your doctor or dentist.

There are 1,778 official toxic waste sites in the state of Michigan. That's the third worst in the country behind California and New Jersey.

U of M students tell kids about toxic waste dumping

Corey Dolgon entertained while he informed Alto Elementary students about the toxic waste problems facing them and their families.

There are 1,778 official toxic waste sites in the state of Michigan. That's the third worst in the country behind California and New Jersey.

"That's too bad, but did the Tigers win last night?" Unfortunately that type of response reflects the attitude and problem that faces many concerned environmentalists.

"The money will only clean up 10-15 percent of the toxic waste problem," Hawkins said. University of Michigan students Corey Dolgon and Tim Hawkins are traveling around the state on a county tour stopping to talk at schools, in neighborhoods and to groups about toxic waste and its perpetrators.

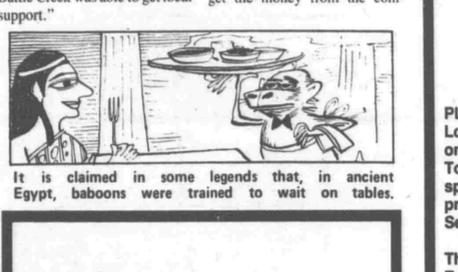

Corey Dolgon and Tim Hawkins are traveling around the state visiting counties, schools and talking to people about the toxic waste dumping and contaminating.

"There is not an individual in the state, a county or a community that is not affected or does not have the potential to be affected," Colgon said.

"We need the legislature to get the word out that the environment is its top priority," Colgon said. "To stop putting profits ahead of the environment."

Colgon added, "the two presidential candidates have primarily just been giving the topic lip service." Hawkins said, "Blanchard however was one of the original proponents of the bond."

It is claimed in some legends that, in ancient Egypt, baboons were trained to wait on tables.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

What a wonderful dinner party
we had last Thursday night (9-22-88) in the Middle School building, a recognition dinner given by the Lowell Board of Education and Administration to honor those of us who had served on the Board in previous years, some starting as far back as the fifties. Such handshaking, hugging and chattering with friends
we were so glad to see again!

From the delicious dinner, prepared and served by Marilyn Bovee and her staff, to the gra-tious welcome given by Superintendent Fritz Esch, who also emceed the program, it was a great evening.

Three men, David Coons,
Wayne Dowling, and Dr. Robert Reagan were given commemorative mugs for having served over ten years.

As I looked over that group I felt a mixture of pride and awe.
I counted the years served: 147 years collectively and all for the same reason: a dedication to this community and its children, a desire to give them the very best education possible.

We were each asked to reminisce about the most important things during our tenure, and of course I forgot the very things I meant to tell; the committee I chaired getting a School Code down on paper and in a book to be reviewed and updated every year; the completion of the building program including the new Middle School, and additions to some grade schools and High School; the many days which Orion Thaler and I and Business Manager Jerry Wabeke spent in visiting factories and schools deciding on and selecting all the furniture for the new buildings;
the initiation of a five-year reading program which dramatically improved the reading ability of the students; and the solid support and friendship of my fellow Board members who I'm sure had to adjust somewhat their thinking toward having a woman on the Board, and more than that, a Teacher on the Board.
They were great!

To top the evening off, Roger Brown showed us slides illustrating the last 50 years of Ledger history. Several showed the re-juvenating effects of a patent medicine, Sarsparilla, on both men and women. It reminded me of my grandmother who would never "touch a drop" of anything, but every spring she got a bottle of Beef Iron and Wine, which I'm sure was a twin to Sarsparilla.

It was a wonderful evening
full of remembrances, camaraderie and joie de vie! Is it possible that some wise person put a shot of Sarsparilla in the punch?

A. Blanche Mullen
Board member 1972-1976

Dear Editor:

You ask me to listen up and I have done so. Now please would you return the favor. I think if you would reread my letter of last week you would see that I did not take issue with the quality of Thad Kraus's written word.
The issue here is your lack of coverage of Freshman and JV sports. You say you will be putting in team pictures when "space permits" it. That statement of your so called facts is redundant when in the next sentence you tell me to listen up,
that you will publish anyone's article if they bring it in all done for you. If you have a space problem my friend, how can you do that?

As far as us being aware of what sports are out there, I think anyone who has read your paper for awhile knows that you have never covered 78'ers or youth football or any other youth sports. So let's not try to overwhelm us with the enormity of your's and Thad's job. You say you cover the school board, I happen to know you publish the minutes as written by an abso-luted secretary, so let's not tell us that takes a lot of time. Of course, that is unless there is a hotly contested issue, which happens only once in awhile. The Board only meets once a month
so there should be no pressure there. I could go on and on. The fact is we know a lot of your articles are written by local people and we thank you for the privilege to do this. Just don't try to tell us that your one full-time reporter does the article writing for the entire paper. Why don't you give Thad credit for his articles by placing, "Written by Thad Kraus", under each headline he writes. In fact from now on, good people of Lowell, when you write an article put
"Written by and then your name"
so we can all know who is active in writing our news.

Now about your hot quiet
week, if your reporter is too busy to cover Freshman and JV sports, why didn't you make a call or visit to the high school students to cover sports and academics in the school. You could have seen if they could get extra credit for a class or see if a whole class can write these articles as part of their grade. I am sure there must be some English department class or individual that would like to take this on if orfered. That kind of effort would have helped you use your time constructively on a "hot, quiet week in Lowell" as well as set it up so there would not be anymore slow weeks in the news.

As a last and final statement,
I do not sit down and write a letter to only criticize you, but to encourage you to find ways to give us coverage for all the news in and out of our schools. Thad, your writing is fine, keep up the good work. Please take the time to sit down with your editor and help him understand that there are ways to involve the young people of the community so that his paper will improve and so will his sales.

One who enjoys the Constitutional Right of Freedom of Speech,
Terry Smith

Editor's Note:

Oh boy... another missile from Terry Smith. I don't know if Terry Smith is a man or a woman. I don't know where Smith lives, and I don't know where he or she works. But, I do know I'd probably end up with a fat lip if I came around Smith's workplace, or home,
and served up the kind of criticism that has been heaped on the Ledger the past two weeks.

I've got an offer for Smith.
We have a lot of duplicate type-setting and camera equipment that came with the Buyers Guide purchase, and I'd dearly love to sell it. Since Smith obviously knows all there is to know about this business, his or her talents could be coupled with this equipment and put to good use in a community without a newspaper. There are lots of such communities in the area. Belding, Lakeview, Lake Odessa, Cedar Springs and Edmore are just a few communities that come readily to mind that have lost their newspapers over the past ten years. I'm sure the residents of those towns would love to have a newspaper. Even if it were of such low quality as the Ledger.

The bottom line to this issue is the fact that shopper competition and other economic pressures have made it darned tough for the small town weekly to survive. In fact, the Ledger had foundered financially under two publishers prior to my purchase in 1975. Some very hard work, belt tightening and development of our commercial printing department have kept us in the black over the years. The newspapers in the above listed communities weren't so fortunate.

I'd love to have the kind of paper that Smith seems to envision, complete with a pool of reporters to send to every event in the area. But, the hard fact is that if we are to keep our doors open and our bills paid, we'll have to continue to watch our pennies. That means we'll probably never be a Pulitzer Prize winner, and we'll probably never have enough staff to cover
freshman and JV sports.

Smith signed off his or her letter as, "one who enjoys the Constitutional right of freedom of speech". I can appreciate that.
But, I can't help but wonder if Smith appreciates having a place to exercise that right. The next time Terry Smith takes pen in hand, I hope he or she considers filing a report on her child's freshman or JV game. I'd be more than happy to publish it,
and I probably wouldn't even write a rebuttal.

Small treasures: Microscopic diamonds older than the sun and the planets have been found imbedded in three different kinds of meteorites. Chemically unaltered since before the solar system was formed four and a half billion years ago, International Wildlife magazine reports that the diamonds may be the oldest particles ever discovered. They are so small that trillions of them could fit on the head of a pin.

AHERA is the law which calls for a thorough inspection for all asbestos containing materials in our buildings. We have contracted with an inspector/management planner, Trust Thermal Systems. They have informed us that they will not be able to complete our plan prior to October 14, 1988. The Federal Government was inadequately prepared regarding interpretations of the law. There have also been too many changes from EPA. This has caused TTS to ask us for this extension. This extension will allow them to complete our plan within the next few months.
We appreciate your understanding of this situation. In case you are interested, this item will be discussed at a special Board meeting to be held Monday, September 26, 1988 at 7:30 p.m. in the Board room.

Vikings upend Lowell in home opener, 29-15

Lowell's home opener against O-K White foe Wyoming Park gave Red Arrow fans a physics lesson.

Friday's lesson: For every action there's a reaction.

The Vikings still bruising from last year's 21-14 loss to Lowell, controlled both lines of scrimmage against the Red Arrows Friday night in a convincing 29-15 win.

"That's the best our defensive line has played all year," Park coach Rick Morse said. "We played with emotion." The Vikings' defensive action which shut down the Arrows' running between tackles, forced Lowell out of its game.

"We were not able to get where we wanted. Park forced us into mistakes on offense," Lowell coach Phil Christensen said.

The most crucial and decisive Lowell miscue came early in the fourth quarter with the Red Arrows trailing 14-7. Starting Lowell QB Tony Nauta went back for a pass on third and six from his own 19-yard line, lofting a pass in the direction of the left sideline, Viking Anthony Garth stepped in front of the intended Lowell receiver and raced 22 yards for a Wyoming Park touchdown and a 22-7 advantage.

Lowell was guilty of four turnovers, three of which led to Viking scores.

On Lowell's next possession Nauta was again intercepted, this time in Park territory at the 34-yard line. Three first downs and 10 plays later Rick Dunkle hit paydirt from 11-yards out, increasing Park's lead to 29-7.

While Lowell's offense was hurt by turnovers, the Red Arrow defense on key third down roll-outs executed by Viking quarterback Jeff Miheve. "Two times they burned on rollouts by their quarterback," Christensen said. "We got behind because of that play, and Wyoming Park took advantage."

Dunkle, behind a big offensive line, rushed for 101 yards in 20 carries. Park accumulated 220 total rushing yards in 44 attempts.

Trailing 7-0 late in the first quarter the Red Arrows' Pete Kemp recovered a Dunkle fumble at Parks' own nine-yard line, setting up Lowell tying touchdown. Two plays later, following a Bob Adams seven-yard burst to the Viking two, Nauta followed his frontline blocking into the endzone, tying the score at 7-7.

Lowell's final score came with 12 seconds remaining in the contest. Backup quarterback Ryan Holtz connected with Mike Gahan on a seven-yard touchdown pass. Holtz then hooked up with Tim Weststrate for the two-point conversion.

Nauta and Holtz combined were 8-of-14 for 94 yards and two interceptions.

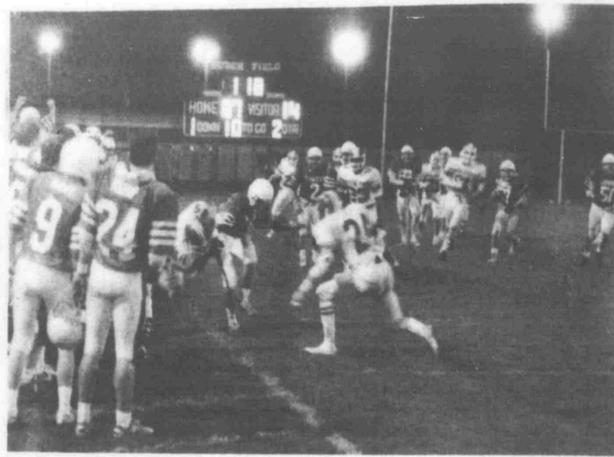

Parks' first score came with 5:25 left on the opening quarter clock. Rick Grooters scampered 15 yards for the scoring honors.

The Vikings took the ball 43 yards in eight plays following an Arrow fumble.

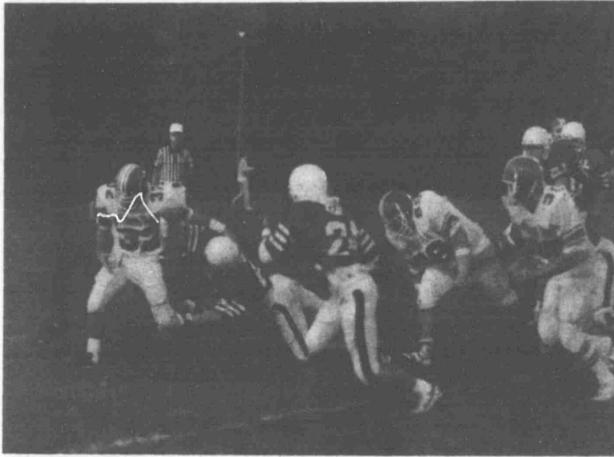

"Park's a well coached team," Christensen said. "In this league you've got to pack it up every week. I still think one loss will get a team a share of the conference title."

Morse said he thought his Vikings were better prepared to play Lowell this year. "Last year I don't think we (our kids) respected Lowell, but we knew coming in this year that although Lowell isn't really big, it hits hard and comes to play."

The Arrows will have to hit hard and come to play in its homecoming game Friday (Sept. 30) as they entertain an angry bunch of Pioneers. East Grand Rapids is coming off a bitter 20-12 defeat to conference newcomer Zeeland.

Tim Weststrate walked the tightrope as he hauled in a Tony Nauta pass along the Red Arrow sideline.

Fumble! Sean Seibold, Wyoming Park, fumbles in the early going against Lowell.

Arrow harriers running to the top of the O-K ladder

Lowell's cross country teams are running like winners. All the boys and girls squads did this past week was win. Three times the Arrow harriers posted victories against non-league competition and one of the four victories was against O-K White opponent, Wyoming Park.

On Wednesday against Park and Thursday against Lakewood, the boy harriers completed a twin killing of Vikings, shutting out the Vikings from Park 15-40 and defeating the Vikings from Lakewood 26-29.

Other than the victories, Lowell coach Tom Harper found his squad a solid number five runner, David Stouffer. The Arrow finished fifth, under the 20-minute barrier at 19:53 against Park. Against Lakewood he was fifth again, this time finishing at 21:12.

Mike Mull again was the team leader in both meets, taking first (18:44) against Park and second against Lakewood (18:41).

Clay VanderWarf was the second Red Arrow to stop the clock in each meet. VanderWarf was second against Park finishing at 19:04. He was third against Lakewood with a better time (18:42).

Andrew Patterson and Wayne Haines flipped flopped the third and fourth spots in the two meets. Patterson (19:27) the third Arrow harrier to finish against Park and the fourth against Lakewood, seventh overall at 19:54.

Haines came home fourth at 19:45 against Park and was the third Arrow to cover the terrain against Lakewood, fourth overall at 19:20.

At Fallsburg park earlier in the week against Saranac and Belding, the boy harriers posted 22-34 wins against the Redskins from Belding and tomahawked the Redskins from Saranac 22-33.

The times were Mull, 18:59; VanderWarf, 19:04; Haines, 19:30; Patterson, 20:00; and Stouffer 20:52.

"The boys had a super week and had good team runs against Saranac and Belding," Harper said. "With this week's performance I think Stouffer has claimed the number five spot. He had a strong showing against Park."

Lowell's coach was also impressed with the improvement Haines showed.

The Arrow boys are now 6-3 overall and 2-1 in the O-K White.

Leading up to their showdown against East Grand Rapids the Red Arrow girls also had a great team effort in disposing of Saranac and Belding and then later in the week dropping both Park and Lakewood.

Hillari Kirsch earned meet honors against both Redskin squads, coming home in a time of 22:17.

Teammate Betsy Dommer followed suit, claiming second place in a time of 22:59.

Kristin Shusterone was the third Arrow to finish (25:04) but the meet's fourth runner to cross the finish line.

Karen Bussler was sixth against Saranac and fifth against Belding, recording a time of 25:30.

Elisa Peel was the fifth Lowell runner to cover the terrain. She was clocked at 27:11.

In the Wyoming Park meet, the Arrows took three of the top five spots and five of the top seven positions in winning 24-36. Recording her best time of the week was Kirsch at 21:47.

Other times included Dommer's 22:42; Shusterone at 24:12; Bussler, 24:30; and Amie Kanoza, 24:50.

Kirsch again was the meet's top runner in Lowell's 22-39 victory against Lakewood. She finished second overall at 22:11.

Dommer came in third overall. Shusterone finished fifth, Bussler was sixth and Stacy Beute was seventh. Times for these Arrow runners were not reported.

"These were super victories. The girls have started the season with great team efforts," Harper said.

Lowell is now 3-0 in the league and 7-1 overall.

Arrow hoopsters unleash attack on Sparta

After opening the season at 5-1 in non-conference play, Lowell's girls' basketball team traveled to Sparta for their first O-K White clash of 1988.

"Don't worry, be happy" the Red Arrows dominated from the opening tip to the game ending buzzer, winning 68-37, improving its mark to 6-1 overall and 1-0 in the league.

"The girls played extremely well from start to finish," Lowell coach Ken Akers said. "It was one of the best first halves of basketball I can remember."

Lowell's second half wasn't too bad either. The Arrows opened the third quarter with an 11-4 spurt, blowing it wide open.

The Spartans came into the contest with a 4-1 record, but was never able to get into a rhythm. "They are a good club, but I think our man-to-man full court press kept them out of their game."

Lowell which shot as well as it has all year, had a well balanced scoring attack. LeAnn Iteen and Kerrie Zywicki led all Arrow scorers with 15 points apiece. Deb Adams followed with 11, Erica Hackenbruch added nine points and claimed 15 rebounds while Julie Tarak and Megan Kirby each contributed with seven points. Tarak was 2-of-3 from the three point line.

Sophomore Erica Hackenbruch was Lowell's top rebounder with 15 caroms. Lowell out-rebounded Sparta 43-21.

Qua-Ke-Zik celebrates Club's 50th anniversary

For almost as long as Lowell citizens have been hunting and fishing, Qua-Ke-Zik Sportsmen's Club has existed.

The local sportsmen's club celebrated its golden 50th anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 25.

The hunting, fishing and conservation club was first founded in 1938 by roughly 20-25 charter members. On hand to help celebrate the special occasion were charter members, Herb Ackerman, Sparta, and Les Moyer, Alendale. Scheduled but unable to make it were Mel Howell, Mecosta; Clem Miller, Grand Rapids; Jake Moomey, Grand Rapids; and Bob Feighner, Grand Rapids.

Qua-Ke-Zik was named for the Indian chief, Qua-Ke-Zik, which means "Noon Day". His village was located near what is now Leonard and Monroe Streets in Grand Rapids. The Sunday celebration got started at high noon.

The original club was located on Dean Lake near Grand Rapids where the primary activities were shooting skeet and trap. "Because of urban development, the club was forced to relocate to its present location of 121 acres on Foreman Road," Qua-Ke-Zik Sportsmen's Club secretary Doug Shassberger said.

Over the past seven years the club, while fluctuating in membership, but has grown in activities and facilities. The facilities not only have a skeet range, include rifle, archery and trap ranges.

Other facilities include a clubhouse with fireplace, clubroom and kitchen; a multi indoor pistol range; and a playground picnic area.

Like most sportsmen's clubs, Lowell's belongs to the Michigan United Conservation Club. It also participates in charitable fund raising events.

"The club works on a 'toys for tots' program; an operation can-do program which distributes groceries to needy families; and it supports the Special Olympics," Shassberger said.

Over the weekend the sportsmen's club had a booth in the National Fishing and Hunting Days held at the North Kent Mall, which was sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Club.

The past seven years Qua-Ke-Zik has also offered an instructional hunter safety program, which is sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources. "The main point of the program is gun safety. The program is for 12-year olds and up," Shassberger explained. "The club has certified roughly 1,000 kids and adults."

The club's membership is currently at 65. "Our high has been 80 and our low has been 65," Shassberger said. He added, "One problem the club has is that not everybody realizes the club is out there."

Shassberger said that in the future he would like to see the club get together and work with the local area Boy Scouts on projects for now and the future.

Portland 44-23.

Lowell led 30-20 at the half and then outscored the Raiders 34-22 in the second half.

Iteen, again led the Arrow offensive charge with 23 points. Tarak followed with 11. Hackenbruch was the club's leading rebounder with nine caroms.

"Everybody played and everybody scored," Akers said. "The club is shooting the ball real well."

He added that he was surprised the Arrows were playing so well, this early in the season. "I thought we had a good club, but I thought it would be later in the season before we started putting it together," Akers said.

Lowell will play host to conference favorite, Wyoming Park on Thursday (Sept. 29).

1987 GAME RECAP: The Pioneer's handed the Red Arrows their only loss in 1987, 34-6. Lowell's defense played well despite giving up 238 yards rushing. Four Arrow turnovers played a large part in the size of the Pioneer victory.

KEYS: Lowell's offensive and defensive lines and their ability to handle the physically bigger Pioneer counterparts. Lowell will have to re-establish a running game that was slowed down by Wyoming Park.

GAME'S IMPORTANCE: The winner remains in the hunt for at least a share of the conference crown. Both teams are coming off losses in the O-K White a week ago. EGR to Zeeland and Lowell to Park. Another conference loss for either school severely hurts its title chances.

Lowell's soccer team gains respect of league foes

Lowell's soccer match at Northview came down to who ran the field the best with the wind at their back which team recognized the defensive alignments needed to overcome the high winds, heavy rains and unique field conditions and one spectacular shot.

With the wind in their face, the Arrows played to a 0-0 tie in the first half.

The second half saw Lowell turn up the pressure and tempo as seniors Jeff Gurney and Tom Cichon began to control mid-field. "Both of our offenses kept the pressure up even though slipping and sliding was the norm," Lowell soccer coach John Turkal said.

The key Arrow break came 13 minutes into the second half. Northview was called for a pushing foul at midfield. Turkal chose Gurney to take the shot for an attempt on setting a play in front of the Wildcats goalie.

"Gurney's shot sailed 45 yards over the outstretched arms of the Northview goalie, scoring the winning and only goal of the game," said a happy and amused Turkal.

It was his second goal of the season for Gurney. The Arrows missed several other shots on goal as they dominated the second half.

The Red Arrows traveled to Northview with junior mid-fielder Dave Korte out four weeks with a broken collar bone and senior sweep Bob Dine out with muscle pulls, the depth of the Arrow squad proved pivotal.

Junior Aaron Corcoran replaced Korte, Andy Quada moved back on defense while senior Eric Fulkerson came out of goal to play fullback.

The game was played entirely in rain, which made the footing difficult. "The new field at Northview rivals the hill at Forest Hills," Turkal said.

Turkal was pleased with the maturity the young Arrows showed by recognizing the defensive alignments needed to overcome the high winds, heavy rains and unique field conditions.

Sophomore Doug Sanford had a fine game as a goalie. "He played an outstanding game in goal," Turkal said. "He was aggressive with his kicks and blocks."/>

With Sanford at goal, Turkal put Fulkerson on defense, getting not only good play, but good leadership. "His vocal presence on the field gave us a 'two goalie' defense," Turkal said.

The coach added that Dine, playing with both legs wrapped, was outstanding in sweeps, shutting down the Wildcat offense outside the penalty zone.

With junior Brad Briggs running the middle, the offense was able to push the ball up the field against the wind.

Several breakaways by junior Dave Kelly and sophomore Jason White were hampered by the poor field conditions which favored the defenses.

EGR 3, Lowell 0

The Pioneers' soccer team is considered by many no worse than the Class B runner-up.

EGR played the game next to the best, using their tournament starting line of Craig Clay, All-Stater, Pat Bartlett, Scott Vyn, Mark Perkins, Ken Hoebbel and Rick Morris.

"With four potential All-Staters, I think EGR thought it would put Lowell away quickly," Lowell coach John Turkal said.

EGR stayed with its tournament lineup the entire game. Lowell's defense, which Turkal described as one that "would bend but not break," was greatly responsible for all the playing time the starting Pioneers received.

The Red Arrows fall to 3-6, but Turkal believes they're maturing and have a promising second half of a season coming up.

Bertha Hemingsen's car rested on the corner of Foreman and N. Hudson after she pulled out in front of a car driven by Charleen Smart. Hemingsen remains at Blodgett Hospital, while Smart was treated and released.

2 injured in accident

Two Lowell ladies were injured in a two-car accident Friday, when the driver of a Monte Carlo failed to look both ways before pulling out onto Hudson, according to Lowell Police Officer Jim Valentine.

Hemingsen looked north but failed to look south before turning," Valentine said.

The officer added that Smart was unable to brake in time to avoid the collision.

Both drivers were taken to Blodgett Hospital by Lowell Ambulance. Smart was treated and released. Hemingsen, on a ventilator, remains at Blodgett.

Responding to the call was Lowell Ambulance, Lowell Fire Department, Lowell Police and Lowell Rescue.

Thirsty Cars

You shouldn't drink and drive—but you should buy your car a drink now and then. Checking under the hood saves money and trouble. A good schedule: ● Radiator coolant—Monthly. To fill, winter or summer, add a 50-50 mixture of water and anti-freeze, which contains rust inhibitors and enables your air conditioner to work properly. Change radiator fluid at least once every two years to preserve anti-rust ability. ● Windshield-washer fluid—Twice a month, more often in bad weather. Good fluids include a cleanser and anti-freeze. ● Engine oil—Every third gasoline fill-up. Add or change as needed. Most cars now call for 5W-30 viscosity (flowability) for general all-weather driving. Providing superior protection over a wider range of temperatures are modern synthetics like Mobil 1; they're made from a few pure chemical "building blocks" chosen for lubricating excellence—instead of being refined from thousands of hydrocarbons that work together more or less. ● Monthly—Battery water (if your battery is unsealed, allowing refilling), and fluids for automatic transmission, power-steering, brakes.

The first football game of the season is won by Lowell's rookie team. Final score Lowell, 6 Greenville 0.

25 YEARS AGO IN THE LEDGER - SEPT. 26, 1963

The oldest Lowell newspaper in existence, the first copy of the first press run of the first edition of Lowell's first newspaper, "The Lowell Weekly Star", dated Sept. 12, 1860 is owned by C.H. Runciman, who keeps it in a special metal container. Does anyone know where it is now?

Festival booth demonstrators find "crafty niche"

The Fallasburg Festival attracts thousands of people every year for its arts, crafts and food.

While much of this could be seen outside, many people went inside the pavilion to get a first hand look on how some often overlooked artistic and creative talents are performed.

Mary Bartnick, of Grand Rapids, has been a member of the Woodland Weavers and Spinners Group for 10 of the association's 20 years.

Bartnick, with a spinning wheel in front of her, demonstrated how sheared, washed and combed Columbian Sheep wool is made into yarn or thread from fibers.

"I will be using this fiber for dress material," Bartnick said. "The gray and off white color is natural. There is no tint."

Demonstrating with Bartnick was Sandy Brumels of Ada.

Brumels has been with the group 3½ years. The fiber (flax, a more straight fiber and more difficult to spin) Brumels got from her own farm. "No, the pink and purple is not its natural color," she muses.

Across the pavilion floor sits another group of ladies, this time from the Flat River Rug Hookers.

Members Arlene Lambert, Ruth Thurtell, Mamie Stahl and Ann Redd are four of 11 ladies that meet every Tuesday at the local YMCA from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. for coffee, socializing and traditional rug hooking.

The group has been in existence for six years.

"New or old wool material is used because of its durability," Redd said. She has been rug hooking since 1964. "I first started in Grosse Point Woods community education program."

A variety of different items are on display for the Fallasburg Festival gathering. Christmas decorations, chair pads, wall decorations and bell pulls.

"We don't sell or trade, except for ideas, we just demonstrate," Lambert said.

To the left of the Flat River Traditional Rug Hookers booth was Karin Eldredge and her chair caning setup.

Eldredge runs her own Antique Restoration shop. She refinishes, repairs, seatweaves and canes antique and more modern chairs.

Eldredge's husband, Stanley does the furnisher restoration. The couple came to Lowell from South Hole Long Island, New York. "We've lived in Lowell for nine years."

Eldredge first learned the art of chair caning in a course at Cornell University. "It's tedious but not difficult to learn," she said. "It's a good winter project."

Prior to starting Eldredge said she soaks the cane in 10 percent glycerine and water.

She also recommends that no finish be put on the cane. "It's better to let the cane breathe. Shellack shortens the cane's longevity," Eldredge said. Although she added it is a good idea to moisten the underneath side of the cane with a wet terry cloth approximately once a year. "This helps keep it from becoming brittle."

Mike Velte and Mike Gryzan were also on hand from the Woodland Carvers Association, answering questions from interested observers about their craft.

The association has been in existence for roughly 5-6 years, according to Velte. "It has well over 100 members from the West Michigan area," he said.

Velte was first introduced to woodcarving by his grandfather. "I still have a merry-go-round my grandfather carved for me."

Velte does ducks with the most intricate of designs. Both Velte and Gryzan work at Kendall Furniture. Velte also teaches a Kellogg's Community Education course. Gryzan meanwhile teaches courses at Rockford and Union.

"Woodcarving takes patience, sharp tools and band-aids," chuckles Velte.

Both men travel all over so that they can participate in demonstrations.

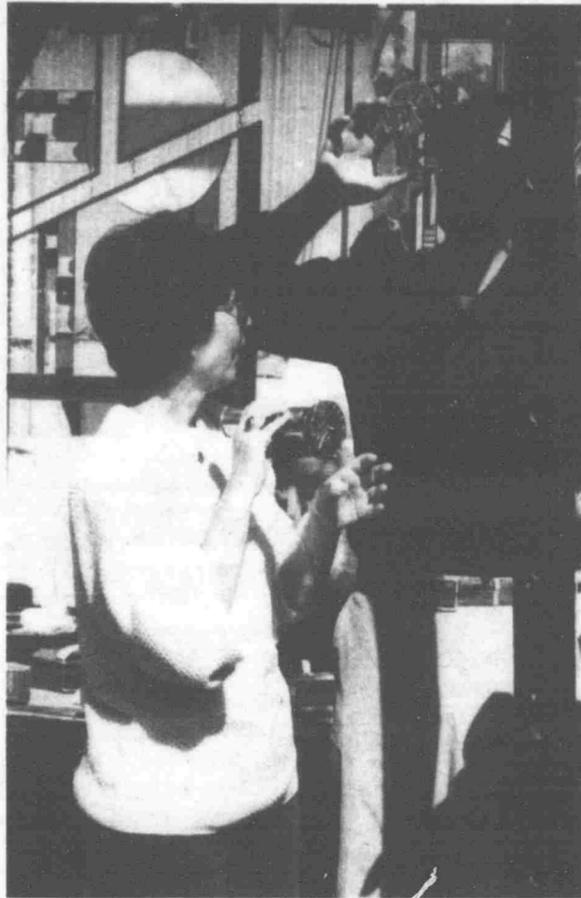

Arlene Lambert was one of three Flat River Rug Hookers on hand for demonstrations.

Fallasburg Festival sights & sounds

This is one of many paintings and drawings that were displayed at the Fallasburg Festival.

Kaleidoscopes were a popular tourist attraction.

This young lady gave her pumpkin complete concentration.

Entertainment abounded throughout the weekend on the Fallasburg Festival stage.

Dr. Bruce Langlois attends international conference

Dr. Bruce P. Langlois of Lowell attended the Fall Conference of the Society for Theriogenology held in Orlando, FL, Sept. 15-17, 1988.

Thirty-eight internationally recognized authorities in the field of animal reproduction presented papers and technical information on reproductive problems, diagnosis, and treatment. The presentations emphasized equine and bovine male reproduction, canine reproduction and swine and goat reproduction.

Membership in the Society for Theriogenology is restricted to veterinarians who have an interest in the field of animal reproduction. The members are updated through publications and newsletters received periodically from the Society Office in Hastings, NE.

The Society has over 2,000 members in the United States, Canada, and a number of foreign countries.

Dr. Ron Elmore of College Station, Texas served as President of the Society this past year with Dr. Maarten Drost of Gainesville, FL serving as Chairman of the 1988 Fall Conference.
