AMWAY BOWLS FOR EASTER SEALS

Amway employees are bowling for Easter Seals.

The event will take place at Lowell Lanes on Saturday, Feb. 11. The Bowl-A-Thon will have between 200-230 bowlers in several shifts beginning at noon, with the last shift starting at 5 p.m.

Amway held the event last year with 136 bowlers and netted approximately $5,800 for Easter Seal. Participants collect pledges before the event and that is the way money is raised.

ATHLETIC BOOSTERS CLUB MEETS FEB. 6

The Lowell Area Schools Athletic Boosters Club will meet Monday evening, February 6, in the K-Quad at the high school.

Jim Reagan will present an idea for a fundraiser for the spring months, and all interested adults are encouraged to attend this

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. For those who are not familiar with the high school, the K-Quad is located in the rear of the building. Park at the extreme west end of the back parking lot, and the classroom is located immediately inside the entrance to the school building.

Without the support of the membership and other interested persons, the Boosters Club is limited in what it is able to accomplish. Your efforts to attend this meeting are appreciated.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR LAAC WINTER PLAY

Tickets for the LAAC Winter Play, "The Savage Dilemma", will go on sale Wednesday, Jan. 25. the dates for the play are Feb. 16, 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25. The curtain will go up each evening at 8 p.m. at the Lowell Middle School.

BLUEBIRDS SIGHTED IN LOWELL

Mrs. Irwin Kutchey called the Ledger office last week to report a visit by a pair of bluebirds at their backyard feeder on Heffron Street in Lowell around noon on Saturday, Jan. 21.

Mrs. Eugene King reports they also had bluebirds inspecting their bluebird house on Blue Water Highway over the same weekend. Mrs. Vaughan on Beckwith Drive called the Office on Monday morning, Jan. 30 and also reported bluebirds in her yard.

Does this sound like "Blue Heaven" or doesn't it?

METHODIST CHURCH LENTEN SEASON CLASSES

The First United Methodist Church, 621 E. Main St., Lowell, is again presenting classes during the Lenten season. These classes will start on Sunday evening, Feb. 12 and will continue each Sunday evening through March 19 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

The first class will be a Bible Study led by Rev. W.J. Amundsen on "Jesus Christ: The Sermon on the Mount". The second class in the series will be "Marriage: D.Dean Martin." There will be a leader for discussion following each 28 minute video during the 6-week series. Child care is available. Call the church office at 897-5936 if

College assistance

Where to look

With the cost of schooling rising yearly, the concern of many parents is 'How can I get some help?' The purpose of the next three articles in this series will be to give an overview of the three basic sources of financial assistance for college and some tips on where to look for help.

The time between now and Feb. 15 is important for those parents who are filing financial aid forms. If a student has taken the ACT test and been declared eligible for financial assistance from the State of Michigan Higher Education Assistance Authority, the 'FAF' or the 'FFS' must be filed with the processor no later than Feb. 15. Essentially, the aid forms are used by the processors to provide information to the financial aid offices of the various colleges and universities so that they can make financial aid decisions.

While the financial aid forms may look rather foreboding, a quick glance shows that the information needed is essentially the same information needed to complete IRS income tax forms and therefore good preparation for one is good preparation for the other.

Essentially, there are three sources of financial assistance for students...federal monies, state monies, and private monies. We will spend the remainder of this article discussing the most common federal programs, so readers attention is directed to the publication "The Student Guide: Five Federal Financial Aid Programs". Copies are available in the student service center at Lowell High School.

The most commonly known federal program is the 'Pell Grant' program. It is a program designed to give grants, which do not have to be repaid, to those who can prove eligibility through submitting the FFS or FAF. They are for undergraduate study only, usually limited to five years of full time study, and are reserved for those enrolled at least half time in school.

Additional grant programs incude the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant which is campus based and assigned by the financial aid office.

Loan programs include the Guaranteed Student Loan Program, The Perkins Loan Program, The SLS and Plus Loan Programs. As indicated, these are loan programs and must be repaid over a predetermined period of time after graduation or cessation of schooling. Primarily they are loans made by private lenders (Credit Unions, Banks, Savings and Loan Associations). Only the Perkins Loan Program is a campus based program. Rates and times of repayment vary with each program.

Also indicated as part of the federal program is the college work study program. The college provides jobs for students to earn money for school. This is also a campus based program.

While all of the above may seem a little confusing, the counseling staff at the high school or the financial aid officer of any of the local colleges is more than willing to try to provide assistance to you. Feel free to give them a call.

Next week we will deal with state financial aid programs.

M.O.M.'s Club seeks members

The Saranac M.O.M.'s Club originated in 1968 simply by members helping one another winterize their homes, learning to sew, learning to knit, learning to crochet, styling hair, as well as socializing and exchanging recipes.

Through the years the club added community services such as a Halloween party for children; food baskets at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas; and monthly dinners for senior

Zaetsch, Dryden's "Great Teacher"

Marlene Zaetsch, as a former student in the Lowell School System, was influenced by a handful of her teachers growing up.

As a teacher in the Dryden School System in Lapeer County, Zaetsch was honored and recognized recently by the Great Teacher Foundation for passing on the same qualities she admired in her teachers, to her high school social studies students at Dryden for the past 15

The Great Teacher Foundation was started in 1984 by Bob Myers, publisher of the Lapeer County Press. He was influenced by one teacher in his life and wanted to repay her help by helping other teachers to be recognized while still teaching, and since teachers are not well-paid, to give them some monetary award; in this case $5,000.

Winners were selected by the Foundation Committee based on the number and content of nominating letters from residents, students and former students of the school district, as well as staff. One of Zaetsch's nomintaing letters came from and was signed by all staff and administrators at the Dryden School system.

In her introduction, Zaetsch was praised for having high expectations for students' achievement and support of student activities, most notably taking her senior government class to the state level of competition on the Constitution.

Of the many teachers in the

Those teachers included Ann Borgerson, Cora Troy, Ruth Arehart, Arlene Claus, Blanche Mullen, Orval Jessup and Jack Kempker.

The monetary award of $5,000 was accompanied by a Great Teacher pin, an engraved plaque, and a flag for her classroom at a banquet in honor of those Lapeer County teachers chosesn at the Lapeer County Vocational Center in November of

"I like working with kids. I like to see how far they could go with my help," she says.

Zaetsch, the daughter of Clark (now deceased) and Ona Fletcher, 937 Hudson St., is a 1968 graduate of Lowell High School. She also earned her degree from Grand Valley State College.

Should you have been at our house when the children were young, you might have heard one of them say, "Dibbies on the 'pulley-bone.' In other words, "I have the first bid in for the piece of chicken which contains the Many adults indulge in wishful thinking. Some long for a Christian exprience like Sister Jones' or Uncle Billy's. But a mature Christian experience does not come by making wishes. Spiritual graces are obtained by perseverance and cultivated by diligent effort. Usually the most victorious Christians are those who have gone through the fiercest battles and have come out triumphantly. A close companionship with God calls for continual searching for more truth and comes as the result of more than the making of 'pulley bone' wishes."

Prayer: Heavenly Father, my greatest desire is to live victoriously in Thy presence moment by moment, day by day. Cause me to ever seek to be more like Thee and to do those things which will bring me into closer fellowship with Thee. Amen.

AN EXCHANGE OF THREE

I think of her often-this lovely, twelve year old. Her name is Jodi. We met at the seminar, Extending the Writer's Craft. This is held every February for middle school pupils and teachers in the surrounding Grand Rapids area, at

One of the classes I signed up for was on drawing. I came as an observer, but was given permission to ask questions, ever so often, of the pupils. This is where I met Jodi. She sat at my table. Most of the time, I just observed that circle of nineteen faces with the joy of knowing that they were here on a Saturday morning because they were interested in the subjects, not because they had to come. It started at 8 a.m. and who would ever want to go anywhere that early on Saturday morning unless it was about something that you really liked, or wanted to know more about? That particular morning there were over four hundred students participating.

I watched Jodi. Her theme was her love for animals--especially horses. Drawing a horse was not a new skill for her. The horse she drew was running. I not only saw it; I felt it. She was acquainted with the body of horses and from will just love them." I wrote down the names of the trilogy of Emily of New Moon by L.M. Montgomery.

Walking around the class and observing how well many of the pupils drew, I asked them, "Do you draw alongside some of your writings?" Most of them said yes. Not all people draw and write. Often it is one or the other. Up to this point I had been laid back, kind of quiet for me, but with that affirmation, I nearly burst the place with excitement. "That is wonderful--has anyone told you that--that it is a special, creative thing that you are doing? That you have not only one gift but two?"

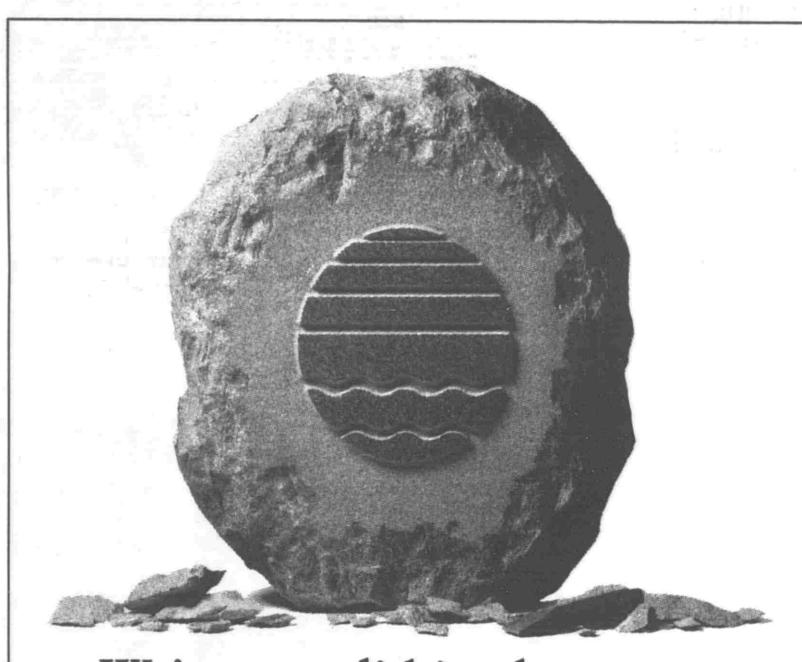

The room became so quiet,---I can still feel it with shivers. Thirty-eight staring, serious eyes looked at me, and in whispery voices they chanted back, "No." "Well, I am going to tell you, everyone of you, that you are very special--and each one of you has a gift.'

We returned to the work of the last few minutes. I settled down next to Jodi. The room was very quiet. And then I heard a soft, strong voice question me. It was Jodi. "Do you like realistic stories?" I nodded my head yes. Once more, so direct, so earnest, she asked, "Do you cry?" "Yes Jodi, I cry." At that, my young, quiet and serious art student turned strong and enthusiastic saving, "WELL, I have three books for YOU." I laughed so heartily, that it rang through the room. She was forceful and a delight. The had taken me by surprise--and I loved it. She named the three: Homecoming and Dicey's Song (and in that order) by C. Voight and Up a Road Slowly by Irene Hunt.

The bell rang--and Jodi and the others walked out of my life. I will never forget Jodi and her exchange of three.

We're so solid in the towns we serve that most folks take us for granite

These days, it's hard to tell one bank from another. That's why you may not be too familiar with Great Lakes Bancorp even though our regional headquarters is in Grand Rapids.

But there is a difference. And it's our priority to provide solid financial foundations for the people who live and work in the communities we serve.

That's the main reason we've become one of the strongest savings banks in the Midwest, with 63 branches serving Michigan and Indiana. A bank that has prospered since 1890 despite recessions, depressions and fickle stock markets. A bank that has doubled its assets to more than $3 billion, in the last six years alone.

So whether you take us for granite or for granted, you can count on us to be here tomorrow.

And that's practically carved in stone.

Minor injuries were incurred in a two-car accident at the intersection of Jefferson and East Main Street on Wednesday, Jan. 25 at approximately 11:15 a.m.

Mary Jean Phillips, 28, Lowell, who was northbound on South Jefferson, stopped at the intersection. Failing to yield the right of way. Phillips pulled out in front of an automobile driven by Anita Holmes, 18, of Ionia, and was struck on the driver's side, according to the police report.

injured. Both Holmes and Phillips sustained minor injuries. Phillips was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

Robert Green, 16, of Lowell, incurred a minor injury (sore knee) in a two-car accident east of Lowell on M-21. Friday at roughly 11:24 a.m.

Green was eastbound when he attempted to pass a slow vehicle, according to the Lowell Police report. The driver in vehicle number two, Beth Grilley, Grand Rapids, failed to signal her intention to turn into a private drive, crossing the path of Green, vehicle number one. No ticket was administered.

How many of you really enjoy exercise? Raise your sick, masochistic hands! Fitness, diet and exercise are all the rage now, Holmes had two passengers with her, neither of whom was but I still prefer thick steaks, cold beer and a choice cigar. These TV aerobic classes you see with the people working out like crazy, and still smiling, have got to be a hoax. Nobody can enjoy that . can they? A smiling person on TV wolfing down a slice of pizza is believable, but somebody grinning at me while doing sit-ups .

What I'm getting around to, is the fact that my wife made a commitment for "us" to get into shape. I mentioned last week that we're making progress in shedding some excess poundage through a "Weight Watchers" program. But, everything we read or hear, including what "Weight Watchers" says, is a person must incorporate exercise into any weight loss program, or the dieting will all be for naught. If I've got to give up pizza, French fries, wet burrittos and the like, then I figured I'd better make it worthwhile, and get into an exercise program along with it. Yuck!!!

The first question was, "what form of exercise would be best?" Jogging was counted out immediately. I'm six feet tall, and have a 31 inch inseam, which gives some clue as to the length of my stride. Jogging for me would be something akin to driving your family to California in a Yugo. Walking had been tried before. It's good exercise, but Michigan weather provides too many good excuses to stay in bed. TV aerobics are way too cheery, and besides, most of those women in their leotards are way too much of a distraction for someone serious about working out. I've got a good rowing machine stowed away in the basement. I went through a bout with that thing a year ago, and consider myself lucky to have survived the ordeal.

Finally, Terese and I agreed that we'd take Schwinn up on a one month trial rental of one of their Air-Dyne stationary exercise bikes. I had worked out on one before, and knew going in that they are a pretty good piece of equipment. You power the thing by pedaling with your legs and also by moving levers with your arms. Consequently, it gives your entire body a workout. Even your facial muscles get a workout when you start to grimace after about fifteen

We've had our bike for about ten weeks. I've worked myself up to ten miles per day in just over 30 minutes. That may not sound like much, unless you've worked out on one of these things before. I maintain the load meter at about 4.5 for the first ten minutes and finish up with the meter at about 3.5. My heart rate stays between 130 and 150. When I'm done you can wring out my sweatshirt and I'm so wasted you could stir me with a spoon. Like Bubba Smith says, "No pain, no gain". Trouble is, I think I have a poor pain to gain ratio. In other words, I think my pain far

The beauty of the bike is that I can surround myself with distractions so I don't quite get the full impact of how badly I'm hurting myself. The bike is out on the sunporch so I can see what's going on outside. We have a pulsemeter, and monitoring that is a good distraction. Playing math games with speed, time elapsed, time to go, and distance is a good distraction. The bike is equipped with a reading stand, but with my size, and the pace I keep, the thing is bouncing around too much for me to read. I can browse through magazines with lots of pictures though. No, no, not the kind of magazine you're thinking of . . . I'm talking about National Geographic, Sports Illustrated, etc. I also have a walkman clipped to the reading stand in case there's a radio program I want to listen to. Best of all is the TV. I plug in an earphone so I can hear over the noise of the bike, and ride away while watching the news, an old movie, a documentary, whatever. Sunday I watched the "African Queen" while riding. At 4:00 this morning I was watching "Airport 75" on channel 9 out of Chicago. I do try to avoid cooking shows and regular programming with pizza commercials.

So, as you can see, I've surrounded myself with amenities to make my "pain" as pleasurable as possible. This may seem extravagant, but my set-up is not quite as extreme as one guy I know of. He has his Air-Dyne by a window in his home overlooking Murray Lake. A visitor asked him if he had placed his bike there so as to enjoy the view. The bike rider admitted that the view was nice, but said his primary reason for placing his bike there was because the window sill made a perfect spot to set his beer while riding. Now that's extravagant.

Some Shocking Facts

A common source of irritation is also a big attraction: static electricity. It's the culprit that causes an electrical shock when you touch metal after crossing a carpet. It's also the mysterious force that keeps dresses clinging to slips, trousers to socks and pet hair to just about everything.

Spray carpeting around protect tapes and computers from static.

Static electricity exists naturally everywhere. Commonly formed by friction, an electrical charge will build on a surface and remain until it is transferred to another object or neutralized. When relative humidity drops below 35 percent, static electricity begins to build, making life a somewhat sticky situation.

To prevent static from building up, many homemakers use an invisible, odorless spray called Static Guard. Here are some tips on how to use it:

 Spray carpeting, particularly around doors and electronic equipment, to pro-tect material recorded on tapes and computers.

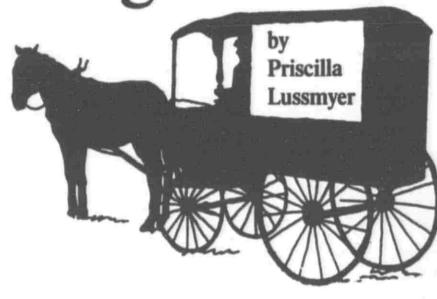

· Spray it on a dusting cloth and give your record collection a quick once-over to remove dust and prevent static build-up.

· Use it on carpeting, draperies and upholstered furniture to prevent lint, stray threads and pet hairs from sticking. If lint is already present, spray and then vacuum or brush for easy removal. · When grooming your pet, use the spray on grooming tools to keep airborne hairs from sticking to you, your furniture or carpeting. You can also spray Static Guard on brushes and combs · lame flyaway hair. Spray the inside of your hat to further prevent flyaway hair. You don't have to let static electricity rule your life-or make your hair stand on end.

"However, I cut mostly men's hair, trim beard and mustaches" Meeuwsen says. "It's easier to cut hair for men."

Following her 1-1/2 years of work with Generous, she decided to start a place of her own (Gerri's Hair Hut). Meeuwsen was successful and happy with her life's work until she turned 27. That's when the Kentucky "blue grass" native decided she wanted to further her education.

Her choice was the Air Force, and while she describes basic training as a nightmare, the positives from the experience far out weigh the time spent in basic training. The Saginaw Air Force recruiter (Jim Meeuwsen) she spoke to in March, she married in October.

The couple will be married three years in October. They have two children, Christopher, twoyears old and Kimberly 10-1/2 months.

the Redskins work for every point."

Lowell tied Portland at the invitational 12-15, 15-5. The Arrows then lost to Saranac 15-5, 15-1, before falling to Bath 15-8, 15-12 and losing to Maple Valley. "Because of injuries, I was down to nine players and I think the girls got tired," Kuna said.

For the day, Lowell hit on 103 of its 136 service attempts for a service percentage of 76. Team service leaders were Knottnerus (12 of 12) and Megan Kirby connected on 22 of 24 attempts.

Doreen Schneider led Lowell

in service points for the four high 12 assists. games with 17. She also had four kills.

Kirby contributed with 16. The senior also had eight service aces and 10 digs on the day. Knottnerus led the Arrows in kills with six. She also had a club-leading two blocks. Jenny Berry also had two blocks on the afternoon.

"We did not play well against Bath or Maple Valley. We need to play to our own level and not worry what's happening across the net," Kuna said.

Jennifer Murphy had a club-

Murphy had a team-high nine service points against Sparta. She also had four aces. It wasn't enough though, as the Spartans upended the Red Arrows 15-11, 15-9.

"I thought Doreen Schneider did another fine job of free-ball passing," Kuna added. "Overall we played better but our serving was poor again (28 0f 49)."

Lowell finished out the week with a 15-5, 15-1 defeat to Godwin Heights. It is now 1-8-1 on the year.
