COME VISIT THE FALLSBURG SCHOOLHOUSE

Come show the kids (or grandkids) a replica of the country school classroom you fidgeted in back in the old days.

The hand pump in the front yard still works if you need a drink, and the little house out back is a modern version of the long-ago two little houses out back.

Inside, see a realistic model of an 1860's village, go on to sadirons, bonecrusher, cobbler's bench, straight razor, coppertoe boots, and finish with tables of reasonably priced souvenirs, crafts and rummage.

All this is in the Fallsburg Schoolhouse Museum, across the Covered Bridge from Fallsburg Park. It is open from 1-5 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays from May to October. Admission is free.

"Other Place" brings life back to theater

A long time Lowell landmark will see life again, this time as a swinging night spot. Listed in the 1831-1931 Lowell Centennial book as "The New Strand Theater," the Strand was an inviting, every Friday and Saturday night tradition for the youngsters of the community. Many of Lowell's thirty to forty year olds can even recall when Thursdays were dollar night. Looking back in time even further, some residents may recall when the Strand was built (1926 through '29) and many remember working for either original owner, Harvey Callier, or lessee L.J. Andres. Over the years the Strand was host to many of the greats of the Vaudeville Era including such well know players as Laurel and Hardy and the great Pat Butrum. Ledger office secretary Barb Davis can remember her father, Lynn Fletcher holding a job as projectionist there, and her mother, Hazel, occasionally played piano for the silent movies appearing at the Strand.

In the fall of 1985, with the advent of personal video equipment, the Strand closed its doors. Competition from the big city super cinemas, combined with the explosion of the consumer VCR market made it impossible for the home town theater to survive.

In the spring of 1986, a small corporation call S.J. Bob was formed, and purchased the Strand. Steve Larkin leased the facilities from the corporation and, after a fairly extensive renovation, opened the doors on a brand new furniture store named after the owners. S.J. Bob Furniture was born and open for business in the fall of 1986.

After two hectic years in the furniture business, Larkin says he was faced with a dilemma. "The east-end of 28th St. exploded with furniture outlet stores," he explains. "I still had a good solid business, but I was working seven days a week, ten to twelve hours a day just to hang on." "The profit was there," Larkin continues, "I just had to work way too hard to get it!" In the fall of '88, Larkin had had enough and closed out his remaining stock and shut the doors for the last time.

In the back of his mind, Steve Larkin felt that the old theater should live again but couldn't figure a way to make a go of it. After several months of researching city, state and federal regulations, he found that he had already met all the requirements needed for a night club at his Saloon which is located right next door. The only thing the Sa-

Lowell Board approves employment wage hikes

The 21 agenda items included employee contract adjustments. The Board adopted a three-year administrative salary package with a six percent increase per year with the understanding that 91-92 schedule establishes a salary range for the position only and does not constitute an agreement between the Board and any administrator for continued employment during the 1991-92 school year.

West German visits here with Rotary Youth Exchange

Arnt Böhme

Arnt Böhme is a sixteen year old German boy eager to see and learn all he can about the United States during his one month visit here. Böhme is staying with the Roger Brown family of Lowell through arrangements made by Rotary International's short term summer youth exchange program. He arrived in Chicago last Wednesday where he participated in an orientation program. On Thursday he flew into Grand Rapids where he was met by the Browns. The first order of business was lunch at Big Boy. Böhme (not pronounceable by Americans according to Arnt) is from the town of Witten in West Germany. His father, Dr. Johann Böhme is a professor at the university there. He is a noted computer scientist and lectures frequently in many countries. He travels to the U.S. several times a year. Arnt's mother is a math teacher at the elementary level, and his brother is a twelve year old student.

other interests include soccer, swimming, tennis and rowing. So far Böhme has seen "Batman", spent two days at the Gus Macker Tournament, taken an aerial tour of the area, flown to a pancake breakfast in White Cloud and gone to the beach at Lake Michigan. A busy first four days, to say the least. Böhme's visit couldn't have been timed better, as he will travel with the Browns on a western vacation that has been planned for five years. He will have a chance to see several National Parks, the Grand Canyon, the Rocky Mountains and various other attractions. His father was delighted that Arnt was coming to Michigan because he loves the state and takes side trips here often when lecturing in the midwest. With about half of his visit spent "out west", Arnt won't have an abundance of Michigan stories to take back to his father. Böhme is an enthusiastic and outgoing person. It's very apparent that he is enjoying his stay here, and is taking a wide-eyed look at his new surroundings. After spending a weekend at the Gus Macker Tournament he has a warped idea of the average height of Americans and thinks American girls are "aggressive" after watching them play street basketball. He did say he thinks American girls are prettier than German girls. Of course, what else would a sixteen year old German boy say when visiting in the United States. If any readers are planning a day's activity that would be of interest to Böhme, and would like to have him accompany you, please contact Roger Brown at 897-9261 days or 897-5381 evenings.

Bonus deer permits

The Natural Resources Commission at its May meeting approved the new Bonus deer licenses. This license is valid only for taking does or fawns with antlers of 3 inches or less. The bonus deer licenses will replace the old hunter's-choice license that has been issued for the past several seasons. Unlike the hunter's-choice permit the bonus license lets you take two deer for the price of one license.

A non-refundable application fee of $3 is charged, the same as last year's hunter's-choice permit and the deadline for applying for bonus deer licenses is September 24.

CHURCH PAGE
Thou an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear... (Psalm 27:3).

Experts, people who know, declare that being overweight is a detriment to health. We have to admit that what they tell us sounds logical. A twenty pound baby becomes a load if carried around all day. No one would think of carrying fifty pounds of potatoes on his back twelve to sixteen hours at a stretch. Authorities tell us an overweight person is doing much the same thing; he is carrying a load of extra pounds which saps his energy and endangers his heart.

Many Christians are carrying loads of a different sort unnecessarily, but they can take their burdens to the Lord and leave them there if they will. Our Heavenly Father can give release from care, strength for weakness, and a comforting touch which is precious indeed.

If we insist on solving our own problems and bearing our burdens without divine assistance, we are endangering our own spirituality and hurting our influence, as well. It is our duty and privilege to shed "those extra pounds" which can cause the heart to fail.

Prayer: "I will extol thee, O Lord; for thou hast lifted me up, and hast not made my foes to rejoice over me." Thou hast lifted my burdens and made my heart lighter. I shall not fear. Amen.

Sitting at the feet of Jesus, Where can mortal be more blest? There I lay my sins and sorrows And, when weary, find sweet rest.

The 6th Annual Silver Lake Sail-In Pig Roast may have been the last annual such event. Last week I told you of all the trials and tribulations I experienced in just trying to get up there with my trailer load of pig, charcoal, tin foil, commemorative T-shirts and various other supplies essential to a pig roast. Looking back on the fiasco that ensued, I think I'd be better off if that police officer had simply confiscated my trailer . . . supplies and all.

Three of us idiots started this event, and over the years one guy emerged as the chief hog roaster, organizer and procurer of supplies. This year he couldn't make the pig roast. That left me, the second-in-command, in charge of things. They'd been better off if they'd appointed Pee Wee Herman or somebody.

I tried to duplicate the procedure from years past. We excavated our pit down in a hollow behind a sand dune. We got the 100 pounds of charcoal glowing hot, we shoveled in a layer of sand, placed in the tin foil-wrapped sections of pig and buried the whole mess. Then we built a campfire on top of the whole works, and sat back around midnight, confident that the pig would be cooked to perfection by the next day. Confidence . . . it'll get you every time.

As with pig roasts in the past, the whole gaggle of us have a good time around the campfire for a couple of hours, then the lightweights wandered back to their cottages or campsites for some shut-eye. Only the heartiest of the pig roasters stay on until they fall down, and curl up in a sleeping bag by the fire. The next day you can tell the real pig roasters by their baggy eyes.

Well, just about the time the festivities around the campfire were in full swing, two park rangers came over the sand dunes in a truck. We were told that the park closes at 10:00 p.m. and that no open fires are allowed. We were given 20 minutes to extinguish the fire and clear out with all our junk. Let me tell ya, that had never happened at a pig roast before. I could go on forever with the details of our brush with the law, but the bottom line is I ended up in the ranger's office the next morning and was issued a citation for being in the park after hours. I guess that's part of being the head pig roaster.

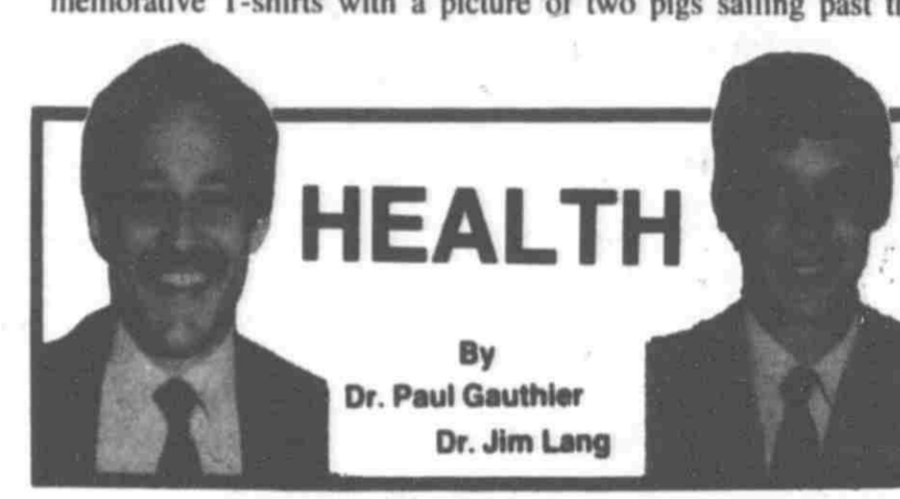

The next day people began arriving for the big event. They came by sailboat. They came by power boat. They walked. There was even a floatplane. Everyone was having a great time swimming, sailing, sunning, etc. Many were wearing their new commemorative T-shirts with a picture of two pigs sailing past the sand dunes in a rickety old sailboat. It looked like the pig roast was going to be a success despite the fact I was in charge.

Well, about mid afternoon it was time to dig up the pig. People began breaking out the dishes they had brought for the potluck. The pig roasting crew began excavating the pig and made a horrible discovery. The sand around the pig is always too hot to touch, but this time it was just warm. We partially unwrapped a section, and our worst fears were confirmed, the pig was not even close to being cooked! When I looked out over the crowd of a hundred or more, most standing with plates and silverware in hand, I felt like taking a long hike along the bottom of the lake.

I think I was lucky there aren't any trees on the sand dunes suitable for a lynching. Actually, everyone took the whole fiasco in stride. Everyone found enough to eat without the pig. An ambitious group scurried after more charcoal, re-excavated the pit, built a new fire, and got the pig cooking again. It was perfect the next day, but most people missed it. To make matters worse, the head pig-roaster showed up the next day, just in time to help carve the pig. Boy, did I take some ribbing.

The next morning Terese and I had a long talk, and decided that if there was 7th annual pig roast, someone else was going to take the reins. I mentioned that I'd be glad to do the T-shirts again, as that seemed to be the only part of the event that came off well. Two days later, one of the gals in attendance stopped by the shop to tell me all the ink came out of her T-shirt when she washed it.

HEALTH

By Dr. Paul Gauthier and Dr. Jim Lang

CYSTITIS

Cystitis is the medical term for bladder infection. Bladder infections are experienced frequently in women and girls. Men can also develop bladder infections but less frequently than women. The reason that women are infected more frequently than men is that the urethra (the opening from the bladder to the outside) is much shorter. Bacteria that is normally found in the vagina or anal region can migrate up the urethra and into the bladder. This can occur during sexual intercourse or even while wiping after a bowel movement.

The symptoms associated with cystitis include a frequent need to urinate, often passing just small amounts of urine. There may be burning during urination. Occasionally one will see blood or cloudiness in the urine. Some may experience low back pain, fever and lower abdominal cramping. Sometimes cystitis will be discovered during a routine physical exam which is completely asymptomatic.

Diagnosis of cystitis is easily made by examining the urine under the microscope. Your doctor will frequently culture the urine in order to correctly identify the bacteria responsible for the infection.

Once the diagnosis of cystitis has been made, your doctor will prescribe an antibiotic which should be taken exactly as directed. You should take the antibiotic until completely gone to prevent relapse which may be difficult to treat. If your symptoms do not improve after two to three days of taking the antibiotic, you should notify your doctor. It is important to drink plenty of liquids and urinate frequently in order to "flush" the bladder. Cranberry juice and other fruit juices help acidify the urine which makes it more difficult for bacteria to survive.

Recurrent urinary tract infections are sometimes difficult to treat. Your doctor may place you on long-term, low dose, preventive antibiotics to take at bedtime or after intercourse. You can prevent infection by urinating frequently - don't hold your urine. Take the time to go as soon as you feel the urge. Drink at least eight glasses of fluids daily and urinate before and after intercourse.

As a continued story, "Love's Duty" is being put in my column every week for awhile.

LOVE'S DUTY

It was so hot. The temperature seemed to sizzle the red goo that went up and down in the thermometer on the porch. It was the middle of August. I was 12 years old and as unbearable as the heat.

I had lots of questions that summer, but the big one was why my mother had to go see her aunt in Ohio. We had done this before. I knew that. But why the middle of August and why not wait until cooler weather? My mother didn't have questions like these; it was just something that had to be done. Often, before we left for Ohio, I would hear her tell her friends and relatives, "Aunt Sudie needs to see us and there is a duty in loving someone." I am sure that message was for me as well. I just didn't hear it.

That duty included getting on a hot, dusty, odor-filled train and traveling for hours. In 1947, the trains were not the jet-streamed kind and I thought the train actually hated the idea of going to Ohio as much as I did. But as my mother said, "Aunt Sudie needs to see us and there is a duty in loving someone."

So once again, it was love and duty and the town of Manchester, where Sudie Mae Badgely lived. I can still see her at the door -- waiting; she always had that look of having waited a long time. Sometimes, she'd be sitting on the old, wooden porch swing -- fanning and waiting, waiting and fanning. The fan was always one from the town funeral home with a picture of Jesus holding a lamb in His arms. When she'd see us, she would get up or come to the door, if she was inside, and smile the biggest smile and start to cry as she hugged us. "Law, law, girls. I thought you'd never get here." She would wave her fan so fast that she looked like she'd take off from the ground at any moment.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On Wednesday, July 12th, the residents of Keene Township, Ionia Co., will be going to the polls to vote on zoning.

Of course, there are residents promoting zoning as well as those who don't. We that support zoning, have worked long and hard to inform people of the effects of zoning.

Keene Township is one of very few townships in the State of Michigan that is not zoned. Nor has it needed to be since its beginning. However, times have changed. Grand Rapids is booming and spreading east toward Lowell. We need a master plan to keep Keene Township as beautiful as it is.

The main issues in the proposed zoning laws are: the reduction of the number of dwellings per lot from two to one, protecting farmland against development and landfills, increasing the size of a lot to 2 1/2 acres, and the size of a dwelling to 720 sq. ft. (12x65) for a trailer. Trailers are not exempt under the zoning laws. Zoning will not increase your taxes.

Recently, we invested time and money into election signs and placed them on the property of private residents who support zoning. Saturday evening the majority of our signs were maliciously destroyed and strewn about the township. It is a misdemeanor to destroy the signs. We feel that if the opposition wants to express themselves, residents who will vote "No" on they should invest their time and money into their own signs. Destroying ours is a cheap way of making your opinion known. Although we know that the majority of the Keene Township residents would never take such radical methods into action, there are a few who obviously have. And to those few who have, you have our sympathy. Colleen Timpson

Electronics & obsolete things are Thilgen's loves

Gary Thilgen's interests are varied, but tinkering with player pianos and collecting rolls is high on his list. Thilgen has hundreds of rolls and keeps a player piano in the front of "The Shop".

"The only reason I passed wood shop in high school is because I fixed the instructor's radio for him." For Gary Thilgen, 43, electronics have been a lifelong hobby, pastime and career. Thilgen is the proprietor of "The Shop", an electronics repair business at 104 E. Main, Lowell. Most Lowellites know the business as Art's TV. The business was owned and operated by Art Warning from 1962 until a sale to Thilgen at the beginning of this year. Thilgen has been earning his pair almost anything in household electronics. Thilgen also does a fair amount of business in antique radios and other electronic devices. "You'd be surprised how many parts are still available for those old babies. And, I've got a lot of old equipment and parts here to work from" Thilgen says. Thilgen says about half his work is in repairing VCRs. "Those low priced models have a fairly good failure rate," Thilgen says. "The Shop" is the only full-fledged electronics repair business in the area, but Thilgen claims that years ago there were five shops in Lowell alone. Thilgen resides in Saranac, and has a son Richard, 20, who is currently in the Army serving in Arizona. Electronics are not Thilgen's only interest, though he does tinker with electronic gadgets in his spare time. A love for player pianos and collecting player piano rolls is also a big part of Thilgen's life. He collects, buys, sells and swaps rolls. He also repairs and has even rebuilt player pianos. His interest in player pianos was generated by his buddy across the street, Hans Fischer, owner of Fischer's Piano Shop.

Besides player pianos and electronics, Thilgen is also into collecting old quadrophonic records, tapes and equipment. And, if that isn't enough, he also collects video discs. "I guess I'm just interested in anything that's obsolete", chuckles Thilgen. Business hours at "The Shop" are 8:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. Saturday's hours are 8:30 a.m. until noon. "The Shop" is closed Thursday and Sunday. Remember, if it's electronic, and it's broke, you can probably get it fixed at "The Shop".

Day Care ordinance possible

Over the past several months, the Lowell Planning Commission has studied regulation proposals for day care in residential areas. After the review, the Commission has recommended to the City Council that care of six or less children is permitted by right. For those homes having seven to twelve children, a special permit is necessary (issued by the Planning Commission after a public hearing). The following ordinance has been proposed.

Group Day Care Homes for 7 to 12 minor children shall be issued a Special Approval Use Permit in residential districts RR, R, R-1, R-2 and R-3 contingent upon State licensing and subject to the following standards:

1. Is located not closer than 1500 feet to any of the following facilities, as measure along a street, road, or other public thoroughfare, excluding an alley:
 - a. Another licensed group day-care home.
 - b. Another adult foster care home licensed by the State of Michigan housing 7 or more people.
 - c. A facility offering substance abuse treatment and rehabilitation service to 7 or more people, whether or not it is licensed by the State of Michigan.
 - d. A community correction center, resident home, halfway house, or other similar facility which houses an inmate population under the jurisdiction of the Department of Corrections or a similar governmental authority.
2. An outdoor play area shall be enclosed by a fence that is non-climbable in design and at least 48 inches high.
3. Maintain the property consistent with the visible characteristics of the neighborhood.
4. May have one (1) non-illuminated sign that complies with the following:
 - a. Shall not exceed 2 sq. ft. in total sign area.
 - b. Required set back for sign must comply with Section 7.07, item 9.
5. Shall provide on-site off-street parking in addition to the on-site parking required for the residence itself. Additional on-site parking quantities:
 - a. One (1) space per employee.
 - b. One (1) space for a loading/unloading zone.
6. Operating hours shall be limited from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily.

The proposed ordinance will be reviewed during a public hearing to be held Monday, July 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Andrzejewski's bid for "Fame & Fortune" foiled

Ron Andrzejewski of Lowell started working at H & E & F Party Shoppe in Caledonia just 5 weeks ago, and because the store carried them, he decided to buy his very first lottery ticket. And, as he is called, stated that he was just curious and since they sold them there he thought he would give it a try. He bought two tickets at the party store. That curiosity turned out to be the beginning of a series of coincidences and lucky breaks for Andrzejewski.

"And this makes $500," says "Fame & Fortune" hostess, Diane Sarnecky as she congratulates contestant Ronald Andrzejewski, of Lowell, on his win in the July 8 telecast of the Michigan Lottery game show.

Andrzejewski rubbed off his tickets and found not only one winning entry for the "Fame & Fortune" TV lottery game, but two winning tickets. "I had to ask someone what to do with them" said Andrzejewski, "I really didn't know." He sent one ticket in on a Friday and second one on the following Monday. Andrzejewski received a phone call from the Lottery Commission on the following Friday and was notified that his name had been picked from 37,000 others to appear on the "Fame & Fortune" TV lottery game show the following Friday. He said he really didn't believe the phone call at first, because the show airs on Saturday and the call came on Friday, but they convinced him that the show is taped on Friday. Andrzejewski said his first words after being convinced it was real, were "Oh, I've never won anything in my life."

Andrzejewski and his wife Susan, a teacher at Central Montcalm Schools, arrived at the Omni Hotel in Detroit on Thursday afternoon. Because the couple came from 150 miles, the Lottery Commission furnished them a room at the Omni for Thursday and Friday night as well as storage fees for their car. Friday morning at approximately 9:30 a.m. the Andrzejewskis met with Vida Hopkins, representative of PR Associates, the firm that handles the public relations for the show, the five other contestants and were given a chance to introduce their families and get acquainted. They then had lunch at The Whitney Restaurant in Detroit and proceeded by limousine to WDIV-TV Channel 4, where the show is taped in Detroit. They met Lottery officials, more PR people, pictures were taken and forms signed for permission to release their pictures and stories. The six contestants were then introduced to the show's host and hostess, Chuck Gaidica and Diane Sarnecky.

The contestants sat through a makeup session, something Andrzejewski says he had never experienced before, and the audience was being warmed up. Jokes were told and members of the audience were instructed to applaud and show a lot of enthusiasm. Andrzejewski says once they got into position on stage it was "5-4-3-2-1, you're on!" Each contestant was introduced and told a little about themselves. Andrzejewski used his name R-O-N as the letters he picked on the board and had a couple of bad rounds of minus figures. On his third round things began to look up when he picked a plus 200, but his luck was short-lived and on his next round he picked a minus 200 and was out of the game. Chester Ziaya, 70, of Sterling Heights, having left the hospital a day early to appear on the show, took home the grand prize of $50,000. Andrzejewski said Ziaya is a great-grandfather and had been hospitalized just prior to the show and all the contestants helped him any way they could. Andrzejewski said "Ziaya kept predicting he would win, he never had a doubt."

Lowell Showboat Board welcomed by Chesaning

Twelve members of the Lowell Showboat Board attended a performance of the Chesaning Showboat, Monday night, July 10 as guests of the Chesaning Showboat Board and were warmly welcomed. The Showboat decorated in pink and white lights, came around the bend, much as Lowell's own Showboat does, with chorus members, also dressed in pink and white and men in black tuxedos with tails singing on her deck. One member of the Lowell Board commented, "It was like watching our own Showboat come around the bend" and the board was proud to see her Sister Showboat.

The crowd sang the same rendition of "Here Comes the Showboat", much as Lowellites do each year. The boat docked with no problems and the show was underway. One difference between the two showboats is that at Chesaning the amateur acts perform before the showboat arrives as opening acts and to warm up the audience. Amateur acts performing Monday night included Music Makers from Saginaw, A Touch of Irish Step Dance from Sarnia, Canada, Hey Dan, a vocal solo from Chesaning, Wild Thing, acrobats from Owosso, El Shaddai, a vocal group from Palms, and Rockin' Robin, a tap act from Durand.

The Grand Finale of the Showboat was the song "You're A Grand Old Flag", performed by the entire cast, Mickey Gilley, professional entertainers, Showboat Chorus, amateur acts and the audience alike. The Showboat thoroughly enjoyed the performance. The Chesaning Showboat continues through this Saturday.

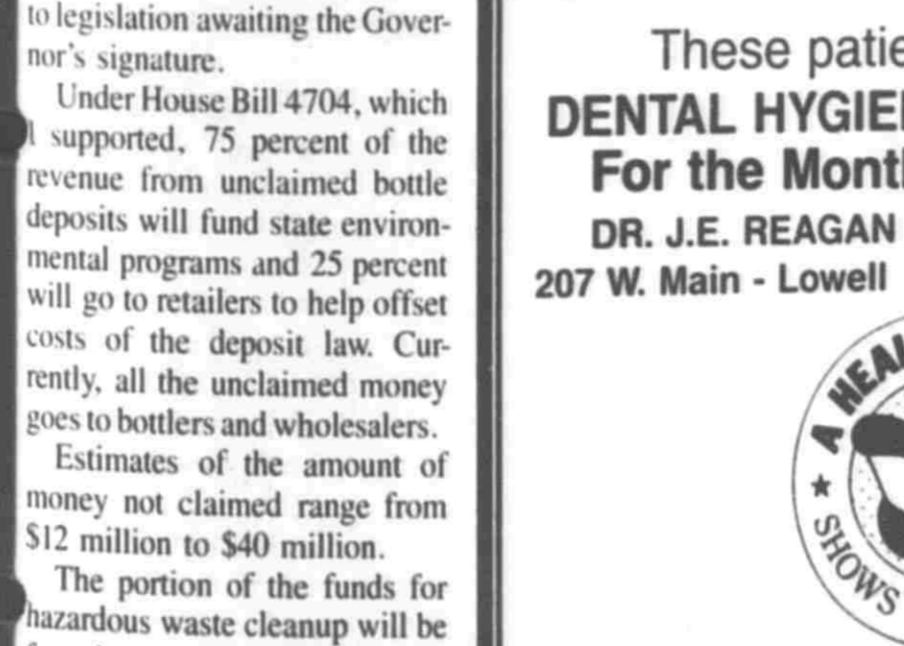

Unclaimed bottle deposits will aid environment

Environmental cleanup projects in Michigan soon will have a new financial resource, thanks to legislation awaiting the Governor's signature. Under House Bill 4704, which is supported, 75 percent of the revenue from unclaimed bottle deposits will fund state environmental programs and 25 percent will go to retailers to help offset costs of the deposit law. Currently, all the unclaimed money goes to bottlers and wholesalers. Estimates of the amount of money not claimed range from $12 million to $40 million. The portion of the funds for hazardous waste cleanup will be funneled into the Michigan Unclaimed Bottle Fund. Because the environmental bond proposals that passed last November will pay for cleanup projects over the next seven years, the bottle money will be held in reserve for 10 years. After that time, the money will be used for toxic waste cleanup projects, solid waste management programs, and long-term monitoring of pollution sites.

Legislation designating how the environmental funds will be divided has passed the House and is waiting for Senate consideration. Under House Bill 4246, the money would be distributed in the following manner: one-third to the Environmental Response Fund, one-third to the Long Term Maintenance Trust Fund, one-third to the Clean Michigan Fund. Final action on HB 4246 is expected next week.

Work progresses on fire station

Site preparation for Lowell's new fire station is nearly complete. O.E. Bieri & Sons construction have hauled in hundreds of yards of sand to bring the S. Hudson St. site up to the specified grade. Construction bids were opened last week, and J.W.K. Construction of Wyoming was the low bidder of eight at $492,721. The architect's estimate on the project was $502,700. Financing bids will be opened next week, and pending review of all bids, construction should begin late this summer.

Lowell men in truck driving test

Lowell residents (from left) Daniel Heinicke and Brian Hendrick were among 102 drivers participating in the recent Michigan Truck Driving Championships in East Lansing. Heinicke of Sysco Frost-Pack competed in the 3-axle tractor trailer division, while Hendrick, a driver for Amway Corp., competed in the straight truck division. During the competition, drivers demonstrated written knowledge of safety rules, completed a series of field maneuvers and conducted a pre-trip inspection of their vehicles. The Truck Driving Championships is sponsored by the Michigan Trucking Association, AAA Michigan and the National Committee for Motor Fleet Supervisor Training.

Item No. 1. ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS.

A. 414 N. MONROE - SIDE AND BACK YARD VARIANCE DAVID CADWALLADER - PUBLIC HEARING. David Cadwallader (owner) has proposed an addition to his garage which would attach the structure to the dwelling. The required setbacks to be in compliance are 25' rear, 6' side. The proposed addition would be within 2' of the side yard line and 1' of the rear yard line. If the proposed structure remained unattached, a variance would not be necessary. No public comments were received but the City offices received a letter from Brian Burke (420 N. Monroe) stating his approval of the variance.

IT WAS MOVED by Hodges and seconded by Fonger to approve the side and back yard variance request for parcel 41-20-02-257-008 located at 414 N. Monroe to construct an addition to the garage within 2' of the side yard line and 1' of the rear yard line.

Item No. 2. RETIREE COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT. City Manager Pasquale stated that the cost-of-living increases were last given to City retirees in 1977. Under the Benefit Program E with the Michigan Employees Retirement System (MERS), a one-time increase multiplied by the number of complete calendar years since the last adjustment (13) or the effective date of retirement for each retiree, whichever is shorter would be given. The adoption of Benefit Program E will not increase the City's contribution rate, because of surplus assets accumulated in the MERS account.

IT WAS MOVED by Thompson and seconded by Doyle to approve the MERS Retiree Cost-of-Living adjustment of a one-time 2% increase as provided under Benefit Program E.
YEA: 5.

Item No. 3. SEPTIC WASTE HAULING PROPOSAL TO THE WASTEWATER TREATMENT PLANT. City Manager Pasquale mentioned that John Timpson (Lowell Township Supervisor) has approached the City concerning the commercial hauling of septic waste to the Wastewater Treatment Plant. It was noted that there has been a continuing problem of land application of septic waste in the township with nearby property owners. Dennis Martin from WW Operation Services provided an overview of this issue. Dick Huver (Lowell Township Trustee) said that haulers could dump outside the City by Cumberland Manor lift station. He felt that whatever is done should be accomplished cooperatively by the City and Township. The consensus of the Council was to table the matter for the next City Council meeting on July 10, 1989 so that John Timpson could be present to discuss this further.

Item No. 4. PROPERTY ACQUISITION - 2311 GEE DRIVE. City Manager Pasquale stated the purchase of a ten acre parcel on Gee Drive has been proposed for the construction of a million gallon ground storage tank in conjunction with the anticipated expansion of the Water Treatment Plant. The site has sufficient elevation and isolation to construct the tank. The ten acre parcel is proposed to be purchased from Carl and Kristal Chatfield of Ionia for $24,000. This would be allocated from the Water Fund, through a contribution of the General Fund.

IT WAS MOVED by Hodges and seconded by Fonger to approve the purchase of the ten acre site at 2311 Gee Drive from Carl and Kristal Chatfield of Ionia for $24,000, allocated from the Water Fund, through a contribution of the General Fund.

Mayor Maatman stated that he would like the City Manager to write a letter to Harold and Rose Ball acknowledging the excellent job they did on the Yogurt Station.

Item No. 9. MANAGER'S REPORT. City Manager Pasquale reported on the following:

1. Fill work is expected to begin Monday (June 19) for construction of the fire station.

Many Lowell teams fare well in 16th Macker tournament

Last weekend, July 7, 8, & 9, more than 150,000 basketball players and spectators converged on the tiny town of Belding, MI to take part in the annual Gus Macker Basketball Tournament. The 16th year of Mackermania began with a record 16,458 players at 204 courts. Among these thousands of players that took to the streets of Belding, were some of Lowell's finest.

Taking a top honor in the weekend tournament was the team of "LSU", playing on court Red E. Making up the LSU roster were John Ellison, Kim Wurm, Craig Wurm and Jerry Mathais. Losing the first game Saturday morning was the only mistake LSU made. Only playing two games on Saturday, the team was forced to win seven straight on Sunday. They moved through the first five games with ease. The team then met a true test, down 15-19 to the undefeated American Metals & Plastics, LSU rallied to win 23-21. LSU won the final 20-9 to win their division.

Taking second place in their division was the Douma Team on court Blue N. The team was comprised of brothers, Jason and David Douma, Mike Korte and Eric Kelley. Douma's team started the tournament with a win on Friday night playing with only two players, Jason Douma and Mike Korte. They went on to win two games on Saturday, but lost their first on Sunday. They fought back throughout the day to win two more games but fell short losing the final 20-18. Both Douma's team and the first place finishers were awarded sportmanship trophies for their division.

Finishing in third place on Court Orange P was the team "Down to a Science". Jason Barber, Matt Baerwalde, Tony Dommer and Al Southland, who are all Lowell High School alumni, combined their skills to form "Down to a Science". They started tournament play winning two games on Saturday and then went 2 and 2 on Sunday falling short in the finals of the losers bracket.

Another third place finishing team from Lowell was made up of Jim Bowen, Ryan Holtz, Tom Moore and Mike Gahan, who called themselves the "Weasels". The "Weasels" hit Court Blue FF Saturday winning two games. They returned Sunday morning winning their first, but dropped their next two games to finish in third place.

Being awarded the Sportsmanship trophy was more of an honor than winning the prestigious Toilet Bowl trophy for the team of the "3 B's + 1 C.". Playing on Court Orange DD were Phil Beachler, Todd Bailey, Mike Bulard and Tom Caldwell. Losing both games on Saturday placed the team in the Toilet Bowl Division. The team came back on Sunday to win three straight games, and took home the Toilet Bowl trophy.

The final team to take championship honors in the weekend tournament were the "Hollanders". Kevin Hurt, Fred Beachler, and Greg Caldwell, all of Lowell, made up the "Hollander" team, which played on Court Orange Z. Playing Friday night and losing two of their first three games enabled them to be in the Toilet Bowl Division. Winning all three games on Sunday gave them a first place finish in the Toilet Bowl Division.

The City of Lowell should be proud to know that you can take the Macker out of Lowell, but you can't take Lowell out of the Macker.

Is Lowell a ghost town?

by: Mary Kimble

Is Lowell a ghost town? According to an article in the Grand Rapids Press on Sunday, July 9, Lowell appeared as a ghost town due to the absence of the Macker Basketball Tournament this weekend.

Whether Lowell left Macker or Macker left Lowell is really not important, but there is no doubt that the City has lost revenue and publicity due to Macker leaving.

However, Lowell has continued to prosper and grow in the last few years and new businesses are started yearly.

Lowell's rich heritage did not start with Gus Macker nor will it end without it. Various historical organizations and clubs have tirelessly worked to make Lowell residents aware of their history and lore. The Lowell Showboat floats again, a credit to local volunteers who worked hard to make it happen.

The city boasts almost any business or services needed by the community and is lucky enough to have the Lowell Area Arts Council, which offers art of all kinds, from drama to painting and poetry to storytelling, to young and old alike.

The Lowell Ledger is full of students who excel in academics as well as sports, college students earn high marks at various colleges, and area residents dignify themselves everyday with their talents, efforts and volunteerism.

Lowell has excellent emergency services from medical transport by Lowell Ambulance to Fire and Rescue, staffed only by volunteers. It had its first disaster drill in May, involving several outlying departments in an effort to provide the best emergency preparedness possible for the community.

Everyday in every way Lowell appears to be growing and continuing to endeavor to meet the needs and responsibilities of its growing population.

Is Lowell destined to become a ghost town? You decide.

Fonger Memorial Scramble set

The Tom Fonger Memorial 2-Person Scramble will be held Saturday, August 26 at 1:30 at the Grand Rapids Golf Club, on the corner of Leonard and Crahen.

Fonger, who was killed in an automobile accident on July 26, 1987 was a member of Lowell High School's very first golf team, established in 1965. He was a life-long resident of Lowell and the son of Rose and Mac Fonger.

The very first golf team played at Arrowhead Golf Course and was coached by Jerry Smith. The team played at Arrowhead until 1971 when they began play at Deer Run Golf Course, where they still play.

There is a $35 entry fee per person playing 18 holes in the Tom Fonger Memorial Scramble. Prizes will be awarded for the most accurate and the closest to the pin. First, second, third, fourth and fifth places are paid and every fifth place after that. Food and drink will be available.

All proceeds will go to support the Lowell High School Golf Team and all students, men and women are urged to participate.

Local Bonnie Blue Bells attend camp

The Bonnie Blue Bells held a summer camp at Smith-Walbridge Camp in Syracuse, IN, last week July 2-7.

The girls who attended the camp were offered classes in Baton, 2-Baton, Pom-poms, Fire Baton, Flag Baton, Dance, Including Drill, Jazz, and Hula, Modeling, Make-up application and arts and crafts. The instructors came for various places around the United States with specialties in their own field.

On Wednesday evening the girls were treated to a talent show put on by the camp counselors and staff. On Friday they were given the opportunity to perform for the staff and parents and demonstrate what they had learned during the week. The girls worked hard, had a lot of fun and brought home some new skills.

Many of the girls ended the week by marching in the Summerfest Parade in White Cloud on Saturday and in the Chesaning Showboat Parade on Sunday. Those girls attending the camp from Lowell were: Becky Raymor, a member of the "New Sensations" team, Hollie Smith, Kara Kintz, Jennifer Miller, Rachael Toman, Cherelle Weber,

Vows Spoken

Les and Stella Sherman would like to announce the marriage of their daughter, Cheryl to Ron Loughner, son of Edward and Renate Loughner.

Along Main St. cont'd.

Youngsters ages 6-12 will be treated to a very special program celebrating the 20th anniversary of the first moon walk. The program entitled "Moonstruck", will feature a puppet performance of James Thurber's, "Many Moons" and fun-filled facts about the moon using official NASA materials.

The program is free and lasts for about an hour. It will be offered at the Alto branch, 6059 Linfield, Alto on July 27 at 2 p.m.

It was once believed in Spain that copper grew in the ground and a mine left alone would regenerate itself.

"Other Place" cont'd. . . .

loin was short on was space. Now he had space too!

Armed with ambition, (and an influx of capital) Larkin set about the task of re-fitting the old 1920's theater as needed to make it over into a theater club of the 1980's. The interior is newly finished now with stucco walls and ceiling. There are no theater seats, those all went to a gentleman in Grand Rapids who is outfitting a vintage Bijou style theater downtown, but the original ticket booth is back in place as is the large brass rail which has greeted guests for decades, and the original lobby furniture is being recovered and will again grace the lobby.

The theater, now known as "The Other Place," will be open by the end of July and will operate Sunday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings from about 6 or 7 P.M. until around midnight. "We have a full line of non-alcoholic beverages and plan on offering the youngsters Sunday and Wednesday nights until midnight to dance their cares away," says Other Place manager Phyllis Franks, "and Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights will be adult nights with a full compliment of beer, wine, and liquor, and a light menu of scrumptious munchies from the Saloon next door." The entertainment will vary from week to week but the planned mix is about 80% D.J. music and 20% live entertainment. The live shows will probably consist of a whole variety of brief acts such as comedy, poets, jugglers, etc. "We plan to change the activities regularly and will be actively seeking fresh, new, unique talent on a continual basis," added Phyllis.

With a capacity of three hundred people. The Other Place should be of interest to civic clubs and organizations and may be available for some afternoon parties of a private nature on a time available basis. "Just the thing for a Saturday afternoon birthday party or an early wedding reception," says Phyllis.

Slated as the ice breaker for the new club is "The Great Lakes Band." Larkin smiles, "Local folks will remember them, they are all local musicians and are coming back together especially for the opening of The Other Place. We're really proud to have some local talent involved in our grand opening."

While it is true that there is no real set date for the opening night festivities, Steve assures us that when they open there will be plenty of publicity. "We hope to make it every bit as exciting as it must have been back in 1929 when the Strand first open its doors." Steve hopes to continue to add to a collection of memorabilia that he has collected from his association with the old theater and encourages anyone with interesting play bills or artifacts from the Strand's colorful past to get in touch with him. "It may be The Other Place now, but I am determined not to let time erase the colorful past of the Strand Theatre," Larkin said.
