COMMODITIES TO BE GIVEN OUT HERE THURSDAY

The Government Surplus Commodities will be distributed to all qualified on Thursday, Sept. 28.

The commodities will be distributed at the Moose Lodge, 210 1/2 E. Main, Lowell.

ON VIEW AT LAAC GALLERY

"The Human Form", paintings and drawings of ten local artists opened on Wednesday, Sept. 13 and will be on view through Oct. 8.

Gallery hours are Monday - Friday, 1 to p.m. and 1:30 - 4:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. For further information phone the Arts Center at 897-8545.

LAAC WILL HOST LIFE DRAWING WORKSHOP

The Lowell Area Arts Council is taking registrations for its Life Drawing workshop. The Workshop begins Monday, October 2 and will run for seven weeks.

This is not an instructional workshop but rather a series of sessions to enable artists within the community to have the opportunity to paint and draw from life and character models.

The fee for the workshop is $32 for LAAC members and $38 for non-members. For further information or registration call the Arts Center at 897-8545.

SURVEYORS TO DETERMINE LANDMARK LOCATIONS

The Southwest Chapter of the Michigan Society of Registered-Land Surveyors Foundation will conduct an original-research survey. Using chain and stake, they will determine the locations of the 1939 sawmill, 1840 gristmill and tannery lot at the Fallasburg Pioneer Village.

Saturday, Oct. 14 (rain date Oct. 21) from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Fallasburg Pioneer Village, across the old covered bridge, guides will show in-progress restoration of the Fallas House. The Fallasburg Schoolhouse Museum will be open and visitors will be able to view an archeological dig taking place in the Village.

The Surveyor's group operates a museum in Lansing, the only one in the U.S. devoted entirely to surveying. In 1988 they were invited to survey Old Fort Michilimackinac, and this year completed a survey of the old Fort on Mackinac Island.

Ladies of the Alto Apostolic Christian Church will cook and serve all homemade food, including pies, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The event is being sponsored by the Fallasburg Historical Society, formerly West Central Michigan Historical Society. The public is invited and there is no admission charge. For more information call Judy Baird, 897-9081.

MASONS SPONSOR FISH DINNER OCT. 7

On Saturday, Oct. 7, there will be Fish Dinner sponsored by Lowell Masons and Eastern Stars.

The "All You Can Eat" dinner is at the Lowell Masonic Temple, 112 Lincoln Lake, serving from 5 to 7 p.m. Prices are $5 adults; $2 children.

ALTO ELEMENTARY BOOK FAIR PROMOTES READING

Alto Elementary School is holding a book fair at the school Sept. 28 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

A wide selection of high quality, high interest paperback books for children will be for sale at the school.

There will also be items of interest for adults, including gift, craft and activity books. Profits from the book fair will be used to support the school library. The public is invited to attend the fair.

YMCA OFFERING CHOLESTEROL TESTING SEPT. 27

The Lowell YMCA will be offering cholesterol, glucose and triglyceride testing on Wednesday, Sept. 27 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. (12 hour fast required for triglyceride test).

Cost is $5 for one test, $9 for 2 tests and $12 for 3 tests. The YMCA is located at 323 W. Main, Lowell.

Hurricane Hugo turns island to rubble

Langlois brothers fly to St. Croix to rescue parents

Sitting through the storm, created by Hurricane Hugo, in the bedroom of their condominium in St. Croix of the Virgin Islands, was frightening for Bruce and Mary Langlois, but that paled to the violence and looting that followed the storm.

Hurricane Hugo took a 34-square mile tourist resort and in 10 hours turned it into a pile of rubble. "It will be nine to 12 months before the electric is restored," Langlois' son, Bruce said following the rescue flight he and his brother Joel ventured Wednesday, Sept. 20 at 7:45 p.m. to get to their parents.

"The last report my parents heard, before the electric went out, stated that the eye of the storm was supposed to hit 30 miles south of St. Croix. Instead the storm changed its course and went right over the island.

Bruce Langlois, a Veterinarian in Lowell, said the location of his parents' condo was in one of the better areas. "It was among nine condos in a building. Three on top, three in the middle and three on the bottom. The three upper condos were destroyed, the sides were destroyed and my parents' condo had its roof ripped off," he said.

He continued, "Many were waiting out the storm in their bathrooms and closets. They weren't sleeping." Hurricane Hugo hit mid to late afternoon and wasn't finished until around 3-4 a.m. Monday morning.

"A gentleman who flew back with us on the plane said he saw a refrigerator blown 75-80 feet from the second story of the building, before it hit ground," Langlois relates. He also saw cars rolling sideways down hills." He added that roof parts to houses were found over a half-mile away. Sustained winds were being reported at 150 miles and hour with gusts up to 200 miles and hour

Langlois and his brother, Joel talked to his parents at noon on Sunday, Sept. 17. At that time, they were preparing for the storm.

With phone lines down and electric out, Langlois and his brother spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday trying to contact the Department of Interior, Congressman Paul Henry and Senator Donald Reigle for information regarding damage and deaths.

"The only contact I made was with a ham radio operator. He told me that the prisons had been destroyed and there was lots of chaos. He added that the police and National Guard were also taking part in the looting," Langlois says.

The Langlois brothers got an indirect call Tuesday evening, stating their parents were alright.

Plans for their parents' rescue were made Wednesday after their father had radioed them, asking for help off the island. In a short conversation they told their Father and Mother to be on the runway about 2 p.m. Thursday and a plane would be waiting.

Langlois' sons flew into Miami around midnight. "We called around until we found someone who would fly us into St. Croix." Bruce and Joel left Miami on an eight-passenger, twin Cessna airplane. The plane stopped in San Juan, Puerto Rico to refuel before voyaging to St. Croix.

"As the plane closed in on St. Croix, the pilot contacted the men aboard a Navy or Coast Guard destroyer for clearance," Langlois said. "From flying over the island, you could see that 95 percent of the buildings had been destroyed by the storm."

Langlois' parents and four other gentlemen living in condos, boarded up for the flight back to Miami.

"My parents were safe in St. Croix during the day, but at night, armed men were up around the clock so they could secure their condos. There were people running around the streets with machine guns and machetes," Langlois said. "The sad thing was that as the days passed, the violence and looting got worse. My dad sold some of his store's inventory. Things got so bad he left the rest of the $200,000 worth of inventory for the looters."

Langlois said the violence and looting could have been prevented had the island's Governor asked for help immediately. "He didn't want anyone to know of the violence and looting that was taking place."

Langlois and his parents left for Grand Rapids, from Miami, on Friday. "They will go back in a month to take care of what's left. However, my mother says she doesn't want to ever go back."

Thanks to the efforts of Bonnie Grooters (seated) the Lowell Rotary Club's Polish dog booth won first place among the food booths at the Fallasburg Fall Festival. The booth was decorated in a railroad motif and the workers wore engineer hats, red bandanas and red suspenders. The Rotarians in the booth for this Sunday afternoon shift are Brian Doyle, Bob Kyser, Bob Pfaller, Norene Martin, Jim Hodges, Jerry Hale, Roger Brown, Tom Speerstra, John Gabriion, Bill Amundsen and Berwyn Kloosterman.

Life Underwriters garner prestigious Dublin Public Service Award

The Grand Rapids Association of Life Underwriters (GRALU) was the honored recipient of the distinguished Louis I. Dublin Public Service Award. The award was presented during the National Association of Life Underwriters (NALU) centennial convention, held from Sept. 17-21, in Boston.

The Louis I. Dublin Public Service Award honors state and local life underwriters associations for excellence in public service. The award is presented jointly by NALU and ACLI, which have sponsored the program since its inception in 1956. The award is named after Dr. Dublin, who promoted personal involvement of professionals to improve the quality of life in their communities.

The Louis I. Dublin Public Service Program has been recognized by President Bush's Citation Program for Private Sector Initiatives as a leader in organized volunteer efforts across the country.

GRALU competed with hundreds of other associations from across the country for this illustrious award.

Mac McPherson, a Lowell area resident, and President of GRALU accepted the award. "It is a great honor to receive this award. Every member of GRALU made the success of this project possible. It is especially rewarding this year. Receiving this great tribute in NALU's centennial year makes this quite an historic event," said McPherson. This marks the third time GRALU has received national recognition for its accomplishments in Public Service. Past President David Mullenberg, CLU and David Raguse, Public Service Chairman, spearheaded this outstanding public service performance.

GRALU was established in 1912 and has 501 members. NALU, founded in 1890, is a federation of 1,000 state and local associations. The 140,000 members of these local associations are sales professionals in life and health insurance and other related financial services.

Rotarians resist Lions Club food booth menu change ready for the grill, potato salad, coleslaw, baked beans, etc. The Lions obliged the Rotarians by doing their usual excellent job of cooking the chicken. When the festival was winding down, the harassed Lions and a party of Rotarians finally enjoyed a good Lions Club chicken dinner.

Chicken Dinner Anyone? Lowell's Lion's Club replaced their chicken dinners with hot dogs at this year's Fallasburg Fall Festival. Disappointed in the club's decision, Lowell's Rotary yelled "Fowl." Since the Lion's Club did not bring the chicken, Lowell's Rotary brought the chicken to the Lion's Club. Pictured from left to right are Lion's Club members Frank Martin, Kelly Holst, Bucky Curtis, and Lowell Rotary member, Noreen Martin.

The Lowell Lions Club took a lot of good natured ribbing from The Lowell Rotary Club during the Fallasburg Fall Festival held last weekend. The fun started when the Rotarians learned the Lions had scrapped their traditional chicken dinner in favor of hot dogs. The Rotarians have served Polish dogs on a bun for several years, and the similarity between the two products soon led to jokes about, "cheap imitations", "copy-cattin'", etc.

All Rotarians, and anyone else they could get in on the campaign, continually stopped by the Lions Club booth to ask when the chicken would be done. Long-time head chicken cooker for the Lions Frank Martin, and this year's Club President Bucky Curtis finally told the persistent Rotarians, "Okay, Okay, you bring the chicken and we'll cook it!"

Well, with an offer such as that, Rotarian Jerry Hale took up the task of procuring the chicken. Hale borrowed a plump pet hen from his neighbor, Skaidrite Poga. The loaner chicken was loaded into an old wooden chicken crate found around the Hale farm and brought to the festival.

With the festival in full swing on a gorgeous Sunday afternoon, a contingent of Rotarians swooped down upon the Lions Club booth, and plunked the chicken down in the middle of the hot dog cooks. Cries of, "cook that one and we'll bring another one" and "make sure you get lots of barbecue sauce on it" erupted from the Rotarians. The Lions were impressed, to say the least.

Hale did stop by a grocery store while after the live chicken and purchased some chicken

"Ride-A-Thon" exceeds goal . . . raises $18,300

The Kent Special Riding program's Ride-A-Thon was a huge success. Pledges totaling $18,300 were taken in, exceeding the program's goal of $15,000.

Eleven years ago, the handicapped riding program was facing great financial difficulties. There were actually not enough funds to sustain the fall session. A Ride-A-Thon was born of desperation that year - primarily as a stop gap measure to "keep the program going."

Some 4,015 days later, thanks to the effort of many volunteers, the Ride-A-Thon has evolved into one of Kent Special Riding Program's main fund raisers.

On Saturday, Sept. 23 two dozen volunteers, along with anyone who enjoys riding and hiking trails, helped to raise $18,300 for the 4-H Horseback Riding for the Handicapped at the Ionia State Recreation Area.

"Riders and hikers are invited to gather pledges months prior to the Ride-A-Thon and then come out and trail ride and or hike at the Ride-A-Thon," said Ginny Luehrs, the special project coordinator of the event.

This year 192 riders participated raising a Ride-A-Thon record $18,300. The previous record was set last year when some two-dozen volunteers helped in raising $12,800. "Our goal this year was to meet or exceed $15,000. As you can tell the Ride-A-Thon more than exceeded its goal."

The proceeds will help finance the Kent Special Riding Program. It costs approximately $10-$12,000 a year to hold the program.

Expenses include instructor fees (three), a therapist, horse upkeep, and insurance.

Each six-week, one hour session has a maximum of 100 students. The cost per student is $10 per session. There are scholarships available to students who cannot afford the fee. While the funds raised at the Ride-A-Thon continue to increase, so has the number of children participating in the program. "The program hopes to develop another Saturday program at another site," Luehrs said. "Right now we're teaching 300 students a year to ride."

The instructors for these courses take a four-week training class at the Cheff Center for the Handicapped in Battle Creek.

"They are tested for their riding skills, stable management and their ability to train volunteers."

Covering a high percentage of the costs to put on the Ride-A-Thon were corporate sponsors Gannett Outdoors, Gilson Press, Old Kent Bank and Trust and radio station WCUZ. "The costs to KSRP to hold the Ride-A-Thon was well under $300," Luehrs. "As you can guess, we are very grateful to the corporate sponsors."

Luehrs added that 90 percent of the Ride-A-Thon pledges are returned. "The average pledge in 1988 was $75," she says.

Prizes are awarded to entrants in various age categories based on the amount of money they have gathered. Each entrant who gathered at least $25 in pledges receives a lunch and a special designer 1989 Ride-A-Thon shirt. There will be a grand prize drawing for a hot air balloon ride and various other prizes for entrants who gather $50 in pledges. Overall high pledge will receive a Montana Silversmith belt buckle.

Sandy Scott, Saranac, for the second consecutive year, won the high-pledge award by collecting $1,423 in donations.

PARENTHOOD . . .

It's not a fly-by-night business.

Becoming a parent is the start of a whole new life. Day by day there are new questions about how to be the best mother or father you can be.

- Should I bottle feed or breast-feed my baby?
- When will my baby sleep through the night?
- Why does my baby seem to cry so much?
- I know I shouldn't spank, but what can I do?
- How can I stop my children from fighting?
- How can I get some time to myself?

Helpline can give you the answers you need throughout the parenting years. We're here 24 hrs. a day, toll free and confidential.

Lowell schools selected for statewide arts program

Lowell Schools are among five school districts selected from sixteen applicants to participate in the Local Leadership for Education and Arts Planning (LLEAP) project being administered by the Michigan Alliance for Arts Education. LLEAP will lead community based teams through a process of leadership training and strategic planning to strengthen arts education in their communities. The project, involving teams from Adrian, Essexville-Hampton, Flint, Lowell, and NICE, is being funded by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Michigan Council for the Arts.

LLEAP will kick off Sept. 28-30 with a training workshop at Interlochen Arts Academy. Led by Dr. David O'Fallon, Director of Continuing Education in the Arts at the University of Minnesota, the workshop will focus on leadership theory and practice. Participants will have the extensions for people that are building, and at one time, ruled on medical and financial hardships. However, it informed Ward that it has since been told the township does not have the authority to do what it had been doing.

Ward responded that precedent had been set, since medical and financial hardship cases have been previously ruled on. "Why can't the Township do it again if it has done it in the past?" Ward asked.

Township Treasurer, Jean Huver replied, "Just because we have made mistakes in the past, that doesn't mean we have to continue to make them now."

Lowell Township Supervisor, John Timpon added that he would like to see the Township work hard to modify the ordinance. Huver said they will not change the ordinance, instead will just add to it. The ordinance addition would fall under financial and medical hardship to accommodate Ward's father and mother-in-law.

Ward, wanting to have the move completed by winter, asked how soon the modification could occur. Timpon said that since they were adding a medical and financial hardship to the non-zoning ordinance, he thought it would take 30 days.

Lowell Township Supervisor, John Timpon assured William Ward of 2863 Court that Lowell Township will do everything will be done in an effort to modify an ordinance in order to accommodate him.

the Arts, and Michigan Department of Education, the Coalition aims to ensure the inclusion of the arts in education. Because educational change must happen at the local level involving all sectors of the community, LLEAP is designed to empower local individuals to effect needed change.

Students share "Fiesta" with staff

After a religion lesson on the importance of Sharing, Sister Mary's class decided that they'd like to follow the suggestion to share a celebration with the staff.

Special, individual invitations were made, and the menu was decided upon. Decorations also were a part of the decision-making and finally the big task of getting permission from parents to make plans a reality.

As always, parents and kids provided a FIESTA worth participating in.

In an effort to help raise money for the mentally impaired, Lowell's Police Department participated in the 1989 Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics.

The Law Enforcement Torch Run raises funds in support of Special Olympics. Special Olympics provides sports training and competition opportunities for mentally impaired persons of all ages - kids and adults.

Lowell Police Department participants included officer Al Eckman and part-time officer Bill Keiser, who was substituting for Scott Borg.

The local run started at the corner of Monroe Street and Main at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 20 and finished up at Hardee's Restaurant. Running along-side Eckman and Borg were members of the Grand Rapids Police Department Juvenile Division, Donna Alexander, Paul Felix, Doug DeBok and Bruce Klooster.

Law enforcement agencies - municipal, county, state and federal from throughout Michigan participated in the Torch Run along with court and corrections personnel. The Torch Run is conducted under the direction of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police.

Sponsors for the 1989 race were Little Caesars, Unisys, Deputy Sheriffs Association of Michigan and Armour.

All runners were responsible for signing up sponsors. Participants collecting $100-$199 received a Torch Run Shirt; $200-$499, shirt and cap; $500-plus, shirt, cap and official Torch Run jacket. The top fundraiser will receive an all expense paid trip for two to a Michigan vacation resort.

In 1988 the Torch Run raised $105,000. Its goal for 1989 is $150,000.

In addition to the hundreds of communities throughout Michigan conducting a Torch Run, there will also be a five-day, 700 mile marathon relay from Copper Harbor to Detroit. "This is the first year that the Lowell Police Department has participated in the Torch Run. We are proud to contribute in an effort to provide stronger opportunities for the mentally impaired," Lowell Police Chief Barry Emmons said.

Following a brief summer recess, the Senate has a full slate of issues to address during its fall session...

Capitol Column

By State Senator Dick Posthumus

One of our top priorities will be to address the drug problem in Michigan. Two bills, dealing with wire taps and racketeering...

Issues have already been approved by the Senate and simply await House action.

We'll also be looking at campaign finance reform, ways to make it easier for first-time buyers to own a home...

And while we wait for the results of this November's two statewide ballot proposals dealing with increased school funding...

state's inheritance tax, making further unemployment insurance benefit reforms...

Lastly, we hope some long-standing issues will finally be resolved, such as eliminating the

Celebrate apple season at a Michigan cider mill

A sip of golden apple cider captures the flavor of autumn and can be savored at picturesque mills across the state...

Michigan is one of the nation's leading producers of apples, with estimates this year placing the state's crop at 1 billion pounds...

That's up over last year when Michigan produced 830 million pounds with almost a third of the fruit used for apple juice or cider.

For many people, fall doesn't officially start until the first trip to the cider mill...

Cider can be enjoyed fresh from the mill or at home where it will last one to two weeks if refrigerated between 32 and 36 degrees Fahrenheit...

Cider is a little more expensive this year, costing an average $2.64 a gallon, 12 cents higher than 1988...

And a stop at the cider mill is not complete without some doughnuts. The average price is $2.70 per dozen...

listed on AAA Michigan's 1989 Cider Mill Guide are open through the end of October or early November...

In addition to cider, some mills offer crimson jams and jellies, tasty homemade pies...

A number of festivals also are scheduled to toast the apple crop including events in Armada, Oct. 14-15; Bangor, Oct. 13-16...

The most expensive wallet ever made is a platinum-corned diamond-studded crocodile created by Louis Quatorze of Paris and Mikimoto of Tokyo. It sold for $72,000.

THIS FALL IS THE START OF SOMETHING BIG ON HBO.

Big

HBO has big news to report. Along with the movie "Big," we have more big movies than ever before and more 1988 award-winning movies than any other pay service. And that's not all. There's a new HBO original movie every month, hilarious comedy specials, championship boxing and wonderful family programming like "Babar" and "How to Raise a Drug-Free Child." It adds up to what is surely HBO's best season ever. And if that's not enough, add Cinemax and you'll get the most movies on pay TV. Box office hits, classics, foreign films and more. So get HBO and Cinemax and find out what all the excitement's about.

Strong Lowell first half grounds Golden Hawks, 41-39

For the first time in the school's history, Lowell's girls' basketball team defeated Rogers, 41-39. "We've lost a lot of heartbreakers to Rogers over the years," Lowell Coach Ken Akers said. Most vivid to Akers and fans, is an overtime loss on a last second foul call just a year ago. However, all of those memories were erased Thursday evening as the Red Arrows used a strong defensive effort to build a 23-11 halftime lead and then withstood a furious Golden Hawk second-half rally for their fourth win in six tries. "There's not a whole lot to say. Lowell got the better of us in the first half," Rogers Coach Jeff Hudson said. "I told the girls at halftime that we would not win many games scoring 11 points a half and that we needed to intensify our effort in the second half." To the chagrin of the Red Arrows, Rogers did just that. Using an aggressive man-to-man, it took the Hawks just eight, third-quarter minutes to erase a 12-point deficit, tying the score at 26-26 with a fourth quarter to play. "Rogers turned it up in the third quarter," Akers said. "It took our girls the whole third quarter to adjust to their man-to-man press."

Renee Nugent puts up a short jumper in the lane against Rogers.

lead that Lowell would relinquish just once. Back-to-back buckets by Holly Mekkes and Patti Barr gave Rogers its first lead since early in the first quarter, 30-29. Lowell, then, responded with a three-point bucket by Jennifer Murphy from the top of the key and a short jumper by Erica Hackenbruch, giving Lowell a 34-30 advantage. The roller-coaster ride doesn't stop there. The Hawk duo of Barr and Mekkes answered with buckets, knotting the score at 34-34 with 2:50 left to play. Following a foul shot from Marvin, Lowell increased its lead to three when Tanya Czaropis got the ball inside to Erica Hackenbruch for two of her four points. Rogers' Brandi Kogler answered with a bucket at the other end and picked up a fifth foul on Hackenbruch. She missed the foul shot, helping Lowell cling to a one-point lead, 37-36. Tonya Stepek responded with a rebound bucket, building the Red Arrow lead back to three, 39-36. Kogler hit a jumper, getting Rogers within one, but foul shots by Nugent and Stepek in the last 51 seconds secured Lowell's two-point victory. "Everybody on this squad knows their role and accepts it," Akers said. "That's why I was able to put Czaropis (a penetrator) in for Murphy late in the game. Lowell's quickness on defense was responsible for the Red Arrows quick start. "We may be as quick or quicker than any club in our conference," Akers said. "Our defense is what's going to win ballgames for us." Lowell is now 4-2 overall and 1-0 in O-K White Conference play. Marvin led Lowell in scoring with 18 points and Stepek added eight. Lowell 53, Delton 50. Erica Hackenbruch's 18 points and 16 rebounds sparked Lowell to a non-conference victory over Delton. Delton, playing a 1-2-2 zone most of the game, in an effort to key on the Lowell guards, was burned by the Red Arrow inside game. "Delton was keying on our guards so we just kept dumping the ball inside," Lowell Coach Ken Akers said. Helping Hackenbruch out on the inside were Angie Arnett and Renee Nugent. Arnett netted 14 points and Nugent pumped in eight. Lowell led by two at the half, 28-26. The Red Arrows opened the third stanza with a bucket by Tonya Stepek and two buckets by Kim Marvin, setting the pace for a second half, which saw Lowell outscore Delton 25-24.

Lowell's Angie Brown releases a jumper in first-half action against Rogers. Lowell won the contest, 41-39.

Kim Marvin With eyes on being named to the O-K White All-Conference team and a shot at a possible girls' basketball league championship, Red Arrow senior, Kim Marvin has prepared a playing attitude - one which she only takes with her onto the hardwood. "It's my attitude, my own techniques. My own individual identity," Marvin explains. "It allows me to be aggressive, quick and tough on the court and not feel bad." Marvin's mental toughness helped lead Lowell past Rogers 41-39. She netted 18 points in the key conference victory. "We look to Marvin on offense. She has to score for us to be effective," Lowell Coach Ken Akers said. The Red Arrows may look to Erica Hackenbruch for inside scoring but Marvin is counted on for the jump shot and driving to the bucket. "I thought coming into the season, driving to the bucket was my strength," Marvin said. "I also knew I needed to work on my outside shot. I do believe that my outside shot is improving." Marvin, who is excited about the 1989-90 club, knows a victory over the highly touted club from Rogers does not make a season. "A win over Rogers doesn't make or break a season. There are still a lot of games to be played." Marvin, who carries a 3.3 grade-point-average, has plans to attend Grand Valley State University, Western Michigan University or Central Michigan. "I'm not real sure of the areas study yet," she says. "It could be politics and/or law, or I could also decide on teaching." The Lowell senior has played basketball all four years in high school - two on the junior varsity and two on varsity. She was also a cheerleader her freshman, sophomore and junior years. She has also been named as Mistress of Ceremonies for Friday night's Homecoming.

Lowell linksters battle for O-K White title

Jerud Mierkals and John Borg continued their fine play, leading the varsity golf team to four wins in five outings. Monday, Sept. 18, Lowell traveled to the challenging and picturesque Candlestone Course in Belding, where the Arrows thumped homesteading Belding 338-352. Mierkals and Borg shared medalist honors with rounds of 82, while Chris Elzinga and senior Co-Captain Steve Barnhart recorded 87's. Returning to O-K White league play on Tuesday, Sept. 19, Lowell swung its way to a round of 164 at the Ironwood Golf Course in Grandville. The Red Arrows bested Wyoming Park 164-168 and Northview 164-174. "Park played well, but Borg and Mierkals came in with rounds under 40," Lowell Coach Jack Ogle said. Borg was the match medalist with a round of 38. Mierkals fired a 39 and was followed

Punting "snafu" aids in Lowell's 32-7 loss to EGR

The winds from Hurricane Hugo certainly stirred a few interesting twists into Friday night's 32-7 East Grand Rapids victory over the visiting Red Arrows from Lowell.

Take for example this third quarter play. On fourth and three from the East Grand Rapids 31, Lowell Coach Phil Christensen calls on Mike Gahan to punt. A decision he would later call a terrible mistake. Following the snap, the ball got caught up in a gust of wind, going over Gahan's head, landing near the Pioneer 45 before being blown all the way down to the Lowell 20 yard line, where a Red Arrow finally jumped on it. "It was a bad decision on my part," Christensen said.

Seeing the havoc the wind had caused Lowell for two quarters (2nd & 3rd), EGR Coach George Barcheski took advantage of having the wind at his back, called for a punt on third and nine from the Lowell 45 with less than a minute to play in the third stanza. When was the last time Barcheski's done that? "The last time there was a 55-mile-an-hour wind. We were fortunate because the wind really worked with us tonight, and it backfired on Lowell," he said.

It may have backfired on Lowell, but for the better part of three quarters, the wind wasn't opening up the holes on the right side of the Pioneer line. "Our offensive line men on the right side do a helluva job of blocking," concurred Barcheski.

Lowell controlled the line of scrimmage in the first quarter. Not surprisingly, that is the same quarter it was successful at stopping the Pioneer running attack, and the same stanza the Red Arrows scored their only touchdown of the game.

"We played well in the first quarter. After that, EGR controlled the line of scrimmage," Christensen said.

On the very next series, EGR's Sam Middleton connected with Joe Treacy on a 52-yard scoring strike on the eighth play into the drive. The two-point conversion was missed and Lowell still led 7-6.

A Holtz interception then led the Pioneer to their second touchdown of the evening. EGR went 40 yards, in four plays, with Brian Davis rolling into the endzone from 11 yards out.

Again, the two-point conversion was missed, but EGR led 12-7. Davis carried the ball 11 times, rushing for 48 yards. Second to teammate Zac Zerfas, who rushed for 58 yards in seven carries. EGR rushed for 190 yards on 40 attempts.

Trailing by five, Lowell got the ball with 7:36 to play in the half. On third and one from their own 40, the Red Arrows were called for a crucial offside penalty, backing them up to third and six. Following a Holtz pass that went off the fingertips of Steve Lenger, Lowell had to punt.

While it did not directly lead to a Pioneer score, it did stop a possible Lowell drive and zapped any change of momentum. EGR scored again with less than a minute to play in the half on a 10-yard pass from Middleton to Dave Hacker, with the two-point conversion, it increased its lead to 20-7.

Other than an early third quarter drive which saw Lowell march 39 yards in nine plays, only to see it end on the aforementioned bad snap, the game was played in Lowell's back yard.

"Give East Grand Rapids all the credit, they played well and are a sound football team," Christensen said.

Lowell rushed for 132 yards in 41 carries. Goggins and Holtz led the way with 53 yards apiece.

"Lowell's a class school. Their boys play hard the entire way. It's a club you enjoy playing," Barcheski said.

East Grand Rapids is now 3-0 in the O-K White and travels to Wyoming Park on Friday.

Lowell, 22-2 overall and 1-3 in the conference, will play host to Northview next.

Fawn finds friend Lowell area youth has a visit from wildlife

Matt VanCamp was doing what any five-year old boy does on a weekday morning while Mom is inside working. He was outside playing on the swing and kicking a football around.

On this morning, Tuesday, Sept. 19, there was a catch - a friend stopped by for a brunch of sorts - a few slices of an apple, some carrot sticks and some corn.

Matt thought it was a great idea, so he called his mother to see if she had any reservations. "Mom, Mom, look at the deer," he said. Mom, busy with things on the inside, didn't pay attention to Matt at first.

Matt, kindergarten bound, and understanding of the situation, figured, if Mom won't come see my friend, I'll take my friend to see Mom.

So Matt and his "Deer Friend" proceeded to walk up the drive toward the porch. By the time they reached the porch the twosome had Mom's attention.

"Matt was walking up the drive petting this fawn, when they reached the porch (Helen McCaul's) the fawn came onto the porch, where Matt fed him an apple," Matt's mother, Roxanne VanCamp said. "The fawn was calling out. I assume it had lost its mother."

While it may have lost its mother, it had found a friend in Matt. With the help of an employee from Dick McCaul & Sons Auto Service, Matt and his friend went down into the basement where apples, carrots and corn were waiting. They were also on hold for DNR officer Don Hall, who Helen McCaul had called to request his help.

"This is very unusual for a fawn or deer to walk up to a child or an adult," Hall said. "Especially since it appears to be healthy. I've never seen this happen before. It's too old to still be dependent on its mother. Maybe it saw it as an opportunity to get some food, however it appeared to be healthy." The fawn appeared relaxed and comfortable laying next to Matt, while eating his brunch. However, the fawn seemed to have human characteristics as it became a touch nervous at the sight of two officers in uniform. The fawn must have confused the uniforms for hunting fatigues.

Hall and his partner, after a little bit of a fight, wrapped the fawn up in a blanket, preparing it for a ride to the Lowell State Game area, north of Lowell. "After we unwrapped it, the fawn took off like a shot," Hall said. "We do not recommend that people feed and/or take in wild animals. However, this was a rather unusual circumstance and the deer wasn't in contact with humans that long (30 minutes). The more contact, the worse off the animal is."

Lowell tames Northview's 'Cats; lose to fifth-ranked EGR, 2-0

This past week was a positive experience for the Arrow Varsity soccer team even though they split the games, winning against Northview 4-1 and lost at East Grand Rapids to the fifth ranked Pioneers 2-0.

Northview came to Creekside Park to open the Arrow's conference schedule. Northview expected the Arrows to force the left wing. So it set its defense to double team the Arrow's left strikers. The Arrows coaches crossed them up and started with their right striker line led by Dave Korte and Aaron Corcoran. Northview adjusted immediately and the Arrows switched lines at the five minute mark. Before Northview's fullbacks adjusted, right striker Jon Kohler passed to Jason White who scored from the left. The Arrows left-footed scorer promptly scored again on a corner kick and then got his first hat trick of the season with his third goal.

Northview plugged the goal and finished the half down 3-0. The second half was still dominated by the Arrows, however, a defensive error gave the visitors a penalty kick and their only score. The Arrows final goal was scored by Andy Williamson, who controlled a volley from the mid-field and scored from the center striker position.

Thursday found the Arrows traveling to East Grand Rapids to face the fifth ranked Pioneers on their maximum-sized field at Manhattan Park.

The Arrows went into their standard Power Brake defense to play the speedy high powered Pioneer offense led by East's Scott Vyn and Marc Perkins, two candidates for All-State.

The Pioneers were extremely aggressive in the early portion of the game in an attempt to score early and often. Their tactics paid off as the Arrows made an error in their wall alignment and left East's Perkins a narrow opening to score on a free kick. The Pioneers second goal came midway through the first half, when Arrow goalie, Doug Sanford, was beaten by a burning shot and couldn't punch the ball away. Ahead by two goals, the Pioneers expected the Arrows to fold, much to their surprise the defense led by Ray Weigel, Andy Quada, Tim Thuston, Josh Andrews, Ryan Peel and Jay VanAntwerp, stiffened and slowly but surely began to control the mid-field.

Michigan's annual autumn color display -- one of America's most picturesque -- will soon dazzle travelers with a magnificent spectrum of hues, AAA Michigan reports.

"Color-seekers should plan trips between mid-September and late-October to fully appreciate the display," said Brian Potter, AAA Michigan Touring Manager. "During that period, the colors peak in stages, starting at the northern tip of the state and gradually moving south."

Forests across the Upper Peninsula and around the northern rim of the Lower Peninsula begin their transition in early September, setting a parade of blazing autumn hues in motion between mid-September and early October.

In the northern third of the Lower Peninsula, above Ludington and Standish, peak color occurs between late September and mid-October. The central section of the Lower Peninsula, above the line from Muskegon to Port Huron, flaunts vivid tints between early and mid-October.

The best time to enjoy the fall cascade of changing colors in the southern third of the Lower Peninsula, between Lake Michigan and Metropolitan Detroit, comes in the latter half of October.

The intensity of color painting Michigan's 65 species of trees is determined largely by summer weather. A good series of sunny days with sparse rainfall in August and early September produces brilliant results because sunlight affects chlorophyll, a substance found in tree leaves. Combined with sunshine, chlorophyll turns leaves green. When the substance breaks down, the leaves become yellow and orange. A high sugar content in leaves creates vivid red tones.

Dr. Melvin Koelling, forestry professor at Michigan State University, said visitors to Michigan's nearly 19 million acres of orchards and harvest festivals for an even more "tasty" autumn treat.

"The weather this August should give us a good start," Koelling expects. "Conditions so far are fine. Now, what we need in September are bright sunny days and brisk evening temperatures."

Koelling cautioned that in scattered areas of the state, foliage on some trees may have been affected by a summer outbreak of gypsy moths and forest ten caterpillars. These may cause leaves to be smaller and colors less brilliant than elsewhere.

A motorcoach excursion to Mackinac Island is also planned, Oct. 13-15, featuring a horse-drawn carriage tour and two nights in the Lakeview Hotel. That price is $259.

AAA Michigan suggests that travelers coordinate their color tours with a visit to one of the state's many cider mills, apple orchards and harvest festivals for an even more "tasty" autumn treat.

10 babies born in the United States, (375,000 infants annually) have been exposed to illegal drugs, including cocaine. The statistics for Michigan are equally dismal. Although hundreds of neonatal addiction cases annually are reported to DSS on a voluntary basis, the figures significantly underrepresent the magnitude of the problem.

If any one group should have the protection of the state, it is the drug-exposed infants. While this legislation is a step in the right direction, it is, sadly, a very small step.

Until we are able to stop drug use itself, we must continue to fight its insidious and devastating effects, such as drug-addicted babies, drug-related child neglect and drug-related crime.

We will do so with tougher laws, stricter law enforcement, more anti-drug education in our schools and greater citizen involvement in ridding neighborhoods of drug houses.

A recent study conducted at Detroit's Hutzel Hospital indicated a shocking 42 percent of its infants showed evidence of cocaine or heroin exposure. This disclosure resulted in legislation introduced in the Michigan House this week that will require mandatory reporting of such drug-exposed babies to child protective services within the Department of Social Services (DSS). The bill, which I strongly support, would amend the Child Protection Act to require physicians and hospitals to report drug-addicted infants to DSS. After receiving the report, a children's protective services worker could contact the newborn's family and assess whether the infant or mother is in need of special services such as medical care or parenting skills.

It is unconscionable that nearly half of all the babies born at one Michigan hospital have been exposed to drugs. This finding alone makes President Bush's declared war on drugs all the more urgent, because Michigan is only one of many states facing a high percentage of infant drug exposure, according to national experts, at least one in

A highlight of each festival is the raffle of the Fallasburg Quilt. This year's quilt was done in shades of peach and green, featuring Jan Johnson's Fallasburg logo in each corner of the Lone Star design. The quilt was hand sewn and quilted by Dolores Dey with help from Barb Davis and Jean Hagens. The winner of the 12th Fallasburg quilt was Pat Nienhuis of Grand Rapids.

Other winners in the raffle were Ken Nichols of Greenville who won a signed and framed poster of Dick Zayac's watercolor, "Cindy's Cow," donated by the LAAC; George Hoelaars of Royal Oak who won a vine basket purchased from Vicki Smith of St. Johns; Karleen Johnson of Belding won a carved duck decoy purchased from Chris Kacos of Walker; Gena Buhler of Belding won a batik hanging purchased from Filomina Lange of Midland; Pauline Malone of Belding, won a "Dancing Dan" and a cardinal lawn decoration donated by Jack and Shirley Folkertsma of Alto; and Janice Steuwe of Grand Rapids won a wooden set, "Skating Couple," purchased from Corner Crafts of Lowell.

Other visitors to Fallasburg Park this weekend may not have been pronounced winners during the raffle drawing, but were certainly winners of a fun-filled experience at the 21st annual Fallasburg Fall Festival. The Lowell area communities served by the Arts Council and the other non-profit organizations who earned money at the festival are also winners, as the proceeds are put to use in church, school, and community projects.

The Arts Council's share of the proceeds will go towards supporting the Lowell Art Gallery, teacher mini-grants, student scholarships, special programs and classes at the art center, and community beautification projects such as the recent banner program. Those interested in joining the arts council or taking advantage of its services can call for more information between 1 and 5 p.m. weekdays, 897-8545 or visit the Lowell Area Arts Council Center at 149 South Hudson, Lowell.
