Ruptured gas line holds Lowell residents hostage!

Residents from the Valley Vista Sub-Division, Valley Vista Trailer Park, Lowell One Apartments and the Lowell Medical Care Center had to be evacuated from their homes Monday at 2:30 p.m. after a 1½-inch gas line was ruptured while drilling to test wells for leaks in the gas lines across the street from Action Auto on West Main Street near Ridgeview Drive.

The rupture caused natural gas to blow out into the air, making for the real possibility of an explosion if coming in contact with something that could ignite it.

The two valves on the Consumers Power loop system were finally shut off roughly 11 hours later at 1 a.m. Tuesday morning, stopping the flow of natural gas. A cap was welded onto the six-inch gas line and the 1¼-inch gas line was crimped shut. The work was done by Consumers Power. Rescue crews did not leave the scene until 3:10 a.m.

According to Consumers Power representative Karen McCarthy the utility company got a call around 2:30 p.m. "We were told that an auger had hit a gas line and was stuck. We immediately told them to not remove the auger in fear it could have ignited the gas line," she said.

McCarthy said the difficulty was that the auger was in the way of completing the repairs. "The auger was stuck in the gas line. We had to dig out around it to see how close we were to the shut-off valve. The ground was rocky which made digging slow."

She continues, "After se-

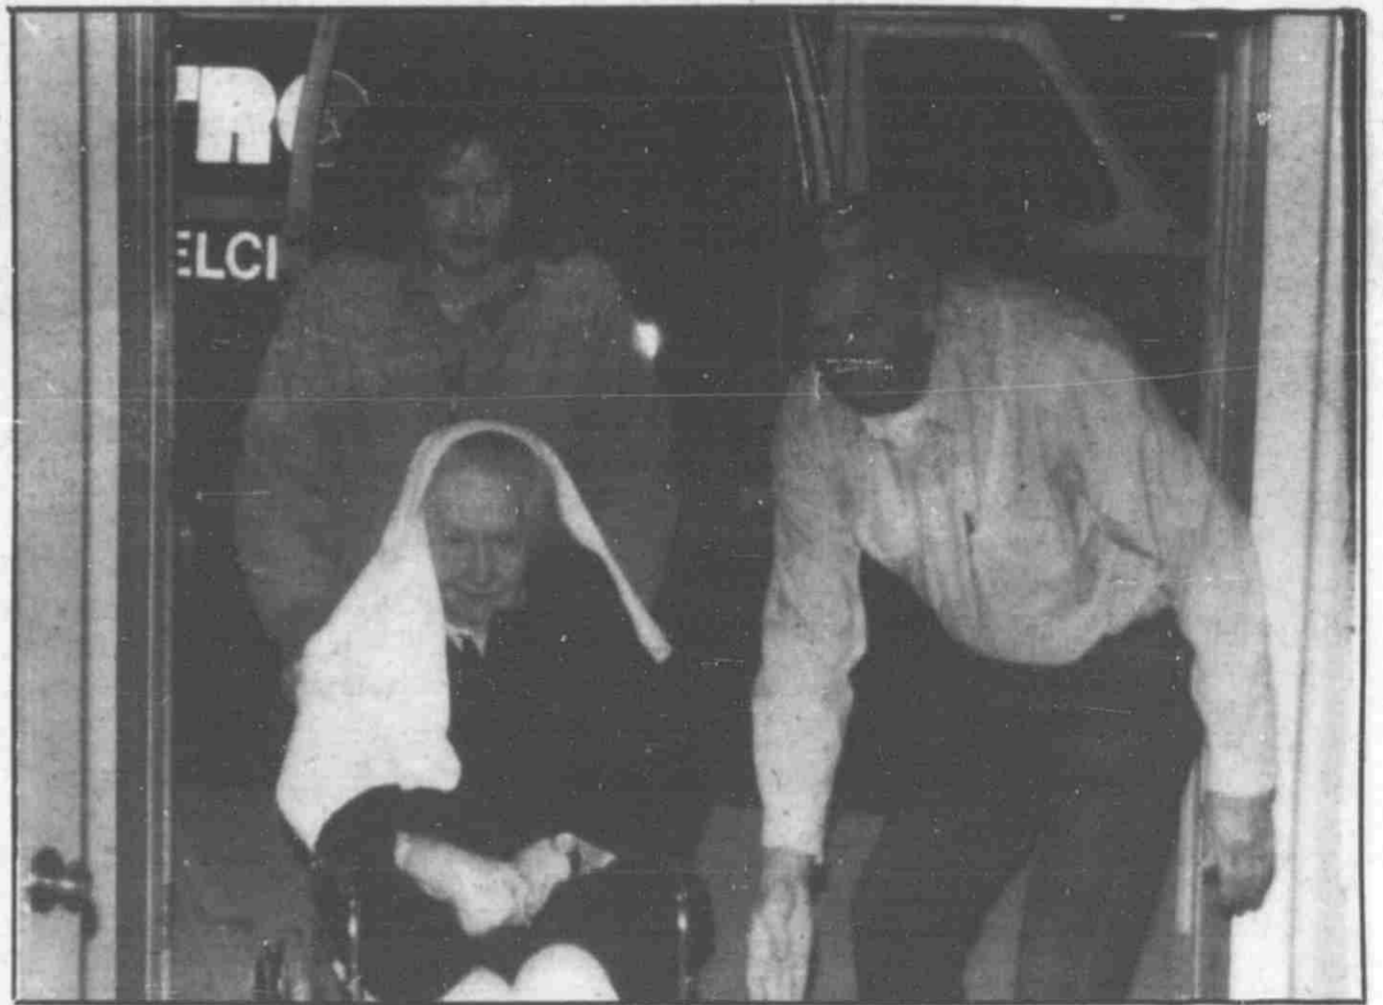

ing what the problem was, we couldn't get the equipment needed in to shut off the valve due to the auger."

Consumers Power then began to look for alternative ways to plug the holes. Since their first plan of shutting off a valve, removing the auger and repairing the gas line could not be carried out.

McCarthy said in order to remove the auger the gas pressure had to be reduced to lessen the threat of an explosion.

The utility company was able to this by sticking a brass plug into the six-inch main valve which stopped the flow of gas to the T-section, according to McCarthy. The 1¼-inch gas line was then crimped, removed and repaired. The result was no house had to have the gas shut off. "No relighting was necessary," McCarthy said. "The best news though was there were no injuries."

The Hunter/Keck employee was also thankful that there were no injuries. "We drilled in a cleared area according to Miss Dig," said the representative of Hunter/Keck, who did not wish to have his name revealed. "Anytime we go into a drilling and a utility is expected we coordinate with Miss Dig," he said. "Miss Dig tells us of the concerns, and identifies where things are."

The Hunter/Keck employee said he took 30 minutes to find what he thought was a safe spot. He added he was thankful the disaster was not more serious. "I was lucky that I and my two partners were not blown to the moon. At anytime, a spark off the auger could have caused an explosion."

While the disaster caused many area residents an inconvenience, the situation could have been a whole lot worse.

The auger missed the main service 6-inch gas line by a couple of inches.

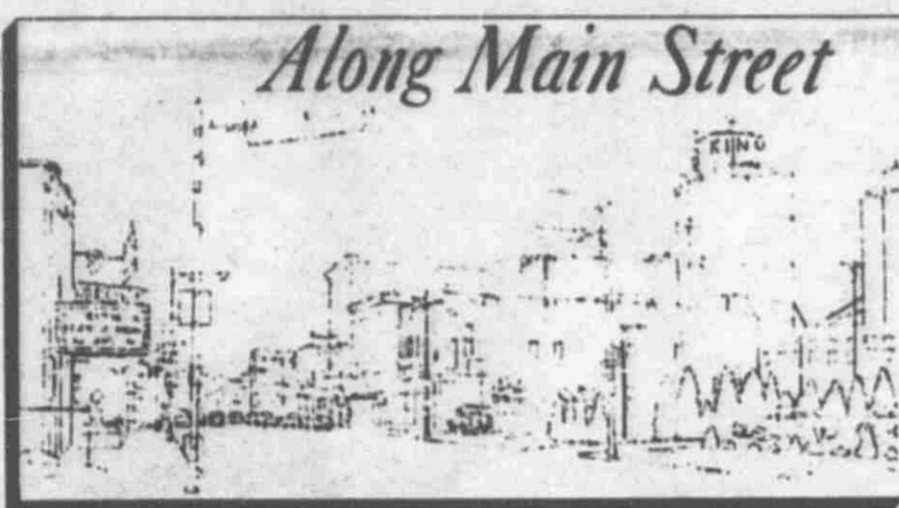

"Our first task was to make sure people were evacuated from the immediate area," Lowell Fire Chief Frank Martin said. "We also needed to make sure that school children were kept away from the area." Martin was helped with that task. The schools held the children after school until they could be picked up by parents or a family member.

Many area residents looked to the First United Methodist Church of Lowell and the Church of the Nazarene of Lowell for shelter, food and cots. Some residents also slept at Bushnell Elementary. Cots were provided by the Red Cross.

Homespun Devotions

....Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way...(Luke 24:32).

This morning the world outside resembles a giant marshmallow sundae. Everything is lusciously and generously topped with the whitest of fluff. The temperature hovers precariously near the zero mark. The biting cold chills one to the bone.

O how good the fire feels on a day like this! What a comfort it is! There was a time when we did not have an automatic furnace to keep the temperature inside the house at a comfortable degree even in the severest weather. But then the wood stove or hard coal burner was equally appreciated when one was subjected to frigid temperatures.

Two disciples walked toward Emmaus. Sadly they discussed the events surrounding their Lord's death.

It's been three weeks since I pecked out one of these columns. Did you miss me? I didn't think so. Actually, I know someone out there is reading this weekly offering because I called my grandpa on his 92nd birthday last week, and both he and my grandma told me they missed reading the bungling exploits of their favorite grandson. Well, okay, if not their "favorite" . . . at least their "oldest" grandson. Which brings me to the meat of this week's column . . . age!

I turned forty on Friday, December 15th. The next day I left on a combination family vacation and pilgrimage to mourn my lost youth. The absence of my column is credited to being gone and having trouble getting my creaky old bones into gear since I've been back. I'm tellin' ya folks, this forty business is not pretty. Let me tell you a little bit about it.

First off, there is the apprehension. It begins somewhere in those post-35 years. Some of your friends begin turning the big "Four-Oh". So you attend their birthday parties with

After finding out which of my brothers won the bet on whether or not I'd live to be forty, it was time to open my cards and gifts. (By the way, I guess the brother who bet I'd make it got considerable odds from my other brother.) I never knew there were so many cards available to ridicule people turning forty, or just plain getting old. Hallmark ought to be ashamed. I must have received two dozens cards, and not one of them was a duplicate. Anybody know how to go about buying some stock in that company?

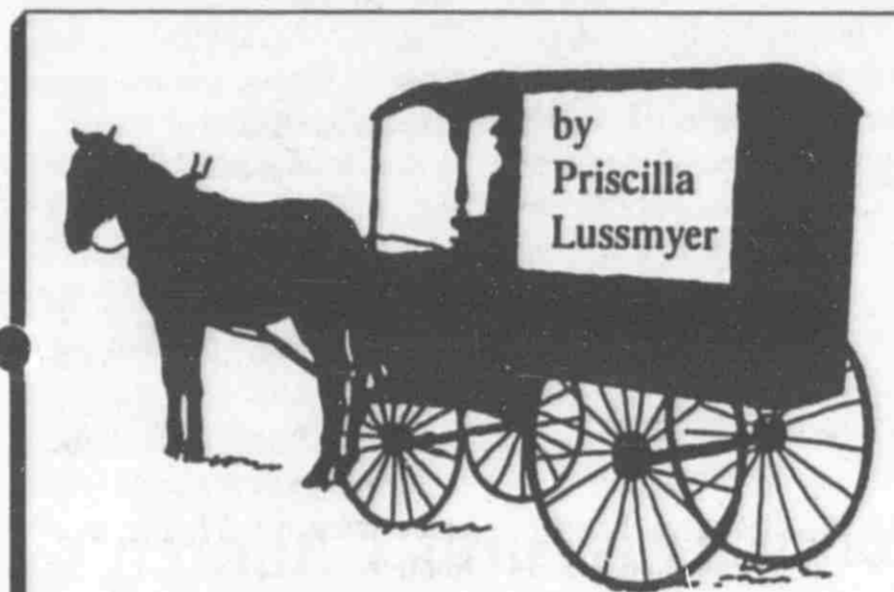

Then there were the gifts. Actually I did get a couple of nice books about airplanes, but for the most part I got Poligrup and stuff like that. I received several T-shirts, one of which read, "How did I ever get this old?". Amen to that! My parents gave me a December 1949 issue of National Geographic. I leafed through it, and most of the pictures are in black and white. I really don't like knowing I am the same age as that antique magazine. On the other hand, there is only one alternative, and I'm not really fond of that idea either.

Well, I've rambled on long enough. Us old boys get winded more easily than we used to you know. I do think this forty business warrants another go around next week. I haven't even touched on baldness, greying, varicose veins, stiff joints, gum disease, etc. If you're between the ages of say 35 and 39, you may want to pass this space up next week. I'll try to make light of it, but for you people in that age group, it ain't likely to be very funny.

presents like a T-shirt that reads, "Forty isn't old . . . if you're a tree!". All the while you feel your own party getting closer and closer. This big step toward senior citizenship doesn't creep at you like an old guy with a cane either. It's more like he's in a runaway wheelchair careening down a steep hill at you.

Well, my party was quite an event. My wife sent out invitations that were a mock funeral service record. The folder was realistic enough to prompt one recipient of the invitation to call my mother and chew her out for not telling her I'd died. My wife dressed in black mourning clothes for the occasion, as did several of my friends. I knew about the theme for the party in advance, so I asked my wife what I should wear. She said just wear what you'd like to be buried in. So, I donned my most comfortable jeans and my favorite t-shirt, a black job from the Dudley Perkins Harley Davidson shop in San Francisco. What the heck, I want to get out in style!

The evening was spent with everyone younger than me asking pointed questions about what it feels like to be forty. You know, questions about which body parts and functions still work and which ones don't. Everyone older than me offered up tips on how to deal with the problems I'd be facing. You know, which body parts and functions still work, and which ones don't. Oh, it was a glorious time. Of course those I've helped toast off into middle age would say I had it coming, and those still on their way to that golden age had to get their licks in before it is their turn.

GENITAL HERPES

Genital herpes infections are still one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases seen in the family doctor's office. Over half a million new cases are diagnosed annually and it is believed that over 30 million Americans are affected. Early symptoms include burning with urination, pelvic discomfort, pain in the vaginal or genital area and vaginal discharge. These symptoms will usually appear about a week after being exposed to an infected partner. Shortly after the early symptoms, blisters or small red bumps will appear on the penis or vagina, which can be quite painful. Over the next few days these blisters open up as small sores then crust over and finally heal. The initial episode of genital herpes is generally the most uncomfortable and lasts about 10 days. Once the sores disappear the herpes virus remains in the body in an inactive stage. Later on, the virus can reactivate causing another outbreak of sores and discomfort. The frequency and severity of further outbreaks varies from one patient to another and may occur monthly to yearly to never again. Prior to a recurrent outbreak, some patients may feel a tingling or burning sensation in the genital area a day or two before the typical sores appear. At one time it was felt that genital herpes was responsible for an increased risk of cervical cancer but this has been proven false. The principle risk in genital herpes is the devastating affect it may have on an infant delivered from a mother with active lesions at the time of birth. Most obstetricians perform a Cesarean section if the mother has active lesions at the time of delivery to protect the fetus. Therefore, all pregnant women should inform their doctor if they have ever had herpes, even in the distant past.

There is no cure for genital herpes although medication can be prescribed to prevent or shorten recurrent outbreaks. Like all other sexually transmitted diseases, the spread of herpes can be prevented by not having sex, or having sex with one mutually uninfected partner or by using condoms.

LHS January "Students-of-the-Month"

The first students-of-the-month for 1990 were named recently at Lowell High School. They are senior Jenny Berry, junior Bryan Chaterdon, sophomore Kip Carpenter and freshman Thomas Mull.

Berry is the daughter of Garland and Beth Berry of Lowell. She has played volleyball for four years, serving as captain this year. She has also participated in track. Her interest in sports led to a co-op job in the LHS athletic director's office as secretary, a position which she "really enjoys." She has also participated in student government, art club, the business committee, the School Store committee, and Red Ribbon Week committee. Her involvement on committees keeps her busy, but she still has time to maintain a place on the honor roll. Berry hopes to attend Western Michigan University in the fall. Her teacher nominator describes Berry as "very cooperative, trustworthy and dependable."

Chaterdon is the son of Richard and Diana Chaterdon of Lowell. He is currently attending Kent Skills Center in the building maintenance area where he recently achieved student-of-the-month for December. He plans to make a career of building maintenance. He also works through Kent Skills Center as a custodial aide at Bushnell Elementary. He has been a paper carrier for the Grand Rapids Press for three years. Interests include weightlifting, bicycling and football. His favorite class is history because he finds looking into history interesting and enjoyable. He has maintained a B average in his classes this quarter. Chaterdon's teacher nominator describes him as pleasant and kind, a hard worker who strives to do his best at all times and who maintains a perfect attendance.

Carpenter is the son of David and Darlene Carpenter of Lowell. He reports that he enjoys most sports, and includes hunting and fishing in his list, as well as baseball, the sport he participates in at LHS. He is also involved in the Y Leaders Club. An honor roll student, his favorite class is Algebra 2. At the end of his freshman year, Carpenter was honored at the academic honors night as one of the top fourteen freshmen. His teacher nominator describes him as a conscientious student who desires to learn, and one who is friendly with his classmates.

Mull is the son of Alan and Patricia Mull of Lowell. He has earned important credentials fast at LHS, having lettered in cross country this fall and appearing on the first quarter honor roll. Mull has also joined the Young Republicans. If asked why he runs so well or achieves so quickly, Mull might answer with a favorite quote, "Time waits for no man." His teacher nominator, however, would say it is because he gives 100% every day, is always prepared, and tries his best. She also appreciates his sense of humor and his positive and cooperative nature.

The faculty, administration and staff at Lowell High School invite the community to join them in honoring the LHS January Students-of-the-Month.

February is Nat'l. Children's Dental Health Month

The Michigan Dental Association and the West Michigan District Dental Society are sponsoring a poster contest, "Smile America," in conjunction with the 1990 National Children's Dental Health Month in February. It is hoped that the contest will be used as a classroom project to emphasize the importance of good dental health.

Students in grades K-6 will participate. Through poster design, their ideas of the importance of dental health will be expressed.

Entries will be judged by a qualified panel, including artists and dentists. Originality in the interpretation of the theme, "Smile America, There's Magic In Your Smile," artistic handling of the medium and neatness of the presentation will all be considered. Lettering should be legible and large enough to read at a distance.

The West Michigan District Dental Society will present awards on the local level. In three categories, K-1, 2-3 and 4-6, 1st and 2nd places will receive two movie passes to Showcase Cinema in each level. In addition to local awards, a poster from each category will be forwarded to the Michigan Dental Association, Committee on Dental Health Education for final judging on March 15, 1990 for the statewide contest.

Deadline for the contest is January 27 at 5 p.m. Last year Mrs. Font's 4th grade class at Bushnell School won 1st, 2nd and 3rd place honors.

This year four local dentists will be giving Dental Health Education talks at elementary schools in Lowell. Entries may be dropped off at their offices: Dr. Clark Vredenburg, 1150 N. Hudson; Dr. Todd Gillan, 109 W. Main; Dr. Robert Kysler, 100 E. Main or Drs. J.E. and R.E. Reagan, 207 W. Main.

Council upset with location of substation

Lowell's City Council and City Manager Dave Pasquale prefer not to make any assumptions as to who is responsible for the communication snafu that resulted in the substation being installed 50 feet further into Stoney Lakeside Park than was originally approved by the Council.

The City park substation is one of three that Lowell Light & Power requested permission to install in order to help upgrade its electric distribution system from 4,160 volts to 12,470.

At the January meeting, the City Council agreed with Councilman Bill Thompson's demand that the Lowell Light & Power Board submit a letter of explanation telling why the substation was built where it was, who is responsible for the decision, and, if an individual employee was the one who made the decision, what corrective measures will be taken.

"I'm not sure what action will be taken," Pasquale said. "I think the Light & Power Board should make that decision."

The costs for the landscaping, paving and screening around the substation were suggested by the Park Board and then formally accepted by the Council with the expense to be funded by Lowell Light & Power.

According to the project engineer the substation couldn't work functionally because it was too close to the power lines, thus had to be moved back. Pasquale said the council is not questioning the engineer's opinion, but is questioning why this wasn't communicated to the Council before continuing the project.

Pasquale did say that a communication gap between the Lowell Light & Power Board and the City was reason for the problem.

Such information as to who's responsible for communicating such information, Pasquale and the Council are hopeful will be in the letter they requested from the utility board. "The City is hopeful of having that letter in time for the next Council meeting," he says.

After discussing the impact of the error with the City Council, the Park Board got the okay from the Council to require Lowell Light and Power to complete the substation work according to the following plan:

- * Change the original landscape plan from a solid evergreen screen, to a shrubbery screen of mixed evergreen and deciduous shrubs.

- * Replace the original fence with a four-foot chainlink and locking access gate.

- * It also suggested that within a reasonable time the area directly north of the substation be paved.

Completion of the above recommendation will adapt the error to an asset for the Power Company and it will be a plan that the Park Commission can live with, as more intense planning and development proceed at Stoney Lakeside Park.

The park commission also asked for future construction review privileges for construction on or adjacent to City Park lands.

How do other countries punish drunk drivers?

In recent years, tougher DUI (Driving Under the Influence) laws have been passed to address a problem which claims the lives of thousands annually. In some states, those convicted of DUI charges must take alcohol and drug remedial education classes.

In Springfield, IL, a list of laws from other countries is distributed to members of these classes. A quick glance at this list shows American laws are mild compared to those of many other lands.

West Germany - With a BAC (Blood Alcohol Content) of .08, your license is automatically suspended for three months with a maximum of one year in prison or a fine.

Norway - A BAC of .05 means a mandatory minimum sentence of three weeks in jail. A fine may be added. If you're a first offender, you lose your license for one year. If you repeat the offense within five years, you lose your license for life.

Israel - You probably wouldn't drink and drive in Israel. The two-year prison term convicted drunk drivers serve is an effective deterrent. In 1980, an U.S. Embassy spokesperson said Israel rarely prosecutes more than one drunk driver a year. Soviet Union - After your first offense, you're banned from the roadway for six months.

Great Britain - Upon conviction, your license is suspended for one year. Sentence possibilities also include six months in jail, a fine of up to $1,800 and mandatory community service work.

India - You'll spend six months in prison and/or pay a $112 fine if you're convicted.

South Korea - If you're arrested, you automatically face two month's license suspension. If you're convicted, it means a jail sentence of up to one year and a fine of $700.

Japan - For your first offense, you receive up to four months in jail and pay a $200 fine. Your license is revoked and returned upon completion of a driving test one year later.

Chile - A guilt verdict means 61 to 541 days in jail. If someone has been injured, your minimum prison sentence is 18 months.

United Kingdom, Finland, Sweden - You receive an automatic jail term of one year.

South Africa - Your penalty for drunk driving is a 10-year prison sentence, a $10,000 fine or both.

Australia - Your name is published in local newspapers when you're convicted.

Malaya - The driver is jailed. If he's married, his wife is also jailed. (Our information doesn't tell us what happens if the driver is female.)

Turkey - If you drink and drive, you are taken 20 miles from town by police and forced to walk back under escort.

Bulgaria - A second conviction of drunk driving is your last. The penalty is death.

El Salvador - Don't make the mistake of getting behind the wheel if you've been drinking because you're first. DUI will be your last. You'll be executed by a firing squad!

Lowell wrestlers improve record to 11-0, finish 5th at Hastings
Rob McGee, Brad Whalen & Rich Depew pace Red Arrow grapplers

The Red Arrow wrestlers bolstered their record to a sparkling 11-0 this past week. But Saturday's fifth-place performance in the L.H. Lamb Tournament in Hastings tarnished some of that glitter for Lowell Coach Gary Rivers.
"The boys just did not wrestle that well," Rivers said. "I'm not sure if we were tired or just not sharp."
The Saxon hosted tournament was won by Charlotte with 126 1/2, Lakewood was second with 125 1/2, followed by Middleville 124, Hastings 122, Lowell 104, Delton 78, Battle Creek Harper Creek 60 1/2, Battle Creek Central 56 1/2, Grand Ledge 53 1/2, and Ionia 28 1/2.
In respect to Nate Nauta not making weight at 130 was a tell-tale sign of what was ahead for Lowell. The Red Arrows had only one wrestler place higher than third.

Rob McGee, 189 pounds, took those honors as he posted a 2-1 record. "McGee wrestled well all week and he looked good at Hastings," Rivers added.
Four Red Arrow grapplers placed third. Brad Whalen, 125 was 3-1; Rich Depew, 152, finished at 3-1; Joe Depew, 160 pounds was 3-1 at day's end; John Rupp rolled off the mat at 4-1 in the 171-pound weight class.
Earning fourth-place spots were Jon Pratt (2-2); David Stouffer (3-2); and Jeff Hoffman 2-2.
"We've had a busy schedule up to this point. Now we have a few days to rest up and get ready for a big O-K White Conference showdown with Northview on Thursday at home."
Lowell got its record to 11-0 earlier in the week by demolishing Greenville, Creston and East Grand Rapids in succession.
LOWELL 52, GREENVILLE 12
The Red Arrows wrestling team lost three of its first four matches against the Yellow-jackets to add some excitement to a match that was otherwise dominated by Lowell.
Scott Nagy was the only Arrow to post a victory after four matches against Greenville. The senior recorded a third period (4:39) pin. Chad Chertos at 103 was set down 12-5; Jim Inman (119) was pinned in the third period at 4:25 and Brad Whalen wrestling at 125 lost a tough 11-10 decision.
Nate Nauta, then started a succession of nine straight Lowell victories, the 130-pounder won a 13-8 decision. Jon Pratt followed with a third-period pin at 4:33.

David Stouffer, 140, earned a challenging 4-2 decision. Jeff Hoffman, 145, followed with a pin at 25 seconds of the first period. Rich Depew, 152, kept the string going with an easy 12-2 decision.
A trio of pins were then posted by Joe Depew, John Rupp and Rob McGee. Depew got his at 2:51 of the second period. Rupp wasted little time in stopping his match at 1:50 of the first period. McGee followed with a marathon workout before earning a pin at 5:34 of the third period.
Chad Hull ended the match with a victory by way of forfeit.
LOWELL 75, CRESTON 0
Of its 13 matches with Creston, the Red Arrows posted eight pins. The quickest coming at 37 seconds of the first period. The longest match ending in a pin lasted until 3:56 of the second period with Rich Depew getting the victory.
The 37-second pin was the work of Jon Pratt at 135 pound.
Other pins were posted by Jim Inman (119), 1:54 of the first period; Brad Whalen (125), 1:56 of the first period; David Stouffer (140), 43 seconds into the first period; John Rupp (171) pinned at :32 seconds of the first period; and Chad Hull closed out the fun with a second-period pin at 3:24.
Scott Nagy earned a 5-2 decision while Chad Chertos, Nate Nauta, Jeff Hoffman, and Joe Depew were given the evening off due to forfeits.
LOWELL 69 EGR 0
In Lowell's only conference action, the Red Arrows made quick work of the out-manned Pioneers. Lowell only had to wrestle in eight of its 13 victories. The Pioneers forfeited five matches because of the forfeits were Dave Rotter, Brad Whalen, Jeff Hoffman, John Rupp and Chad Hull.
The highlight of the match was the 189-pound weight class. Lowell's Rob McGee recorded the team's quickest pin of the year, taking just 10 seconds.
Winning decisions were Scott Nagy, 5-2; Matt Monda (140) 9-6; and Joe Depew, 6-4.
Other Arrows coming off the mat with pins were Jon Pratt, Dave Stouffer, and Rich Depew

Knights of Columbus hold annual contest
75 Lowell youths participate in K or C free throw contest

The fifth annual Lowell Knights of Columbus Free Throw Basketball Championship had 75 participants in 1990.
The event took place on Wednesday, Jan. 3 at the Lowell Middle School. Boys and girls ages 10-14 participated in five different categories.
The 10 winners will all advance to the district in Greenville where they will compete against the Greenville and Belding winners.
In the 10-year old division, the winners were Steve Barle and Angela Pattok. Barle connected on 11 of 15 shots. Pattok netted one attempt.
Andy Smith and Tammy Stauffer were the winners in the 11-year old division. Smith tickled the twine 12 out of 15 times. Stauffer hit on five of 15 shots.
The 12-year old division winners were Travis Mierkalns and Kortney Gowen. Mierkalns dropped 10 of 15 shots while Gowen connected on nine of 15.
The 13-year old division winners were Kyle Ak-samitowski and Amy Stauffer. Ak-samitowski was a near perfect 14 of 15 from the foul line. Stauffer netted 11 of 15 shots.
The 14-year old division had no girl participants. In the boys' competition Chad Dunn was nine of 15 from the charity stripe.
Supervising the event was Larry Mikulski.
The Greenville District winners will advance to the regional in Grand Rapids. From there, winners move on to Farmington Hills for the state competition.

Add a teaspoon of lemon juice per each quarter-pound of butter when sauteing mushrooms. It will keep them firm and white and add a marvelous flavor.

Athlete of the Week

Rivers describes Nagy as a technician. "He's a wrestler with good moves, who knows how to execute and also sets his moves up well."
Nagy is in his third year of wrestling at the varsity level. His freshman year he chose basketball.
He also participates in football and baseball. He ended the football season at 123 pounds. He has to wrestle at 112 pounds. "It's not easy. In football I needed to add weight and once the season ends I have to drop weight for wrestling."
The senior says the key to losing the weight and then keeping it off is not eating between meals and staying away from sweets.
Nagy describes himself as a defensive wrestler who capitalizes on others' mistakes. "I think my strength is take-downs."
Scott is one of three Nagy boys to wrestle under the guidance of Rivers. In his first two years he has posted a 38-16 slate with 27 pins.
Nagy's current plans include attending Grand Rapids Junior College following graduation.

Lowell loses game, 79-51 & Holtz to ankle injury

Red Arrows' leading scorer out indefinitely - tears ligaments in ankle

Lowell Coach Mark Thomas and the Red Arrow basketball team suffered its worst setback of the 1989-90 season Friday night. It wasn't the 79-51 defeat to the Wildcats of Northview, although that is the biggest point deficit Lowell has absorbed all year. No, the 28-point defeat the Arrows suffered, has probably already been forgotten, but the loss of senior captain and leading team-scorer, Ryan Holtz with a little more than 11 minutes gone in the first half to an ankle injury is a setback that may linger for quite some time.

"I don't hurt because of the loss. Our kids played their hearts out," Thomas said. "I hurt because a player that lives for basketball had his heart ripped out because of an injury."

Holtz averages roughly 23 points a game and the value of his leadership and his playmaking guard ability is unmeasured.

"Lowell is not the same ballclub without Holtz on the floor," Northview Coach Mike Diebold said. "With Holtz out of the game, I told my players to go after Lowell and to play defense." According to Thomas, Holtz suffered torn ligaments on both sides of his ankle. "I'm not sure how long he will be out," he says.

Lowell trailed 20-14 at the end of the first quarter. The Red Arrows opened the second quarter with an 8-3 run, closing the deficit to one at 23-22.

Following Holtz's injury, Northview outscored Lowell 10-6, taking a 33-28 halftime lead.

Two huge last minute buckets by Wildcat Robert Toole turned what could have been

Lowell's Junior Varsity handled easily by Northview

In junior varsity action, Lowell was beaten soundly by a good Northview club 65-33.

Lowell's leading scorer was Adam Catlin with eight. Chad Lyon, Matt Kemp and Brett Knoop each added five points apiece.

The Wildcats were paced by Mike Harvey's 17 points. Travis Zindor added 12.

Leonardo da Vinci invented the scissors.

a one-point Lowell halftime deficit into a five-point Northview advantage.

"Toole had a great week of practice and played well tonight," Diebold said.

The second half was all Northview. It started with an 8-0 run, increasing its lead to 41-28 with less than three minutes gone in the third quarter.

"We were getting high percentage shots in the second half and that is partially due to our rebounding and our defense," Diebold said. "We also shot the ball very well. I told our boys at half we needed to play good defense without fouling. We fouled way too in the first half."

Lowell was led in scoring by Bob Adams and John Borg with 12 points apiece.

Chris Poweres led the victorious Northview club with 18 points. Dusty Nash contributed with 14.

Lowell and other cities helped by Drug Enforcement Unit

A 40-member Kent County Drug Enforcement Unit commenced Monday, Jan. 8, using two teams of officers, including a full-time officer from Lowell.

In addition, three assistant Kent County prosecutors have been assigned to handle all drug arrests.

Other departments joining the unit include Walker, Grandville, Sparta, Wyoming, Grand Rapids, Kentwood and the Kent County Sheriff's Department.

The forfeiture enforcement program was initially created to combat the drug problem in large cities. According to Lowell Police Chief, Barry Emmons, this forced drug traffickers into the medium cities. "Creating an alarm, the cities thus used federal, state and local drug enforcement, which then pressured the traffickers into smaller cities."

Emmons added that smaller cities are safer for drug traffickers because cops are identifiable, and undercover police can't get close enough to the operation to make a bust.

"Small cities like Lowell just do not have the time, staff or expertise to combat the problem," Emmons said.

Emmons believes a task force made up of full-time officers from a number of departments is the solution. "The forfeiture funds gained through the unit will be divided among the participating units according to participation," he says.

The money will be plugged back into the program, while a portion will also be used to cover the cities' cost to be in the program. "Our cost is minimal. So far, we've kept within the budget," Emmons says.

Police initially hoped to fund the team through a $645,000 grant sought through the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice. Officials received word back in July they would only receive $105,000. Officials are hopeful of funding the program in subsequent years through federal and state grants, most notably the Anti-Drug Enforcement Act.

The program will be operated from a leased building on Front Street in Grand Rapids. Each participating department will have a computer connection and frequent contact with its local agent, according to Emmons. "Lowell has been part of the program for only four months and we're already seeing successes."

The Department will use certified reserves to replace the full-time officer. "This program is good for local officers because they're able to see something is being done," Emmons says.

Lowell's Police Chief attributes much of increased crime rate in Lowell to the drug trafficking problem. "I believe much of the violent crimes and larceny can be attributed to the drug problem," Emmons says.

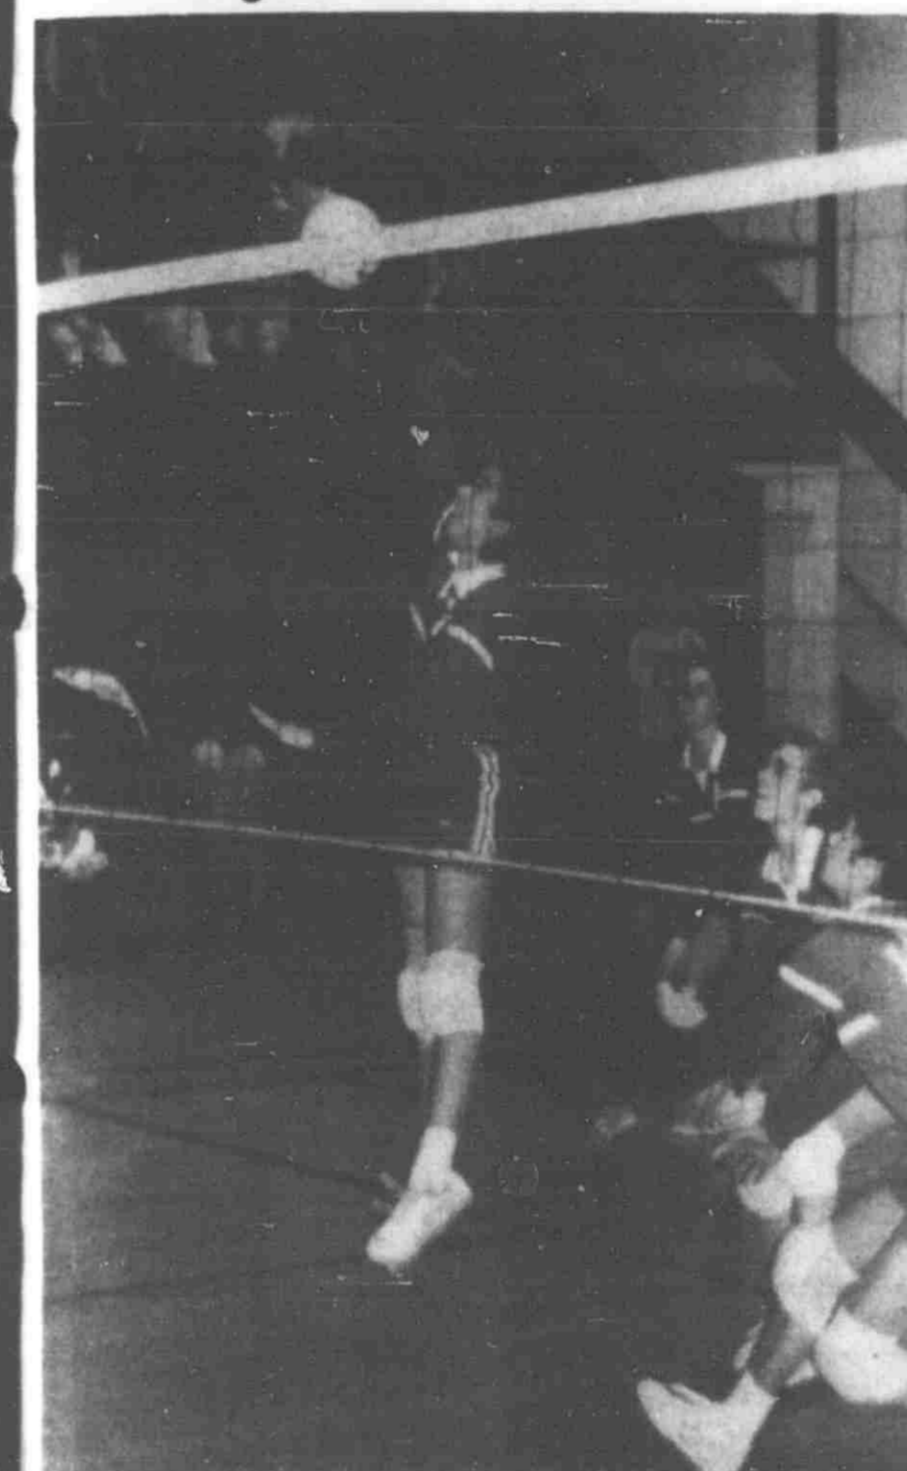

In 1989, larceny in Lowell was up 19 percent. Breaking and entering was up 24 percent. Assaults and burglaries were also up. Emmons was pleased to announce that the loitering problem, which Lowell addressed through creative projects was down 65 percent.

Lt. William Burden, who will head the county team, said organizers tried to incorporate detectives from rural areas because they know other officers and can foster other sources.

"When we get somebody from Lowell or Sparta, they have a tie not only to that community but to the officers who work that community," Burden says. "They are able to get a lot of information."

Jerusalem artichokes offer large amounts of calcium, sodium, phosphorus, sulfur, iron, chlorine and magnesium.

Red Arrow volleyball action

Lowell's girls defeated Kenowa Hills in volleyball action last week. The score and details on the game were not made available by Lowell Coach Laurie Kuna.

Christensen claims football pick title

The championship football prognosticator mantle has been passed on from the office of defending 1988-89 champion, Lowell Sports Editor Thad Kraus to the 1989-90 winner, the man of "Pride and Respect," Phil Christensen.

Over the 184-game slate the Lowell Football Coach posted a record of 130-54, a winning percentage of .707. The percentage easily outdistanced the 1988-89 mark (.670) set by Kraus.

Kraus claimed second by one game over Lowell Athletic Director Bob Perry. The Lowell Sports Editor finished with a record of 126-58 for a mark of .685.

All day kindergarten program running smoothly

The perceived problems with the All Day/Alternate Day Kindergarten Program may have been greater than the actual problems.

Runciman/Riverside Principal Louie Dudeck gave a presentation to the Lowell Board of Education on the parent survey data regarding the All Day Alternate day Kindergarten program. What was found in the 152 responses was that the majority of the parents surveyed had positive remarks about the program.

There were 250 parents who were asked to complete the survey. Dudeck said 50-60 percent filled out and returned the survey. "We were hoping the percentage of response would have been higher," Dudeck said.

Despite the positive feedback, Dudeck said the jury is still out. "With all new programs there are some minuses. Many of the parents asked that an individual calendar be sent out every month. The calendar would indicate what's going on at school and the days their child should attend."

The ADAD program replaces the traditional half-day kindergarten schedule. Under ADAD, students alternate full days. "I haven't seen any changes in the children. They seem to be adapting equally as well to the full-day program," Dudeck said. "The responses to the survey show children excited about school."

Kindergarten instructors are also happy with the new program. According to Dudeck it allows teachers to follow through with an assignment that previously would have been carried over into two days.

Cindi Pierce a kindergarten teacher at Runciman/Riverside said she couldn't believe the time that was now available to work with children. Dudeck added that there is no repeating or duplicating. He adds, the program has added 8-12 days of instructional time.

The survey was taken in early November at the fall parent/teacher conferences. A second survey will be taken in March.

"The ADAD Advisory Committee's intention when the ADAD program was first talked about was to see if there was a better way to work with kids," Dudeck said. "Our survey results were extraordinary compared to other schools with an ADAD program."

The main concern prior to the implementation of the program was the children would grow tired in an all day situation. According to Dudeck, there has not been any difference in morning and afternoon children becoming tired.

Dudeck said the school will save $100,000 in transportation (bus runs). "Lowell will put well over half that figure back into the program for para-professionals that may be needed, and equipment."

The district kindergarten parent survey showed that 92 percent of the parents responding to the survey said their child's enthusiasm toward school was satisfactory or better.

The All Day/Alternate Day kindergarten format met the family scheduling needs of 92 percent of the parents polled. Meanwhile 88 percent said the program was meeting their child's needs; and 95 percent said their child's adjustment to ADAD has been satisfactory or better.

"I had my reservations about the program. But after seeing how well it has worked, I commend the people who have made it go," said board member, Chris VanAntwerp."

Bond issue likely as school enrollment rises

To assure the existence of an adequate physical environment to meet the educational and extra-curricular needs of Lowell Area Schools and the community at large, Lowell Schools will look to the financial aid of a June bond issue.

Provided it's passed, the monies from the bond issue could help refurbish the elementary buildings and Middle School, build and open another school that would be available for use in September of 1992 at the earliest.

With the land crunch the school is currently experiencing, on what parcel of land would a new elementary school building be built?

Remember back to July of 1988, when there was much ballyhoo about that all-day Strategic Planning Committee meeting, and how it would help the school plan for the future?

The work of the facilities subcommittee, one of seven subcommittees formed at that July meeting, is playing a role in identifying strategic parcels for future land acquisition, and in the school's development of a plan for a new facility. How has it done this? Through the Stan Hecker enrollment report it has studied the population growths in relation to the possible construction of a new elementary building. It has investigated the purchase of acreage for future school development and is currently in the process of acquisition of specified parcels.

The recommendations made to the board by the advisory committee is understood to be purely advisory and non-binding.

There have been objectives accomplished by all seven subcommittees, but with the current increase in students and the projected increase for the future, information obtained through the Stan Hecker/Fred Ignatovich enrollment report, the school's current focus is on school facilities.

"Lowell Schools are currently ahead of the enrollment levels projected for 1991-92 by the Hecker/Ignatovich report," said Dick Korb, Director of School & Community Services.

The School also needs renovations at the existing elementary buildings, additional classrooms at the Middle School, increased classroom space at the high school, science and computer labs, shop equipment, and electronic and robotic equipment. Lowell is also in need of addressing the adequate and, in some cases, inadequate sport facilities.

"Not all of the technological equipment will be able to be paid for out of the general fund," Lowell Assistant Superintendent, Gary Kemp said. "Some of the monies may have to come from a bond issue."

A question yet to be answered by school officials is what should the June school bond issue cover? The only certainty at this time seems to be a new elementary building, renovations at the elementary schools, and an addition at the Middle School. The formation of the Strategic Planning Review Committee was established at a February 2, 1989 Lowell Board of Education meeting to serve as an ad hoc citizens advisory committee to the Board. The advisory committee will function through 1993.

Its said purpose was to continuously reevaluate and recommend changes when necessary in the Strategic Plan.

The plan entitled "A Step Toward the Future," helps to identify a direction and clearly states seven objectives.

The committee of seven members, is composed of the original chairpeople from the subcommittees at the Strategic Planning Committee meeting held in July of 1988.

They are Ray Quada, Charles Kohler, Peggy Idema, Barry Breckon, Ray Weigel, Dave Douma and Mary Yost. The members each serve for two-year terms, with the first four members being appointed initially for one-year terms and the remaining members to two-year terms.

Santa Claus took time from his busy holiday schedule to write personal letters to these second grade students in Mr. Goff's class at Alto Elementary School. A special thanks goes to Mr. Latva's 8th graders for making sure the letters made it to the North Pole!

Lowell City Council revises junk car ordinance

A new revised junk vehicle ordinance written by City Attorney, Dick Wendt that remedies the problems experienced by the existing statute, was adopted by Lowell's City Council.

A problem arose when District Court Judge Joseph White said the previous ordinance was not clear.

The revised junk vehicle ordinance prohibits the keeping of dismantled, partially dismantled or inoperable motor vehicles, boats, machinery, equipment or parts on any parcel of property within the City except where it is allowed by the zoning ordinance or except as it may be entirely within an enclosed building.

While the new ordinance read smoothly to the council, it did not settle well with Lowell's Tom Shimmel. The Lowell resident expressed concern over the meaning of the word "junk". "I restore old cars. I need time to finish a project. Why can't a property owner quietly enjoy car restoration?" he asked.

The Council assured Shimmel it was not looking for trouble but the previous ordinance was too broad and it was necessary to give it some teeth. Shimmel said he still thinks its too broad. Councilman Jim Hodges agreed as he was the only councilmember to vote against the new revised ordinance.

Thomas Speerstra of Lowell was awarded the lease of a box hangar located at the airport. The structure was originally built by Richard Denkema in 1969 under lease agreement with the City. The lease is limited to 10 years.

The Speerstra lease agreement recommendation was based on his proposal to gradually upgrade usage of the hangar. The City considered this important since improvements to the airport must come first, before a full scale business enterprise can take place.

The new lease proposal establishes an annual rental rate of $4,200 paid in monthly installments of $350. Immediate maintenance is required including painting and roof repairs.

Speerstra will be able to utilize a rent credit for the sums expended to paint, re-roof or provide other maintenance needed to the hangar.

Speerstra's was one of two proposals received by the City. The second one came from Clare Patterson of Conklin.

Speerstra agreed to all of the lease proposal except: 1.) Article VII - removing snow from the leased area (an airport management responsibility). 2.) He also asked that the city modify insurance requirements until business is brought in 3.) and that the City provide five tiedowns at no charge.

The Lowell native intends to operate a ground and flight school facility and to offer aircraft maintenance from that location on a limited basis to begin with, and he hopes to (depending on airport improvements) expand to a broader based flight school, maintenance, and aircraft brokerage business in the future.

A public hearing was set for February 5 to consider the Industrial Development District application for Lowell Granite. Jud Wilterink, President of Lowell Granite, intends to apply for Industrial Development District Status. This status would qualify Lowell Granite for tax abatement for the new addition proposed to be built in early 1990.

The Lowell City Council approved an agreement on sewer usage between the City and Lowell Township.

The City bills Lowell Township for sewer usage from its force main originating at M-21 and Cumberland extending to the Wastewater Treatment Plant and along Bowes Road. A flow meter located near the the Water Treatment Plant registers sewage.

The problem prior to the agreement was the meter itself was struck by lightning in September of 1986. It remained inoperable until December of 1988. During this time, the City estimated usage. The amount ranged from 3.3 million gallons per month (September thru November, 1986) to 5.6 million (January thru July 1988).

According to Pasquale it was determined during the summer of 1988 that the estimates were too high. Billings were then suspended to the Township from August to December of 1988, when it was determined the City's costs were compensated.

While proposed adjustments were discussed, the meter still had operating problems. In December of 1989, City and Township officials agreed on the following based on these assumptions:

* The meter was calibrated in June of 1986. The flows registered in July and August of 1986 were 1,292,310 and 1,242,480 gallons respectively.

* Monthly flows were assumed at 1.3 million gallons from January to August, 1986. Monthly flow increases of 7,500 gallons were calculated per unit as additional units were added to the system through December of 1987.

* An assumption was made that the 1988 flows were the same monthly flow estimated by the City for August of 1988 (2.35 million gallons).

* The meter was calibrated again this month. It registered 1.8 million gallons. This was used as a standard for 1989.

* The total over-billing was estimated at $38,916.09. Sewer billing owed by the Township from August thru December of 1988 was $28,697.58. Lowell Township owes $8,000 toward plant construction. A check from the Township will be applied against billings.

Allendale, the Salvation Army/Canteen 48 in Grand Rapids along with Lowell's McDonald's.

"The Red Cross provided the initial response. We served as a backup," said Nick Unger, the crew leader for Canteen 800 Aid.

Robert Boelema, the driver for Canteen 48, added that his crew usually works off the canteen, but in this case was able to use the kitchen facilities at the Methodist Church.

According to Martin, 17 businesses were asked to close their doors following the accident. In all, roughly 300 homes and businesses had to be evacuated.

Lowell Rescue, Fire and

Ambulance were aided by the Kentwood Fire Department. Kentwood filled Lowell's 30, 20-minute air bottles as Lowell's air packs were being used by men while in the hole in an effort to stop the leak.

The service gas line that was ruptured serviced 500 families, according to Martin. Many of those families were scheduled to be hooked back up on Tuesday afternoon, but each house would have to be done individually.

Probably the most affected by the disaster were the residents at the Lowell Medical Care Center. Many of the bed-ridden had to be wheeled and carried out into ambulances. In all, eight ambulances transported the patients.
