Contestants are named for Showboat's Queen Pageant

Contestants vying for the title of the 1990 Miss Lowell Showboat Queen were introduced at a meeting last Thursday night at the First Congregational Church of Lowell by the pageant's co-chairmen, Jean Patton and Judy Straub.

There will be 10 young ladies between the ages of 17 and 21 vying for the crown. They are Michele Christine Chamberlain, Patsy Kay Deans, Lori Esch, Laura Adams, Jennifer Cook, Jenny Horian, Tonya Stepek, Danielle Bundy, Jody Smith and Christine Kenney.

The Lowell Showboat Queen will be asked to appear at all three Showboat performances, and be a Showboat representative in roughly nine parades and festivals throughout the summer.

The purpose of the pageant, according to Straub, is to promote Lowell, and to further promote the Lowell Showboat.

Michele Christine Chamberlain

Chamberlain, an 18-year old 1989 graduate from Lowell High School, is the daughter of Wayne and Carol Chamberlain of 10981 Sconcewood Dr.

The Grand Rapids Junior College student enjoys water skiing and dancing as hobbies. While attending Lowell High School she was an active member of the Lowell Woman's Club, the School Annual staff, and was a high school cheerleader. She has continued her cheerleading pursuit at Grand Rapids Junior College.

Chamberlain intends to pursue a career in physical therapy. She says she would like to reverse the negative stories she's heard about physical therapists, and make physical therapy a positive experience for people.

Patsy Kay Deans

Deans, a Lowell High School senior, enjoys aerobics, karate and tennis as hobbies.

She is a recipient of the High School's student-of-the-month honor, a member of the National Honor Society, the International Club and the Lowell Rotary. Deans was also named one of the Outstanding Students of America for her 4.0 grade-point-average.

Deans, the daughter of Dave and Betty Deans, is also enrolled in a modeling school and holds down two part-time jobs.

Her future plans include attending Davenport College where she will pursue a degree in fashion merchandising, to become a model, and to study drama.

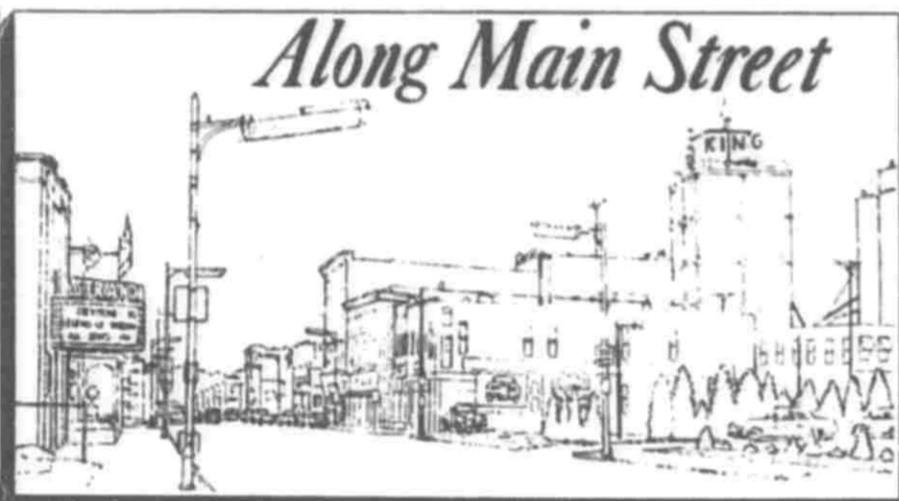

Lorinda C. Esch

Lorinda C. Esch Esch, 19, a 1988 Lowell High School graduate, is in her second year at Grand Valley State University where she is High, turbulent waters slow search for missing Lowell youth's body

A three-day search through the rapid, cold, turbulent waters of Plaster Creek for the body of 10-year-old Lowell boy, Keith Lyons, who apparently drowned Saturday around 6 p.m. after slipping from a concrete culvert (pipe) while trying to cross the creek with his friend, David Larsson, was put on hold Tuesday morning until conditions become better.

Kent County Sheriff Department Sergeant Bob Berg said the turbulent waters which are 2-4 feet higher than a week ago, along with tree limbs and other debris in the base of the creek, has made searching difficult.

Commander of Community Affairs, Vic Gillis, said Lyons fell and then was apparently swept away into the swollen creek near the 2900 block of Marshall Avenue.

Lyons' pal, Larsson ran for help, but a Grand Rapids officer near the scene at the time, rushed to the creek bed, but found no signs of Lyons.

The search which had to be called off because of darkness Saturday after about 90 minutes, continued on Sunday for 7½ hours and then into Monday.

Because of the heavy snow over the last couple of weeks the creek's depth was said to be two or three times higher than normal.

The search for the Runciman elementary student continued on Monday. The head of the Kent County Dive Team, Seargant Jim Montgomery said the creek turned rapids is very restrictive.

"The tremendous current and debris at the creek's bottom makes it very dangerous to dive," Montgomery said.

Berg added that finding the boy's body is dependent on the creek's condition. "The body may have settled in a quiet area of the creek or it could move down to the river. At this point, we just don't know," he says.

Lyons, who lives in Lowell with his father, William Lyons, was visiting his mother, Josephine, for the weekend at her apartment at 2914 Marshall Ave. SE, adjacent to the creek.

Lyons was a third-grade student in Karen Corbett's classroom.

A team support program made up of social workers, counselors and teachers was formed at the beginning of the year to help students and staff deal with this type of situation.

On Monday, Runciman Principal, Louie Dudeck held an early morning meeting to go over procedures with the elementary staff. Dudeck then visited each classroom to talk to students.

Letters were also sent home to the student's parents in regards to the accident. "Elementary students react differently to this type of tragedy," Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch. "Reactions go from silence to crying."

St. Mary's students have fun and learn with

Sister Mary and students live in a World of Wheels for the science fair's open house.

David Burgess, front and Chris Serne, back, demonstrate their "Finish Line - Best Time" project.

St. Mary's students grades kindergarten through eighth displayed their science fair projects to fellow school-mates and parents with an unabashed excitement last Wednesday.

Following a month of research, studying, reading and hard work, students shared their projects' process, concepts and answered questions of those with inquiring minds.

School science fairs, displaying students' work on their individual projects at home, have become commonplace amongst educational settings. St. Mary's diverted the charge of its 1990 science fair in that the students' projects were only worked on at school.

"Instead of students bringing in finished products from home, we had students working with students," St. Mary's Sister Adele said. "We had students who hadn't researched before, searching and reading for answers in school library encyclopedias."

The science projects were the focal point of students' studies for roughly a month. "We suspended our regular school schedule, in some cases, in order to provide time for the science projects," says Sister Adele.

Each classroom was allowed to choose from a list of sub-topics presented to them by their homeroom teacher.

The sub-topics came from five different main headings. Kindergartners' projects dealt with the five senses; first and second-graders worked with plants and seeds; third and fourth-graders dealt with the value of wood; fifth- and sixth-grade projects dealt with the world of wheels; and seventh and eighth-graders worked on body and nutrition.

Prior to the science fair open house on Wednesday, students shared their projects with one another. "That was neat because we had seventh and eighth-graders teaching the kindergarten children and vice versa," Sister Adele said.

The idea for the learning science fair was first brought to Sister Adele by St. Mary's seventh and eighth-grade teacher, Sue Koster. "What I like about learning fairs is it involves kids working on projects with kids. If you show students something they're liable to forget, but if you involve the students they're more apt to remember."

Koster was informed about the learning fair at a workshop at Grand Valley State University.

"It was a lot of work for both the children and the teachers," Koster says. "The beauty of this type of fair is that it involves the students in both learning and teaching science." She adds that the teaching fair is deemed more successful.

"Students not only had to present their project to other people but they had to know the process, the concepts and be able to answer questions," Koster said.

Sister Adele summed up the students' excitement for the science learning fair. "It combines fun with learning."

The public is invited and admission is free.

Catholic Central drops Lowell 70-65 in district

Leading Lowell 65-43 with little over three minutes to play in the game, Catholic Central's first-year coach, Scott Thomkins did the customary sportsman-like thing. He pulled his starters and gave his reserves some well earned playing time. That customary sign of sportsmanship almost caused Tomkins, his players and Doug fans a great deal of discomfort as the Red Arrows made an extraordinary push before falling, 70-65. "We wanted to turn up the tempo from the outset, but we weren't able to do that until late when Coach Thomkins put in the reserves," Lowell coach Mark Thomas said.

"Catholic Central is a big basketball team that's patient and gets the ball down into the post area. They also get after the ball real well." While Thomkins went to his bench, Thomas filled his lineup with seniors - Ryan Holzk, Bob Adams, Dave Or-ganek, Tom Moore and Jim Bowen. The five Red Arrows proved to be warriors as they carried the game down to the final seconds. In the final three minutes the Arrows out-scored Catholic Central 22-5. Twice within the final three minutes Lowell posted runs of 8-0. After Lowell pulled within eight at 67-59, Thomkins' nerves had enough, as he reinstated some starters with a little less than a minute to play. In fairness to Catholic Central, the Cougars controlled the ballgame for 29 of the 32 minutes. The 14-7 Catholic Central squad jumped on the underdog Arrows with a 22-7 first quarter. Lowell out-scored the Cougars 17-16 in the second quarter, cutting the lead to 14 at halftime, 38-24. Central, again controlled the third quarter, as it established a 63-39 advantage. "Going into the contest, we knew we wanted to jump on Lowell early. In a game like this you don't want to let the other team think it can play with you," Thomkins said. "Other than the troubles our reserves had with their full court pressure, I thought we executed well. The boys also did a nice job of knocking down the foul shots." Chris Lamange led all scorers with 22 points. Teammate Dave Shook contributed with 20. Lowell got a team-high 19 points from John Borg and 15 from senior Bob Adams. Jim Bowen contributed with 11. "We needed a quick start, but we didn't shoot the ball well tonight," Thomas said. Lowell ends its season with a record of 5-15. The team will hold its awards banquet Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Middle School. For Central, the victory meant a trip to the district finals for the first time in five years. Northview, Catholic Central's opponent in the district championship, won the contest 69-57. It was Northview's second straight district crown, the first time in the school's history that feat has been achieved. Northview finished second in the O-K White this year behind Rogers, who also advanced to regional play. Rogers defeated rival Wyoming Park for its title.

Bob Adams releases a jumper in district action against Catholic Central. Lowell lost the contest 70-65.

Lowell's Red Arrow gymnasts come up short at Region I Gymnastics meet at Kenowa Hills

The Red Arrow hearts were into it, but the best laid plan for a third-place finish at the Region I Gymnastics Meet Saturday at Kenowa Hills was foiled by charging Rams and well armored Knights. Lowell, who finished fifth, was expected to challenge Rockford for third, and with it, a spot in the state meet at Saginaw Valley College on Saturday. Lowell's gymnastic team got a good draw as it started the regional with the floor exercise. "We couldn't have got a better draw. Starting with the floor exercise is much better than starting on the beam," Lowell coach Tammy Fitzpatrick said. Lowell's good fortune also ended with the floor exercise as it lost Becky Hovey for the day to a hand injury. "Although we won't know for a couple days, we believe she broke her hand during her floor exercise routine," Fitzpatrick said. The Arrow coach said the injury hampered Lowell's run to qualify for the state meet, but added that even had Hovey not sustained an injury, Lowell still may not have qualified.

Rockford did as expected, but Kenowa Hills had a superb afternoon. "The Knights really performed well," Fitzpatrick said. Kenowa Hills 127.20 placed it in fourth behind the third-place Rams at 127.70. Lowell was fifth at 122.05. Mona Shores who chased Holland throughout the regular season and into the districts, caught the Dutch and surpassed Holland in the Regionals. The victory was the Sailors first over the Dutch since 1981. "Our kids did everything well," Mona Shores coach Sheryl DeWeerd said. "We had to be perfect, and we were." Mona Shores finished first with 139.25 points. Holland had 138.45. Spots six through eight were filled by East Grand Rapids, 120.30; West Catholic 118.25, and Ottawa Hills 115.90. "We needed a strong effort from everybody to overtake Rockford," Fitzpatrick said. "Nevertheless we had a good season. The girls finished third in the conference (5-3 overall). In the floor exercise, Holland's Teresa Blauwkamp was first with a mark of 9.4. Rockford's Stacy Launstein was second with a 9.25, while West Catholic's Anna Walberer was third at 9.2. Lowell was led in the floor exercise by Laura Kropf who recorded an 8.45. Carrie Lipkea was next at 7.7, while Becky Hovey posted a 7.6 and Kim Pullen earned a mark of 7.1. Aimee Goff of Mona Shores took top honors on the vault with a 9.2. Blauwkamp was second at 9.04 and Rockford's Becky Barczyk finished third at 9.0. Lowell's Kropf qualified for state competition on the vault with an 8.8, placing fourth. "It will be exciting to watch Laura compete on the vault at the state meet," Fitzpatrick said. Other Red Arrow scores on the vault included: Tammy Jeske with a 7.95; Kim Pullen recorded a 7.45 and Angie Fox had a 7.25. On the uneven bars, Goff, who won the All-Around with 36.65, posted the top score of 9.45. Holland's Tracy Weber was second at 9.2 and Blauwkamp was third with a 9.0. Gymnastics cont'd pg 20

Jeske scored a 7.55, Jody Smith earned a 7.95, and Pulen scored a 6.6. In the All-Around, Goff was first, Blauwkamp finished second at 36.25 and Walberer was third at 35.30. "We didn't do as well as we'd hoped, but the girls gave a good showing," Fitzpatrick said.

Spring employment outlook for Grand Rapids includes a brisk hiring pace

Grand Rapids area employers expect to see a brisk hiring pace this spring, according to results of the 1990 Second Quarter Employment Outlook Survey just released by Manpower, Inc., the world's largest temporary help firm.

Area employers polled on their hiring intentions for the April/May/June period report that 40 percent will add staff, 7 percent plan personnel cutbacks and 53 percent foresee no change. Manpower spokesperson David W. Clonan said,

"Grand Rapids area results are down a little from one year ago, when 43 percent expected staff increases and 3 percent predicted reductions."

The national scene reflects a slight decline in hiring among the more than 15,000 employers surveyed, as 26 percent plan workforce additions and 8 percent expect to decrease staff levels. Regionally, 29 percent in the Midwest project increased hiring while 8 percent anticipate reduced personnel rolls.

In Grand Rapids, job opportunities look best in the wholesale/retail trade, the construction industry, non-durable goods manufacturing, and transportation/public utilities firms. Durable goods manufacturers report plans for less hiring.

Nationally the survey portrays weakness in projected hiring plans. The resilient recovery that normally follows a slow post-holiday first quarter did not occur. "The pick-up is there this year, but the usual eight-point increase is down to six points," said Manpower President Mitchell S. Fromstein. The details by industry follows.

CONSTRUCTION
In the construction industry restaffing, though active, still falls somewhat below that of second quarters since 1983. The 36 percent that will hire additional workers is only a notch below last year and the 9 percent planning declines is a point above that of a year ago. Bolstered by seasonal strength, this industry offers the nation's best outlook.

DURABLE GOODS MANUFACTURING

Not since 1983 have employment plans among Durable Goods Manufacturers been so weak. Both the 26 percent planning to add staff and the 11 percent expecting employment decreases are considerably less positive than at this time last year. Only in the South is the outlook in this sector above average.

NON-DURABLE GOODS MANUFACTURING

Non-Durable Goods Manufacturers also expect their hiring to be below the normal seasonal levels, although the decline is not as pronounced as among Durable Goods makers. The April/May/June quarter hiring outlook approximates that of the second quarters of 1986-87, but is well below 1988-89.

SERVICES

Often an employment leader at this time of year, Services firms are again the most optimistic, as 28 percent will seek additional employees and 6 percent plan staff cutbacks. Only the Construction industry has a brighter picture at present, but the current expectation is slightly behind those of similar quarters of the past three years.

Landlocked elementary buildings hinder renovation

In 1936 the old Riverside School was built. For a short time, a part of it was used as part of the high school. Its purpose when constructed was to serve as an elementary building.

It has continued to serve as an elementary building to date, but with increased numbers of students and a small amount of classrooms, creating a situation that is becoming increasingly more difficult.

Riverside houses six regular classrooms, one special education classroom and one music room. According to Runciman/Riverside Principal Louie Dudeck the special education and music rooms are renovated shower rooms. The renovation work was done approximately two years ago. "All of the classrooms are currently at or above student capacity," Dudeck said.

The unanticipated growth at the third-grade level in 1989-90, has resulted in some third-grade students being shifted to Bushnell and Alto where classroom space was available.

According to Dudeck that same crunch will be felt at the fourth-grade level next year (1990-91). "We will need another fourth-grade classroom if we are to bring back all the students to Riverside that we shifted around this year."

Some have suggested that an addition ought to be put on Riverside. School officials warn they are apprehensive about putting an addition on a 1936 building. "Riverside still has some of the wooden beams it was built with in between the brick walls," Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch said. "Not only that, but is were landlocked, and an addition would also take away from playground space."

While there is apprehension among school officials, the school architect, Ralph Moxley has reported that the building is structurally sound.

Another drawback school officials see with Riverside is the size of the classrooms. The standard size for a classroom is 900 square feet and that varies according to the age level of the students. The younger the students the more space required. The rooms at Riverside are 750 square feet.

A possible solution to the classroom crunch at Riverside and some of the other elementary buildings is using the religious classrooms in the local churches for the 1990-91 school year, provided approval is given by the State Fire Marshall, warned Esch.

There are a lot of questions in regards to the room crunch at Riverside. School officials are now in search of the School cont'd pg 22 in 1989 was the spring quarter forecast among Transportation and Public Utilities firms considerably better in this industry, which features rather stable employment levels. Among those interviewed, 23 percent expect to increase employment rolls and 9 percent plan decreases.

The music room at Riverside still has remembrances of the old shower room.

WHOLESALE & RETAIL TRADES

The recovery from the first quarter post-holiday staff cutbacks usually experienced in Wholesale and Retail Trades did not materialize as strongly in 1990. New hiring is anticipated to be lower and further staff trimming higher than in the years since 1983.

FINANCE, INSURANCE, & REAL ESTATE

Hiring activity in this stable industry is edging downward from the levels of recent years as the propensity for adding staff loses momentum. Although the 8 percent planning to trim the employment rolls is not exceptionally high, there appears to be little spirit for staff additions. The 21 percent now planning hiring increases approximates levels of the past three quarters but lags slightly behind most other quarters since 1983 in this non-seasonal sector.

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Government employers should be among the most aggressive in the coming three months. Plans for adding employment in government units surpass those of most industries in the private sector. The survey indicates 28 percent will increase employment and 7 percent foresee staff decreases.

EDUCATION - PUBLIC & PRIVATE

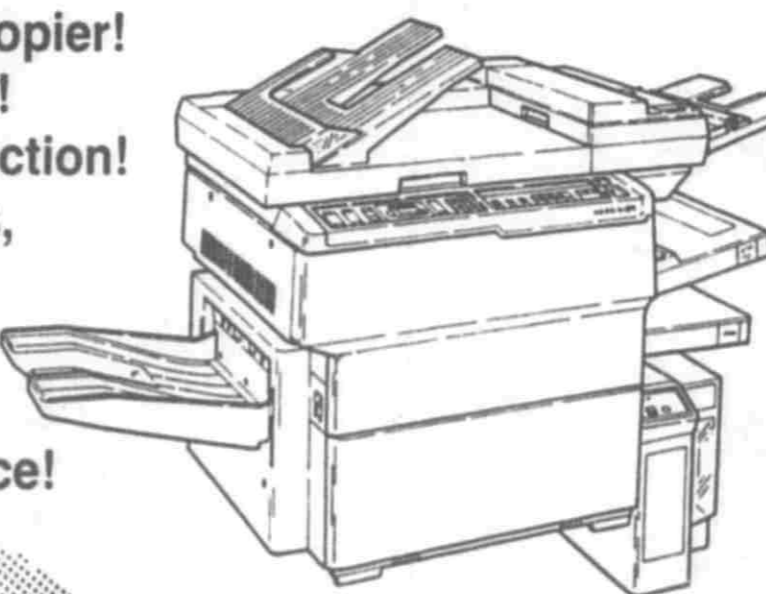

The spring quarter is never a strong hiring period among Education employers and this quarter should be a slight improvement over that of recent years. The present plans of 17 percent increasing staff and 7 percent cutting back is only marginally behind the record pace of one year ago. While optimistic in the Education field, the sector is not among the national leaders.

Manpower Inc. conducts the Employment Outlook Survey on a quarterly basis. It is a measurement of employer intentions to increase or decrease the permanent workforce, and during its fourteen-year history has been a significant indicator of employment trends. The survey, conducted during the last two weeks of February, is based upon telephone interviews with more than 15,000 public and private employers in 471 U.S. cities. Manpower Inc. is the world's largest temporary service firm, annually providing employment to nearly 1,000,000 people through more than 1,600 offices in 34 countries. Office services account for more than half of the assignments in which its temporary workforce is engaged.

How Do You Find Answers When You're Not Even Sure Of The Questions?

"I feel like I'm going crazy. I always made good grades...couldn't wait to get to college. Now that I'm here I don't know what I want to do or why. It's my junior year and I still don't have a major. My professors bombard me with theories I have no answers for. I don't know what I believe anymore. Then, there's my girlfriend. We talk about marriage, but I'm not sure I even know what real love is."

This young man isn't alone in his confusion. Genuine purpose and direction in life is something we all need. Sometimes we fail to find it because we fail to get at the heart of things.

There are answers. There is purpose. There is life. Come, let's begin the journey together.

parking areas. Dudeck said Runciman could handle more students, but that is dependent upon what grade level the new students enter. "Kindergarten would not be a problem," he says. Runciman has 13 class-$60,000 solution.

Of the two schools, Runciman, built in 1956, structurally may be best suited for an addition. But like Riverside, it too is landlocked. The only space available to the school district is the playground and rooms, three which are used for special education.

Classrooms are not the only rooms feeling the space crunch. The Runciman Library is also crowded. "Right now I'd say we're full to capacity. Some of the new books may have to be stacked on top of other books," Runciman Librarian Eileen McLaughlin said. The library currently has roughly 13,000 books.

While many might say the classroom crunch is due in part to poor planning years ago, Korb and Board of Education member David Hagens believe it had more to do with a different philosophy.

"Everything was centrally located to the City. I think years ago they built reactively and not proactively," Korb said.

In medieval France, King Philip decreed that the points on his subject's shoes should be between six and twelve inches—the longer the point, the higher the rank.

Fund-raising efforts paying off for Cystic Fibrosis

With the discovery of the Cystic Fibrosis Gene in August of last year, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's (CFF) slogan: "to make cystic fibrosis history," is just around the corner. "This is the year we're hoping to go out of business," states Bob Dressing, President of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

With the discovery of the gene, the Foundation is responsible for funding one of the most exciting discoveries in the history of genetic research. "From encouraging collaboration, sponsoring meetings and putting dollars into this whole effort, the CFF's role has been critical," states Dr. Francis Collins,

M.D., Ph.D., who led the search for the gene at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute at the University of Michigan.

On Saturday, May 19 at 9 a.m., the West Michigan Regional Office will expand its fight to find a cure for cystic fibrosis (CF) with GREAT STRIDES.

GREAT STRIDES provides the perfect opportunity for area corporations, businesses and civic organizations to become involved in a fun community event. By forming teams to walk the 10K (6.2 mile) route, companies enhance their visibility in the community and create team spirit among employees. Individuals are encouraged to team up with family and friends to share a day of leisurely recreation.

The walk begins in front of the East Grand Rapids City Hall and will proceed around Reeds Lake. The West Michigan Regional Office's goal is to draw over 500 walkers raising $15,000.

The number one money raising walker will win two American Airlines plane tickets to fly anywhere in the continental United States.

Join the teams of walkers throughout Grand Rapids, the West Michigan Communities, and across the nation who will walk toward this single goal: to make cystic fibrosis history. For more information call the West Michigan Regional Office at 451-4225 or 1-800-443-0752.

So, you think today's pot-holed roads are bad

The road system circa 1892 quickly turned into a quagmire with any good rain. Travel at best was difficult. Better to use the fast and convenient rail system.

Middle School band students receive division ratings

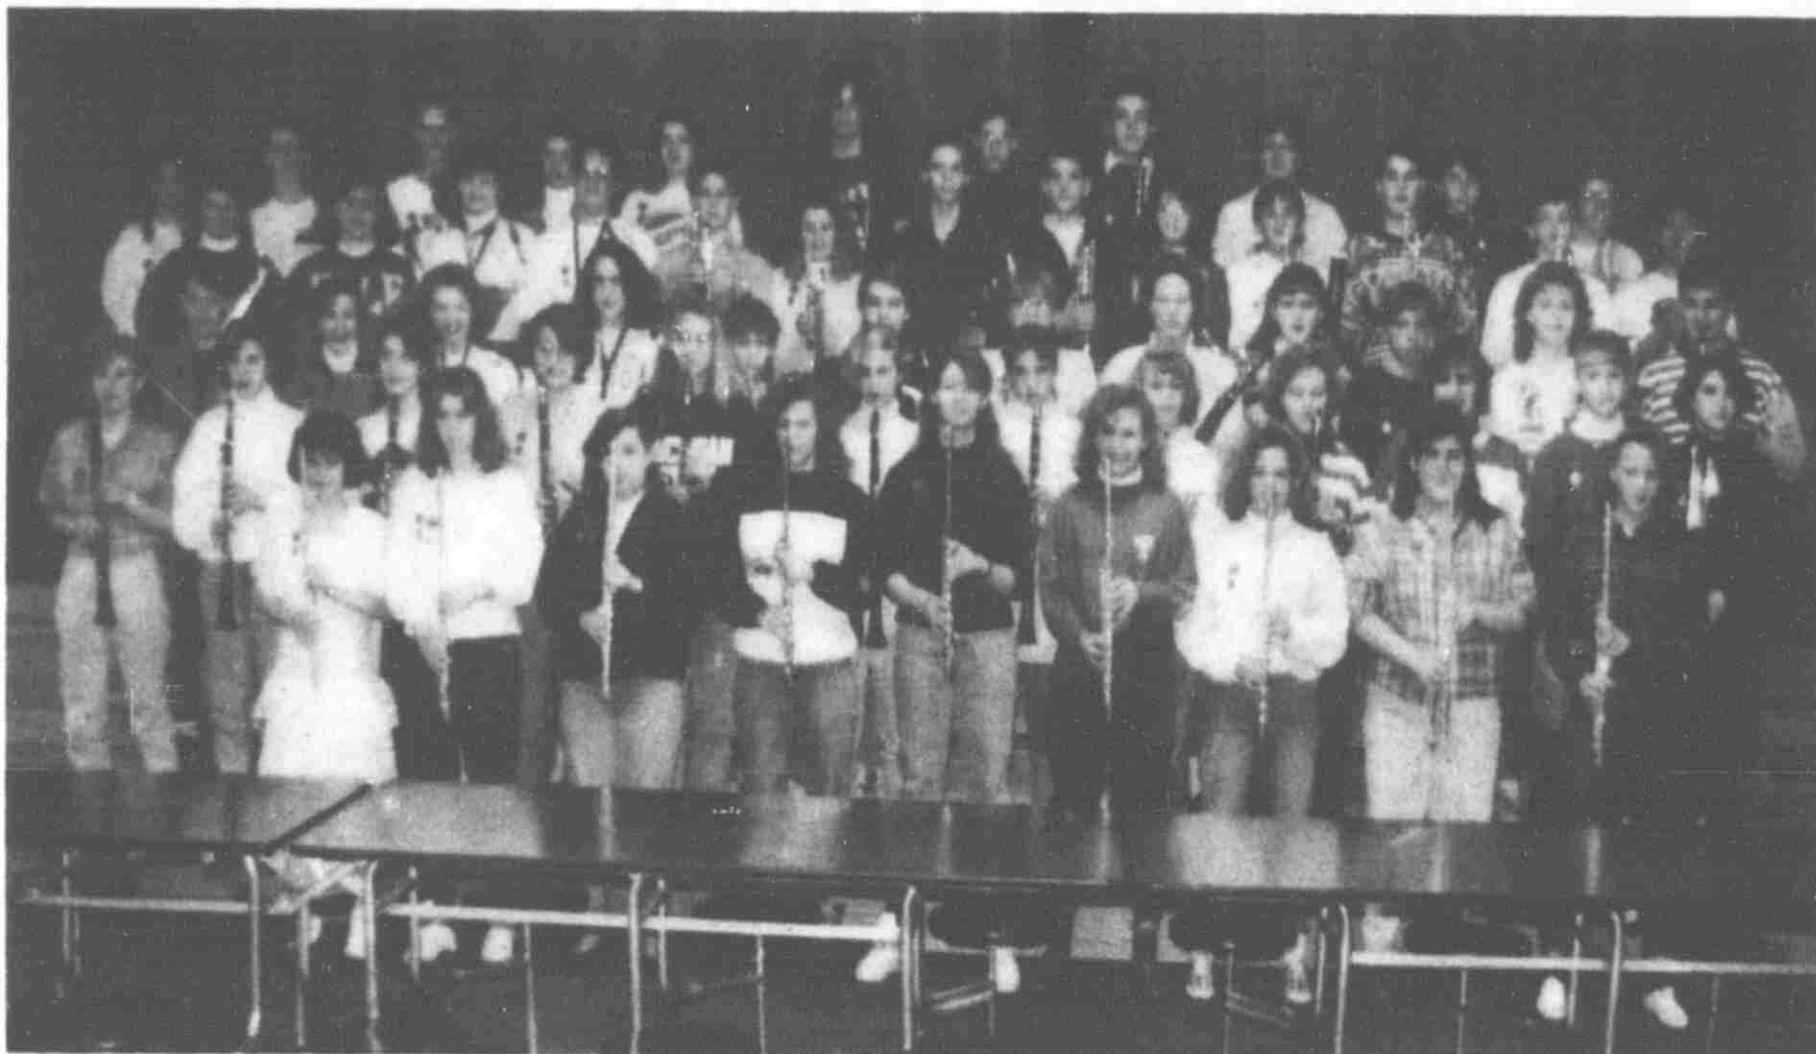

The Lowell Middle School's seventh and eighth grade band students, 143 strong, represented Lowell at the District Michigan School Band and Orchestra Festival held on Friday, March 2 and Saturday, March 3 at Caledonia and Saranac High Schools.

Both bands received second division ratings qualifying all students for medals. The rating is just below the top rating for all bands participating in the festival.

The seventh grade band performed the "Father of Victory March" by Ganne, "The Triumphant Festival" by Handel and "Chorale and Canon" by McGinty.

Seventh-grade Middle School Band

Eighth-grade Middle School Band

The eighth grade band performed "The March of The Irish Guard" by Kinyon, "Portrait for Band" by Cavas and "Renaissance Masters Suite" by Gordon.

Both bands were adjudicated by a panel of three judges for the above performance using a first division to fifth division rating system. The bands were then escorted to a separate room to sight read a march and an overture for a fourth judge. A total of seven minutes was allowed for instruction prior to the performance for the adjudicator.

Lowell First United Methodist Church to host "Christian Clowns" on Sunday, March 18

The "Christian Clowns" will be presented on Sunday, March 18 at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Lowell First United Methodist Church, as part of the first "Celebrations of Lent" series.

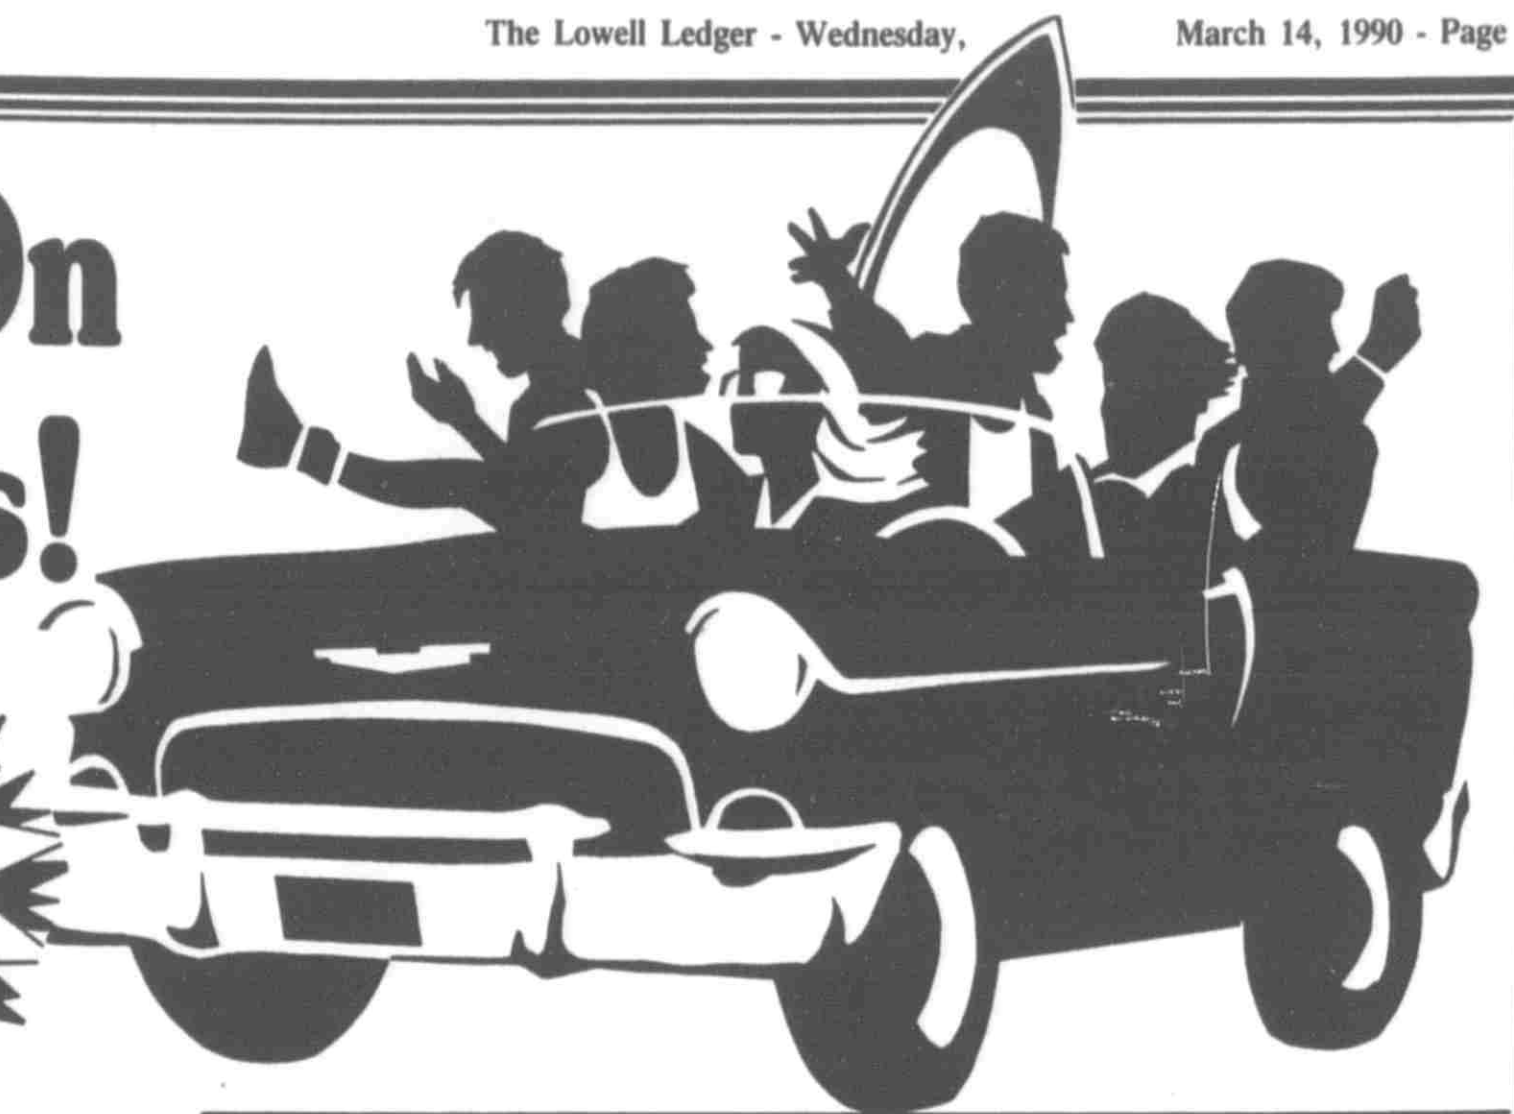

Ruth Hansen, director of the "Christian Clowns", says that their purpose is to interpret, without words, the scripture and to celebrate God's love. Using song and scripture, the clowns joyfully and humorously portray some of the great biblical themes.

The church is located at 621 E. Main. Child care will be provided and refreshments will be served after the program. A free-will offering will help defray expenses of the Lenten series. All are welcome.

Camp Fire Organization celebrates its 80th

During the month of March the Camp Fire organization will celebrate its 80th birthday. Nationally Camp Fire began in the New England area in the summer of 1910. Two very important events happened in Thetford, Vermont. The town was planning to celebrate its 150th birthday. A man named William Chauncey Langdon organized a town play. Some Boy Scouts were in the play, and some of the girls who lived in the area asked for parts, too. So, Langdon began a group he called Camp Fire Girls. He set up three ranks of achievement - Wood Gatherer, Fire Maker and Torch Bearer. He picked a group leader and called the leader the "Guardian of the Fire." That same summer, in Maine, Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick and his wife, Charlotte, ran a summer camp for girls. The Gulicks had run a family camp for many years for their own daughters. By the summer of 1910, they had 17 other girls at their camp. Charlotte Gulick called the camp "WoHeLo", a word she made up from the first two letters of the words Work,

Health and Love. In 1912, the organization of Camp Fire Girls, Inc. was incorporated when Charlotte Gulick signed special papers in Washington, DC. In 1913, there were over 60,000 members. Today Camp Fire Girls has a membership of over half a million. Some things have changed over the years. Both boys and girls can belong to Camp Fire now. The Keewano Council of Camp Fire in the Grand Rapids area is 70 years old. On Saturday, March 17, its Annual Carnival, "Celebration '80", is held at the Westwood Middle School in Grand Rapids from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All the proceeds go towards the program and maintenance of Camp Keewano in Hesperia, Camp Fire's resident camp. In the Lowell area there are three groups. Their leaders are Doreen Seward, Deb Tower, Dave Miller, Krista Miller and Kathy Gingerich. Sponsoring the groups this past year were the Jim Seward Family, Third Base Convenience Station, Keiser's Kitchen, Gauthier and Lang, D.O. and Cousin's Hallmark.

The leaders encourage everybody to celebrate Camp Fire's birthday at "Celebration '80". If you have a son or daughter between the ages of 5 and 18 interested in Camp Fire, please contact Camp Fire's main office at 949-2500.

Lowell Board of Education adopts K-8 portion of science curriculum

At the December meeting, the Lowell Board of Education adopted the K-8 portion of the Science Curriculum. At Monday's March meeting, the other bookend to the science curriculum was completed, as the 9-12 portion of the curriculum was also approved.

Along with asking for curriculum approval, the curriculum council asked and got approval for the purchase of specific materials and apparatus for the seventh through 12th-grades.

Rick White, a high school science teacher, said the council felt that the current books were still adequate, and that it desperately needed equipment and supplies in classrooms for hands-on experimentation.

The Board approved the purchase of materials to not exceed $24,414. The expenditure will be made from this year's textbook account.

The budgetary requirements are summarized as follows: seventh-grade $2,729; eighth-grade $5,100; physical science $1,704; practical science $2,365; chemistry/physics $4,396; and biology $8,120.

White pointed out that additional classes which were approved for future consideration were not being recommended for funding at this time. One of those classes was "Earth Science." White said current staffing does not allow for it, and when it does, the class will be added. Meteorology was the second class to, however, for lack of funding it will be held off for the future. The class would require an additional $7,714.

The total expenditure for K-12 science this year now stands at $68,352 and no new books for six of the 13 grades. In other news, the Board approved the request for proposal document in seeking bids for a new computer system for the administrative office.

The computer hardware/software vendor list has been narrowed to five. They include IBM, Pentamation, Pertaine Systems, Inc., Unisys, and Rands Data Systems, Inc.

The board gave its approval to send bid specifications for the re-roofing of Bushnell Elementary, the partial re-roofing of the warehouse, and for updating the Alto water softening system.

The changeover to the Cash Investment Checking program at FMB State Savings bank for the Lowell Area Schools' general fund was also approved.

The board accepted the resignation from Laurie Kuna as the varsity volleyball coach effective at the end of the school year. The Lowell Coach pointed to inadequate practice times and facilities as reasons for her resignation.

Eileen McLaughlin's resignation as Runciman Elementary School Librarian effective at the end of the school year was also accepted.

Medical leaves for Lisa Enslin and Jody Ringnalda were also approved.

CITY OF LOWELL PUBLIC NOTICE

Speed has role in Segwun/Grand River Drive collision

Injuries were incurred in a two-truck accident Friday.

A two-truck accident at Segwun and Grand River at 5 p.m. delayed weekend traffic on their way home.

Injuries were incurred in a two-truck collision on Segwun just south of Grand River Drive shortly after 5 p.m. on Friday. Driver Eric Smith, 16, of Alto, and his passenger, Edward Drougol, 17, of Lowell, were transported to Butterworth Hospital by Lowell Ambulance.

Smith complained of neck and back pains and Drougol was treated for a lacerated right elbow, head injuries and a groin injury.

Smith's vehicle was northbound on Segwun, traveling at roughly 40 miles an hour, when he lost control and spun sideways into the southbound lane. The driver of the second truck, Rory Giles, 32, of Alto, was southbound on Segwun when he attempted to stop, but could not and collided with Smith, according to the Kent County Sheriff's report.

Giles received a lacerated chin and hit his head on the windshield. The Alto man sought his own treatment.

Smith was cited for driving too fast.

Krause will not seek fifth term

State Representative Vic Krause (R-Rockford) announced recently that he will not seek a fifth term in the Michigan House of Representatives this November.

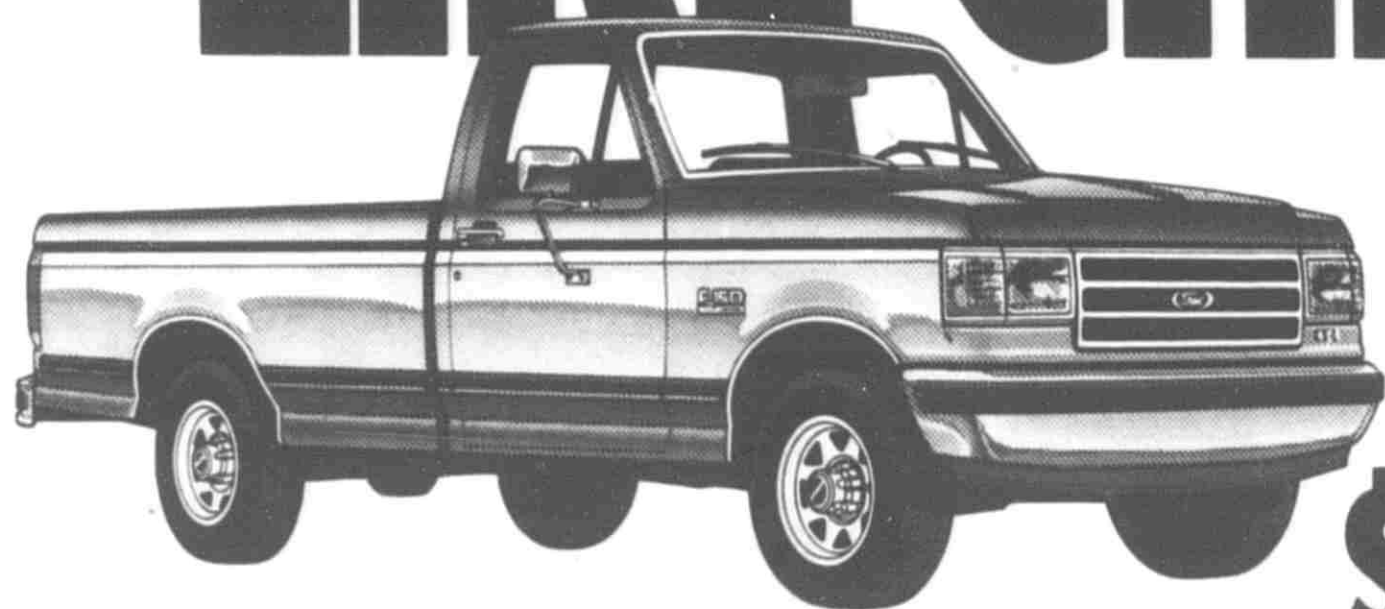

Krause was first elected in 1982. He serves on the Corporations and Finance, Public Health and Public Utilities Committees and has served as Chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee since 1987.

"After eight years in the State Legislature it will be time for me to seek new challenges. While I have no definite plans for the future, I hope to stay involved in some capacity with state and national issues. I plan to stay active in the Republican Party and won't rule out the possibility of running for higher office in the future," Krause stated.

"I have deliberated long and hard with family and friends and feel it is time to step down and allow others the opportunity that I have enjoyed over the past several years. It has been a privilege to serve the residents of the 90th Legislative District," Krause said.

In making his announcement, Krause expressed appreciation to his family, friends, neighbors and staff for their guidance and support. "It's hard for me to find the words to adequately thank them for everything they've done for me these last eight years."

NO ONE SELLS FORD LIKE CHEVY.

1990 Ford F-150 only

$11,511

Maybe the best way to sell yourself on Ford trucks, is to test drive Chevy. Because then you'll start noticing certain things. Such as the fact that Chevy full-size pick-up trucks lack Ford's choice of four multi-port electronic fuel injected engines, our Ford F-Series pick-up's larger, standard six cylinder engine with more load pulling torque, and our longer, wider, deeper, cargo box. Plus Ford gives you a better choice of options grouped together for greater savings — Chevy doesn't.* So, if you want to find out who has the best built American trucks, it's simple: Hurry to your Chevy dealers.

Just don't stop there.

INCLUDES: Air conditioning, Speed control/Tilt steering wheel, Deluxe argent styled steel wheels, Light/convenience group, Handling package, Heavy Duty Service package, Argent rear step bumper, Bright low-mount swingaway mirrors, Electronic AM/FM stereo w/clock, Headliner & insulation package.

*Based on manufacturer's published information and generally available industry data. Based on average of consumer reported problems in a series of surveys of all Ford and competitive '81-'89 models designed and built in North America.

F-150 MSRP with 503A Preferred Equipment Package and Argent Rear Step Bumper less $750 cash back. Freight, tax, title and other options extra. For cash back take retail delivery from dealer stock by 4/2/90. See dealer for details.
