Little League hunts for "Field of Dreams"

Little League is a national organization based in Williamsport, PA. For the past 51 years it literally has been a "Field of Dreams" for youngsters around the country.

Lowell's Little League has been an organized part of that for the past eight years. Two of the fields currently used by the league, located on land owned by Central States Precision Grinding, may not be available for use by the league in 1991.

Because of the league's continual growth over the eight years and because of the expected growth for the coming years, league officials believe there is need for the construction of four new fields which would greatly reduce reliance on other field facilities currently being used at Alto, Bushnell and the Middle School. The new fields would also provide a central location for Little League activities.

League officials say they are looking for land to purchase or lease near the City of Lowell in order to construct a new baseball field complex. Approximately 15-20 acres of land are preferred in order to construct four ball fields and to have the capability of expanding to six or seven in the future.

Officials believe if land and permits can be acquired by October, the fields can be constructed and ready for use in time for the 1991 baseball season.

The Lowell Little League program which has been a successful youth program, was founded in 1982. It has grown from the approximately 180 participants in that first year to over 350 in 1990. In 1990, 24 teams were established, including 18 boys' baseball teams and six girls' softball teams.

Lowell's Little League is managed by a group of volunteer parents, most of whom have children in the program now or have had children in the program in years past. Many of the parents are also Roger Southland and Larry Mikulski smiled as they sat on the registration table which sit underneath the canope, also known as tournament headquarters, reflecting back on the Third Annual Showboat City Hoop Classic.

In its first year under fire, Southland, Mikulski and their Knights of Columbus comrades did what many, including themselves, weren't sure was possible, draw together 112 teams in three weeks and organize a quality and well-controlled three-on-three basketball tournament.

"I'm not sure I believe it, but I saw it and it worked," Mikulski said. "It's fantastic to realize that 112 teams were signed up in roughly a three week period. That's tremendous."

Southland and Mikulski were also long on gratitude for the support they received from the Lowell Chamber of Commerce, area businesses and from the school.

"Many people may not realize that back in late May when it was announced that the Knights of Columbus would be the organizers of this tourney, it had to go out and raise $8,000 so a Showboat City Hoop Classic

100 Lowell residents have house numbers painted on curb by area scout

Pete Wills got the idea for his Eagle Scout service project from another scout. He is hopeful that other area scouts will be encouraged enough by his service project to take it up as a fund raiser in the future.

His community project involved painting house numbers on curbs of 100 residents living along North Hudson and Lincoln Lake. The Eagle Scout service project is designed so that it involves the

"I asked Frank Leasure, from Dey Machine, to design and make the steel templates," Wills said. "The black and white paint was donated by Repcolite out of Grand Rapids."

After organizing the equipment, Wills proceeded to organize his help. It included other scouts; Pelon, his scout leader; Scout Master, Rick Briggs; and his father, Roger Wills.

The project was met with appreciation and approval by the 100 residents. Jill Bowen, 932 Lincoln Lake, said she thought it was a great idea. "Half the houses don't have address numbers posted," Bowen said.

Len Hamp, a Kent County Sheriff's Department officer agreed. "There are many street numbers you can't see from the road and there are many residents who don't have their numbers posted. It will also quicken emergency response times."

Hemp concluded that the numbers on the curbs look great and that they really show up.

community, church or school and that the community in which the scout lives is the beneficiary.

"By painting house numbers on the curbs it will better help serve the Lowell emergency units so that Lowell Ambulance and the Lowell Fire Department can get to people in need of care more quickly," Wills says.

Wills' Scout Leader Larry Pelon (Troop 102) said he thought the project is a wonderful service. "I first heard of this being done by a scout in East Grand Rapids," he said.

Before starting on the project, Wills was required to submit five reference letters, stating the quality of his character.

After the letters were received by the scout office, Wills then had to write a basic outline of what he wanted the service project to accomplish.

After establishing his objectives, Wills contacted Director of Public Safety, Tony Siciliano, for direction as to the steps needed in obtaining project approval from the City. That approval was given at a July 9 City Council meeting.

All of the equipment used in the service project by Wills was donated.

Bond preliminaries handled by Lowell Board of Education

As time creeps ever so close to Sept. 25, the date the Lowell School District votes on the school bond issue, Lowell's school officials handle more and more preliminary work.

At the August Board of Education meeting, the Lowell Board of Education approved a resolution establishing language for the Sept. 25 bond issue.

Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch added that the school had received preliminary qualifications for the District's bond issues, for the purpose of:

- * erecting, furnishing and equipping a new high school

- facility and acquiring a site;
- * erecting, furnishing and equipping additions to, and partially remodeling and partially re-equipping the existing high school for middle school purposes;
- * partially remodeling and partially re-equipping the existing middle school for elementary school purposes;
- * partially remodeling and partially re-equipping the Alto and Bushnell Elementary Schools;
- * partially remodeling and partially re-equipping the Runciman and Riverside Elementary Schools for administration and community/adult education purposes;

- * constructing and equipping outdoor physical education, athletic and playground facilities; and developing and improving sites?

The District also got preliminary qualification on the bonding proposition - community swimming pool.

In other school news: The Board approved a resolution in support of the Grand Rapids Junior College redistricting. It was recommended to the Grand Rapids Public Schools Board of Education that the Junior College be separated from the Grand Rapids Public Schools and a could be realized," Mikulski said. "The Lowell business people were wonderful in their support. As was the school in allowing us to use its facilities."

Southland admitted there are some problems that needed to be dealt with before next year. Those included some rule clarifications, getting applications out earlier, and getting a better spread of brackets.

"In some brackets there was just too big an age difference between clubs. That problem can be solved by signing-up more teams," Southland said. "I'd like to see the number of teams increased to 200 next year."

Both Mikulski and Southland said they would like to improve upon the celebrity image in 1991. Again, this was hurt by the pinch for time.

The Grand Rapids Pacers (a local wheelchair basketball team) exhibited its skills on Saturday for Hoop fans. "The Pacers acknowledged that they liked the tournament and would like to return next year, but would also like to put together a round-robin tournament in which they would participate."

The tournament in its third year was also enjoyed by its players. "This is my first year and I thought it was fun. I'm from Kentwood and if I can keep a team together, I will be back next year," Randy VanderKolk said.

Leigh Ranburger, a member of the winning girl's team, said she would like to see more girl teams, but enjoyed playing in the tournament.

The monetary numbers for the 1990 tournament are not yet available, but officials of the non-profit organization feel quite secure after its opening-year tip-off.

Grand River Expedition will stop in Lowell, Aug. 21

An armada of more than 50 canoes will paddle the length of Michigan's Grand River this August in what is the most comprehensive study ever undertaken of Michigan's longest river.

"Grand River Expedition '90" is a non-profit organization formed to explore the Grand River, documenting the values, problems and opportunities of the Grand River and its watershed. The expedition team composed of over 100 people; including scientists, historians, educators, students, industry representatives, Native Americans, writers, agriculture and natural resource professionals, local, state and federal officials and private citizens is attempting to increase knowledge, appreciation and awareness of the river.

The Grand River Expedition will be stopping in Lowell on Tuesday, Aug. 21 at noon. The expedition team will bank their canoes on the northeast side of Hudson Street and lunch will be served to them at the Look Memorial Fire Station.

"Grand River Expedition '90" is led by internationally known canoeists, Verlen and Valerie Kruger of Lansing. "We hope to bring to the attention of everyone that lives within the Grand River Watershed a sense of ownership, pride and responsibility," said Verlen Kruger.

"The Grand River links communities across southern Michigan throughout history, present day and the future. This expedition will be an educational experience for all of us," said Valerie Kruger.

The expedition began at Liberty, Michigan on Monday, Aug. 13 where a historical monument was dedicated to the headwaters. Paddling will begin Tuesday, Aug. 14 at Michigan Center. The expedition team will paddle all the way to Grand Haven where the Grand River enters Lake Michigan, arriving on August 25.

Along the way, scientists from Michigan State University, Grand Valley State University and others will gather water samples to determine water quality. Historians, educators and recreation specialists will pursue individual and agency study areas.

Each night the expedition team will be camping on shore. At Eaton Rapids, Grand Ledge, Portland, Ionia, Grand Rapids, Grand Haven and Lansing RIVERFEST the expedition team will provide a Traveling Riverfest with educational presentations and interactive exhibits. (An Ada display is being considered). The public is invited to greet the expedition when they land and to take part in this educational experience of learning more about the Grand River and the important part it plays in our lives. West Michigan Environmental Action Council will be encouraging citizen participation in a Grand River Citizens Watershed Council.

Many organizations are playing an active role in the expedition, including MSU Institute of Water Research, Grand Valley State Water Resources Institute, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Impression 5 Science Museum, American Red Cross, Consumers Power, West Michigan Environmental Action Council, Camp Fire, Boy Scouts of America, UAW Local 652, and other participating groups. Financial contributors include Consumers Power, American Bumper and Mtg., Co., TRW, and Lansing City Council, Michigan United Conservation Clubs and others.

Michigan's House of Representatives has formed a sub-committee, chaired by Representative Philip Hoffman of Jackson County, which is investigating ways of assisting the project.

The history of the Grand River, including its many contributions to the settlement of Michigan, will be highlighted along the journey. Historians will accompany the group, taking written and oral histories which may provide nearly forgotten data on the watershed's history.

In addition, a simulated birch bark canoe, complete with voyageurs in costume will accompany the armada. The crew are members of Project Lakewell, which re-enacts historic river and Great Lakes travel for schools and summer camps.

The expedition will be documented on video and extensive journals will be kept. Impression 5 Science Museum is creating a multimedia virtual travel experience with computers. These records along with the Grand River Report Card and computer graphics of Grand River water quality will provide a data base on the state of the Grand River and serve as a valuable instructional guidelines for those wishing to evaluate other rivers and watersheds.

The Grand Finale of the expedition is scheduled in Lansing at the 1990 Capitol City Riverfest, Sept. 1-3, where the expedition will display data collected along the river and dedicate a Michigan State Historical Marker to the Grand River. The expedition team will lead the Riverfest Lighted Float Parade on Sept. 2 with Verlen Kruger as Grand Marshall of the parade.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

"This is my father," I say with pride whenever I introduce Dad. To me he has always been a hero. There is always fun when Dad is around. His sparse gray hair was once bushy and curly. His eyes still twinkle with the mischief of his youth. It is wonderful to have good parents!

It's wonderful, too, to "brag" about our Heavenly Father. The Psalmist tells us God stretched out the heavens like a curtain and laid the beams of His chambers in the waters. He made the clouds His chariots and walks upon the wings of the wind. He laid the foundations of the earth, and the waters fled at the voice of His rebuke. He appointed the moon for seasons. He sends springs into the valleys. He waters the hills, making the herbs and grass to grow. He provides food and drink for men, the trees for the birds to lodge in, the hills for the goats, and the rocks for the conies. He provided the night for the beasts to seek their prey and the day for man to labor. The earth is full of His riches. He created all this and more. "This is my Heavenly Father."

Prayer: "Bless the Lord, O my soul. O Lord my God...thou art clothed with honor and majesty." Accept my adoration and praise. Enable me to "brag" about Thee at every opportunity. Amen.

My Father is rich in houses and lands; He holdeth the wealth of the world in His hands! Of rubies and diamonds, of silver and gold. His coffers are full - He has riches untold.

Viewpoint

Thad's Thoughts

In fun, I hope, I have been referred to as a "hot shot" college graduate who thinks he knows everything, by the Lowell Ledger Publisher and more importantly my boss, Roger Brown. For the most part, this has come about because of changes

I have asked to be made in the way some things are handled here at the Ledger. Many of the changes have to do with style.

For example, when laying a story out on a page, I was taught it is easiest for the reader if the story can be kept in a block form. This is to enable the readers to follow and they are not jumping all over the page to get to the end of the story.

Another example is to avoid butting headlines. This is when two separate headlines on the same page run into one another, and may confuse the reader into thinking it's all one headline. The rules for butting headlines are a little more detailed than this, but for the purpose of this column - this will suffice.

When hearing these explanations, Roger will tell me, his style, taught to him by his Dad, has been successful for X number of years. I'm a pretty stubborn German, but telling someone what his father taught him isn't necessarily the standard anymore, isn't easy, and has always been done in a cautious manner.

While I have shared this knowledge of style with Roger, even when he hasn't asked for it, there are some things, one in particular, I need him to share with me - the ability to deal with job stress.

I'm not proud of the fact, but I've been called many names (none of which can be published) for my demeanor on Tuesday, the day the Ledger is laid out.

It all comes from not dealing with job-related stress very well. Just this past week, someone I depend on a great deal for laying out ads threatened not to come in on Tuesday because of the aforementioned problem.

Anyhow, Roger, this is one lesson I was not taught in college, and I'm very much interested in what your Dad taught you about stress.

TIME FOR SCHOOL PHYSICALS

With school just around the corner we are seeing more children for their health evaluations prior to entering kindergarten. State law requires this examination and update of immunizations prior to starting school. This is an important time for parents to express any health concerns they have regarding their child. Your physician will generally ask several questions regarding your child's health history and perform a complete physical exam. A urinalysis is also performed to check kidney function.

Immunizations are brought up to date at this visit, so it is important to bring your child's immunization schedule along. Most children will receive their last DPT (diphtheria, pertussis, and tetanus) boosters along with an oral polio vaccine. Most physicians are also recommending a second measles vaccine or MMR (measles, mumps and rubella) because of the recent increase in measles in school age children. We are recommending this to all school age children and college students who have never received a second measles shot. This immunization is usually given first at 15 months.

If your child has asthma, epilepsy, or other chronic disorder that requires daily medication, you will want to discuss appropriate dosage adjustments so the child can receive his/her medication at school if necessary.

In order for your child to perform optimally and make the most of his/her learning years we recommend a healthy diet with regular meals from the four major food groups. We encourage children to get plenty of sleep to improve concentration and avoid irritability.

If you have any questions during your child's exam you should feel free to discuss them with your physician. After all, this is why the exam is scheduled! Have a great school year!

Dear Editor,
The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has voted to declare one-third of radioactive waste "Below Regulatory Concern" (BRC) so that the problem of disposing of radioactive waste from power plants and weapons factories can be partially solved by putting the waste in with ordinary garbage such as coffee grounds and banana peels.

Although it is characterized as "Below Regulatory Concern", such radioactive waste is still capable of causing cancers and birth defects. This is an outrage! Radioactive waste can and will leak into ground water, soil and air and wind up in our food chain. It could be recycled through the normal waste stream and become part of such things as cooking utensils and toys.

The NRC should be tightening exposure levels instead of loosening them.

The Biologic Effects of Ionizing Radiation Committee of the National Academy of Science has just released a report showing radiation produces 3 to 14 times more cancer than was originally thought.

The standards proposed by the NRC for this BRC waste could cause 4,000 extra cancer deaths in the people now living in Michigan and 100,000 nationally.

Michigan must act quickly to keep "Below Regulatory Concern", radioactive waste from entering the landfills and waterways of this State.

Contact your state representatives. Also, demand that your congressional representative investigate the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. When the NRC allows 50 times more radiation than the EPA feels is safe, they are not doing their job of protecting us.

The NRC must not have the right to kill potentially thousands of Americans simply to save the nuclear industry some money.

Sincerely,
Don't Waste Michigan

Dear Editor:

"There's nothing to do!"
"What are the kids up to now?"

"Look out for Number One; if you don't, nobody will!"

These, and other negative comments are heard too often, but they fail to do justice to the facts.

Two events in Lowell this past week falsify those and other comments like them. The Kent County Youth Fair and the Lowell Hoops Tournament are two events that have brought a wholesomeness to our city which is the envy of many cities our size.

Sometimes we forget that God's business is both in the Church and in the marketplace (world). And sometimes we forget that Church Work is not always done by Church(y) Committees. If God is Love; and that love is standardized by Jesus' Sacrifice, then God is present in any and every arena where sacrificial love is demonstrated.

Hark! Those who organized and supported the Kent County Youth Fair and the Hoops Tournament shared their talents and time and resources again and again and again. They deserve our THANKS! On behalf of our Community, hats off to each of you who gave yourselves to these ministries of love these past several months and weeks and days. And THANKS again!

Fallasburg Powerhouse - then and now

Art Bieri and Jerry Gauger will talk about the two dams and powerhouses that now produce income for Kent County.

A program will be presented at Schneider Manor next Monday, Aug. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Fallasburg Historical Society's regular monthly meeting on powerhouses.

On Flat River Drive north of Lowell, just beyond the new bridge construction, is the "Fallasburg Powerhouse", one of many electricity-producing dam/powerhouses deserted by electric companies during the era of cheap fuel, and brought back to life when expensive fuel and new technology made restoration possible.

Art Bieri and Jerry Gauger will talk about the two dams and powerhouse that now produce income for Kent County. The Bieri family has been involved with the dams since their building in 1904-05, from hand winches to computers.

The program will be held at Schneider Manor (Ida Onan, sponsor) next Monday, Aug. 20 at 7 p.m. as part of the Fallasburg Historical Society's regular monthly meeting. Guests will be welcome.

thank you!

Beachler named to Lowell's Varsity boys' basketball coaching position

Phil Beachler couldn't help but smile as he leaned back in his chair and gave thought to all that has transpired in his life over the last couple weeks.

"Can you believe it? I'm engaged to be married and now I've been named the varsity basketball coach at Lowell High School," he grins.

Beachler whose his engagement to Christine McDaniel (Lowell business teacher) was announced a week ago, also learned from the Lowell Athletic Department of his appointment to fill the varsity boys' basketball position at LHS.

"I'm excited about the opportunity," Beachler said. "I played here at Lowell and now I get to coach here."

The 1982 Lowell graduate has coached two years at the boys' freshman level, two years at the boys' junior varsity level and has coached the junior varsity girls for three years. Along with all of that, he has also coached the Lowell junior varsity baseball team.

A main staple throughout his basketball days at Lowell, both as a player and as a coach has been Lowell's varsity girls' basketball coach Ken Akers. Beachler played for Akers back in the early 80's and has coached under him at Lowell.

"I have been fortunate to work with Ken. He helped to shape me both as a player and now as a coach," he said. "Coach Akers helped me get the freshman coaching job."

Beachler also pointed to Mark Thomas, who stepped down from the varsity position to become an assistant coach at Aquinas College under Rick Albro, the former East Grand Rapids basketball coach, as someone who has been a lot of help to him in coaching.

Beachler gives credit to his seventh-grade coach as someone he's patterned his coaching after. "Dad (Al Eckman) is someone I've patterned my coaching philosophies after," he says. "His attitude was if you work hard, you'll play. He stressed having a good attitude and hustling. Those are things I haven't forgotten."

Beachler will put aside coaching junior varsity girls' basketball and junior varsity baseball so that he can devote his time to the varsity position.

"The Lowell Athletic Department believes Phil has the knowledge, dedication and enthusiasm to succeed at this position," said Lowell Athletic Director Bob Perry. "He also enjoys the respect of the players, and the coaching staff. He will be a positive role model both in the classroom and on the basketball court for Lowell players."

MYSTERY FARM?

CAN YOU IDENTIFY THIS MYSTERY FARM?

This aerial photograph was taken especially for the Lowell Ledger and is part of a series of Kent County farms.

No one knows whose farm the aerial photographer snapped, so it's up to you, our readers, to identify the mystery farm each week.

If you can identify this mystery farm...merely fill out the entry blank below with your answer, name and address and mail or drop off at the Lowell Ledger, P.O. Box 128, Lowell, MI 49331.

The name of the person correctly identifying this farm will be put in a drawing to be held on Monday, August 20, at noon for a FREE DINNER FOR TWO (excluding drinks) at Sneakers in downtown Lowell, a free car wash at Lowell Auto Wash, a free gallon of Devco flat white latex paint from Lowell Paint & Wallpaper and a free subscription to the Ledger.

The owner of each week's Mystery Farm will receive ABSOLUTELY FREE, a 4x5 color photo of the farm merely by claiming it at the Lowell Ledger office by the following Wednesday noon.

In the 19th week of the Lowell Ledger Mystery Farm, there were only 12 correct responses. In week 20, let's see if we can increase the number of correct responses. It should also be noted, that when identifying a farm, the first and last name should be used. Also only entry forms printed in the Ledger will be accepted. Thanks for your cooperation.

"Poppo the Clown" not only made children laugh, but he also juggled quite well.

You know the pedal pushing got tough when the youngsters started to bite the bottom lip.

It was a warm muggy Saturday afternoon at the fairgrounds.

Carnival rides are always a favorite for youngsters.

Renee Nugent worked with Velveta during the dairy cow showmanship contest on Thursday. Nugent's efforts earned her a blue ribbon.

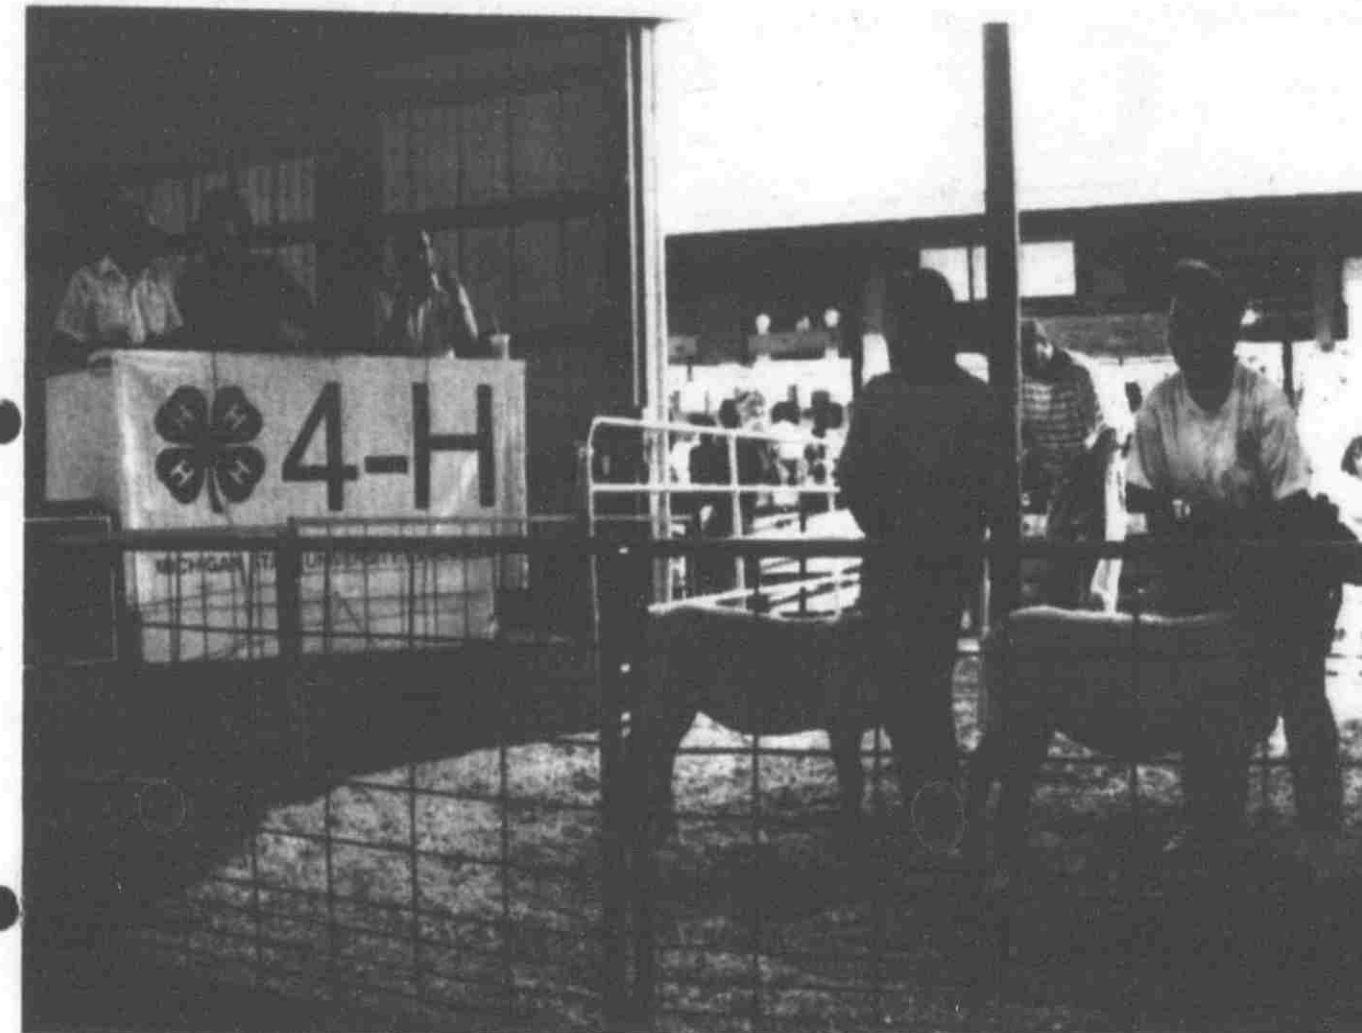

The antique tractor pull had young and old alike participating on Saturday.

A list of the exhibits that were judged outstanding are on page 9.

There were literally hundreds of still exhibits displayed in the Foreman Building.

A Very Special

Thanks

To Kropf Chemical for purchasing my 4-H steer and for their faithful support of the Kent County Youth Fair.

There was plenty of laughter for all at the adult showmanship contest.

"Poppo the Clown" had this young lady in stitches most of the evening.

The first woman to see her son inaugurated for a second term as president of the U.S. was Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The letter T is the second most frequently used letter in books, newspapers and other printed material in English.

Langshaw incorporates teaching into rabbit showmanship judging

It may very well have been the toughest and most demanding job at the Kent County Youth Fair for each of the past 56 years - having to judge and/or critique a youth's 4-H project and/or livestock.

Many of the characteristics looked for in a good judge ironically are the same qualities a judge looks for in a 4-H youth - handling, poise, appearance, knowledge, a good disposition.

"Senator Dick Posthumus and I were asked to be judges (of banners and scarecrows) a few years back. To have all of the youths watching you as you viewed their project, and then to have to pick one, was not fun," said U.S. Congressman Paul Henry during opening ceremonies.

Diana Langshaw, Augusta, has been a 4-H leader for 29 years and a judge for 10 years. "I love what I'm doing," she says. On this Wednesday morning, Langshaw is a rabbit showmanship judge. She's pretty comfortable with the role, having run her own rabbit farm for a number of years.

"Speaking strictly as a judge though, I think it is important to relax the youths. To break the ice," Langshaw says. "For some, it's their first time showing an animal and they are scared."

The Augusta woman also incorporates teaching into her judging role. "It's not fair for me to expect a first-year showman to know what a six-year showman might know," she says. But that doesn't mean Langshaw doesn't share that added knowledge with the first-year 4-H youth.

"I like walking away from a judging contest with the feeling I may have also taught the youths something. Because of this, hopefully they do better the next time," she says.

Langshaw also realizes judges must follow the rules closely a majority of the time, but must also realize when an alteration needs to be made.

"Normally, when a rabbit showman stands before the judge, he or she holds the rabbit, but because it was warm I had each individual just put the rabbit down on the rug (on the table). This also helped to break the ice and relax the youths," she adds.

Langshaw, in between judging and being a 4-H leader, also does a lot of learning activities with youths throughout the year. She adds, "I love working with kids. 4-H has allowed me to do this. 4-H and the fair provides kids with more than competition, it also teaches them life skills."

Langshaw says she judges showmen on their knowledge, preparation, handling, ability to pose the animal, animal's condition, appearance and attitude.

"I guess the reason I raise rabbits is because I am able to control them," Langshaw muses.

Diana Langshaw, middle, watches closely as this young 4-H girl checks her rabbit.

The rabbit judge adds that she believes the quality of the rabbits she judges are better today than in years past. "In part, I think that's because of the leaders, and the breeders are also much more selective on what they sell."

Langshaw meanwhile remains sold on what 4-H offers today's youths - friends, experience and fun.

Lowell YMCA revives summer youth swim team

The Lowell YMCA Summer Swim Team was revived this year with thirty eager swimmers under the coaching of Pool Director, Lori Esch. Ages of the swimmers ranged from 5 to 17 years in a YMCA competition summer swim program that was restored to some prominence this year for the first time since 1979. The team successfully competed against other summer league teams in Rockford, Wyoming, Ionia, Forest Hills and Northview.

says this year's team was the highlight of the summer swim program.

Following the swim team banquet, team members attending were presented their awards and pool records were announced.

"It was great to share my love and enthusiasm for the sport with such a great group of kids", said Esch. "Every one of them worked hard this year just learning the basics of competitive swimming. Considering the fact that this was our first year in the league, the team did exceptionally well. What we may have lacked this year in speed and skill with strokes and flip turns, we made up for in enthusiasm and desire to learn. The parents that provided transportation and followed the team were a tremendous

TOWN TALK

What was your impression of the 1990 Showboat City Hoop Classic, and are there any changes you'd like to see for next year?

Phyllis Beachler
It was my first year playing in this tournament and I enjoyed it. I think it's just the right size, although more girls' teams are needed. I think there needs to be better time slots so teams don't have to play three games back-to-back.

Don Schuster
This is the second year I've played in the tournament. I think it's an excellent tourney and well run. I think the 11 and under division should have 10-foot rims. I also believe with 50 more teams the tourney could prevent unfair matchups.

Leann Iteen
This was my first year playing in the tournament. I believe there should be more brackets so the competition can be equal in size and talent. I think the location is great. I'd like to see a better rim for the women's teams.

Jack Livingston
It was my first year and I enjoyed myself. I think the brackets need to be broken down better so 16-year-olds are not playing 13-year olds. I thought the court supervision was good.

Leigh Ranburger
I enjoyed playing in the Showboat City Hoop Classic. I'd like to see promotion for more girls' teams. I also think there is a need for more court supervision, especially in the finals.

Chad Videan
I had fun playing in the tournament. Next year though, I think it needs to have more court supervisors. I also think the take-back line should be better marked. I also think more teams would make it better.

Todd Schrottenboer
I thought everything went pretty well. It seemed to me everyone enjoyed themselves. I'd like to see more teams, pads on the post under the basket and the age categories better defined.

IN MEMORY

Of Our Loving Child, David Dickerson

It's so unreal that you are really gone;

A part of me has died with you.

My nights are so long, and I keep thinking about the pain you must have endured those last few moments...

I only wish I could have been there with you.

I keep wondering why the Lord didn't take me instead!

I am bitter...at all the unfairness, at the justice system, at all the things unthinking people say to me.

Mostly though, I am angry at the criminals.

Why should you have paid the price for their problems?

Why should I suffer a life sentence of pain?

It's so hard to get up and face each new day.

I just don't seem to have any energy left...

And life seems empty without you.

Words..News..Faces..Places..Movies..hurt and trigger memories of you.

Such a short time between the promise of your Spring and the coming of your Winter!

You are so much alive within my pain!

It seems like hurting is the only way of loving you now.

I just wish I could hold you tightly and end this senseless Friday of my life.

And then I think of someone else's Friday...

Yes, Jesus, too, was murdered...and he chose to forgive.

Have you been able to forgive those who hurt you, too?

How can I learn to forgive them?

Dear Child, it helps me to know that you are now at peace.

Make sure God takes good care of you and also gives me strength along the way.

I am trying to rebuild my life by accepting what has been, affirming what there is, and trusting what will be.

I am learning to put my sorrow at the service of others who are hurting too.

I hope one day I will be happy again.

With a Big Hug, Love,

Mom, Dad, Mandy Gram & Grandparents

"The Cooper" (barrow maker) will also be at work there.

Under the big Walnut Trees is a good place for folks to stop and sit a spell and let the rest of the world go by while listening to the old time music. The Chuck Wagon will serve Buffalo Burgers or hamburgers grilled over the open fire and The Cider Mill Cafe will feature fresh baked apple dumplings and pies and other apple related specialties.

The 150 year old "Plank House" will be open and school mum, Julie O'Brian of Grand Rapids, will be holding old time classes in the one room school. There is also a covered bridge to enjoy. A flea market and arts and crafts will also be featured.

School Food Service Program

Here we are again looking forward to another exciting school year. The cooks will all be ready to serve the students good tasting nutritious lunches the first day of school on Tuesday, August 28, 1990.

The prices will be $1.10 for the elementary schools, $1.15 for the middle and senior high schools, $1.85 for adults and 25¢ for milk. Milk is included in the price of the meals.

Students may purchase lunch tickets every morning before school except for the senior high students and they may pay when they go through the lunch lines. In all the schools, students may, if they wish, bring their money for the whole week on Monday morning. This is not mandatory but we will provide this service for the parents.

Free and reduced price lunches are available upon proper application to families who qualify for the program. Free milk is not available as there is no federal reimbursement for milk. A letter to the parents and an application is included in this publication. Because of strict federal regulations the applications must be fully completed before students may receive free or reduced priced lunches. Applications will also be available in all school offices. Parents who think they may be eligible must have their application in by Wednesday, August 15, 1990 to be eligible for the first day of school lunches on Tuesday, August 28, 1990.

The cooks will offer a complete meal every day with choices. The students may choose all five components of the meal (protein, bread, vegetables, fruit and milk) or as few as three of the items and we will still be able to count it for federal reimbursement. We have found this eliminates plate waste. If cost allows, we will continue to bake our own bread, dinner rolls, cookies, casseroles, etc. "from scratch". We offer fresh fruits everyday and fresh vegetables at least three times a week. In the Middle and Senior High Schools we will offer a minimum of two entrees and a chef's salad, with a choice of meat or cheese everyday. In the Senior High School, students may, if they wish, pick out individually priced items from our ala carte line. This, of course, costs more than the unit priced school lunch which includes milk. We sell ice cream, milk, orange drink and fresh fruits at our snack bar which will be open in the Middle and Senior High Schools. In addition, at noon we sell hot sandwiches and pizzas.

We do not sell carbonated drinks, candy, gum or potato chips in our cafeteria.

It is because of the sincere dedication of our 25 cooks and van drivers that we are able to serve good nutritious food, at the low prices, to our Lowell Area Schools students.

Parents having any questions about School Food Service should call Mrs. Carol Harper at 897-8415.

10 champions crowned Sunday in Hoops Classic

For three summer days in August, 112 three-on-three basketball teams battled for trophies in 10 separate divisions.

Some of the on-court battles were quick and painless, some were closely contested struggles, and all the battles were labeled as fun by it participants.

On Sunday though, only 10 teams walked off the courts as champions. Whether it's the NBA Championship, the college national championship, or a small hometown three-on-three basketball tournament, there is that walk, that smile of satisfaction, knowing they endured and for that one day were the best among its competitors.

On Court A, the FMB State Savings boys' 11 and under division, Just Did It defeated Jordan's Kids, 15-2. Members of the winning team were Andy Smith, Matt Breslin, Brandon Hamilton and Jack Livingston.

On Court B, the Modern Printing girls' 11 and under division, Four Fugitives defeated Sudden Impact in the title game, 15-9.

Members of the winning team were Krista Posthumus, Lisa Allchin, Amy Stauffer and Kortney Gowen.

On Court B-1, the Modern Printing Division, women's teams the Sisters and Court Jesters battled for supremacy. Court Jesters won the contest 20-18.

Members of the winning team were Michelle McGee, Veronica Towne, Leigh Ranburger and Leann Iteen.

On Court D, the Vennen Dodge Division, The KC Bad Boys defeated Honey I Shrunk the Hoop, 20-18, in the title game.

Members of the winning team were Ken Hulliberger, Ralph Kuiper, Chris Miedema and Brad Thomas.

On Court E, The Flat River Antique Mall Division, Swat held off Home Boys in the championship game, 20-15.

Members of the winning team were Jewell Castleberry, Glisper Morton, Michael Stokes and Michael Long.

On Court F, the Showboat

Automotive Division, Nike Air Force defeated Three Men and a Redhead, 20-18. Members of the winning team included Tom Bednarsky, Josh O'Krangley, Dan Bord and Terry Gabbert.

On Court G, the Blough Builders Division, in overtime, it was Doran Chiropractic upending Zem, 23-21. Members of the winning team were Mark Terpstra, Joe MacGeorge, Nick Ceglared and Josh Baron.

On Court H, the Larkin's Saloon Division, Kotar Plus Three handled None Other 20-12 in the title tilt. Members of the winning team were Jac Klinger, John Mindling, Dan Klonder and John Kotarski.

On Court I, the Erb Lumber Division, Killer Dwarfs took the title with a 20-18 win over Body Fitness. Tim McKinney, Steve Morgan, Doug Mascho and Shawn McKinney made up the winning team.

On Court J, the L.A. Rent-All Division, the Iron City

Despite its threatening looks, weather did not hamper the schedule of games.

Lowell Basketball Coach Phil Beachler looks to block out in three-on-three action on Saturday.

Trophies were handed out to each of the 10 divisional winners.

Rockers bested J.W.B. 20-16. Members of the winning team were Rob Thompson, Jim Klepin, Rick Thomson and John Piper.

In the slam dunk contest on Saturday night, Grand Rapids' Clyde Conley was crowned slam dunk champion. He received a "never been slammed dunked before" basketball for his effort.

Lowell's Jason Barber

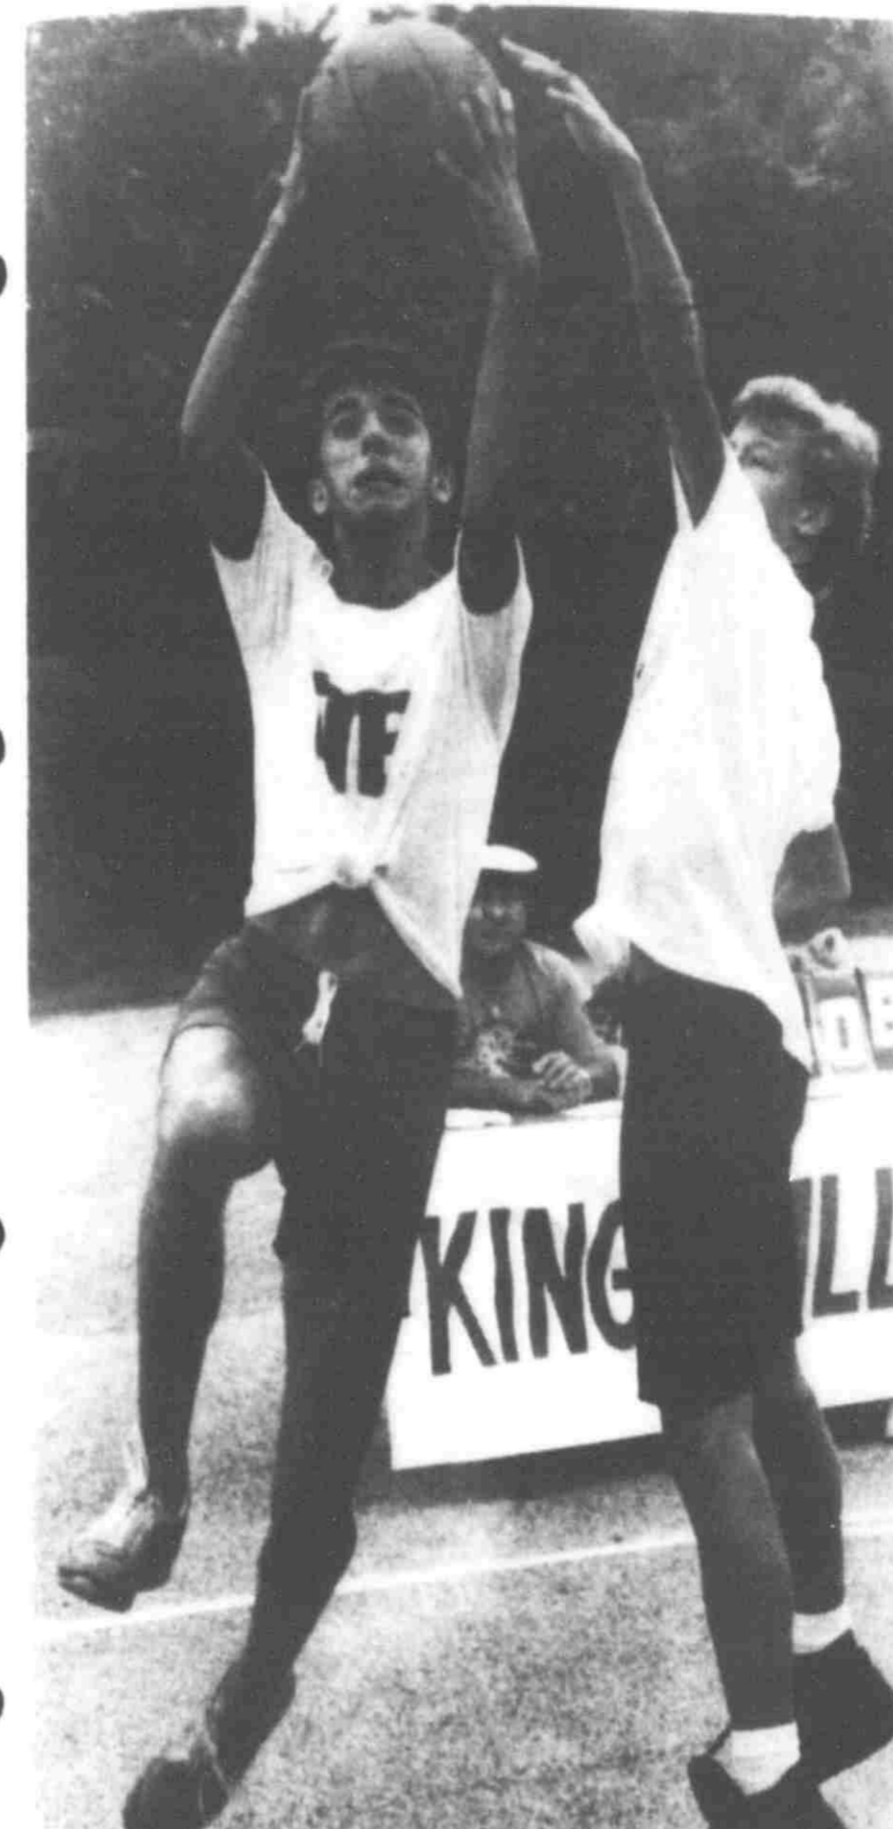

finished second.

Officials from Tyler Creek Golf Course, 13495 92nd St., Alto, announced that Bill Olthoff of Grand Rapids carded a hole-in-one on the 18th hole on July 6. Olthoff, playing with witness, Beth Olthoff, used a four-iron on the 190-yard hole.

Action was heated over the three days of tournament play.

G.R. Pacers play it up at Showboat City Classic

Jon Cannon wasn't in the game 15 minutes when he found himself sprawled out on the warm cement.

Cannon uprighted his wheelchair, pulled himself up onto the chair, lifted his feet up onto the steel bar rest and then strapped his legs to the bar.

Cannon, and all of his Grand Rapids Pacer teammates, have made a habit of picking themselves up off the ground.

As a Lowell Showboat Hoops Classic spectator noted while watching Cannon, "Those scratches and bruises he received from the fall aren't anything compared to what he's had dealt to him."

The 10-year Pacer veteran was born with Spina Bifida and has never experienced the joy of something as simple as walking. "Actually I think it is easier for someone like myself to cope with being physically handicapped because I have never known what it's like to walk," Cannon says.

"People that have been able to walk and run and then one day they can no longer do those things, that's when it's most difficult to handle."

The Grand Rapids Pacer

wheelchair basketball was formed in 1972. It is a member of the Lake Michigan Conference. The league members are from around the Midwest.

The Pacers have won six consecutive league titles and finished fifth in the nationals a year ago. The Grand Rapids club last won a national championship in 1987.

The 1990 regular season will begin in September. "I practice and play year-round," says Lee Montgomery, an 11-year Pacer veteran.

Montgomery is considered one of the best players in the country. He recently learned he was chosen by the National Wheelchair Basketball Association as one of 12 players picked to represent the United States in the Wheelchair Basketball World Games in Venezuela.

He was also a member of the Paralympics volleyball team in Korea.

Sponsored by Everest and Jennings, Montgomery travels around the country introducing and promoting wheelchair sports.

Lowell's Heykoop helps to destroy chemical weapons

Sgt. Anthony Heykoop of the United States Air Force was selected for a one-year remote on Johnston Island (825 miles southwest of Hawaii) because of his good clean record.

Heykoop was just one of a staff of 13 selected to work for the Field Command Defense Nuclear Agency. Ironically, the task of the 13 Air Force members, all with good-standing clean records, is to destroy the abominable and revolting chemical weapons. This was initiated through a treaty signed by former President Ronald Reagan.

with 900 civilians. The destruction of these chemical weapons began or as Heykoop puts it "went hot" on June 30. The destruction consists of chopping and burning the chemical rockets.

The Greenpeace organization has questioned the environmental safety and the safety for the people on the island who are closely involved with the chemical rocket burning. The organization's banners reflect its concern. For example, "What we burn today, we eat tomorrow" and "Stop poisonous gas burning."

The environmental safety of the incinerator is a big issue, especially considering its location. But, Col. David R. Moss, the island's Army commander, said, "The facility did not start operation until they were absolutely convinced it could be done in a safe and environmentally sound manner."

Heykoop said that up to now 800-1,000 chemical rockets have been destroyed and believes before completion roughly 500,000 will be chopped and burned.

Heykoop says he has toured the plant thoroughly and is comfortable with all the safety measures that have been taken.

He adds that the military realizes this is a very stressful assignment for the young men and women sent to Johnston Island. It does its best to alleviate this isolation by supporting a wealth of activities, to include taking advantage of the water-oriented sports. The dining facility offers gourmet meals, and the island's five clubs do a brisk business.

In addition, during the one-year tour, service personnel are given a week-long stress leave in Honolulu.

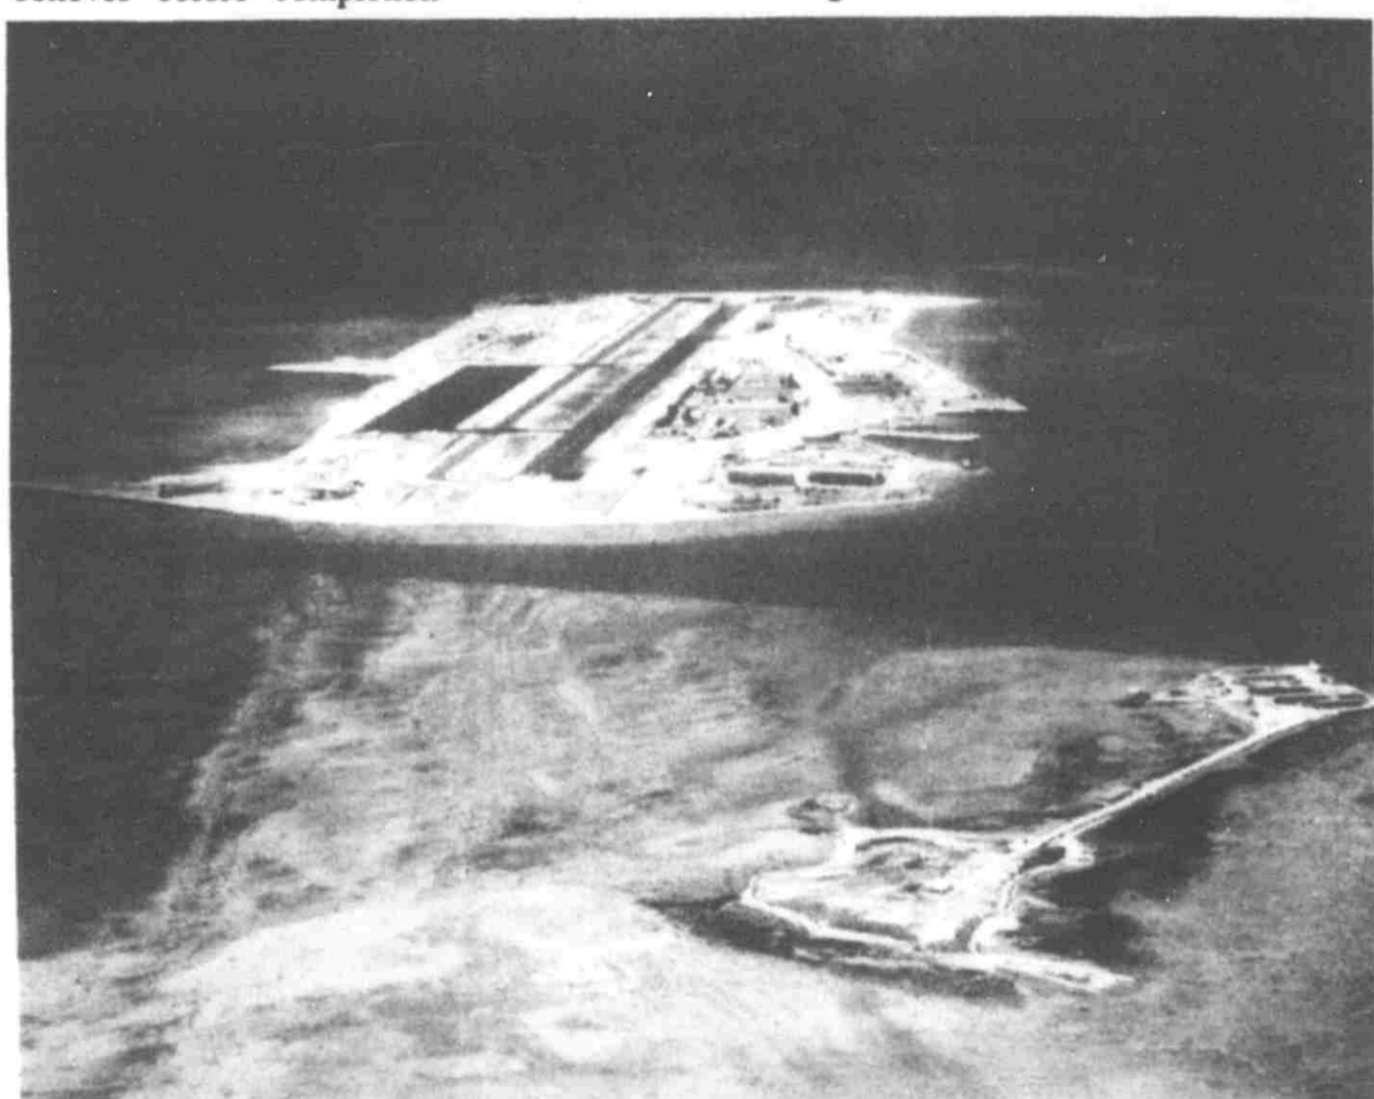

Johnston Island, at two-and-a-half miles long and one-mile wide, is the largest of this four-island atoll. The island chain is home to the Johnston Atoll National Wildlife Refuge, which catalogs more than 500 different species of sea birds, plus seals and sea turtles. A Coast Guard navigational beacon is also located here.

For Heykoop, who recently completed his one-year tour, relief of stress came with running, aerobics and swimming.

His new assignment to the Hickman Air Force Base in Hawaii will be with the 834th Airlift Division, the applications and plans department.

The assignment will be conveniently located across the street from where his new bride, (married Saturday) Mindy Perciful, works as a computer operator, she too is stationed at the Hickman Air Force Base.

Sgt. Heykoop was an administrative specialist for the Field Command Defense Nuclear Agency, during his one-year stay at Johnston Island.

Wall shakes the nerves to win Supreme Champion

Prior to winning the Supreme Champion in the Ram Breeding Class, Emily Wall, in only her second year of showing, and the first year of showing her ram, stated that she has got caught up in her family's 4-H tradition - a tradition that had seen her dad, Dennis, show angus as a 4-H youth. Her Grandfather was also a 4-H leader for a number of years. With the tradition already there, as Wall puts it, it has not taken Emily long to set up and get her feet comfortably situated in the soils of the Kent County Fairgrounds.

When officials state that 4-H teaches youth life skills, they aren't kidding. Wall displays a positive disposition, a great deal of self confidence, a competitive spirit, and the ability to communicate effectively, all of which are necessary to be a successful 4-H showman. Hard work has also never hurt any of the successful showman.

Wall, even at the age of 12, is knowledgeable enough to know that a breeding class championship is more a reflection on the livestock than the showman. "The breeding class is 75 percent the animal and the showmanship class is 50 percent the animal and 50 percent the showman," she says.

Emily adds that the judge is looking at the disposition of the livestock and its appearance. "The judge also looks at how the animal sets up and if the feet are properly placed under it. The showman can help the livestock with the position of the feet by tilting its head. It's up to the showman to lead it and get it from spot to spot," Wall said.

Dennis Wall says the 1 1/2-year old ram was purchased from Buckham Ram out of Michigan State. But the confirmation (body features) of the livestock is formed and depends greatly on the care of the owner. This care would include feeding, bathing, feet trimming, and shearing.

Sam (Wall's ram) eats about 1-1/2 pounds of feed a day. The feed consist of corn, calf manna (a pellet-like food), oats mixed with minerals, and molasses. "He's given 30-45 minutes to eat. If he hasn't finished it all by then, the feed is taken away,"

According to Emily, once in the ring judges base their decision on the ram's depth of body, whiteness of the coat, the tallness in the legs and the confirmation in the hind quarters.

It often happens that youngsters or beginners are literally not experienced enough to be nervous. "I find waiting in line is when my nerves build up. But it is important once in the ring with the other showmen that a person doesn't let nerves prevent him or her from smiling, especially if you're competing in the showmanship class," Emily says.

Emily said hours prior to her breeding class taking front and center she polishes and brushes the ram. "I also walk the ram to help work some of its energy out. Young rams have a lot of protein," she says.

After walking away with the Supreme Champion in Breeding, the 12-year old was the calmest of the family. Father showed tears of joy, step-mom was right in line. Then there was Emily, excited but still a coolness about her.

"I was surprised. I thought 'Sam' would do well, but I was expecting a second or third. I never thought he'd beat this really big six-year old," Wall says.

In 1991, "Sam" will be the big 3 1/2-year old and Emily will be a reigning 4-H champion, who got caught up in the family tradition.

Nugent - Dairy Cow Showmanship

"She has a way about her"

It's not by coincidence that in the final judging of the Dairy Showmanship Class for 4-H members 15-years old and up that the judge reiterated a line coined by Billy Joel - "She has a way about her."

That easiness in style that the judge was referring to, placed Lowell's Renee Nugent above the rest of the field, as she walked away with the Showmanship title for her dairy class. Nugent then went on to capture the title of Senior Showman Champion (competing against all other dairy classes).

"Her dairy cow, (which Nugent has affectionately named "Velveta") moved with ease around the ring and always seemed to be under Nugent's control. Also, the showman (Nugent) was extremely knowledgeable about her livestock when I asked questions," the judge said.

Nugent said an "E" is missing in Velveta's name in acknowledgement of her mother who was named Black Velvet. Like Nugent, who has been showing dairy cows for nine years, "Velveta" also brought an impressive list of experience it into the class.

The dairy cow was a state futurity winner in 1989. She competed against 20 other three-year olds at the state fair. "Either a Nugent, Cook or Lamoreaux has been the state futurity champion in three of the last four years. We're all from Kent County. That's pretty impressive," Nugent said.

Unlike in the breeding classes, showmanship is as much a reflection of the handler as it is of the livestock. Nugent, with nine years of experience, realizes this more than most of her younger 4-H comrades.

Not only was Nugent a champion in the ring on Thursday morning, but minutes after receiving her blue ribbon, she took time to answer questions of a young male showman. Having had the same judge in prior competitions and knowing what he looks for, Nugent shared information about setting up the livestock for the judge and about the animal's foot placement. The Lowell junior points out that all of the showmen in her division pretty much know what catches the eye of certain judges.

"It's important that showmen watch the judge at all times, be alert, know what's happening, show patience with the livestock in case of wildness, and smile," Nugent says with a grin. "It also helps if you and the dairy cow have been through a few shows."

Nugent says she never stops learning. "There are many camps that offer demonstrations. It's a good opportunity to learn and pick up tips."

The Lowell native said she has spent roughly an hour-and-a-half a day working with "Velveta" over the summer, preparing for different shows. "Velveta is special. She loves coming to the Fair," Nugent says with another smile.

Thursday morning prior to the show, Nugent says she washed Velveta at roughly 5:30 a.m.; mixed her dairy friend up some feed, brushed her while she was eating, and gave her a little water before going into the ring. "I have found it helps the animal be more cooperative," she says. In between all of this activity, Renee changed into her customary white ring attire.

Nugent says she will show for another three years in 4-H before moving on to open divisions. "I enjoy shows - the tough ones, and the people I meet."

The Lowell High School student is an active member of the Future Farmers of America. She recently returned from a National Leadership Conference tour in Washington D.C. She was one of three Lowell members to go. The others were Melanie Kaeb and Jennifer Cook.

Lowell merchants dig into pockets to help support 56th Kent County Youth Fair

Lowell FFA members received strong financial support from local merchants at the 1990 livestock auction held on Aug. 8 during the

Kent County Youth Fair. King Milling Company and Lowell Veterinary Clinic purchased both animals and donated them back to the FFA to be re-sold at the auction. Stuckey Amoco purchased one of the lambs for resale. The final bidder to purchase the lambs was Standard Lumber of Grand Rapids.

Lowell FFA President, Jennifer Cook stated, "The Lowell FFA is very grateful to the local merchants who supported this year's sale. The proceeds from the sale of the lambs will be used to finance our annual trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, MO in November." Pete Siler, Lowell FFA Advisor, also noted that the 100-member FFA chapter must annually raise over $5,000 to finance the activities of its members at regional, state and national leadership activities. Siler said "This support of the FFA will make it possible for more members to participate in these worthwhile activities."

The FFA market lambs were raised and shown by Alicia Richmond who donated the lambs and the cost of raising them to the FFA. She was assisted in showing the lambs at the fair by Jennifer Brown.

An oyster will produce a pearl when a foreign body such as a grain of sand irritates its soft body. The oyster secretes layers of pearl, a calcareous or limestone deposit, around the sand to protect itself.
