Access to City sewer a must in school's search for new high school land

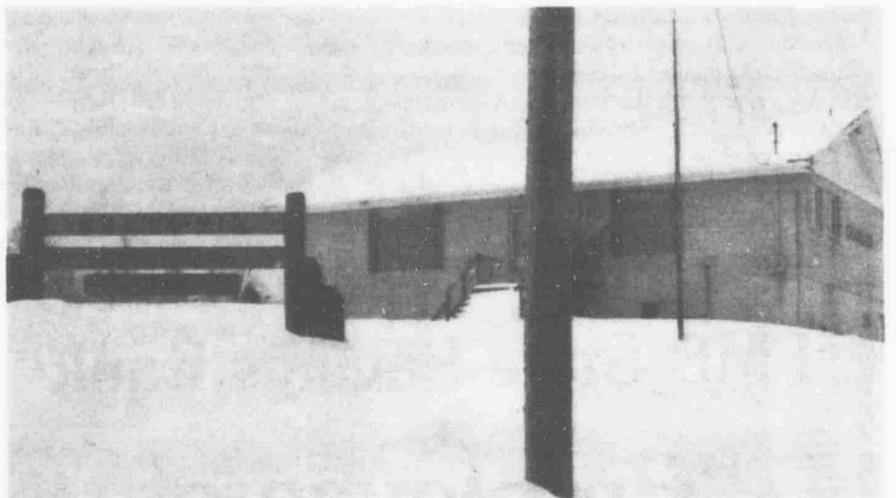

When it comes to purchasing land for the new Lowell High School, nothing has weighed more on the minds of Lowell's School administration than whether or not the land has access to the city sewer system.

There's an expensive reason for that. Without access to the city sewer, the school would have to build a 26 acre lagoon/pond to house the sewage. It would then have to double that amount of acreage so it would have a spot to irrigate and/or spray the sewage. This would all have to be approved by the DNR. The cost for such an undertaking would be $1.6 million, in money that was not accounted for in the bond issue.

The school was told that the 26-acre lagoon would be able to accommodate any future expansion.

It will cost the School $400,000 to hookup to the City sewer. That price was figured into the bond issue.

This point alone, has made the Qua-Ke-Zik Sportsman's Club, the school's number one choice. Lowell Township, which has purchased into the City sewer service, is where the Sportsman's Club is located. The same cannot be said for other property in as close proximity to the school.

Lowell's School Administration awaits the soil boring and land appraisal results. Once that information is received, a proposal will most likely be given to the Qua-Ke-Zik Sportsmen's Club.

An offer for the land, from the school, is still in the balance at the time the Ledger went to press.

If the school makes an offer, and the Club rejects it, and condemnation proceedings are necessary, a judge would then decide the fair market value. According to Gary Kemp, Assistant Superintendent, the judge would get that figure from the assessor. The appraised value is where negotiations would begin. The school however, under law, cannot exceed a certain percentage above the appraised value. This is a protection for the taxpayers.

According to the Lowell

Township office, the SEV for the 120 acre parcel of land where Qua-Ke-Zik sits is $151,000. That makes the cash value at $302,000. The figure is based on $2,500 an acre.

"The school is not interested in looking like the bad guy, or the bully. The school has said before, and continues to say, it will do whatever it can to help the club relocate," Kemp said.

U of M hubcaps have Bernie Kropf singing the "Maize and Blues"

If Lowellites were asked to name a single devoted, died-in-the-wool Michigan State football fan, Bernie Kropf would likely be the first name to come to mind. The word "fan" is derived from fanatic, and Kropf fits the definition perfectly.

Kropf resides at 4465 Causeway Dr. on Murray Lake with his wife, Betty. He has held season tickets to M.S.U. football games for 33 years. "That's right, the same seats for 33 years", Kropf said proudly. As if that isn't enough, the Kropf's two sons and a daughter have graduated from M.S.U. Bernie is the type of guy you'd expect to wear green and white underwear and sing the Michigan State fight song in the shower.

So, when Kropf took his pickup truck to HM Repair for some service work last week he didn't know he was soon to be sporting some new hubcaps on his truck. Howard Mersman, owner of HM Repair, decided it was time to stir Bernie up a little. While Kropf's truck was in the shop the hubcaps were replaced with a set Mersman had painted maize and emblazoned with U of M block style "M's".

Howard Mersman, owner of HM Repair, decided Bernie Kropf's car needed more than routine service. He presented him with these brand new hubcaps sporting the block style "M" characteristic of the University of Michigan logo.

When Kropf picked up his truck it was parked between two other vehicles. Kropf didn't notice the sporty new hubcaps and headed into

Adema & Fitzpatrick's art displayed at LAAC

Jim Fitzpatrick Wietze Adema

Lowell Area Arts Council enjoyed the art work displayed at the Fourth Annual West Michigan Competition by Wietze Adema and Jim Fitzpatrick so much, that it decided to invite the two artists back for their own show.

The show will consist of pastel art, completed by Adema and sculpture exhibited by Fitzpatrick.

"LAAC appreciated the work the two artists displayed at the West Michigan Competition enough to invite them back for a two-person show," LAAC Gallery director, David Davis said. "Their work complements one another well."

Adema earned his M.F.A. degree in painting and drawing at Western Michigan University. He came to the Grand Rapids area in 1969 from Toronto, Canada.

Recent exhibits and shows at which Adema has displayed his work include a two-person show at the Keeler Room in Grand Rapids; the All Michigan Art Competition in Holland; the Heritage Hill Art Show in Grand Rapids; and the Calvin College Alumni show in Grand Rapids.

Fitzpatrick was raised in Grand Rapids and earned his BFA in printmaking from Grand Valley State University.

He has participated in the following art exhibitions: the Student Show at Grand Valley State University; the Race Street Gallery; and the Lowell Area Arts Council Gallery.

Adema and Fitzpatrick will have their work on display at the LAAC through Feb. 15.

town to run some errands. His first stop was at FMB State Savings Bank where bank V.P. Chuck Meyers spotted the flashy hubcaps. Meyers asked Kropf if he had changed his college affiliations and pointed out the hubcaps.

To say Bernie can be a little "excitable" about the M.S.U. and U. of M. rivalry is more than an understatement. But, he has taken the joke in stride and has been showing off his new hubcaps all over town. The last we knew the U. of M. hubcaps were still on Bernie's truck, but there probably isn't any cause for concern. Unless, of course, the football season rolls around and the hubcaps are still there.

Ehlers elected President Pro Tem of State Senate

Vern Ehlers (R-Grand Rapids), who took the oath of office as State Senator for Michigan's 32nd Senate district in a special ceremony in the Senate chamber, has been elected president pro tempore of the Senate.

Ehlers said his responsibilities as president pro tem will be to serve as presiding officer of Senate sessions at times Lieutenant Governor Connie Binsfield is unable to preside.

"I am honored that my Senate colleagues elected me to serve as president pro tem," Ehlers said. "At times, it is a very demanding responsibility, particularly when the decorum of the Senate is upset by spirited debate, or when Senate Rules are being thwarted."

Ehlers, beginning his second full term in the Senate after serving a partial Senate term and two terms in the House of Representatives, added: "The upcoming session is ripe with new opportunities. We have substantial work to do on the budget and on property taxes. Also, we will continue the search for a more equitable way to pay for our schools and universities."

Ehlers has been appointed to the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, where he will chair the Subcommittees on Natural Resources and Public Health. Additionally, he will serve on the Appropriations Subcommittees on Higher Education and Joint Capital Outlay. Ehlers will also serve on the Natural Resources and Environmental Affairs Committee and the Joint Committee on Capitol Restoration.

Korb applies business techniques to growing school district

Dick Korb, Lowell's Director of School and Community Services, believes that parents will have a choice as to where their children are educated tomorrow.

"In some form, I believe schools of choice" is in our educational future," Korb said. "Especially now with Engler as our Governor."

With this in mind, Korb also believes it necessary for schools to adopt and apply successful business techniques to education.

On Dec. 5, Korb sent out 1,800 letters of inquiry to West Michigan realtors about a promotional brochure (to be published by the school in the early spring), highlighting and featuring students, school programs, and school successes. This was done because of the increased number of inquiries the administration office has received on Lowell Schools since the passing of the bond issue in September of 1990.

"The brochure is a promotion to sell the school district," Korb said. "It's to reinforce and to create that positive academic environment people associate with Lowell."

From the letters of inquiry, Korb has received over 350 responses in the last two weeks. "The responses stated the realtors wanted more information on Lowell Schools. One realtor said he's been promoting Lowell for years, and today, land and housing in Lowell are some of the hottest commodities."

One of the very first questions realtors are asked, by families looking to relocate, is what is the school system like?

Korb said by using successful promotional business techniques and applying them to one of the single, biggest businesses in the community - the school system, Lowell will bring new people to the community. "Lowell is going to grow whether we want it to or not, so why not tell people about our system and promote it," he says.

With more enrollment, Korb said the school will receive more state aid, there Sports for the body. By providing this type of information, Korb believes the school will increase the interest in the area.

An interest, according to recent reports which has already begun to swell, Lowell City Assessor, James Marfia, said Lowell is getting a sizable influx of people. "They're discovering Lowell has a good school system, it's convenient, and it's got City services. It's also been an undiscovered secret. What sales are telling me, is the secret is out."

According to preliminary census figures, Lowell's population has grown about seven percent over the past 10 years. Lowell Township's population has grown by 29 percent.

With this increase, Lowell is now seeing the big assessment increase that hit urban areas two years ago. The average 1991 residential property assessment hike for the City of Lowell is 11.66, according to the Kent County Bureau of Equalization. Lowell Township will experience a 9.53 percent increase in assessments.

"After the bond issue was passed, we started to receive an increase in inquiries about Lowell Schools. The brochure is to further promote a product Lowell is very proud of - its school system," Korb said. "People are attracted to what's new, biggest, brightest, and good test scores. And with a new facility, we're finding many people are interested in jumping on the Lowell bandwagon."

Lowell Schools bond update:

Tim Mathison, Senior Project Manager with WBDC will provide a bi-monthly update on the progress of the High School bond project.

Tim Mathison

Tuesday, Sept. 25, 1990, was an important and historic date in the life of the Lowell Area Schools, when voters approved a $29.8 million bond issue to build a new high school and improve the existing school facilities throughout the district.

Citizens, school administrators and consultants from the WBDC Group spent much of 1990 identifying the need for school improvements through intensive planning sessions and workshops, resulting in conceptual plans for voter consideration. Voter approval affirmed that quality education remains a high priority in Lowell, and the conceptual plans provide a framework for beginning the design process toward specific building plans.

- Five projects were included in the scope of the bond issue:
- 1) New high school
 - 2) Renovation of existing high school to middle school
 - 3) Renovation of existing middle school to elementary school
 - 4) Improvements at Bushnell Alto Schools
 - 5) Improvements at Community Services Center (currently Runciman Riverside)

At the November 15, 1990 meeting of the Board of Education, the WBDC Group presented a Master Schedule, indicating the tentative timing for the start and completion of each project. It identifies Fall, 1992, for completion and occupancy of much of the work at the existing high school, middle school, and Bushnell Alto Schools. It identifies Fall, 1993, for completion and occupancy of the new high school and the Community Services Center.

Following Board approval, work began immediately for planning the new high school, with the goal of creating a state-of-the-art learning environment for a future enrollment of 1,200 high school students. To begin the process, WBDC set up an intense schedule of site visits to recently built high schools in Michigan and Northern Indiana. Over the span of several weeks, administrators, faculty, staff and WBDC visited ten different schools to learn about new ideas and success stories experienced by other districts. This provided an excellent frame of reference as initial programming and planning began for the high school in Lowell. From the response of those who participated in the site visits, it was a valuable and well-spent time to see how learning environments operate in other districts. Administrators and faculty members began to develop their own ideas about the kinds of facilities which would be appropriate in Lowell.

Following the site visits, the next step was to document the specific space requirements needed for the design of the new high school. With the conceptual plans providing a backdrop, and with the voter approved budget identified, WBDC began the process of "programming" the new building. The goal of programming is to identify the size, quantity and quality of each individual space in the new building. This includes specific square footages, equipment listings, room finishes, room function, and the relationship of one

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

When all is said and done, little things actually add up to more than great things in life. Little irritations test the mettle of one's religion as well as big trials. The phone rings when you are in the midst of making biscuits. You have to stop, wipe your hands, and answer it, only to find the party on the other end of the line has hung up. Do-reen gets tar on her best dress. Freddy kicks the toes out of his last pair of shoes. Billy puts you on the spot in front of company in spite of the times you have warned him against doing such a thing. You begin to bake a cake and find you have no more eggs. On and on it goes.

Dedication to the divine will of God is the desire of every consecrated Christian. He is willing to accept the big challenges that come in life and face the most difficult situations with divine assistance. But he must also learn to cope with the fretting minors which come daily. These tests call for God's help continually. It is only through infinite strength that we can keep from turning minors into majors.

Prayer: Dear God, give me grace for the little irritations, the minors, which come daily. Help me to be patient. Don't let me turn minors into majors. Amen.

O Master, let me walk with Thee
 In lowly paths of service free.
 Tell me Thy secret; help me bear
 The strain of toil, the fret of care.

Cozy Corner

A psychologist would probably tell us that hero worship is not a healthy trait. It's a darned good thing because in my opinion it's pretty slim pickin' out there when it comes to heroes these days.

In the good old days there were the likes of Charles Lindbergh, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Amelia Earhart, Clark Gable and Will Rogers. The next generation had folks like Generals Patton and MacArthur, F.D.R., Jimmy Doolittle and Joe DiMaggio. Yet another generation had heroes like J.F.K., Cassius Clay, John Glenn, John Wayne and Mickey Mantle to look up to. When the sixties came along it seemed like somebody turned off the faucet for heroes.

It's kinda' tough to find somebody to put on a pedestal from a list of names like Abbie Hoffman, Lyndon Johnson, Lt. Calley, George Wallace, Timothy Leary, etc. The seventies brought along Watergate and the Nixon resignation. It seems like any would-be hero gets overshadowed by that big mess. The eighties didn't get any better. We were blessed with Pete Rose, Oliver North, Gary Hart, Madonna and Donald Trump. Ronald Reagan may have been a bright spot in the eighties, but I'm not sure. Of course he isn't sure either.

Well, as we stumble into the nineties we've got Bart Simpson, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Ricky Nelson's pretty sons on MTV, Al Bundy, Hulk Hogan and Roseanne Barr. It may be too early to call, but I think legitimate heroes may be just about as dead as Elvis, and I don't care if you did see him at the Kalamazoo Burger King.

Whew! I kinda' got off on a flyer there. All I really wanted to do was lead up to a little piece on my personal hero. I've got one, even if psychologists don't approve. Who do you suppose a 41 year old, paunchy, married old guy with gray hair, two kids, dogs, a mortgage, etc. would look up to as a hero?

How about a sports figure? I kinda like football. How about a football player? One of the gals here at work loves Joe Montana. I don't think much of him because he looks like Barry Manilow, and I can't stand him. I kinda like the Lions, but if you can find a hero on that team, you're a better man than I Gunga Din. Nope. I guess sports heroes are out.

How about a politician? You gotta be kidding! Somehow I just can't see myself hanging a picture of Senator Levin in my office. Not even in the men's room.

Maybe a movie star. There are a few actors and actresses I really admire and would probably pay the small fortune it takes to get into a movie just because they are in the film. Dustin Hoffman, Jack Nicholson and Meryl Streep are a few that come to mind. Again, I can't see me hanging a picture of Dustin Hoffman as Tootsie on my office wall. People might begin to wonder about me more than they should. Nope, my hero isn't in the movies.

How about authors? I'm in the writing business. At least on Tuesday mornings I am. Have you even read any Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., Richard Brautigan or Tom Robbins? If so, you know how weird my taste runs when it comes to fiction. Sorry, but weirdos can't be heroes. It just doesn't work to have a hero who writes about some 900 year old guy who runs around the countryside with Pan, and Pan is invisible.

How about someone from the music industry. Anybody who knows me would have guessed right off that Jimmy Buffet is my hero. But they'd be wrong. Sure, I envy the heck out of Jimmy's talent, his free-wheelin' lifestyle. He lives in Key West, sails his boat, flies his amphibian airplane and is about as laid back as humanly possible. I've got all his tapes, most of his T-shirts and go to his concerts when he's in the area. I guess that meets most of the criteria for hero worship, but somehow I just can't picture Jimmy Buffet as a hero. I think he'd agree, and buy me a Corunna for feeling that way.

There, I've spent so much time, and devoted so much space to leading up to who my hero is, I'm going save the rest for next week. Now don't fret your life away trying to figure out who it is, cause you won't guess in a million years. No, I won't give you a clue. Okay, just one clue. Andy Warhol once said something to the effect of, "Everybody is famous for at least fifteen minutes of their life". This guy was famous for about that long about fifteen years ago.

HERPES: STILL VERY MUCH ALIVE

With all the recent publicity afforded to AIDS, venereal warts, and measles, the subject of genital herpes has been less discussed than usual. In point of fact, however, the herpes virus continues to infect more and more people each year.

The centers for disease control (CDC) says that 30 million Americans were infected with the virus in 1980. Every year since 1980, 450,000 new cases have been diagnosed, with more cases in women than in men.

Why the continual rise in infected people? Because safe sex is evidently more commonly talked about than practiced. One problem in particular with herpes is that approximately 75 percent of all carriers didn't even know they have the infection, and half of the 75 percent are without symptoms.

Improved means of detecting and diagnosing genital herpes along with advancements in treatment methods are making herpes easier to live with, but there is still no cure.

Two herpes vaccines are now being tested: one would protect the non-infected, and the other would not only prevent healthy persons from untraiting the virus but also possibly reduce the frequency and severity of recurrent outbreaks among the already infected. Unfortunately, both of these vaccines are investigational and are not expected to be generally available for at least three years.

Genital herpes remains an extremely common sexually transmitted disease. The best advice for preventing infection remains prevention.

Dear Editor,
 I am writing to express my concern and dismay regarding my increase in tax assessment on my business property on West Main Street in downtown Lowell.

It is my civil duty to remind you that assessed valuations of our immediate downtown business property is one of the issues that is killing our downtown business area. That is why, I have come to the tribunal for our problem.

Appraisers look at the terms of the sale, the financing, the relationship between the buyer and seller, whether any personal property was included, the reason for selling, and various other factors, which may increase or decrease sale price for the "usual selling price" which Michigan State Law demands assessors to consider as the basis for assessed values.

In my opinion, the board, through field inspection of our downtown property and personal interview with owners, proper findings or building size and age of building, including all amenities and characteristics and structural deficiencies are correctly noted, as well as appropriate depreciation allowances have been made, and now the removal of parking from one side of Main Street, you will too agree that mine and others, along our central downtown Main Street have been wrongfully evaluated, when dealing with our immediate downtown business area.

The value of a location site which can be used to produce net income is directly proportioned to the amount of net income the site can produce. Urban land value has value either because of their amenities or because money income is to be derived from the use of the property.

Note, when the ability to use property on the part of the population declines, the value of the property declines.

Years ago the central business district, the downtown Main Street of Lowell, used to be a valuable commercial area. The area used to have businesses that provided general services to the community and the surrounding area. We had independent grocery stores, Kroger & A&P chain stores. We had four different hardware stores, two furniture and appliance stores, three and sometimes four drug stores. In changing times, the central business district has lost the number of services that we used to provide for in the area. Our central business district has suffered from the growth of the outside area. Inflation of values has also contributed to the survival of our central business district. This area is not the neighborhood shopping area it used to be.

In successful business, one must be able to compensate for the rent, taxes, and overhead. Today, most independent businesses must have an outside income for their existence. If it were not for my outside income, I wouldn't be in business today because of the stagnation of our central business area.

How do you place a value of a product that is outmoded?

Assessment of properties have gone up but NOT our business growth in the downtown area. Is this, the decline of central business growth, what the City of Lowell and the State of Michigan wants for this area?

Some people keep their properties up, well maintained. Others tend to not place a cent into the building unless absolutely deemed necessary. Does our assessor indicate this condition in his assessing of properties? Should the person for keeping his property in good condition be penalized by an increase in assessment? The person who doesn't maintain his building gets a lesser assessment valuation. Who's paying for this imbalance: the business people, community, taxpayers? How does this affect the value of the building and business when a well maintained building is next

The first 1991 Students-of-the-Month at Lowell High School have recently been announced. They are Seniors Rebecca Hovey and Jennifer Tschirhart, Junior Kathie Abel, Sophomore Randy Grieser and Freshman Steve Stepek.

Hovey is the daughter of JoAnn Hovey and Lee Hovey, both of Lowell. She has been active in sports, serving as a football cheerleader and participating in gymnastics. She earned an athletic letter in her sophomore year. This year she is a Junior Rotarian. Hovey was nominated by all of the counselors and staff in the Student Service Center, where she is a student aide. Hovey says she loves her work in the SSC, which shows in her work, according to her nominators. They comment, "She sees work to be done, initiates new tasks, and tries to keep the office tidy. She is willing to help out in any situation. She is friendly and professional. She is a hard worker. We feel she is an excellent role model for other students." Outside of school, Hovey enjoys horseback riding and downhill skiing.

Tschirhart is the daughter of Roger Harris of Alto and Daniel L. Tschirhart of East Lansing. Her nominator describes Tschirhart as an inspiration to all who know her. She has maintained a place on the honor roll since entering Lowell High School. She has fought to maintain this level of academic success despite a near-fatal accident after which she had to work hard to regain skills affected by her injuries. Tschirhart never fails to spend the hours it may take to study and finish homework. She has a very strong will to reach her goals and will continue her pursuit of education at Michigan State University next fall.

Her interests include working with children. "I get along with them well, and they get along with me," comments Tschirhart. As she nears graduation, she thanks "everyone who has supported and helped me along the way."

Abel is the daughter of Terry and Gerre Abel of Lowell. Her interest in individual sports has led to her membership on both the Red Arrow golf team and the tennis team. She recently earned All-Conference honors in tennis. She is also a member of the International Club. Abel's nominator commends her attention in class and her dedication to her studies, calling her a positive role model whether in the classroom, on the court, or on the course.

Grieser is the son of Dan and Norma Grieser of Clarksville. He has a variety of activities to keep him busy. He is treasurer of the LHS FFA and a member of the International Club. He is presently in the midst of the junior varsity basketball season. He is a member of his church youth group and active in 4-H. Despite working hard in each of these groups, Grieser doesn't neglect schoolwork. He has been on the honor roll each marking period. His favorite subjects are math and social studies, while special interests include music, reading and sports. His teacher nominator states that Grieser is a pleasure to have in class because "he works hard, he puts forth his best effort every day, and never fails to turn in assignments." When considering his future, Grieser says, "I really enjoy working with people, and I intend to pursue a career in this area."

Stepek is the son of Joe and Carol Stepek of Lowell. Since beginning Lowell High School in September, he has placed his name on the honor roll and joined the freshman basketball team. His favorite classes are science and English. His teacher nominator has been impressed with Stepek's positive attitude and supportive personality. He comments, "Steve has displayed exceptional maturity and responsibility during his first year at the high school."

The faculty and staff at LHS are proud of the January Students-of-the-Month and ask the community to join in congratulating them.

Area Births

Morgan Allyse Sprague was born on Monday, December 31, 1990. She weighed 7 lbs. 10 ozs. and was 19 1/2 inches long. Welcoming her home is her big brother, Kyle Elliot. Parents are Dewey and Deb Sprague of Saranac. Grandparents are Stan and Toni Sluiter of Sparta and Donna Atkins of Saranac. Great-grandparents include Andrew and Fannie Sluiter of McBain and Waldo and Chelly Fuller of Tavares, FL.

Most school children can tell you two negatives make a positive, but few can name the man who first said so. It's said to have been John Lowth who first laid down that rule of grammar in 1762.

Kelly and Lisa Potter are happy to announce the birth of their son, Jordan James, born January 9, 1991. He weighed 7 lbs. 8 ozs. and was 20 1/4 inches long. Proud grandparents are Kelvin and Mindy Potter of Alto, Al and Sandy Roe and Rick and Connie Taylor, all of Lowell. Great-grandparents are Henry and Marjorie Roe and Evelina Taylor of Ada, Mildred Stauffer, Avis Hoag and Fred and Marge Zerbe, all of Alto, FL.

door to a not so maintained building? This, I believe, is one good reason why we have zoning ordinances for the City to use as a guideline.

Why did our state legislature pass a state law giving farmers a special exemption on their land use for farming? The reason is to keep their land use so industry and commercial area wouldn't eat up our farmland. Therefore, why doesn't our local authority give something back to the central business area to save business or to generate increase business to this area made possible? Let's prevent our downtown area from being developed into a ghetto area. Changing times are here, but let's change for the better of our city.

The downtown central business buildings that are approaching their life structure span. Those over the river today are receiving problems in finding financing capabilities as well as insurance protection. How can you give increased assessments to those that cannot even sell? What can a city do to help new buyers come in? Restore, rebuild, remodel or develop a better downtown for the City of Lowell?

I realize this is my assessment appeal, but so goes the central business district, so goes the local business in the area which includes me.

One of the major problems the City has had over the years is the parking problem in the central business area. The City has not solved the two hour parking in this area. Between the customer parking in the area, and the employee parking in this area the problem still exists. City Hall talks and knows, but does nothing. The parking problem affects the traffic in this central business district when there is no parking available; thus affecting the customer traffic in the area. Recently the no parking and the one way traffic in the area does not help the customer traffic.

To what value is the assessor placing on the location of land value in the public parking areas? I believe this is an important asset to the location site. The City does not spend any money in the maintenance of parking in my area. The maintenance service I receive from the City is electric, water and sewer service; the City does not service my back door or alley for anything else such as parking, blacktopping, snowplowing or snow removal, in my area. The other stores in our central business district, across the street and on the East side of town has public parking areas; these areas are serviced by the City, blacktop areas, marking on these areas for indicating the parking assignment, snowplowing and snow removal of these areas for public use. The city is offering my building no such service in their evaluation of my as-essment valuation. If we had as valuable a commercial business area today, as we had in my younger years as a citizen of the community, I would not complain of my assessed valuation. This is why I am here making this issue.

Red Arrow girls ground Cedar Springs; fall to perennial powers FHC & 'Skins

Lowell's varsity volleyball team went from the frying pan into the fire this past week as it opened with the defending Class C State Champions, Saranac, and ended the week with the number eighth ranked team in Class A, Forest Hills Central.

The schedule won't get any tougher than that for the 4-7-1 Red Arrows. "Saranac started slow, but is really starting to come along," Lowell coach Joni Keskey said. "Forest Hills Central is the best team we've played. The Rangers are just an excellent team."

In between the Saranac and Forest Hills matches, Lowell lost in straight sets to Hastings 12-15, 13-15. At mid-week, the Red Arrows defeated Cedar Springs 15-5, 15-13.

"The girls played some good, solid volleyball against Cedar Springs," Keskey said. "We hit the ball well and our serving was decent." The biggest disappointment for Keskey came in the contest against Hastings. "We didn't play well. I thought the girls should have played much better. I think winning the tournament at

Keskey battles with familiar faces

There was a family reunion of sorts last Monday night when Karen Keskey and her Saranac volleyball teammates traveled to Lowell to face the Red Arrows and their new coach.

The new coach was a friendly familiar face to the Annette Schneider coached Saranac team.

For Karen Keskey, Saranac's setter, it was more than just a familiar face - it was a coach, it was a friend, it was her Mom.

Joni Keskey, Lowell's first-year volleyball coach, left her position as the junior varsity volleyball coach at Saranac so she could become Lowell's varsity coach.

There was a part of Joni Keskey on both sides of the net. She had coached and helped every player on the team from both teams.

"I tried to treat it like just another game," Joni Keskey said. "I wanted us (Lowell) to beat Saranac but I wanted my daughter (Karen) to play well for Saranac.

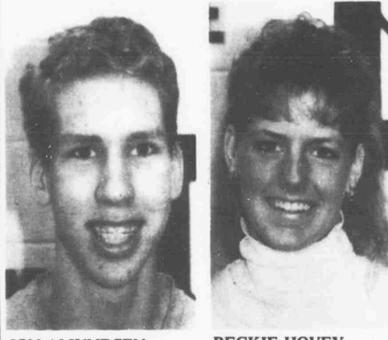

Those ambivalent feelings were also shared by Karen. "We talked during the week leading up to the game about how to should win. We both wanted each other to do well. I think we both had jitters leading up to the contest," Karen said. "I think my mother will do alright here at Lowell. She relates to players well. Most importantly, she knows how to get players to do their very best."

Karen, who played on the varsity as a freshman, never played on a team coached by her Mom at Saranac. But she credits her mother for helping improve her play as a setter.

Athletes of the Week

JON AMUNDSEN
Lowell coach Phil Beachler said of all the centers in the O-K White, he would not trade Amundsen for any of them. It was not because Beachler thought Amundsen was better than all of them, but because he knows just how rosie the future could be for the Red Arrow junior. Beachler also knows many of the other centers will be gone after 1990-91, but Amundsen will return next year. "He's really coming along and developing into a fine player. There are times now where he dominates on the inside. Not only that, but he really likes to play the game. Amundsen had 20 points and 11 rebounds against Zealand, including a monstrous third-quarter dunk.

BECKIE HOVEY
Hovey, a senior, has been a steady contributor in the first three matches of the season for the Annette Pearson coached Red Arrows. Hovey performs in three events for Lowell, the vault, floor and balance beam exercises. In the early going, she has been second to Laura Kropf in points produced. "Beckie worked out at a club over the summer," Pearson said. "The work has really helped. She has been excellent to coach."

10 area youths advance to K. of C. districts

Lowell's Knights of Columbus held its annual Free Throw Shooting contest at the Lowell Middle School on Tuesday evening Jan. 8.

The winners in each of the five age brackets for both boys and girls will move on to the district competition at Greenville in February.

Each contestant shot 15 foul shots, with the winner being decided on the number of free throws made.

This year 54 boys participated and 25 girls participated.

Winners from the girls' divisions were Susan Rozman, 10, made 7-of-15 shots; Jill Rozman, 11, made 4-of-15 shots; Jenny Jansma, 12, made 9-of-15 shots; Krista Posthumus, 13, made 12-of-15 shots; and Amy Stauffer, 14, sunk 11-of-15 shots.

In the boys' divisions, the winners were Jamie Bosch, 10, made 15-of-30 free throws. Bosch tied for first and then won the shoot-off. Brad Schuster, 11, netted 21-of-30 free throws. He tied for first and then won the shoot-off.

Andy Smith, 12, connected on 14-of-15 free throws; Scott Smith, 13, connected on 15-of-15 foul shots; and Adrian Schuster, 14, netted 18-of-20 shots. He too, tied for first and then won the shoot-off.

Zeeland dumps Lowell, 74-50 Amundsen tallies 20 pts., 11 rebounds

In a period of about one minute, the fortunes of a high school basketball game were determined.

Lowell, hosting the top team in the O-K White, missed two layups to start the game against Zeeland. The Chix answered the Red Arrow miscues with a three pointer and a two-pointer. It was a nine-point turnaround, which was the beginning of the end for Lowell in the first quarter of play.

Zeeland, from there, used a full-court press to help clear the way to a 20-5 first-quarter lead, and never looked back.

"I called a timeout immediately after we missed two layups and Zeeland built a 5-0 lead," Lowell coach Phil Beachler said. "I told the guys we couldn't afford that kind of a start. That early run and their press was the difference in the first quarter, and for that matter, the game."

Jay Riemersma, lived up to his press clippings, as he tallied a game-high 22 points and 11 rebounds in three quarters of play.

"Zeeland is a good club," Beachler said. "The Chix will really be tested next week, facing Holland Christian, Hudsonville and Rogers without Jason Onstott."

Zeeland outscored Lowell in every quarter but the fourth. Lowell outscored the Chix 18-13 in the final stanza.

Lowell got a stellar performance from its junior center, Jon Amundsen. Amundsen was good for a team-high 20 points and 11 rebounds. He was the only Red Arrow in double figures. No other player for Lowell was in double figures.

Every player from both clubs played and scored. An oddity not seen very often in high school basketball.

Zeeland outbounded Lowell 37-24.

Lowell, 2-7 overall and will 0-5 in league, will travel to Sparta Friday night.

The Red Arrow junior varsity spotted Zeeland a 12-0 lead to start the game and then rallied for a thrilling 70-69 victory.

Lowell guard Jim Manion coolly sank two free throws to ice the contest in the waning seconds.

Chad Dunn led all Lowell scorers with 22 points. Dave Jones netted 18.

Saranac's coach, Annette Schneider, while she misses Keskey's partnership, treated the contest like any other match.

"We got off to a rocky start, 1-3-2, so it was important to get things on the right track," Schneider said. "We needed to win tonight."

Saranac did just that 15-6, 15-9.

"I believe Lowell will see a big turnaround in its volleyball program. It takes three years to develop a sound volleyball program. Joni has a lot of knowledge and I'm sure will do a good job."

"It will take the players time to adjust to Joni's way of playing and to the foot-work that's needed in playing volleyball. I think this game was probably harder on Joni than us."

Just a week earlier, Karen sat behind the Lowell bench for the Forest Hills Northern/Grand Haven triangular meet, cheering on her mother and the Red Arrows.

Last Monday though, she was a key cog in the Redskin charge that rolled past the Red Arrows as she led the way in assists with eight.

"Coach Keskey taught me all of the fundamental skills necessary to be successful in volleyball," said Saranac senior Lisa Ida. "She gets everybody to do their best."

Keisha Westbrook added, "Coach Keskey taught me a lot about discipline. Her strongest point as a coach is the ability to get everybody to work together as a team."

After the game, Coach Keskey shook hands with all but one of the Saranac players - Karen. She got a great big hug.

"Mom and I decided before the game that no matter which team won, we would both go home winners," Karen concluded.

Red Arrow gymnasts upend Grand Haven; lost to league power, Holland

Led by the strength, balance and gracefulness of Teresa Blauwcamp, Holland proved once again it will be a force in the Rainbow conference in 1991 as it defeated Lowell Monday night 124-20 to 97.75.

Blauwcamp took first in the all-around as she finished first in three of the four events. The Dutch were just too strong and had too much team balance for a younger Red Arrow squad. Lowell never placed more than two gymnasts in the top six spots in any of the four events. It did that just once - in the floor exercise.

Laura Kropf was second at 8.2, behind Blauwcamp's 8.85. Arrow Becky Hovey finished in a tie for fifth at 7.55.

On the uneven bars Kropf took top honors at 8.55.

Blauwcamp was first on the balance beam at 7.9. Kropf finished third at 7.1.

On the vault, Blauwcamp was again first at 9.0 while Kropf finished fourth at 7.9.

"Holland's a real strong team," said Lowell coach Annette Pearson. "We didn't help ourselves with a slow start."

Lowell was also hindered by the absence of Kim Pullen in the vault, beam and floor exercises. Pullen was out with bad ankles, according to Pearson.

On Saturday Lowell placed sixth out of 11 teams at the East Lansing Invitational. Howell was first with 121.80 points followed by East Lansing 120.55 and Jackson-Lumen Christi, 116.45.

Laura Kropf and Beckie Hovey were the only Arrows to place.

Kropf was third on the vault at 8.4. The winning score was 8.7. The Lowell senior also finished third on the balance beam with an 8.5. The winning score was 8.7.

Kropf was fourth on the uneven bars at 7.9. The top score was 8.8.

In the floor exercise Kropf was third at 7.95 and Hovey tied for seventh at 7.45. The winning mark was 8.5.

"We showed improvement," Pearson said. "I thought the team performed well on the vault."

Lowell opened the season with a 103.70 to 84.85 win over Grand Haven.

Of its first three meets, this was the Red Arrows most balanced team effort, as five different girls placed.

On the vault, Laura Kropf took top honors with an 8.3. The senior was the top all-around performer. She placed first in all four events.

Hovey was second on the vault with a 7.5 followed by Kim Pullen's 7.05 and Becky Finkler placed fifth at 6.7.

On the balance beam, Kropf was first at 8.2, Pullen was third with a 6.1 and Hovey was fourth at 6.0.

Kropf's 8.4 on the uneven bars gave her top honors. The only other Arrow to place was Pullen, 4.5, finishing fifth.

In the floor exercise Kropf was first at 8.2; Hovey was second at 7.9; Pullen placed third at 7.25; Finkler was fourth at 7.2; and Sara Kropf was fifth with a 6.8.

"Our freshman performed real well in their opening meet," Pearson said. "We also got steady performances from our seniors."

Lowell finished the week at 1-1.

Laura Kropf and the Red Arrow gymnasts opened the season with a victory against Grand Haven.

Lowell's grapplers dominate Rangers in league match, 55-18

Nate Nauta ties his FHC opponent up. Nauta finished the match with a pin.

For all of 13 seconds of the Rangers wrestling match with the Red Arrows, Forest Hills Central not only had hope but the lead. That changed quickly and dramatically as Lowell recovered and then went on to bury Forest Hills Central 55-18.

Following Jake Langbahn's pin of Lowell's Dave Rottier at 13 seconds of the first period, Lowell posted victories in 10 of the final 12 matches. Seven of the wins were claimed with pins.

"We wrestled well tonight. I thought it might be closer," Lowell coach Gary Rivers said. "We were just too strong for Central on this night."

Going into the match, Forest Hills Central coach Dave Mills pointed to weight classes 103, 135, 152 and 189 as key weights where he thought his Rangers were strong. He was right, as FHC won three of the four matches. The only loss came at 189 where Rob McGee de-cisioned Scott Gerdeman 13-1. "Not only did we need to win those four matches, but we needed some of our young wrestlers to surprise their more experienced wrestlers," Mills said. "That didn't happen."

Forest Hills Central has now wrestled Zeeland, Rogers, Sparta and Lowell. "Both Sparta and Lowell are excellent wrestling teams. That will be an excellent match when they meet later in the year."

Following Rottier's loss, Lowell strung together four consecutive wins, with the first three coming by way of pins. At 112, Chad Chertos pinned Darren Parlin at 24 seconds of the first period.

Rich Stouffer, who seemingly was being dominated by his Ranger counterpart, Ed Garcia, turned things around midway through the second period with a pin at 2:57. Wrestling, cont'd., pg. 20 third period. Jim Inman wrestling at 125 put Matt Curtis flat on his back at 2:34 of the second period. Nate Nauta followed with a technical fall, defeating Tim Dougherty 15-0.

The Rangers Scott Ward stopped the Lowell string at four as he pinned Jason Desjardens at 4:44 of the third period.

The tandem of David and Rich Stouffer then recorded two straight pins. David Stouffer stopped the clock at 4:42 of the third period with a pin against Daren Stedman.

Carol Harper, Lowell Schools Food Service Director, went before the Board of Education Monday night asking for a 10 cent increase in the school lunches at both the elementary and secondary schools. Harper's request was supported by the Board.

Board approves 10-cent lunch price hike for Lowell students

Carol Harper, in her first year as the Lowell Area Schools Food Service Director, went before the Lowell Board of Education Monday night with her first financial recommendation.

Harper advocated and the school board approve a 10-cent increase in student lunches and a 15 cent increase in adult lunches, effective Jan. 21.

Harper's recommendation was based on increased labor costs, increased food costs, and decreasing governmental support through the commodity program.

The hike in lunch prices is the second one in two years. The last one was approved in the fall of 1990. Lowell's school lunch prices are low compared to other Kent Intermediate School districts.

"The raise will put Lowell at the middle of pack,"

Harper said. Members of the Kent Intermediate School district include Forest Hills, East Grand Rapids, Rockford, Northview, Wyoming, Sparta, Comstock Park and Cedar Springs.

"We're half way through the school year and we can see that if we continue at this rate the lunch program will finish in the red," Harper said.

The Food Service Director said the general fund money Lowell is receiving is supporting a portion of the fringe benefits. "It, however, is not supporting labor costs or meal costs," Harper explained.

Students at the elementary schools will now pay $1.20 instead of $1.10.

Middle and high school students will see their lunch prices jump from $1.15 to $1.25.

Adults will now pay $2.00 from $1.85.

The milk price will remain the same, 25cents.

The Lowell lunch program is projected to finish $22,000 in the hole in 1990-91. In 1989-90 the lunch program finished $42,000 in the hole.

Assistant Superintendent, Gary Kemp, said he knew of only two schools in the West Michigan area who say their lunch programming is self-maintaining.

Cable Board pushes to reorganize committee

What liaison, has seven members and has not been seen since 1984?

If you said the Lowell Cable Board Advisory Committee, you are correct.

The committee was first formed back in 1983 to serve as a liaison between the people served by Lowell Cable Television and the Lowell Cable Board. It was supposed to report to the board the concerns and needs of the people in the Lowell Cable Television viewing area.

"It was not a governing body, but it worked in an advisory capacity to help serve the Lowell area in the best possible way," said Lowell Cable Board member, Ivan Blough.

The Advisory Committee was made up of seven representatives from Lowell Township, Vergennes Township, the City of Lowell, Lowell's Senior Center, Lowell Ministerial Association, a member of the Lowell Area Schools staff, and a Lowell Area School student representative. There was also a representative from the Lowell Cable Board, which however, did not vote.

So what happened to the advisory committee? It met for a year (1983) and then disassembled.

"I think part of the reason for that, was at the time, the cable system only had 725 subscribers. There really were not any major problems," Blough said. "Not only that, but cable was new, and people did not have enough knowledge about cable and what it was supposed to do. I think people were overwhelmed by it at first."

The cable board member believes the advisory committee could better serve the people today. "Today's cable subscribers are well informed," Blough said. "There's a wider array of areas that cable deals in."

Following last Tuesday night's meeting between the cable board and the Lowell City Council, it was agreed upon that the advisory committee should be reassembled.

"We've decided to run ads in both papers asking people interested in serving on the committee to contact myself or Lowell Cable Supervisor, Herb Haines," said Blough.

When the committee was formed back in 1983, it was scheduled to meet four times a year. Blough did not believe there would be any changes in that format.

Solid support for McPherson's bid for G.R.J.C. trustee

Roger Kropf, Dick Posthumus, Vern Ehlers, Wendell Christoff, Arend Lubbers, Ray Quada, Marsha Wilcox, Pinky McPherson, Pete Gustafson and Dick DeVos have endorsed William "Mac" McPherson in the February election for Trustee of Grand Rapids Junior College.

Quada, a member of the Lowell School Board said, "I have known 'Mac' for several years and I am confident that he will serve the community with integrity and dedication if he is elected. I support him in his effort to be elected to the GRJC Board of Trustees."

Kropf, President of the Lowell School Board and President of Kropf Fruit said, "McPherson is a loyal community supporter." Michigan State Majority Leader Dick Posthumus said, "McPherson is a very talented individual." State Senator from Grand Rapids Vern Ehlers said, "I have known 'Mac' for a number of years as a very active and hard worker in the community, and I'm sure he will work just as hard in the trustee post." President Lubbers said, "Mr. McPherson is a competent hard working and thoughtful individual who understands education's academic, economic and moral responsibility to the future of West Michigan."

President Lubbers has held his position with Grand Valley State University since 1969, and he is one of the most admired educational leaders in the Midwest. "I'm delighted that President Lubbers has given credence to a candidate who really cares about the importance of education," McPherson responded. Candidate McPherson has a long family history of commitment to education.

In 1847 McPherson's great-great Grandfather, who is also his namesake, William, donated land and material to build a one room schoolhouse in Vergennes Township, just north of the city of Lowell. The McPherson School served children with public education until 1961 when the Vergennes district consolidated with the Lowell school district. Mac's grandfather, Mel McPherson was a trustee for Michigan State College (now University), in the 30's and 40's. His father Donald was secretary of the former Kent County School Board.

Candidate McPherson is understandably proud when he speaks of his heritage. "I am committed, as my ancestors were, to improving education in our community. With the growing world market, that West Michigan is participating in, Grand Rapids Junior College must continue to fulfill business' demand for better trained individuals. There is a new political dynamic on the horizon. In State Government, the Senate Majority Leader, and the Vice Chair on Appropriations are both from West Michigan, political control of the State budget is shifting to the West. This means that we have an added opportunity to continue the prosperity that Amway, Steelcase and other area leaders have fostered. Our obligation now is clear. We must invest in our youth. We must invest in all of our students. To retreat would be a mistake."

McPherson is a graduate of Michigan State University. While he was a student at MSU he was appointed Senate Aide by Senator Robert VanderLaan of Kentwood. In 1973 he served as Executive Director for the Gladstone YMCA in Gladstone, VA. Since 1975 McPherson has been a career representative of The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. He is a past president of Lowell Rotary, a former Chairman of Lowell United Way drive, immediate past president of Grand Rapids Association of Life Underwriters, and is a Sunday School teacher.

McPherson is one of seven candidates vying for the four year term of Trustee of Community College K.I.S.D. The election is scheduled for Feb. 5, 1991.

Posthumus begins 3rd Senate term

State Senator Dick Posthumus (R-Alto) took the oath of office as State Senator for Michigan's 31st Senate district.

This is Posthumus's third term as state senator. He is also serving as Senate Majority Leader.

"I'm excited about the opportunities we will have to lead Michigan into the 1990's and beyond," said Posthumus. "We have a lot of work to do on issues crucial to Michigan's well-being, especially regarding property taxes, the budget and education. But I'm confident that we can put our great state on the road to prosperity and a bright future."

In addition to serving as Senate Majority Leader, Posthumus will also serve as chair of the Legislative Council and on the Legislative Retirement Joint Committee.

J. Edgar Hoover headed the Federal Bureau of Investigation for 51 years under nine presidents.

School parent questions if ADAD is best for kids

Lowell School District parent Jeff Brower went before the Lowell School Board Monday night asking that it consider adding continuity to the All Day/Alternate Day Kindergarten program by instituting a "flex day."

Currently students alternate the number of days they attend class each week. One week, they attend two days and the following week they attend three. Brower said he felt this was confusing to many parents and adding a "flex" day would add some stability.

By adding a flex day, students from group A would go Monday and Wednesday and a half-day on Friday. Students from Group B would attend school on Tuesday and Thursday and go the other half-day on Friday.

"The real problem is for parents working part-time. They have a difficult time adjusting the All Day/Alternate Day schedule around their work," Brower said.

Another main point of concern Brower raised was the length of time some students have to spend on the bus. "I have a child that spends 45 minutes on the bus in the morning and 1½ hours on the bus coming home at night," he said. "I'm sure my child can handle it, just like he would handle sitting in front of the television set if he were home, or spending hours outside with his father tobogganing. But the question remains, is this what's best for the child?"

Brower added, "Many parents look at it as it's just for one year, we'll put up with it. I hope that is not the approach the Board is taking. I'm not sure there can be a consistency in academics when there's a three-day lapse. The computer support staff member at the media school in the Central High School added that he is well aware that teachers favor it because they believe it adds continuity to their day. Brower agreed but added upgrading the program so it includes a flex day would improve the continuity even more.

Runciman/Riverside Principal Louie Dudeck said the number of complaints about transportation are minimal. "Actually All Day/Alternate Day Kindergarten prevents children from having to endure five days of long bus rides."

Superintendent Fritz Esch added that he realizes long bus rides are a problem, but the school continues to work to keep rides short. "We have double bus runs. Lowell transports roughly 300 kids to and from Grand Rapids and that makes short rides difficult."

The District kindergarten parent survey All Day/Alternate Day Kindergarten taken in November of 1990 showed children's enthusiasm toward school was given an approval rating by 92 percent of the parents; 95 percent said their child adjusted well to the kindergarten format; 94 percent felt the program met the child's needs.

room to another. Teaching methods and goals, as well as class size and class schedule, are included to develop an understanding of how each space will be used. The end result is a document which includes specifications for each room in the building. This document provides the basis for the design of the actual building plans and specifications.

With the guidance of Jim DeWeerd, Principal, and Scott Vashaw, Assistant Principal, WBDC conducted personal interviews with representatives of each department of the high school. This included not only all the academic departments and administration, but it also included representatives from the Student Council, food service staff, maintenance staff, transportation staff, and Athletic Boosters. In all, over twenty separate interviews were held over the span of several weeks to gather initial input and goals from those who will actually occupy and use the new high school. Following these interviews, WBDC, under the leadership of Dick Pratt, AIA, Senior Designer, and Tom Mathison, AIA, Senior Project Manager, compiled the initial interview information and recorded it in a uniform format for review by administrators and faculty for further refinement. Assisting WBDC was acoustical consultant, Harold Geerdes, and food service consultant, John Riemenschneider.

As part of the review process, WBDC conducted a Saturday morning work session with administrators to review all the information gathered to date and to make recommendations to bring the square footage requirements into conformance with the budget approved in the bond issue. The results of this meeting were documented and presented to the faculty in individual meetings with department representatives for their approval. Comments and adjustments suggested by faculty during this second round of interviews were incorporated into the program document. Currently, the program document is being finalized, with the approval of each faculty department, as well as administration of the high school and for the Lowell Area Schools District. This final document will be presented to the School Board for their approval at a special work session on January 19.

While the site visitations and programming sessions have been taking place, the Board of Education has also gone through the process of selecting a Construction Manager (CM) firm to provide leadership and coordination of all the construction projects as they take place over the next few years. Ten reputable CM firms were invited to submit qualifications to the Board for consideration. From these, four firms were identified as finalists for interviews with the Board. Recently, the Board selected the firm of Owen-Amey Kimball of Grand Rapids to serve as construction manager. OAK will play a key role in the formulation of schedules, budgets and cost estimates as each project goes through phases of refinement toward construction.

Once the masterplanning is complete, WBDC will develop schematic design drawings of the new school, which will be presented to faculty, administration and the Board of Education for approval. Construction documents for the new school will be based on the approved schematic design. Following schematic design approval, the high school project will be divided into two projects: site package and building package. Working drawings for the site work will be completed and bid in advance of the building project so that the site will already be prepared by the time the building project is bid and under construction. This will save months of additional construction time and allow the new school to open by Fall, 1993.

Simultaneous to the new high school project, WBDC's Bob Walter, AIA, Project Manager, is leading a team of designers in the renovation and expansion of the existing high school to serve as the new middle school. Working with Middle School Principal, Mike Matlosz, WBDC is developing a program document and schematic design for the middle school project. Completion of the schematic design and presentation to the faculty, administration and Board of Education will follow a similar schedule as the new high school. Completion and occupancy of the middle school will be Fall, 1992.
