Ingraham honored with Council's "Arty"

Lori Ingraham

At its annual meeting on Jan. 15, the Lowell Area Arts Council presented Lori Ingraham, outgoing Chairman of the Board of Directors, with the Arts Council Arty, an award given yearly to a volunteer who supports and works for the arts in the Lowell area.

Ingraham, who teaches Kindergarten at Alto Elementary, has been a long-time member of the Arts Council, along with her husband Bill. Both worked long hours when the Council acquired its present facilities in the King Milling complex and set about the task of renovating the facilities into an office, gallery, and workshop space.

"It means a lot to be recognized for my work at the Lowell Area Arts Council. I'm not only pleased but extremely honored to be recognized from among the hundreds of other Arts Council volunteers. It's a special honor," Ingraham said.

She began her six years as a member of the Board of Directors the year the facility was dedicated, 1985. She has provided strong leadership in those six years.

During her first year on the Board, Ingraham published the Council newsletter and worked on the publicity for the Fall Festival. By her second year she was on the Education Committee and the Long-Range Planning Committee, working on the fall festival and the annual winter play, and helping organize the Council's involvement in the Sesquicentennial Celebration in Lowell. She continued to serve on most of these committees during her third year.

As Ingraham became a seasoned Board member, her leadership skills led to her election as Chairman of the Board of Directors during her fourth year on the board. She spearheaded needed reorganization of several areas during this year, working on board development and community fundraising, both of which

Students enjoy snow sculpting morning

Back in the fall of the year, Bushnell Elementary Principal, Dave Burdette proposed a snow sculpting day to his 22 elementary teachers. The idea was accepted.

Burdette suggested that when the snow was at a good packing stage, and the weather bearable, all 22 classes would spend a portion of the day outside cleverly sculpting a piece of art from snow.

On Monday, Burdette informed the Bushnell teachers that all the elements were just right and that "snow sculpting" day would be Tuesday. Classes started their snow sculpting work at 10:30 a.m. and the last piece of work was

War's uncertainties and anxieties play a role in people's willingness to make everyday financial decisions

During the Korean War, and even through the Vietnam War, people referred to these hostilities as police actions.

Today, the war in Iraq (Operation Desert Storm), is simply called a political conflict.

The conflict, which may, take many young and innocent lives, has caused people, even those of us in Lowell, to reflect and to deal with our uncertainties and anxieties; to question whether this war is right or wrong, and maybe even deal with everyday-type decisions a little differently.

"I think age has something to do with the way people have dealt with the Gulf crisis, and now the war, in the Persian Gulf," Lowell realtor, Connie Reedy said. "I believe younger people don't have the fears of the older people."

Reedy explained, "A gentleman comes into the office who needs to, and wants to, sell his home. He then changes his mind because of his concern about the war. I asked him how he was concerned. Personally? Was his job in jeopardy? Was he a reserve? Would he have to become physically involved in the war? His answer to all of those questions were 'no,'" she said. "He wasn't sure, but he didn't believe he could make a financial decision for his family at this time."

In contrast to younger members of the community, Reedy says they make a decision no matter what's going on around them. "I think that's because they haven't built up the fears and anxieties which older people have," she explains.

The realtor did not seem to think the build-up to the war, and the war itself, has made a difference in how Reedy's has conducted business. "Sure it's on everybody's mind, but I tend to be optimistic and go ahead with things. December was probably slower than normal, but the month of December is slow anyhow."

Vennen Chrysler, Dodge, Plymouth owner Henry VanderVennen, believes when something like Operation Desert Storm occupies the thoughts and anxieties of people it can't help but have an effect on their thoughts and processes.

"Younger people do not have as many fears. I think experience of older people provides them with a calming effect," VanderVennen said.

"This reminds me of the day Kennedy was shot, and of 1956 when the tornado hit the Grand Rapids area. They were the foremost things on everybody's minds. Everything else seemed to be put on hold. But experience now tells us, there will be a calming effect and then a change back to normalcy," he said.

Bryan Belanger, Erb Lumber assistant manager, said he did not think the war had as direct a result on people's financial decisions as the recession. "Currently, we are selling more functional type equipment than the expensive, extravagant stuff," Belanger said. "Businesswise, most of Erb's decisions were made before the middle of last year. When the economy is not growing we tend to cut costs and look internally to survive."

The Assistant Manager said personally his wife and he have taken more of a concern in the human element. "We've discussed whether war in this situation is right or wrong things we haven't had to discuss before," he said.

According to Buyers Guide Advertising Salesman Tom Speerstra, people have not been thinking about advertising, but last week many did not even want to talk about it.

"Many didn't know what they wanted to do. They were all tied up with the war," Speerstra said. "I sold an ad on Tuesday. On Wednesday evening during a business meeting, war broke out, and the business decided to cut all of its advertising. Yes, I think people are scared of the economy and the uncertainty of what's happening over in the Persian Gulf."

All of the business people agreed that the conflict has made a difference in the attitudes of people. "I think the general public has grown quiet. Granted, December is notoriously slow, but it was slower than most. I found it frustrating," Speerstra said.

War time tends to do that.

Item No. 2. AWARD OF BIDS: SERVICE BODY FOR THE WATER DISTRIBUTION TRUCK. At the November 5, 1990 meeting the Council approved the purchase of a 1991 Chevrolet Cab and Chassis for the Water Distribution Department at a cost of $11,648.00 with trade in. The Department of Public Works then advertised for bids to purchase a truck utility body. The City received the following bids:

Hoekstra Truck Equipment Co. (Grand Rapids)	$3,215 (steel) $5,930 (aluminum)
Allied Truck Equipment Co. (Grand Rapids)	$2,535 (steel) none received (aluminum)
Truck & Trailer Specialties, Inc. (Dutton)	$2,772 (steel) $4,318 (aluminum)

In reviewing the bids, the City staff recommended that the aluminum utility body be purchased because it provides better gas mileage due to the lighter weight. Also, the aluminum body does not rust and is transferable to the next vehicle to be purchased. City Manager Pasquale said that the low bid from Truck & Trailer Specialties of $4,318 for an aluminum body would still be under the allotted monies for this vehicle by approximately $2,000.

Councilmember Doyle questioned if that many miles are put on a vehicle that would justify the additional $1,800 cost for the aluminum body. He noted that the vehicle stays primarily within the City Limits. Department of Public Works Director, Tony Siciliano responded that the formula used to figure the gas mileage of steel versus aluminum was 1% per 100 pounds of weight. Even for short distances, gas mileage is a factor. The aluminum box would last through two different cabs, since it will not rust.

IT WAS MOVED by Thompson and seconded by Hodges to award bid to the low bid of $4,318 for an aluminum utility body from Truck & Trailer Specialties, Inc.

Item No. 3. 1044 RIVERSIDE - WATER MAIN ASSESSMENT. Kevin Hurt stated that in early December of 1989 he and his wife, Kathleen made an offer to purchase the home at 1044 Riverside from Doug Benjamin Pools and Construction. The buy/sell agreement had an addendum stating that Benjamin Pools and Construction would be responsible for the entire cost of the water and sewer hook-ups and assessments. In early July, the Hurts received a bill from the City for $2,634.62 for the water and sewer hook-ups and assessments. They notified the City Treasurer and Doug Benjamin that Benjamin Pools and Construction was fully responsible for this bill per the addendum. Mr. Benjamin stated that in December, 1989 the City informed him that no water main costs or assessments were on this property. Having taken the completion of the house from Gary Redner, he did not figure in the cost of the main and was not willing to pay the cost. Rick Seese of Greenridge Realty said that he was also informed that there were no special assessments on this property but did not receive it in writing.

During the fall of 1989, contractor Gary Redner requested installation of a water main to serve a proposed house on North Riverside Drive. At the November 20, 1989 City Council meeting, approval was given to install a water main from Hudson to Riverside and then south approximately 280 feet. The main was completed in May 1990, serving three lots on Riverside. City Treasurer Judy Noonon stated that no special assessment may have been mentioned because the water main was not installed until after the property was sold to the Hurts, thus no costs were incurred. The Hurts requested that the City Council assign the lien to a parcel of property owned by Benjamin Pools and Construction. Councilmember Doyle stated that he doubted if it would be legal for the City to transfer a lien from one property to another. City Manager Pasquale stated that the City appreciates the Hurts' predicament, but the lien goes to the property benefiting, not the person. Thus, without payment, it was difficult to see how the lien can be lifted.

The consensus of the Council was that this is not an issue for the City. The problem lies between the Hurts and Benjamin Pools and Construction. The Council took no further action.

Item No. 4. CITIZENS COMMENTS. None.

Item No. 5. COUNCIL COMMENTS. Mayor Maatman questioned the City's policies on snowplowing. DPW Director Siciliano responded that after Public Works normal working hours, the Police Officer on duty is to contact the DPW employee on the emergency call roster when there is 2" to 3" or more of snow or if the Officer cannot drive up the James Street hill. The major main streets such as Jefferson, Washington and Monroe are plowed first then the school route and the hill areas. Councilmember Doyle requested that the City sidewalks, bridges and parks be cleared of snow immediately to give a good example to the residents to have their sidewalks clear. The Snow Removal Ordinance for sidewalks and other properties within the City of Lowell should be enforced.

Item No. 6. CITY MANAGER'S REPORT. City Manager Pasquale reported on the following:

- Ice skating, is being held at the Creekside Park picnic shelter, with lighted night skating Monday to Friday from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. The Council requested that the City staff obtain a count of how many people use the skating rink.
- On Monday, January 7, 1991 there was a meeting with the State, County and City officials concerning the proposed intersection improvements at Main and Hudson. The division of labor and cost was discussed and will be presented to Council when finalized for review.
- The Police Department will be seeking quotes on the selling of the emergency preparedness van. Funds received will go to purchase a rebuilt engine for the old rescue van which in turn will become the new emergency van.
- There will be a Council meeting with the Light and Power-Cable TV Board on Tuesday, January 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

Enclosed was a letter from Dr. McKay concerning the tree trimming policy from the Light and Power Board along with their November minutes.

Item No. 7. APPOINTMENTS. Mayor Maatman will consider appointments or reappointments to the following board and commission positions at the January 21, 1991 Council meeting.

Airport Board (3 year term)	Interested in reappointment?
Leonard Jackson	No

James Serne (ex-officio)	Yes

TOWN TALK

With the threat of war, and now with the start of war, has it or will it have an effect on your willingness to purchase things?

Robert Kennert

The potential negative effect on the U.S. and World markets has been diminished by the result of the positive U.S. start. I think things may begin to pick up. The potential of war up until Wednesday definitely made it a consideration.

Linda Todd

I believe people are fearful of making financial decisions. They are just not sure of what the future will hold. As far as retail is concerned, Lowell Waterbeds has noticed a drop in business.

Tom Caldwell

My family doesn't spend money freely anyhow. I don't think it's had an effect on business. Times have been tight anyhow.

John Stuckey

Yes, people are afraid. They're not sure of what's going to happen. It's scared a lot of people. Oil prices jumping hasn't helped people's fears either.

Bob Gonzales

My willingness to spend money or make financial decisions hasn't changed that much. I've probably cut back on my big purchases but not the everyday items. I have two nephews over there, so I'm definitely reading the paper more.

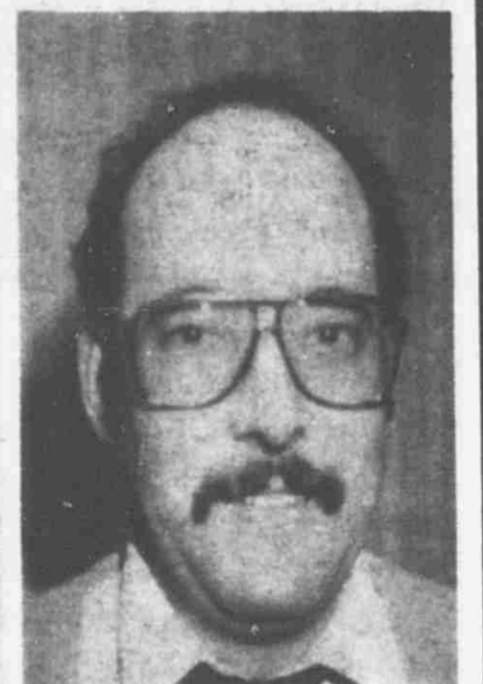

Betty Deans

I'm concerned for our country. But the threat of war and now the war itself haven't caused me to step back in my spending. I think if the war continues for a while it might possibly have an effect on me.

Laura McCollum

The week before war broke out it was extremely slow. The day after war broke out, business was extremely good. I think there was an outbreak after the war broke out because the news was so good in the initial stages.

Gerry Rose

To this point, business (Food City) trends have not been affected. People are concerned with what's happening. But I think the time of year has also played a factor in people pulling back on spending.

Cozy family igloo

As traffic passed 403 N. Washington this past week, for a second, it may have thought it was in the northernmost part of Alaska. Greg Canfield and his three step-children, Leslie, Lindsay and Brian Koehn, built a family-size igloo Monday while Mom, Deb Canfield was away. Canfield and the children packed the igloo together in a little more than two hours.

Redhawks snap Arrows 8-year Invitational win streak Lowell claims five firsts but comes up a half-point short

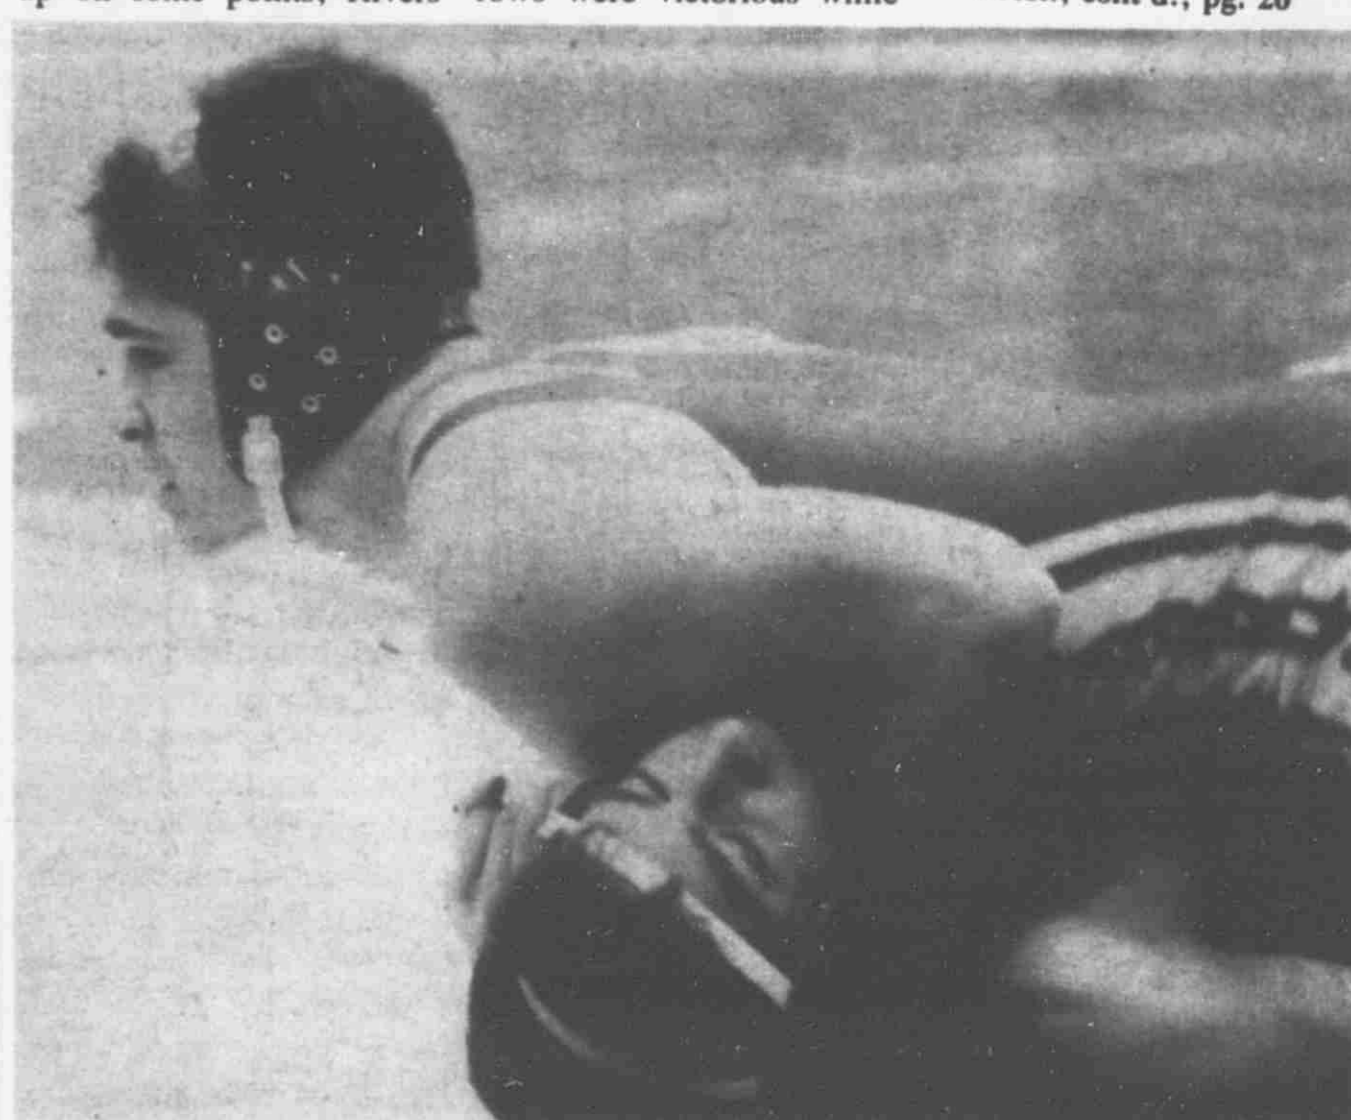

After nearly eight hours of wrestling on Saturday at the Lowell Invitational all that separated Cedar Springs and Lowell was the discontinuation of a match and a half of an illegal hold, dropped by Lakeview's Jeff Davis from a 3-1 advantage to a disgruntled defeat within the final minute of his match with Cedar Springs' Phil Scheer.

The stoppage of the match also put a halt to Lowell's eight-year invitational winning streak. While Red Arrow coach Gary Rivers was somewhat reluctant in accepting the second-place trophy, he has also been coaching wrestling long enough to know that Lowell had ample opportunities to win its own Invitational, but let some sure-fire points slip away. While Lowell passed up on some points, Rivers passed on some post-invitational thoughts to his Red Arrows.

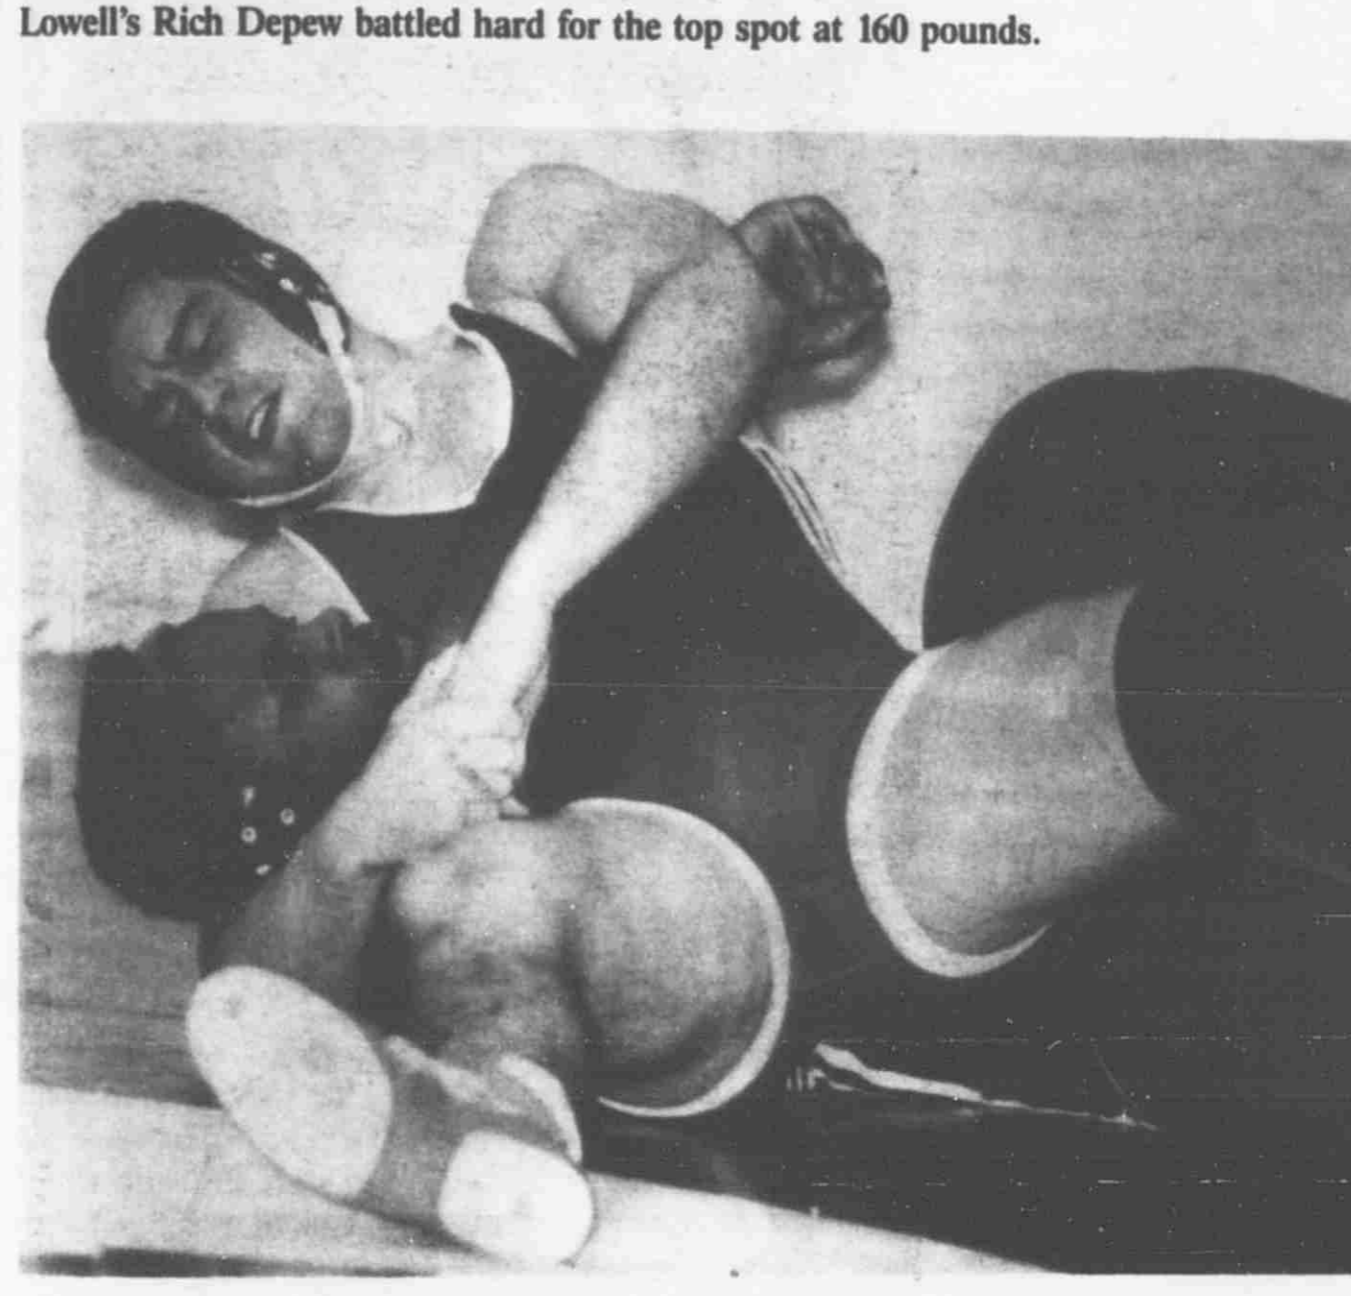

Lowell's Rich Depew battled hard for the top spot at 160 pounds.

"I told the boys that it could very easily have been them accepting the first-place trophy, but a point here or a point there and some mental lapses in matches where we were ahead cost us," Rivers said. "Our inexperience showed in a few places today." Both Cedar Springs and Lowell had seven participants in the championship round. Five of the Red Arrows were victorious while four Redhawks came off the mat with victories. Cedar Springs was able to overcome that with their third-place finishes.

Rich Stouffer was 2-2 at the Lowell Invitational, finishing fourth.

City Council approves D.P.W. snowplowing policy

A little gift from Mother Nature of heavy wet snow earlier this month prompted Councilman Jack Fonger to register a complaint about the D.P.W.'s snowplowing policy.

Fonger's comments came during the January 8 Council meeting. In response, City Manager David Pasquale and D.P.W. Director Tony Siciliano had a snow and ice removal policy ready for Council review at the January 21 meeting.

To initiate snowplowing after normal business hours, the on-duty police officer will contact the street supervisor or the next person on a call list when at least 2 to 3 inches of snow accumulates or when the hills in the city cannot be traveled by the police officer.

Siciliano explained to the council that such notification must be made prior to 4:00 a.m. to ensure that streets leading to schools and large businesses can be cleared prior to heavy morning traffic.

For ice control, a salt and sand mixture will be spread on city streets between 4:00 and 8:00 a.m. In extremely low temperatures, chloride will be added to the mixture. Intersections, curves, railroad crossings, stop street and hills will receive first priority.

Priority for plowing during storms of 2 inches or more are: Bus routes (on school days), to include Foreman, Monroe, Avery, Washington, High, Elizabeth, Howard and Hudson. On non-school days hill areas to include Gee and Grindle move from second to first priority.

Third on the list are densely populated areas such as Valley Vista. Fourth are the major streets such as Jefferson, Monroe, Washington, Jackson and the area immediately west of the Flat River. Clean-up of local streets has the lowest priority.

North/south streets will be cleared first and the east/west streets will then be cleared using a looping pattern.

In heavy snowstorms over 10 inches, major streets and major street connectors will be kept open with at least one lane for emergency travel. Emergency plowing will be made available to utilities, ambulance, police and fire crews.

The last priority in heavy snowstorms will be the opening of local streets to one lane of travel.

The Council approved the policy with little comment.

Area Births

Bud and Michelle Yakes of Lowell are very proud to announce the arrival of their son, Bryon Anthony on January 10, 1991 at 2:24 p.m. He weighed 8 lbs. 8 ozs. and was 19½ inches long. Bryon was welcomed home by big sister, Amanda Jean. Grandparents are Donna Osbon of Lowell and Ron and Mary Yakes, also of Lowell.

In 1797 Andre Garnerin of France made the world's first parachute jump from a balloon.

For ice control, a salt and sand mixture will be spread on city streets between 4:00 and 8:00 a.m. In extremely low temperatures, chloride will be added to the mixture.

Intersections, curves, railroad crossings, stop street and hills will receive first priority.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As does every civilized person, I despise war, and I find myself heartbroken by its costs. The loss of sons, daughters, husbands and wives, mothers and fathers, brothers and sisters is very painful and tragic. The pain and losses should never be in vain.

Almost every epic war in which the U.S. was involved, had its losses and its pain, but it also had its joy.

Although it had its cost and pain, the American Revolution won the joy of independence.

The joy of freedom for blacks and the welding of the union of states, had its high cost paid for in blood during the American Civil War.

During World War I we experienced the joy of bonding one time enemies together as allies, against a wrongful and ambitious oppressor.

Many of us still remember the joyous ending of World War II that saw the ending of the tragic Jewish nightmare in Europe. We celebrated the freedom and victory over wrongful invasion of several countries by a mad dictator and his followers. This war saw the establishment of the United Nations which now wields powerful influence in peace-keeping world wide.

The act of war is wrong but some war is necessary and right. War is wrong between ignorant powers such as rival street gangs who fight over turf not over higher ideals or morality. The war between Iraq and Iran is an example. War is wrong when initiated by ignorance or self-ambition such as Hitler's Germany and Japan's Empire.

War is right when it is in defense of morality or against ignorance, prejudice and immorality. War is good when the victor shows mercy and kindness to the defeated and when the defeated are brought from the darkness of ignorance and immorality into the light of morality and self-progression, such as in the case of Japan. They have evolved from an oppressive empire into an enlightened people, who accepted defeat and the mercy of a victor. Japan has established one of the most civilized constitutions in the world and who has through legitimate business established themselves as a world economic power.

I said earlier that almost every American war had its joy aspect and this is true. Where it is not true was the war in Vietnam. No winners here. The reason is soldiers died in vain and souls are still dying. Souls of our Vietnam (heroes) soldiers have been mistreated by well-intentioned but misguided civilians known as war protesters. War protesters, whose emotional demonstrations disregard the mentality of enemies who have no morals at all, have caused more pain to Vietnam vets than the bullets they dodged. If you don't believe this, just ask a Vietnam veteran.

I'm not against war protest in some cases. The people of Iraq should be protesting right now, or even in the United States if the same scenario applied. Iraq fought a war against Iran for eight years, during which time there were many casualties, but they had military gains. (Now here is where the mentality and reason for war against Iraq is justified).

The aggression by Iraq is not moral or for a higher ideal. It is for personal gain and out of ignorance. Like Hitler's army, the Iraqs will blindly follow their demented leader, even after their sons, fathers and brothers have died in an eight year war with Iran. Even though their leader gave up military gains making the loss of lives purposeless, the people will still follow Saddam (Insane) Hussein into yet another bloody battle. There will be no war protest in Iraq. This is the mentality and ignorance we have to defeat.

De'tant and peace, which is what protestors plead for can only be achieved when all the World's powers are enlightened and united with the same high ideals. A world power that is possessed by prejudice, personal gain or ignorance will pose a stumbling block to true world peace.

Commerce promotes Newcomer's Guide

Its prime concern is the promotion of Lowell, and therefore, the elevation of its business and residential community.

The Lowell Area Chamber of Commerce believes the issuance of its Newcomer's Guide to every listed business in Lowell, to all of its chamber members, to the realtors and to the local schools will tell people about Lowell and what the community is all about.

"The Chamber has 200-300 Newcomer's Guides left which will be distributed to newcomers in the area," said Chamber President, Larry Coleman

The Guide has a listing of the Chamber Board and its members, a calendar of events for the Lowell area, service organizations, clubs, associations and a contact person, parks, campgrounds and recreation areas in Lowell, a listing of things to see and do, bed and breakfast, rooms, hotel and motels, restaurants, bars and nightclubs, child care facilities, and a business directory.

"It's something that has been talked about for a couple of years," Coleman said. "The Guide was completed and distributed in December.

Horton was one of 22 new House members joining the 86th Michigan Legislature. The oath allows him to serve on House committees, sponsor and vote on legislation, and participate in all House functions.

"My door will always be open. I consider it an honor to serve area constituents," Horton said. "Michigan faces many challenges in the coming decade and I am eager to begin meeting them."

Horton was elected last November to represent the 90th House District for the 1991-92 session. He succeeds Vic Krause, who has joined the private sector.

Michigan boards honored for direction & dedication

At least once a month, 4,200 men and women gather in towns and cities across Michigan to make decisions that affect the lives and the futures of 1.7 million school children.

This month, Michigan communities like Lowell will honor the dedicated service of these public school trustees during the second annual observance of School Board Member Recognition Week, Jan. 13-19.

School Board Member Recognition Week offers local communities a chance to pay tribute to the men and women who set direction and policy for their schools. It also provides a chance for communities to publically recognize the fine efforts of those who participated in the past as members of the Lowell Area Schools Board of Education. The policy, visionary direction, and dedication of past Board of Education members have brought us to our current level of excellence.

According to history books, the notion of school boards grew out of territorial law, predating statehood and the Michigan constitution. However, Public Act 63 of 1837 defined a procedure for creating primary school districts and a district "school board" to oversee the schools.

Under Michigan's School Code (Sec. 380.1282), a local board of education "shall establish and carry on the grades, schools and departments it deems necessary or desirable for the maintenance and improvement of schools, determine the courses of study to be pursued, and cause the pupils attending school in the district to be taught in the schools or departments the board deems expedient."

The men and women serving Lowell Area Schools and their years of service are: Roger Kropf, President - 15½ years; Chris VanAntwerp, Vice-President - 8½ years; Linda Beers, Secretary - 11 years; Jack Lane, Treasurer - 3½ years; John Haggai, Trustee - 8½ years; Norm Byrne, Trustee - 3½ years; Ray Quada, Trustee - ½ year.

The United States Supreme Court has said education is perhaps the most important function of state and local governments. Our system of local school districts and boards of education epitomizes representative and participatory government - citizens elected from their community making decisions about educational programs based on community needs, values and expectations.

Local school boards also allow for community participation in that decision-making process. School boards not only represent the public, but also translate the needs of students into policies, plans and goals that will be supported by the community.

The primary function of the board of education is to oversee the education of the people in the community. Educational programs conducted at the elementary, middle and high school levels are most familiar. Local school districts also operate preschool and adult education programs for large numbers of people.

School board members are trustees, responsible for a trust established by the community. The most important beneficiaries of this trust are the public school students in that community. Even though board members are directly accountable to the people they represent, their primary obligation is to ensure that students' needs are identified and met.

Michigan law permits compensation for board members at a rate up to $30 per meeting for not more than 52 meetings per year. Some school boards have adopted a compensation schedule under this law. In other districts, such as Lowell, board members volunteer their time and receive no compensation.

The men and women who have served in the past as members of the Lowell Board of Education are Wayne Dowling, Dr. James Dumas, Lloyd Miller, Roger Roberts, Phillip Kropf, Dr. Donald Gerard, Tyrus Wessell, Sandy Nagy, Mary Yost, Tom Heintzleman, Richard Siegle, Dr. Robert Reaga, Gould Rivette, Dr. Thomas Hill, Jo Murphy, Orion Thaler, David Miller, Blanche Mullen, David Wingier, David Coons, Francis Campau and David Hagens.
