Lansing woman injured in Sunday night crash

Lowell and Kent County police were called to the scene at Lincoln Lake and Hudson Sunday evening (a little after 9 p.m.) for a two-car accident involving drivers from Lansing and Wyoming.

Kent County Deputy Vic Weeks said Lorelee McDonald, Lansing, was transported to Blodgett Hospital for minor head and neck injuries.

The police report stated that both McDonald and the other driver, Lawrence Kleck, were southbound on Hudson when McDonald did a U-turn on Christopher Street and then proceeded to pull back onto Hudson into the path of Kleck's vehicle.

Weeks said McDonald would be cited for failing to yield the right of way.

Kleck and his passenger, his 12-year-old daughter, Kelly, incurred minor bruises but did not need medical attention.

Both the driver and the passenger of this van received just minor injuries from Sunday night's accident.

Lorelee McDonald incurred minor head and neck injuries Sunday night following an accident at Hudson and Lincoln Lake.

Kathy Paroff recognized for her life-saving CPR application on husband Friend's of Kathy Paroff from the ambulance and rescue units of the Lowell Area Fire Department refer lovingly to her husband, John, as the heavenly reject.

As many have read and heard, John Paroff suffered a heart attack on June 3 in his home at 591 Alden Nash. There were a few times after the heart attack where John did not have a heart beat.

John was able to attend a special recognition meeting in honor of Kathy and the Rescue and Ambulance personnel because Kathy remained alert enough to contact the Emergency Medical Service (911) and then calm enough to start and continue C.P.R. on John until members of Lowell Ambulance and Rescue Units from the Lowell Area Fire Department arrived to start defibrillation.

"I will admit I called 911 before John passed out, I wasn't that calm after he passed out," Kath said.

John Krohmer, Medical Director of the Kent County EMS said, "Not often do we find that it is a EMS provider involved in the saving of a spouse's life," he said. "Often times it's a citizen. This is a stressful time for folks and even more stressful when it involves a family member."

Krohmer added that "Paroff's rescue was a wonderful example of a system working the way it should."

Krohmer was in attendance at the Look Memorial Fire Station on Saturday to present certificates of recognition to Lowell's ambulance and rescue personnel and to Kathy Paroff for their work in such a traumatic situation.

"Often times we don't recognize exceptional patient care because we either don't know, don't take time," Krohmer said. "It's nice to be able to recognize the exceptional care. I think people have a tendency to take for granted that ambulance and rescue personnel are going to be there."

John Paroff, who was also in attendance, continues to go to cardiac rehabilitation three times a week. "I'm feeling good. They really push you at the center. It doesn't scare me. If something is going to happen that's the place where you want to be."

Handicapped Walker man trapped in car for nearly 3 hours before found

Michael Ray Smith, a paraplegic, was trapped for roughly three hours in his car before someone found his car, flipped on its side, and reported the accident to the police.

Smith lost control of his car while driving on Parnell Road Saturday morning.

A Walker man was trapped in his car for approximately three hours after he flipped his car onto its side while driving on Parnell Road early Saturday morning.

Michael Ray Smith, a paraplegic, found himself trapped in his car for a good portion of the early Saturday morning hours, before someone found and reported the accident to the Kent County Sheriff's Department.

According to the police report, Smith was southbound on Parnell when he failed to observe the intersection at Settlewood. In an effort to compensate, Smith tried to take evasive action. He then lost control of his vehicle and struck an embankment. After clipping the embankment his vehicle flipped over onto its side.

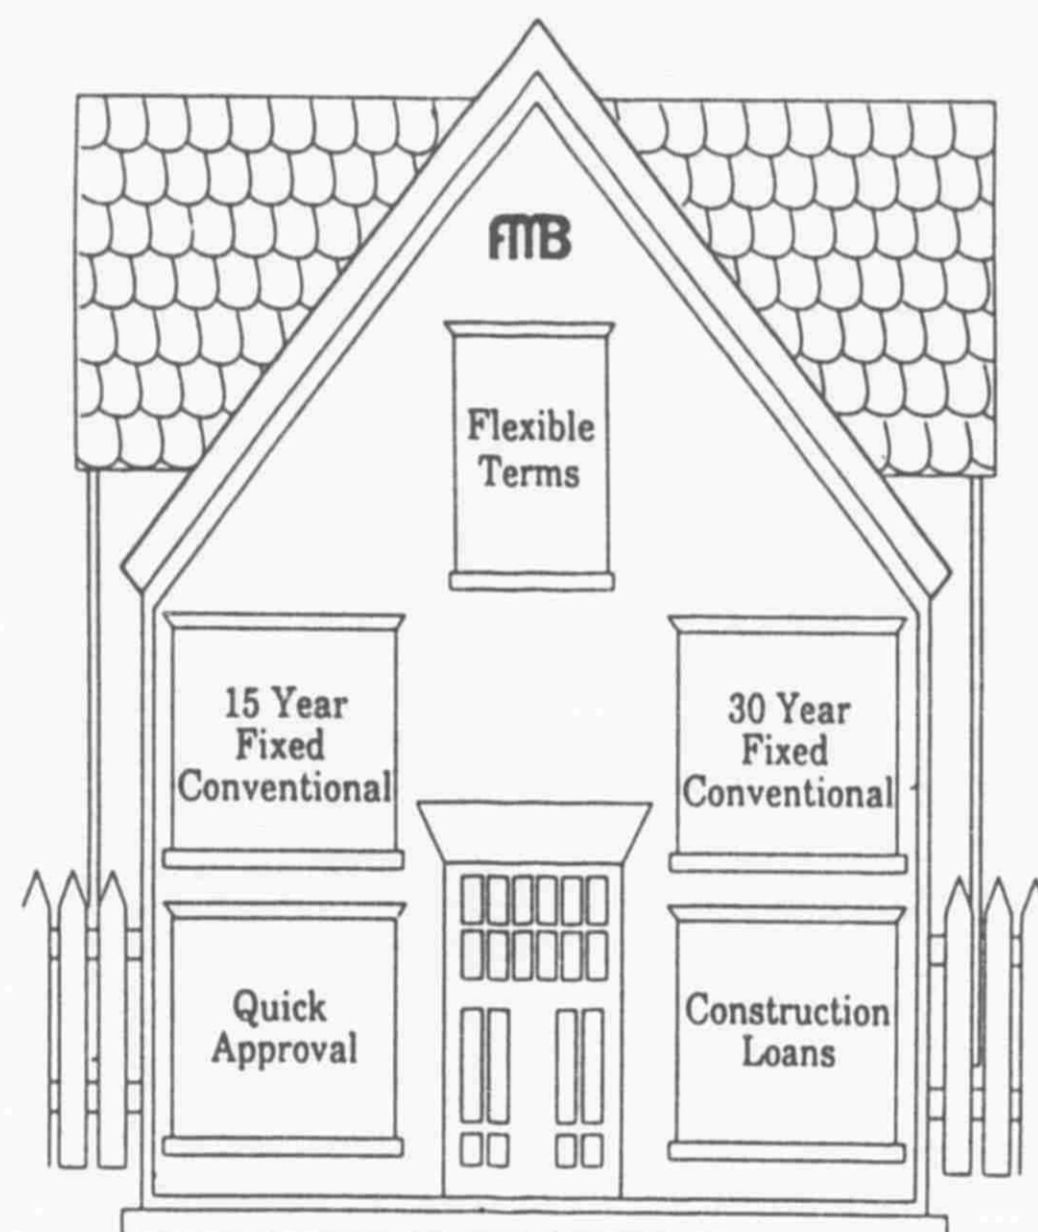

He was transported to Butterworth Hospital by Lowell Ambulance for minor injuries.

Although the United Nations has many offices in Switzerland, Switzerland is not a member of the United Nations.

Lowell Area Fire Department officials work on Michael Ray Smith following an early Saturday morning accident on Parnell Road.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart (Jeremiah 29:13).

Early one summer day we arrived at the famous diamond mine, paid our fees, and with high hopes began searching for riches.

Dressed in all sorts of garb, equipped with rakes, shovels and strainers, dozens of other people dug into the earth. Some were hatless, and the sun beat down unmercifully upon them. Others trudged through the damp dirt without shoes, and the sticky mud oozed up between their toes. Some walked about with their eyes glued on the earth. Others were on all fours searching diligently for precious stones.

Day after day, the search goes on. People keep paying their entrance fees. They continue searching earth's storehouse for diamonds in spite of sore limbs, aching muscles, and the sweltering heat of a burning Arkansas sun. A few have made startling discoveries, but many leave without one single precious stone for their reward.

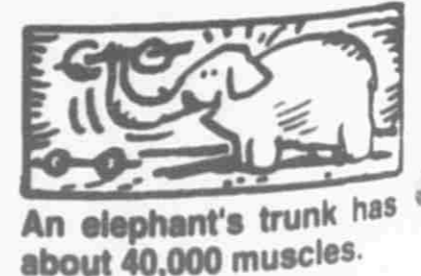

Spiritual treasure is promised, not to just a favored few, but to all who seek God with all their hearts. God's abiding presence exceeds all temporal wealth. It is the trusting heart's greatest treasure; it far exceeds the wealth of diamonds.

Prayer: Precious Jesus, Thy presence is better to me than all the riches of the world. I would rather have Thee with me than to own all the diamonds in the universe. Amen.

Jesus the very thought of Thee
With sweetness fills my breast;
But sweeter far Thy face to see,
And in Thy presence rest.

School officials pinpoint where cost will be cut if Headlee and the .55 millage proposals fail Reductions totaling $201,000 were approved by the Lowell School Board at a special meeting last Wednesday.

The reductions would go into effect if the .55 additional millage request and the Headlee both fail in the Sept. 24 election.

"This is not meant to be a threat," said Dick Korb, Director of School and Community Services. "These are real programs and real money. We don't want people thinking because the ballot has four proposals there are throw away issues."

The .55 additional millage request ($0.55 on each $1,000) would create an additional $165,000 for the school district. Passage of the Headlee would create an additional $35,000.

Korb said the information is being put out early so voters are informed and understand what the consequences of a "no" vote on these proposals will mean. "The school doesn't want to hear on Sept. 25, 'but you didn't tell us,'" Korb said.

The $201,000 worth of reductions would be spread throughout 15 different areas. Areas that would feel the biggest reductions include classroom furniture, library books and athletics, totaling $65,000 in classroom furniture for the middle school and elementary schools, $20,000 in library books, and $19,000 in athletics and $10,000 in athletic equipment.

There would be $7,500 eliminated from the elementary book budget, $6,500 from the middle school library book budget and $6,000 from the high school library book budget, totaling $20,000.

The $19,000 reduction in athletics would mean winter and spring sport athletes would have to pay to play. Athletic equipment purchases would be reduced by $10,000.

Supplies for the three school divisions would be cut by $30,000. Elementaries - $15,000; Middle School $6,000 and High School, $9,000.

Curriculum development would incur a $15,000 reduction; spelling books and field trips would each incur a $10,000 reduction.

"To say these reductions will occur and not follow through with them if the proposals fail would put our program at risk," Korb said. Jim White, Director of Special Education and Instruction, said the "Keep the Doors Open" committee leading the campaign to get the proposals passed on Sept. 24, were relieved that the Board and Administration decided not to appeal. "We felt it was time to move forward and address our kids and their education."

Curriculum development would incur a $15,000 reduction; spelling books and field trips would each incur a $10,000 reduction.

School Board votes no on appeal; negotiations continue

Following a special closed session meeting Wednesday (Aug. 21) the Lowell School Board and administration in a written statement announced that "in the interest of the school district, its children and young adults, it has been determined that the school will not appeal Judge Dennis Kolenda's Qua-Ke-Zik condemnation hearing decision. "It was a collective decision. A decision to start the appeal process would have jeopardized the September millage vote. At this time that would be a great risk," Lowell Superintendent Fritz Esch said. "The Board and administration felt confident enough with how negotiations are going with Richard and Shirley Cooper and with Jim Cook that we can be on our way with an agreement." The Board and Administrators were aided in their decision, by the City Council's approval of annexation of the Richard and Shirley Cooper property provided the school purchases land from both Cooper and Cook. Despite the latest decisions by the school and the Council, Lowell is still without land. But Esch said it feels more confident in terms of where the negotiations are with this land. "Cooper and Cook are both being much more forthright and honest at this stage of negotiations than Qua-Ke-Zik ever was with us," Esch said. Lowell's Superintendent was very pleased with the City Council's decision and was hopeful a resolution (a statement of confidence and/or good faith) would be coming from the Vergennes Township Board in regards to annexation. Cook would not comment. Both proposals brought forth by Cooper and Cook were deemed unacceptable by the school. "But both men seem flexible and I believe the figures are negotiable," Esch said. Another determining factor in the Board's decision was that design of the school drawn up for the Qua-Ke-Zik property can remain the same for the Cooper and Cook property. Esch added that Ben Wrigley, Jr., the school's attorney, is and will continue to negotiate with the attorneys of Cooper and Cook. Cooper, in his first proposal, asked for $384,000. The 80 acres is assessed at (SEV) $69,000, which is half of the actual value ($138,000). Cook, who has proposed to sell 80 acres, most of which is wetlands (assessed at $12,000, total value $24,000), to the east of Cooper's property and approximately 30 acres to Cooper's north. Cook owns roughly 100 acres to the north of Cooper which is divided into two parts. One part of the parcel is assessed at $35,000 and the other part is assessed at $124,500. Cook's proposal called for the school to pay $295,000 for the 80 acres plus approximately 30 of the 100 acres to the north. In his proposal, Cooper expressed an interest in 7.3 acres that lies adjacent to and east of his property. Cook did say that because the school has the highest use for the property, the value of it increases. "The Sportsman's land was assessed at $500 an acre, but why did I not hear the school, The Ledger or the Press question paying $2,600 an acre," Cook said. "The school must accept responsibility for establishing increased values for unique improvement purposes, but perhaps because I am an elected official, it is necessary to be regarded as an opportunist." Cook said that it makes no difference whether or not the school buys his land. "My statement and/or promise that I will do everything in my capacity to deliver utilities (sewer and water and probably police assistance) to this Vergennes Township site stands without reservation." Esch would not put a timetable on as to when he would like to complete negotiations. "The School Board just wants it to be done as expeditiously as possible," he concludes.

7. Add the following to Paragraph 13.01 (Purpose) of Article 13 (Special Land Uses):

J. Nonfarm dwellings.

K. Rear lot line exceptions.

L. Change of nonconforming uses.

M. Adult entertainment activities.

8. Add the following to Paragraph 13.05 (Design Standards) of Article 13 (Special Land Uses):

J. Nonfarm Dwellings: The Planning Commission may allow, as a special land use, more than two (2) nonfarm-related, single-family dwellings in a quarter section located in an "A-1" Agricultural District if the following conditions are met:

1. The parcel on which the dwelling is to be located is poorly suited for agricultural production due to existing soil conditions, slope, or the presence of natural vegetation such as woodlots, brushlands, and wetlands. The Planning Commission, in making its determination, may consider factors such as, but not limited to, past and present use of the parcel and adjoining parcels, past productivity, slope, soils, vegetation, and the difficulty in making the parcel suitable for farming.

2. There will be a minimal likelihood of conflicts arising between the residential use and the surrounding agricultural activities.

3. The precedent set by allowing the residential use in the circumstances under consideration will not adversely effect the long-term plans and development policies of Bowne Township.

K. Rear Lot Line Exceptions: The Planning Commission may allow, as a special land use, a dwelling unit on a lot less than forty (40) acres in size that has a rear lot line greater than four hundred (400) feet from a road right-of-way if the following conditions are met:

1. The portion of the lot greater than four hundred (400) feet from a road right-of-way is poorly suited for agricultural production due to existing soil conditions, slope, or the presence of natural vegetation such as woodlots, brushland, and wetlands. The Planning Commission, in making its determination, may consider factors such as, but not limited to, past and present uses of the parcel, past productivity, and the difficulty in making the parcel suitable for farming.

2. There will be a minimal likelihood of conflicts arising between the residential use and the surrounding agricultural activities.

3. The precedent set by allowing the residential use in the circumstances under consideration will not adversely effect the long-term plans and development policies of Bowne Township.

L. Change of Nonconforming Uses: A nonconforming use may be changed to another nonconforming use as a special land use if the Planning Commission finds that such new use would markedly decrease the degree of nonconformance and would enhance the desirability of adjacent conforming uses. Whenever a nonconforming use is changed to a more restricted or conforming use, such use shall not thereafter revert to the prior nonconforming use.

M. Adult Entertainment Activities:

1. The need for special regulation of certain business uses that, by their very nature, are deemed to have unique characteristics and effects on surrounding properties, is recognized as a legitimate objective. Special regulation is needed to ensure these uses are not concentrated in any one (1) area, thus preventing adverse effects upon the surrounding neighborhood, such as blight and urban deterioration, negative effects on economic development potential, social disorder and crime, negative effects on community standards for aesthetics, the reduction of property values and the subsequent negative impact on the community tax base. The primary objective is to prevent a concentration of these uses by establishing spacing standards and, thus, ensuring disbursement of these uses throughout the community.

2. Adult entertainment activities shall only be located within C-1 and C-2 Commercial Districts.

3. An application to establish an adult entertainment activity shall not be approved if there is already in existence one (1) or more adult entertainment activities within one thousand five hundred (1,500) feet of the boundaries of the site of the proposed activities, excepting as otherwise provided for within this section.

4. An application to establish an adult entertainment activity shall not be approved if the proposed location is within one thousand five hundred (1,500) feet of any residentially zoned District, licensed day-care facilities, adult foster care home, senior citizens' center, park, or church and shall not be approved if the proposed location is within two thousand six hundred fifty (2,650) feet from any K-12 school, excepting as otherwise provided for within this Ordinance.

5. The Planning Commission may waive the locational standards limiting adult entertainment activities as they relate to similar uses if the following findings are made:

a) That the proposed use will not be contrary to the public interest or injurious to nearby properties and that the spirit and intent of the section will be observed.

b) That the proposed use will not enlarge or encourage the development of a "skid-row" area.

c) That the establishment of an additional regulated use in the area will not be contrary to any program of neighborhood conservation nor will it interfere with any program of urban renewal.

d) That all applicable regulations of this section will be observed.

6. The Planning Commission may waive the locational standards limiting the location of adult entertainment activities as they relate to residentially zoned Districts, licensed day-care facilities, adult foster care homes, senior citizen centers, parks, or churches, provided a validated petition requesting such a waiver is presented to the Plan

Commission, signed by the owners or purchasers of at least fifty-one (51) percent of the parcels of land within five hundred (500) feet of the proposed location. In addition to this requirement, the Planning Commission may waive the requirement that adult entertainment activities be located no closer than two thousand six hundred fifty (2,650) feet from schools only if the proponent also demonstrates that school children are not required to pass by the location while walking to or from school. Any petition presented to the Planning Commission shall contain, at a minimum, the following:

a) A statement in the form of an affidavit attested to by the circulator of the petition that the circulator personally witnessed the signatures on the petition and the same were affixed to the petition by the person whose name appeared thereon.

b) A statement on the petition so worded that the signers of the petition will attest to the fact that they are the owners or purchasers of the parcel of land identified by the permanent parcel number opposite their signatures.

c) For the purpose of this section, parcels of land shall equate to the permanent parcel numbers assigned by the Township to all property within the said five hundred (500) feet.

7. An applicant requesting a waiver of locational requirements shall file an application with the ordinance enforcement officer; however, the ordinance enforcement officer shall not accept an application for the waiver of locational requirements for an adult entertainment activity as it relates to residentially zoned Districts, licensed day-care facilities, adult foster care homes, senior citizen centers, K-12 schools, parks, or churches, without a petition as required herein. Said petition shall be validated by the ordinance enforcement officer. The ordinance enforcement officer shall then notify the Planning Commission of the receipt of the requests and petition within fifteen (15) days of filing.

8. Prior to the granting of a waiver of locational requirements, the Planning Commission may impose any conditions or limitations upon the establishment, location, construction, maintenance, or operations of regulated use as may, in its judgment, be necessary for the protection of the public interest. Any evidence and guarantee may be required as proof that the conditions stipulated in connection therewith will be fulfilled.

Christensen: Central is the '91 O-K White favorite

Red Arrows will veer away from power back offense in '91

Lowell's varsity football coach, Phil Christensen was forthright and honest when he was asked what his gut instinct was in regards to the chemistry of this year's squad.

"Sore," Christensen smiled softly, making sure not to laugh too much so as not to incur any pain from his recent back surgery.

Christensen sat up straight and motionless throughout much of the pre-season interview in regards to the Red Arrow's chances in the O-K White in 1991.

"To answer your question, this group of players is more together as a team than last year at this time," Christensen said. "If they will all play for the betterment of the team, I think we will finish in the upper bracket of our league."

Lowell's coach doesn't hide the fact that many things need to happen on the field for success to be realized.

On offense, how quickly a young and inexperienced line can mature will have a big impact on how successful the execution of the veer offense is.

From offensive tackle to offensive tackle Lowell should line up this way, Blane Lester, tackle; Andy Antcliff, guard; Jeff Johnson, center; Andy Wester, guard (maybe even some play at tackle); Rich Kosnic, tackle.

If the line can mature quickly, then the experienced backfield of quarterback, Mark Lyon, runningbacks Brett Knoop and Shawn Smith, may have a big year.

"In Knoop, I think we have the best running back in the league," Christensen said. "He's a punishing runner. I think the change to the veer offense from the power back offense will only serve to compliment Knoop's running style."

Lowell's coach added that the backfield is a little slow in execution, but added that is normal for this time of year. "In time, that tentativeness will go away," he said.

Randy Crawford and Scott DeWitt will back up Lyon at quarterback. Crawford will also see playing time at the flanker position.

However, most of Lowell's flanker play will come from John Saboo.

Tight end duties will be put into the hands of Mike Tuma and Aaron Laux.

In his 12th season, Christensen is expected to field a defense that will once again be stingy in points allowed and hit hard.

The 4-4 defense will be anchored by a strong linebacking corps. Todd Phillips, Rich DePew and Chad Lyon will be the Red Arrows inside backers.

The inside tackle positions will be filled by Jon Hutfilz and Noah Menerey.

"It will be a 4-4 defense, but we will give them many different looks," Christensen said. "We still need to be more aggressive defensively and we will look for our secondary to improve on its hitting from a year ago."

Secondary will be lead by Jason Dykhouse and Matt Kemp. Both were part-time starters last year.

Christensen says keys to his club's defensive success this season will depend on how quickly his secondary reacts to the ball, and if his defensive line can hold its own, and not get moved off the line.

Lowell is coming off a 4-5 record in 1990. It finished 4-3 in the league.

"Central is the favorite. It has much of last year's team coming back," Christensen said. "Zealand and Rogers will both be tough and should contend. My surprises this year are Wyoming Park and Northview. East Grand Rapids should also be improved."

Lowell opens its season on Sept. 6 at home against Catholic Central. It opens its conference play at home on Sept. 12 against East Grand Rapids.

Depth, size, quickness and experience...

Red Arrow girls give coach four good reasons to get excited about '91 season

The dominant, big-play performers of Crumley, Hackenbruch and Roberts are gone from the 1991 girls' basketball rosters, breathe not a sigh of relief, the faint heart, the O-K White may very well be stronger overall and even more competitive this fall.

Defending conference champion Forest Hills Central returns a strong nucleus and has the luxury of reloading with players coming up from a 19-2 junior varsity season. Zealand, fourth a year ago, returns many of its players from a successful 1990 campaign. Wyoming Park and Rogers while they may not be as strong as they were in 1990, their programs dictate they will compete.

Lowell Coach Ken Akers, despite returning just one starter from last year's 13-7 (9-5 in the league) team, has also found plenty to smile about.

"I believe we have the ingredients to win a conference title. Whether we play to that level we'll have to wait and find out," Akers explains. "We have depth, decent size, quickness and experience."

The Red Arrow coach has seven returning seniors. Four of those seniors are expected to have a starting role when the conference season opens against East Grand Rapids on Sept. 19. Lowell's only returning starter is a sure-fire All-Conference player in 1991, Renee Nugent. The senior was an honorable mention All-Conference player last year.

"Renee has looked real tough thus far," Akers said. "We're just thankful she's even playing after the accident she went through this summer." Nugent was involved in a three wheeler accident causing serious injuries to her shoulder and facial area. Nugent received clearance from her doctor to play strong forward for Lowell in '91.

Nugent will co-captain this year's squad along with senior shooting guard Angie Brown.

Akers describes Brown as a quicker and more confident player than in 1990. "She's showing a lot of leadership. I think Brown and Nugent's experience and leadership will make us go."

Flanking Brown at the point guard position will be sophomore Amy Stauffer. Playing with more confidence, Akers says Stauffer will be the team quarterback. "We're also going to look to Amy to pick up her scoring role," he adds.

The second forward position will be filled by the team's inspirational leader, Jen Wieland. "She's our heart. She plays and works harder than anyone. She also plays good defense and is quick," Akers explains.

The post area will be manned by senior Brandi Phillips. She will jump from a role player in 1990 to a front-line player this fall. It's a big jump, one Akers believes she can handle. "We will be looking for defense and rebounding from Brandi."

For only the second time in Akers' four years as Lowell's varsity girls basketball coach, his varsity roster will include a freshman. Last year it was Stauffer. In '91 it will be Krista Posthumus. Akers says the freshman has learned so much so fast. "She is so quick on her feet. Krista will see plenty of playing time."

Akers is most pleased by the club's depth. "We will be running and pressing more this year. To do that, you need quality depth which I think we have."

Posthumus will provide depth at the wing position. Jodi Bishop, being groomed for the future point guard position, will backup Stauffer this season. "Jodi is also learning fast and is quick," Akers said.

Heather Sobie and Vickie Videa will spell post relief for the Lowell coach. "Sobie will be my backup center and Videa will fill in at the forward spot."

Also contributing in 1991 will be forwards Betsy Nugent and Jeni Francis and guard Jessi Pelon.

Lowell opens its season five non-conference games. The first four are against teams Akers said should win their conferences. If you're looking for an early season Red arrow measuring stick, it should be noted that the last time Lowell won the O-K White Conference it opened the season with a win against Middleville. Lowell opened the '91 season against the Trojans!

Turkal finds lots to be excited about entering 1991 soccer season

One game separated the top three soccer teams in the O-K White Conference in 1990.

The league coaches don't see that changing much in 1991.

"The O-K White Conference is probably more balanced this year than ever before," Lowell coach John Turkal said. "What this will mean, is you won't be able to discount anyone."

This added competitiveness in the league could create co- or even tri-champions in '91.

If returning lettermen is a measuring stick to how good a team will be in 1991, then Sparta should be very strong.

"Sparta will be strong, but I think Forest Hills Central would have to be the favorite," Turkal said. "The Rangers have strength at the full back spot and their offense will be strong."

Lowell's coach also believes East Grand Rapids will rebound from an off year and that Zeeland will once again be tough.

Don't be discouraged Lowell soccer fans, Turkal holds high hopes for his young Red Arrows. "We'll be more than competitive," he promises. "I think two or three losses will win the league title."

With a younger and more physical squad, Turkal will run three strikers up front and his fullback line will be reduced from five to four with three at midfield.

"We will run a diamond defense instead of the powerback defense we've run the last few years," Turkal explains.

Senior Jon Kohler will captain this year's club and fill the center midfield spot. He will be flanked to the right by Jason Graber and to the left by Chris Geisert.

Junior Jon Roudabush will bring both a physical strength and a quickness to the center striker position. To Roudabush's left will be sophomore Ryan White and on the right side will be Scott MacNaughton. "Both possess a great deal of quickness," Turkal said. "This is the first time I've had the size to play physical. Roudabush is quick enough to go around people and isn't going to get pushed around much once he's planted himself."

Strength and quickness are also adjectives Turkal uses when speaking about his fullbacks. Ryan Peel will be the club's top stop with Troy Addington at left fullback and Jim Moore at the right fullback.

Josh Andrews will be the Red Arrows back sweep.

Returning to the net will be goalie, Aaron Snell. He held a half a goal a game against the Going For It!

Lowell lady netters ready for season with emphasis on conditioning

Building a tennis program from the ground up in the perennially strong O-K White Conference can be at best difficult and at times disheartening. It requires time and a great deal of patience.

Having survived her introductory season, Lowell coach Wendy Ackerman has added a few key ingredients if Lowell players can be competitive in 1991.

"Often our girls are playing against stronger players. For us to be competitive, our girls will have to be well conditioned and quicker than we were a year ago," Ackerman explained. "We must go for everything."

Red Arrows' second-year coach started driving this message home in mid-July during a tennis summer camp.

It was the first tennis summer camp Lowell has held. Ackerman and Lowell boys' tennis coach Terry Abel supervised it. "We had 20-22 high school students for the afternoon session. Of those, 16 were girls." There was also a session held for Middle School students. There were just five participants. "We would have liked more participation. But both Terry and I were pleased and will hold the camp again next year."

The camp stressed the basic fundamentals and allowed players to play against one another. Ackerman is hopeful that such a camp will help Lowell's tennis program grow.

In 1991, Lowell returns six lettermen and a lot of first-year sophomore and junior players.

Senior Kathie Abel will lead Lowell as its number one singles player. "Kathie has been hitting the ball well and does well at the net. However, at number one singles her competition will be stern," Ackerman explains.

Alison Zillmer, number two singles, making the switch from doubles play a year ago, brings some heavy hitting and a hard serve to the court.

Playing number three singles will be senior Diedre DenBoer. "Diedre's strength is in her consistent ground strokes," Ackerman said.

The biggest question mark facing Ackerman is who will fill the fourth singles position. "Right now we will probably rotate players from match to match."

Juniors Tara Sterly and Rachael Neile McGrew will make a big jump from third doubles last year to the number one seed in '91. "It's a big jump I wish I didn't have to ask them to make. But they play well together and they both hustle and go for everything."

Filling the number two doubles spot will be Connie Colburn and Sara Scoles. Colburn switches over from fourth singles. "She played doubles in her sophomore year but was switched to singles last year," Ackerman said.

Juniors Amy Gerkin and Marcy Anes will jump from exhibition play a year ago to third doubles. "They are both hitting the ball well in practice," Ackerman comments.

Filling out the roster will

Ogle seeks out 4th linkster in the fairways of Deer Run Golf Course

If the Lowell boys' golf team is to compete for a conference crown in the O-K White in 1991 it will take a "birdie" of a year from a rookie.

Lowell boys' golf coach returns two members from last year's state final qualifying team.

"Actually our first three golfers are pretty solid players, but we need to find that fourth score to be competitive," Ogle said.

Leading the way will be returning lettermen Chad Dunn and senior Chris Elzinga. "Dunn has made tremendous improvement," Ogle said. "Going into the season, I'd say he's probably one of the top five or six players in the area."

Ogle supports his claim with the fact that Dunn finished fifth at the Lowell Invitational at the Deer Run Golf Course, carding an 80. In the Kent County Tourney at Scott Lake Dunn fired a 77.

"He has a lot of athleticism and natural ability, which help him compensate for his weaknesses," Ogle said.

Elzinga, the 1991 captain, was the Red Arrows third man last year and could challenge Dunn for top honors this year.

Chris earned All-City Selection for his play in this summer's tournaments.

"Chris has set himself up to have a great senior year. He's emerging as our team leader," Ogle explained. "I expect Elzinga and Coleman to come in with scores under 40."

This year's third man will be Craig Coleman. Ogle says Golf, cont'd, pg. 20

Arrow seek 1st league title

Lowell boy harriers look to shoot down Rangers in the Park

A pack of Rangers was all that stood between the Lowell boys' cross country team in 1990 and a first-place finish in O-K White Conference.

Lowell boys' cross country coach Tom Harper believes he may have a pack of Red Arrows capable of shooting down Forest Central's Rangers in 1991.

"Running in a pack is good, if the pack is tight enough and finishes toward the front," Harper explains. "The other key obviously is that they all stay healthy."

Lowell's ability to challenge for its first league title will weigh heavily on the legs of returning lettermen David Stouffer, Jason VanderWarf, Tom Mull and Sergio Saldivar.

The fifth name in that pack equation will be challenged for by Dude Kanoza, Pete Wills, Eric Shelby and newcomer Kyle Boston.

While Boston may be a new face to cross country he is not unfamiliar to running. He has played an intricate part as a member of the Lowell track team over the last couple of years.

"Kanoza was very impressive at camp as was Tom Mull. The senior may have looked the best of all the boys," Harper said.

Harper is looking for the top four runners to stop the clock in the low 18 to high 17-minute marker. "We'd like our fifth man as close to that as possible," he explained.

Providing much needed depth and also competing for a top spot will be Sean Strauss, Jacob Hecksel, Mike Wojciakowski, Mike Rottier and Steve Kline.

Lowell's coach concedes that Forest Hills Central is the team to beat. "Zeeland should also make a strong showing. Our goal is win the O-K White title," Harper comments.

Lowell's times were better than FHC's in most of the meets. But Central rose to the occasion in the school's head-to-head dual meet and at the conference meet.

The Red Arrows, who finished 6-1 in the conference last year, will try to change that trend when the two schools meet Sept. 18 at Sparta.

"The boys want to win the conference title and qualify for the state meet," Harper concludes.

Sara Lesky. The junior showed up in the best shape of all Red Arrow harriers at the Flat River Running Camp. "You can tell Sara put in some work this summer. She's in real good shape and may challenge Oliver for the number one spot." Lesky is expected to run in the low 22's high 21-minute markers.

Following Oliver and Lesky, the rest of this year's club is untested. Harper stresses that doesn't mean they won't help. He believes juniors Stephanie Ward and Melanie Langridge, and sophomore Angela Smith.

"If we can get 23 minutes or better from them I think we will be okay," Harper said.

Help will also be looked to from juniors Jenny Kerman and Anna Lietzke, and freshman Amanda Smit.

"East is the team to beat. I think Central will be good also. I believe we can challenge both of those two teams," Harper concludes.

average in 1990, according to Turkal.

Backing up at the fullback position will be Marc Briggs, Jason Sayen, Nick Wissman, Bob Prins, Joe Caesar and Casey Brown. "That is a good solid corps of backup fullbacks," Turkal says. "Brown is out of action right now because of tendinitis."

Junior backup strikers include Matt Mead and Dusty Hawk. Reserves at midfield will be juniors Chad Christian and Greg Briggs.

"This is the first time we've had good size people at midfield that we'll be able to mix it up."

A tough six-game non-league schedule that started with Ottawa Hills on Thursday (Aug. 22) will conclude on Sept. 7 against Tri Unity Christian. Lowell opens its conference schedule on Sept. 10 against Sparta.

Lowell girls will need plentiful amount of quality to overcome their numbers

Attending the Flat River Running Camp at Ludington State Park has been a part of the Lowell girls' cross country team pre-season procedure for each of the last four years.

The camp is intended to accelerate conditioning and to help create a comradie among runners. The last two years it has helped the team earn a second in the O-K White Conference.

This year more than in any of the previous three, early season conditioning will be most important.

The Red Arrows open with Caledonia (Thurs. Aug. 29). The Fighting Scots were second in the state a year ago. It doesn't get any easier. On Wednesday, Sept. 4, Lowell runs against East Grand Rapids. The Pioneers are the defending, four-time O-K White champions.

Harper attributes EGR's success to the great number of runners it has run each year. "Eight is enough if they are runners and not finishers," Lowell's coach explains. "These girls have a good work ethic though, and will be competitive in the league."

Harper knows he has a runner in All-Conference returnee Michelle Oliver. The sophomore should be Lowell's top runner in '91. Oliver was fourth in the league last year, fifth at the regional and she took 10th at the state meet.

"Her state time (19:44.33) was her seasonal best," Harper explains. "There's no doubt Oliver will be one of the top runners in the conference."

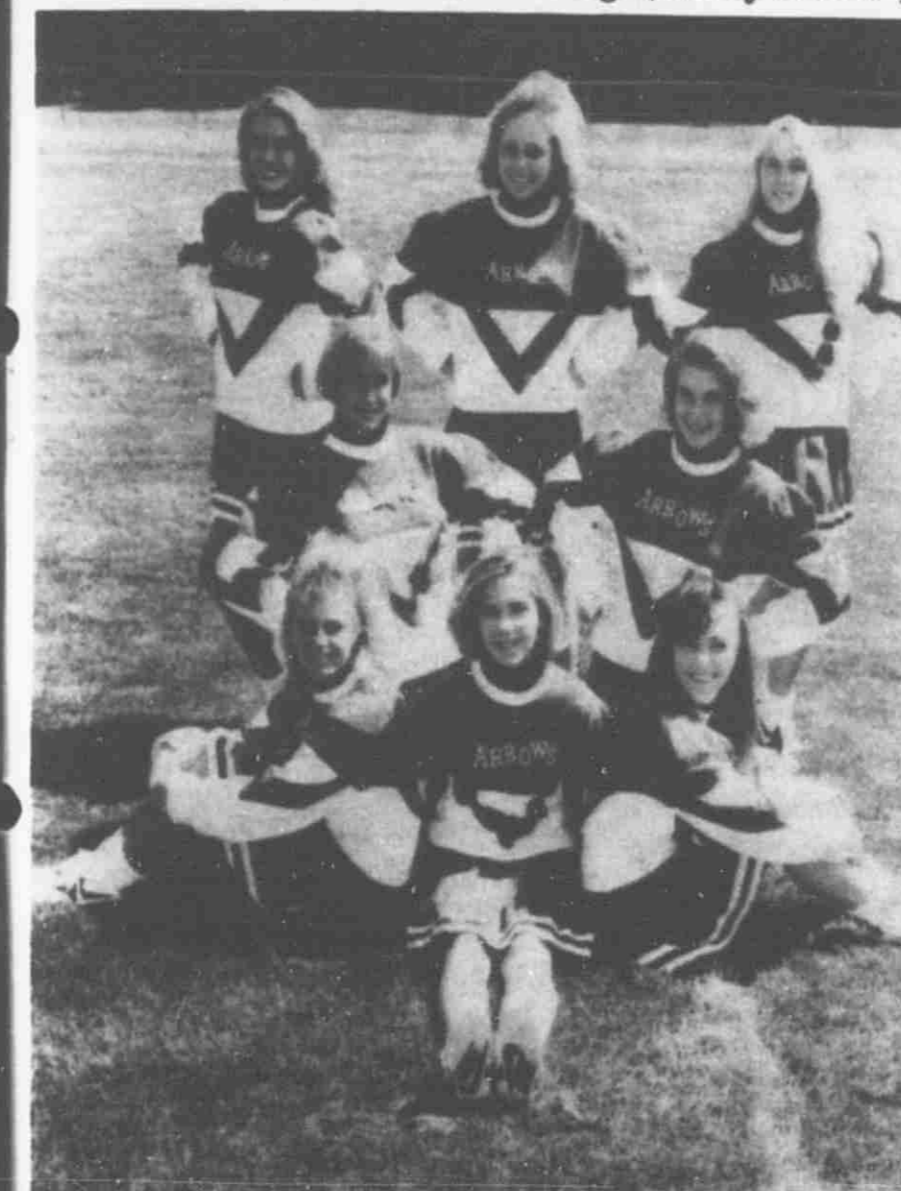

Another runner Lowell's mentor will count on is junior

he has all the physical tools to be good. "He needs to work on being more mentally tough." Ogle expects Coleman to card rounds of 43-44.

Lowell's coach says it is unknown which rookie will step forward and take the fourth spot. "We have some promising freshmen, but I'm not sure they are ready for tough varsity competition," Ogle said.

The coach is also hopeful that juniors Chris Byrne or Greg Jannenga or senior Dave Hildenbrand will be able to fill the void.

Ogle has labled Forest Hills Central as the team to beat in the O-K White. "Central has depth."

There is no doubt in the coach's mind as to who the league's top player is. That's Zealand's Mike Doan. "He's just sensational and he's only a junior," Ogle said.

The Red Arrows finished 16th out of 26th at the Kent County Tournament at Scott Lake. Dunn led the team with a round of 77. Elzinga carded an 83 while Coleman and Byrne shot rounds of 101 and 103 respectively. Lowell finished with a team total of 364.

cozy corner by Roger Brown

I grew up with rock 'n' roll. I still need a daily dose of the stuff. I can't go with country and western. All those drinkin' and cheatin' songs get me down. I can't go with that syrupy stuff they play on the light rock and mellow stations. Like my wife says, there isn't a romantic bone in my body. Elevator music, gospel, classical, rap, heavy metal and whatever they call a lot of the new stuff is all meant for somebody besides me. I think my taste in music covers a fairly wide range, but I have to admit that Dolly Parton, Vanilla Ice and Metallica are nowhere to be found in my tape collection. I'm not here to discuss my preferences in music. Nobody seems to give a hoot about what I like or dislike anyway. I want to talk about song lyrics. I had a little revelation about song lyrics over the weekend that I will share with you in a while. This revelation got me to thinking about lyrics in general, and since I didn't have anything in particular to write about this week, guess what? I remember my parents, their friends and my teachers criticizing the music I listened to as a kid by saying things like, "You can't understand a word they're saying!" or "They say the same things over and over!". I thought, "Yeah, so what? I like the beat!". Consequently, I never paid much attention to song lyrics. Of course, there were a lot of things I didn't pay much attention to at that age... school work, chores around the house, my parents, etc. However, the lyrics in some of those songs were so clearly audible, even I could understand them. And, beautiful lyrics they were. I particularly remember lines from a late sixties song by the Turtles. The song was "Eleanor" and in it there was a line that went something like, "Eleanor, I think you're groovy, let's go out and see a movie". Now I'm tellin' ya, they just don't write 'em like that anymore, do they? With songs like that around, maybe you can begin to understand why I never much cared about lyrics. Oh sure, there were some songs that stirred my interest in their lyrics. The Kingmen's "Louie, Louie" was supposed to have slipped some dirty lyrics past the censors. Try as I might, I could never pick up the dirty parts. The Beatles had everybody trying to play their stuff backwards to hear mysterious messages. And Bob Dylan's lyrics made less sense to me the more I tried to figure them out. I found out later that I wasn't the only one who had trouble with his lyrics. Entire books have been written in attempts to translate his stuff into coherent language. So, this all brings me to my weekend revelation about song lyrics. Terese and I went with another couple to dinner at a bar that met all our criteria... good food, cold beer and a pool table for us guys. The place also had a loud juke box. I put in a buck and selected some Tom Petty, Rolling Stones, Bob Seger and George Thorogood. My kinda' stuff. While I was shooting pool, a couple of young guys started feeding the juke box. Pretty soon we were hearing a lot of stuff that's popular now, but not necessarily popular with me. Our food came, my friend and I ended our pool game and joined Pretty soon we were hearing a lot of stuff that's popular now, but not necessarily popular with me. Our food came, my friend and I ended our pool game and joined our wives. During dinner I noticed Terese dancing in her chair, snapping her fingers and tapping the table to the beat of a song I found particularly irritating. With a moderate tone of contempt I said, "You like this stuff?". She said, "Yeah, it'd be great to dance to". Then I said, "are you ready for this?" "But, you can't understand a word they say, and they're saying it over and over again". No matter how things change, the more they stay the same. My friend overheard the conversation, and chided in with, "they're spelling out passion, you know, P-A-S-S-I-O-N". That was it, almost the entire lyrics of the song are comprised of spelling out one word. But, that's not the kicker. Our waitress was a gal in her early twenties. She was at our table when all this discussion was taking place. She was of the right age to listen to this kind of music, obviously was familiar with the song and corrected my friend by saying, "It's D-A-S-S-I-O-N". We all looked at her in total confusion. Finally, after a long silence in wait of an explanation, my friend said, "What's that supposed to spell?". The waitress thought about it for a moment, got all red in the face and said, "Oh! You're right, it must be P-A-S-S-I-O-N. Oh! I feel so stupid". Nobody disagreed. After that we cracked jokes with her like, "Dassion, wasn't he one of Santa's reindeer?" or "Hey, waitress, how about dassion back to the bar for another beer?". It was great fun. So, my revelation about song lyrics is simple. It apparently doesn't matter what the lyrics are, because people are going to interpret them anyway they want! And, that includes making up words that aren't even in the dictionary!

GENITAL WARTS

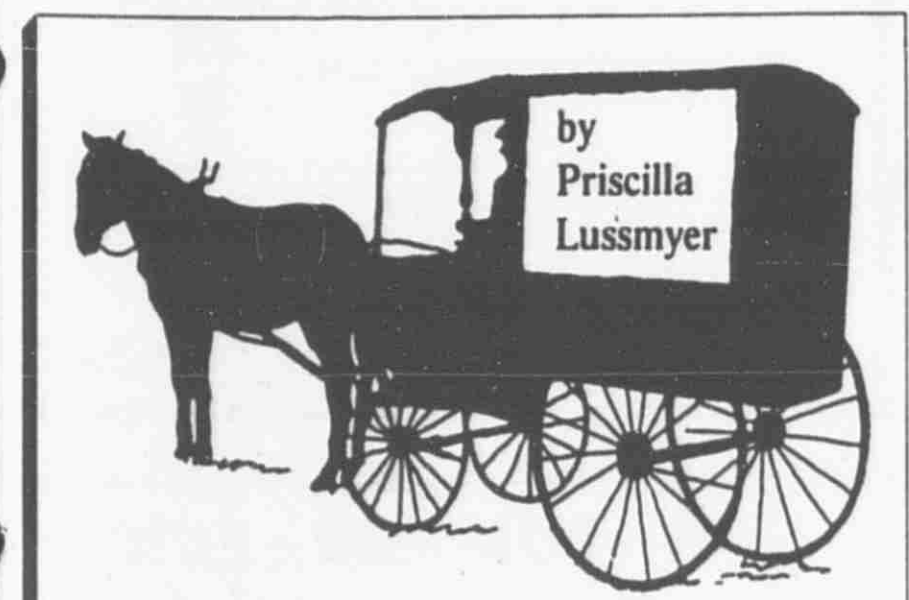

Genital warts caused by infection with the Human Papilloma Virus has become one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases in the United States. It has been estimated that over one million new infections will occur each year. Human Papilloma Virus is spread by direct sexual contact during intercourse. After contact with an infected partner, warts may appear within a few weeks or as long as nine months. In some cases, infection can occur without any visible warts. When warts are present they look like small bumps sometimes resembling tiny cauliflower. Genital warts can occur on the penis, inside the vagina, on the cervix, and perianal region. Sometimes the warts are so small that they are invisible without magnification. Infection with Human Papilloma Virus does not usually cause symptoms unless visible warts are present. There is definite evidence showing that Human Papilloma Virus infection can cause changes in the female cervix which may lead to cervical cancer. Microscopic changes can be detected by the pap smear or a special magnified exam of the cervix called colposcopy. Only a small fraction of cervical lesions will ever become precursors to cervical cancer. Spread of Human Papilloma Virus infection and genital warts can be prevented by not having sex or by having sex with a non-infected partner that has sex only with you. If you are unsure about your partner, condoms will provide protection if used properly. Preventing spread is sometimes difficult because even after visible warts are treated, the virus still remains in the body and may still be contagious. Genital warts are usually treated by applying a mild acid weekly until the warts are destroyed. Solitary warts are treated by freezing or cautery. The laser is frequently used to treat external warty growths. Some physicians prescribe a chemical that is applied nightly to the affected area for about two weeks. The choice of treatment depends on the location and severity of the disease.

Ledger Entries of 100, 75, 50 and 25 Years Ago

100 YEARS AGO IN THE JOURNAL - Aug. 26, 1891 Several area barns have burned as a result of sparks from threshing machines. Girls can earn from $5 to $8 a week on the mass production line at the Michigan Overall Co. in Ionia. The company plans to equip a library for the girls' benefit. The Union Picnic at Island Park is a great success, with about 1200 in attendance, many from Grand Rapids. A horticultural show is held. A petition signed by neighbors asks fruit grower Joseph Pierce to get rid of his bees, but is dropped when he and others explain the value of bees to orchards. The drought is broken by an inch of rain, to farmers' relief.

75 YEARS AGO IN THE LEDGER - AUG. 24, 1916 Kent County pays needy mothers from $1.25 to $5 per week for support, by state law. Editor F. M. Johnson replies to Ionia's Rev. Hoag's diatribe about Lowell's liquor industry by deploring the liquor trade (most editorials address it at some point), pointing out Lowell's positive values, then saying that Lowell liquor traffic is great because of Ionia boozers. "Happy Allen" Lasby returns from the west and buys Martin's ice cream parlor and confectionary stand. Annual village celebrations and family reunions are most of the front page news. Heavy rains cause misery for National Guardsmen in both Michigan at Grayling and El Paso; meanwhile the regular army says that guardsmen are not ready for combat. 50 YEARS AGO IN THE LEDGER - AUG. 28, 1941 More men are needed for airplane riveting classes under the National Defense Program. Michigan highway fatalities are up 20 percent over last year, with 1,052 the first seven months. C.H. Runciman has a heart attack and lands in a Washington D.C. hospital for a couple of weeks. He was on business there. The Michigan State Fair will feature a bullet-riddled Nazi fighter plane. 25 YEARS AGO IN THE LEDGER - AUG. 25, 1966 Gear shift knobs and door handles are missing from school buses after the weekend. 148 stumps are removed from city curbsides by a Lake Odessa contractor. The senior high school bookstore will be open the week before school. Students from Talbot and Moseley schools will crowd Lowell buildings some more. Mapes and Alton are fighting reorganization.

Letters

Dear Editor and Lowell Area Residents, While residents debate millage elections and similar civic causes, another problem faces our community. It is one an election cannot solve. At present there is no solution but there is HELP. The residents of Lowell, like those of other areas, are invaded by an increasing number of cases of Alzheimer's disease. A TV segment of "20-20" on Friday, August 16, portrayed the alternate feelings of hope and despair that imprison victims and those who care for them.

Volunteers recruited by the West Central Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association (Grand Rapids) now lead support groups in seven counties. As a co-leader in Lowell, I wish to thank the Lowell Medical Care Facility and Cumberland Retirement Village for providing meeting places for support groups. All caregivers and relatives of patients with Alzheimer's and related disorders are invited to seek understanding and help at these meetings. Those caring for a patient at home are urged to attend along with those who have patients in a facility. Meetings are held the first Wednesday of each month. You can choose between 1:30 PM at Lowell Medical Care Center or 6:30 PM at Cumberland Retirement Village. I hope to see you Wednesday, September 4, if you Letters, cont'd., pg. 29

TOWN TALK

With the recent developments in the Soviet Union, and with an apparent presidential election pending in 1992, do you think President Mikhail Gorbachev will win the election or do you think the groundswell of support for Boris Yeltsin will gain him the Presidential victory?

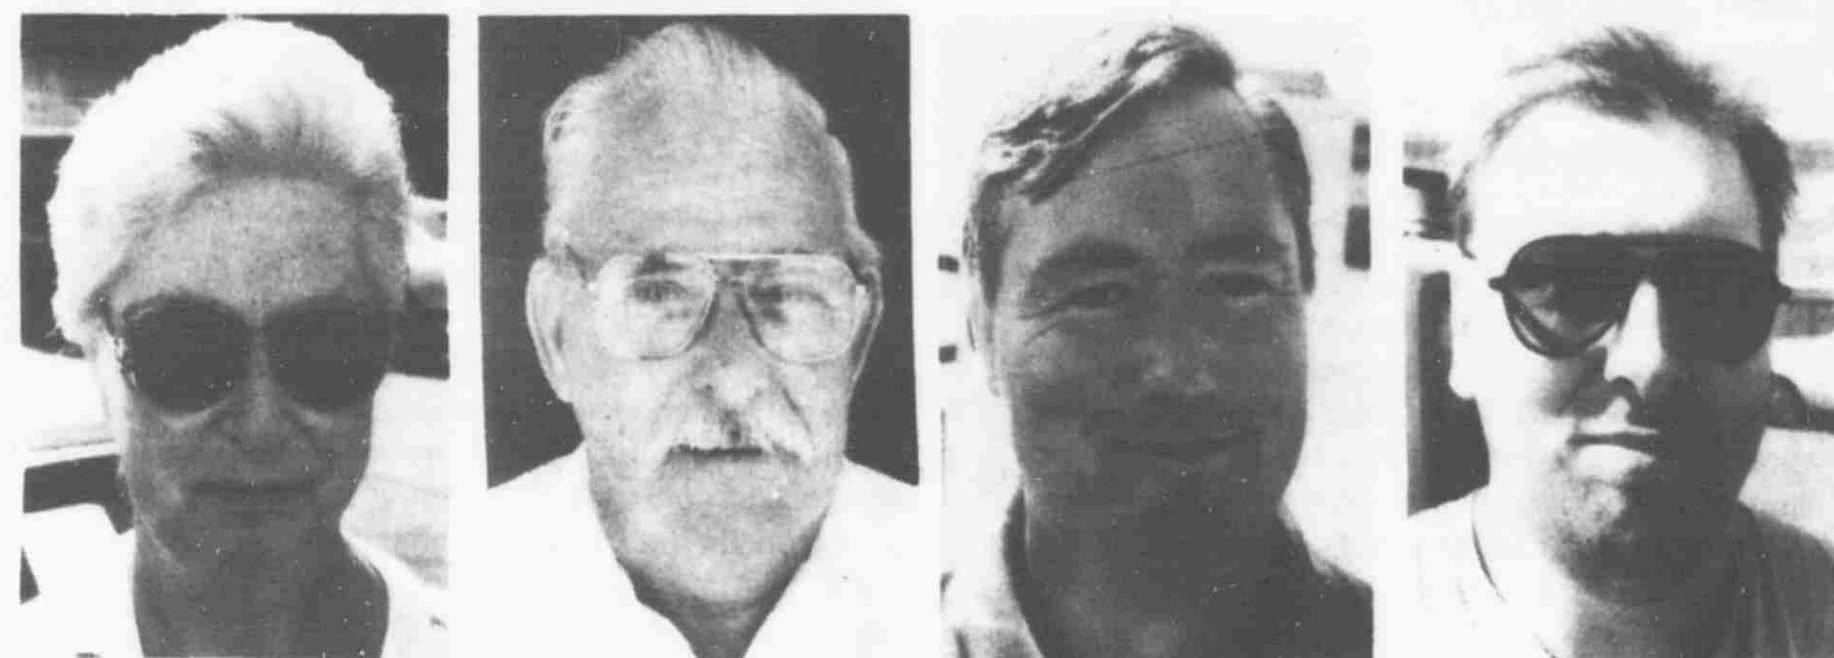

Paul Ambrose
In view of what Gorbachev has done over the last number of years, I think that should help him out. But it's hard to say with the recent developments and the current popularity of Yeltsin. I think Gorbachev will win.

Penny Miller
The public support is for Yeltsin. Gorbachev has done a lot to loosen the Communist rule. Yeltsin may because of the recent events. If the Soviet people do not have a short memory, I think Gorbachev will win.

Jennifer Anderson
I would like Gorbachev to win. I think he's been good for the Eastern Bloc and the Soviet Union. However, I don't think he will. Yeltsin probably will win.

Kent Simons
Gorbachev is the better person. He's the one who had the guts to start this whole reform deal. Without Gorbachev things would never have gotten to the point that they have. Both men seem to be intelligent. Ideally, I think it would be nice to have them working together. According to television, Yeltsin will probably win. I think it's a tossup.

Eleanor Turnes
Gorbachev has done a lot for the Soviet Union, but I don't believe he will win, although I'd like to see him win. I think Yeltsin will win. He showed his true colors.

George Fulton
Gorbachev will win. He has better ideas. I hope none of the hardliners win. I was there and saw what they did in World War II. That was worse than what the Nazis did.

Bob Rice
Yeltsin will win the election because he has public sentiment behind him, that is if it's a public free election. Personally, I'd like to see Gorbachev win.

Chris Lohr
I think it will have a lot to do with whether Yeltsin can remain prominent the rest of the year. If so, I think he wins the election. If not I think Gorbachev does. I think Gorbachev has been a good leader. I don't know a lot about Yeltsin.

Whitney's jury selection process set for Oct. 2

The notice of a jury trial has been set in the case involving the June shooting of a 19-year old Lowell man. James Russell Whitney, 25, of Grand Rapids, was arraigned on Monday, June 24th on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a felony firearm after shooting Pete Gerkin in the abdomen. The process of selecting a jury for the case has been set for Wednesday, Oct. 2. The pre-trial conference for the case was scheduled for Friday, Aug. 23. The shooting occurred at a graduation party at 158 Bahala off Bailey Dr. An argument over the loudness of Whitney and his friends' music ensued. The argument led to a fist fight between Whitney and other guests at the party. According to Bob Start, Kent County Sheriff's Department Detective, during the fight Whitney produced a handgun and fired it into the air. As he tried to get back into his car, Whitney felt the need to fire the gun once more, the second shot hitting Gerkin. Whitney waived his right to go to court for an arraignment and pleaded not guilty.

The Lowell Ledger

Randy Ruesink, comes home with a double win for his Dad.

Ruesink races to victory at Berlin Raceway-Marne

He had a pretty successful summer running the oval track each Saturday night at Berlin Raceway-Marne, in his number 52.

Placing second and third numerous times and running third in points for Sportman A, Randy Ruesink, age 29, came home with a double win on Aug. 24.

He won his heat and later in the evening, brought home the checkered flag for the Sportsman A feature.

He runs a 355 cubic engine in his 1985 Monte Carlo SS, which his dad (now deceased), helped him build last year. So, this checkered flag is for Dad.

He is assisted by his son, Cory, age 3, his brother, David and a friend, Terry Pratt from Alto.

His sponsors are Showboat Automotive, Lowell; Old Style Mobile Home Service, Middleville and Speed Tool and Machinery.

FITNESS FACTS

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S COUNCIL ON PHYSICAL FITNESS AND SPORTS

The Presidential Sports Award

by Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell

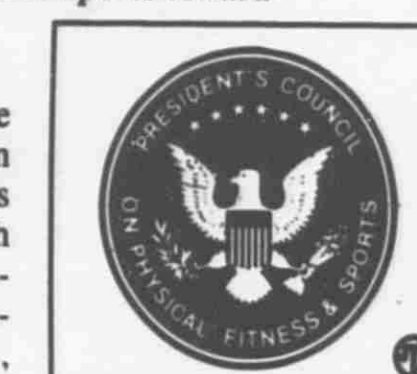

Developed in 1972 by the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports (PCPFS) in conjunction with national sports organizations and associations, the Presidential Sports Award is designed to motivate adults to become more physically active throughout life, emphasizing regular exercise rather than outstanding performance. The program, which takes about four months to complete, is administered by the Amateur Athletic Union and is available to individuals 15 years of age and older.

A presidential award can be earned in any one of 51 sports and fitness activities—from aerobic dance to weight training. Some of the more popular categories are bicycling, fitness walking, jogging, swimming and tennis. Race walking and endurance walking were added this year.

Some of the Local Councils on Physical Fitness and Sports, a new grassroots initiative of the PCPFS, are promoting the Presidential Sports Award. For example, a local council in the Midwest has set its goal to improve the fitness of firefighters and rescue personnel.

Another local council is promoting the Presidential award among older adults, using the Fitness Walking category. To earn an award for Fitness Walking, you must:

Mizell

- Walk a minimum of 125 miles.
- Each walk must be continuous, without pauses for rest and the pace must be at least 4 mph (15 minutes per mile).
- No more than 2 1/2 miles in any one day may be credited to total.

At the Federal level, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has issued a challenge to all NASA installations nationwide to participate in an exercise competition, "Exercise for the Health of It," utilizing the Presidential Sports Award. Also, the Social Security Administration is promoting the sports award among employees and recently presented a program on fitness to 22 nationwide Social Security downlink sites.

If you want to start or improve your fitness program, try to earn a Presidential Sports Award. Or, if you have interest in promoting fitness and sports for others in your community, city, or county, contact the PCPFS in Washington, D.C. about local councils.

Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, former major league baseball player and Congressman, is Executive Director of the President's Council on Physical Fitness & Sports.

Foster's arches - pathway to creativity

The freestanding arches that are now on display at the Lowell Area Arts Center represent a pathway to new direction for Kenneth Foster of Nunica.

Foster has been working in the medium of ceramic sculptures since 1966. "I've always found it to be a fascinating medium. There are many applications in sculpture work and I never find the work boring," Foster explains.

Neither has the DeGraff Fine Arts Gallery where pieces of Foster's work can be found. "Much of my work reminds people of animal forms and things in nature," Foster says.

The inspiration to tackle ceramic arches came upon Foster during a 1989 sabbatical in Europe. The Nunica artist says the forms and creativity in his work provide a freedom and spontaneity.

His ideas for forms, shapes and textures have been inspired by underwater forms, cactus forms, bones, vertebrae and food. "Food has a wonderful opening. Baked bread forms inspire great forms of creativity," Foster says.

Foster's ability to create feeling in his work has helped to make him successful. "I feel I've been successful when someone looks at a clay sculpture and sees softness," he says.

The Nunica artist says he normally doesn't set aside time to create his sculptures. "When I'm hit with an idea then I can spend up to 12 hours on a sculpture."

Just recently Foster has branched out to encompass freestanding arches for large corporate size corporations. "The company shows me where it wants to put it and then I design a need to fit the space. A lot of the companies have me design pieces for the outdoors."

Foster does not like to title his work. He believes that puts limitations on his sculptures. "If it isn't labeled that allows people to see many different things," he explains.

His sculpture work over the past 20-plus years has been done out of love. "I don't do it to make money. I teach at Muskegon Community College to support myself and my family," he explains.

Foster's artistic venue has also included acrylic painting, although it's been a while. "I may get back to it some day soon. It allows you to mix collage and assemblage with paint," he said.

Foster is sure his work says something about him, but he's not sure what. "I enjoy it most because it is a neat way to express ideas and thoughts."

The sculptor is impressed by the neat and professional Art Gallery Lowell has. "I think it's impressive for a small town. The food the Art Gallery serves at the reception is just wonderful."

The new pathway to artistic freedom and creativity has Foster a very happy and eager man to explore the many other sculpture possibilities that await him.

The Kenneth Foster sculptures will be on display at the Lowell Area Arts Center Gallery through Sept. 22.

Fail safe math program is students' insurance that they reach a certain level

Lowell High School's math department will test out what it believes may be a fail safe net for all students, especially for the lower and middle level math students.

The approach is designed to help all students reach a higher level of understanding. "This approach is to ensure that all students don't fail to reach a certain level," said Jim White, Director of Special Education and Instruction.

The concept was derived from the school improvement program initiated in the Lowell Schools two years ago. The University of Chicago School Mathematics Program best answered the charge that students need to know more math in any job these days. The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics states that students need to be taught more usable mathematic skills (e.g. statistics, geometry reading data, and probability).

Mike Michaud, spokesman of the LHS Math Department, said it will provide the groundwork for both teachers and students to promote a better understanding of mathematics.

While Lowell students have scored well above average on the MEAP test (85-95 percentile), there are still a portion of high school Algebra II students placing in college Algebra I courses. Chairman of the Lowell Math Curriculum Council, Sue Beute, said making a good math program better is what prompted the new expectations.

Lowell's math department will work to this end by guaranteeing students will be offered the same material and will be tested on the material the same day.

The staff will also be accessible at the beginning and end of the school day.

"We're also hopeful the new concept will help encourage students to be more responsible for their own education," Michaud said.

The failing grade cutoff in mathematics' courses will no longer be 60 percent. Instead students will have to attain a 70 percent or better.

However, students will have the opportunity to take the objectives missed on the test a second time two days later. The results from the second test will be figured into their score. "The bottom line is, we want them to know the material. It doesn't matter if it takes them one or two tests to know it. The second test of objectives missed by the student in test number one will be comparable but not exactly the same."

Completing all of one's homework will be a pre-requisite to taking any test. If all homework is not completed the student will lose the opportunity to take the test and the student's parent(s) will be notified. "Students cannot do well on a test if they are not aware of what's on it," Michaud said.

This philosophy is taken from "outcomes based education" which was introduced by a Chicago Company. "It lets students know that you intend for them to be successful and not let them fail," Michaud said.

Board of Education Secretary Linda Beers called raising the expectations a step in the right direction. "Students will accept it as long as our hearts are in the right direction."

White said there are only about 12 districts that are not practicing this school improvement program which changes the teaching styles to meet the needs of the students.

"While it is widely believed teachers take the summer off, it should be noted that our high school math department has spent the summer putting this program together," White said.
