A small one acre parcel of land that the City of Lowell had intended to sell to a patron back in 1970 was deeded over to the DNR provided some stipulations are met.

In a letter to the City, the Department of Natural Resources mentioned its interest in acquiring the property for a canoe access to the Flat River and a small parking lot for cars.

We arrived home from our holiday vacation to a rather interesting development. As we were unpacking the van on Sunday afternoon, Thad Kraus pulled up and gave my daughter a package that had been dropped off for her at the Ledger office. Something quite heavy was wrapped in newspaper and placed in a grocery bag with a note stapled to it. Kraus knew what it was and wore a "wait 'til ya see this" grin on his face. My daughter read the note and handled the package with about the same enthusiasm a bomb squad would when dealing with a ticking box at a bus station.

The note read: "Ms. Brown, My nine-year-old daughter Bethany, fished this out of the creek in the ravine behind our house today. I called your house and made arrangements with

The Michigan Educational Assessment Program is just one tool used to measure the educational progress of students. It also happens to be the most highly publicized tool used.

The results from the test are probably the most controversial. Each year schools warn that it is not fair to compare scores with the previous year or with other school districts. Each year in the newspapers, the results are printed and scores are compared.

Schools scream, parents compare and then scream.

I've listened to both sides for four years now and am still trying to decide which is correct. If this was a MEAP test my time to complete the one-question test would have been up four years and 30 minutes ago.

I've come up with a few conclusions. Parents want something they can measure their school and teachers by. Something that tells them if Mrs. Lang has done a good job teaching and preparing that snout-nose little Thad for the MEAP test.

School officials claim that Thad's low scores don't always mean that Mrs. Lang didn't do a good job teaching. She may have even done a better job. Schools claim many variables play a part in how Thad scored on the test. Those variables include his social economic background; is he a new kid in the district. His family lif; maybe he doesn't test well; the test is different; maybe Thad and his class aren't as smart as last year's class. Maybe the district doesn't put as high a value on education as its neighboring district. That's not saying it doesn't value education, but the district may not have as much money to put into education.

When I went to school, the only thing the MEAP test measured was how nervous and upset it made students the night before and the day of the test.

No one likes to be told that they aren't doing as good a job as they have in the past. Unfortunately, if you are a teacher, the MEAP is used by many to determine just how good a job they are doing.

I've seen this year's math and reading tests, I can assure everyone out of school, they are not what they use to be. They shouldn't be though, different things are required of students today than when we went to school.

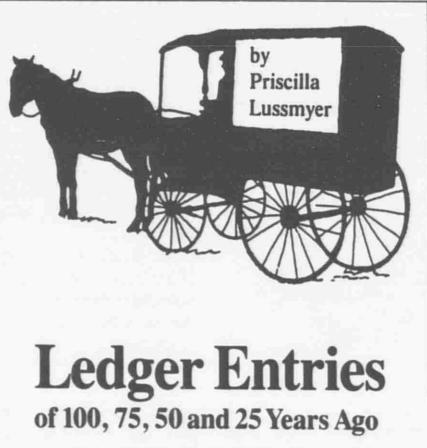

The MEAP test should be used to measure where a class is at different grade levels. I don't think it determines the success or failure of a student. It may show areas where work is needed.

This will sound as if I'm taking the easy way out, and I probably am. But let's not use the test to determine the success and failure of students, teachers and schools. Instead use it as a benchmark to chart the growth of students through their 12 years of schooll. The growth of teachers and schools to adjust to the changing educational needs of our students.

Hey, how about them Lions. They passed the test Sunday. Wayne Fontes is one heck of a teacher. I admit, I'm not a Lions fan, but I was thrilled to see the re-emergence of "America's Team" delayed one more year. I may never tire of seeing Jimmy Johnson lose.

CAT SCRATCH DISEASE

Cat Scratch disease, usually a self-limiting entity, is thought to be caused by an as yet unidentified microbial organism. It is characterized by a local wound or scratch, enlarged regional lymph nodes, and occasionally fever and joint ache. Genders and races are affected equally Contact with a healthy cat occurs in more than 90 percent of cases, but fewer than half have clinical evidence of trauma produced by a cat.

The incubation period of Cat Scratch disease ranges from two to thirty days after the trauma. The characteristic sore of cat scratch begins as a small reddish raised blister or pustule. This is most often seen on the upper extremity, where it may persist for several days to

The bridge was designed by Joseph Brown Jr. of Buffalo, N.Y. It was built by a pair of new England men, Jared N. Brazze and J.N. Walker. White's Bridge was named for a local pioneer family that first crossed the Flat River at that point.

Lafler said an Ionia group called the Ruritans, along with help from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers 109, were instrumental in outfitting the bridge with lights over the holidays.

A tax exempt foundation called the White's Bridge Association was formed to help continue in the effort to renovate the bridge. Donations were collected at both entrances to the bridge over a four-day period during the holiday.

SOLUTION FOCUSED PARENTING SESSIONS

This series of 6 sessions is designed for parents of teenagers. It will help parents avoid needless power struggles with their adolescents over "thorny" issues.

Parents are provided the opportunity to learn "hands on" effective techniques and how to establish small, realistic goals for themselves and their teenagers.

The focus is on parents' strengths and resources, rather than on alleged problems. Sessions begin on Tuesday, February 25, 7:00-9:30PM in the Lowell High School. Fee is $60.00 for all six sessions. (Class size limited to 8). To register, call Marge at 897-8434.
