Many thought when the Olympics closed out on Sunday the opportunity for gold did too. Not so fast! For over 1200 Kent County 4-H participants the golden opportunity awaits this week at the Kent County Youth Fair.

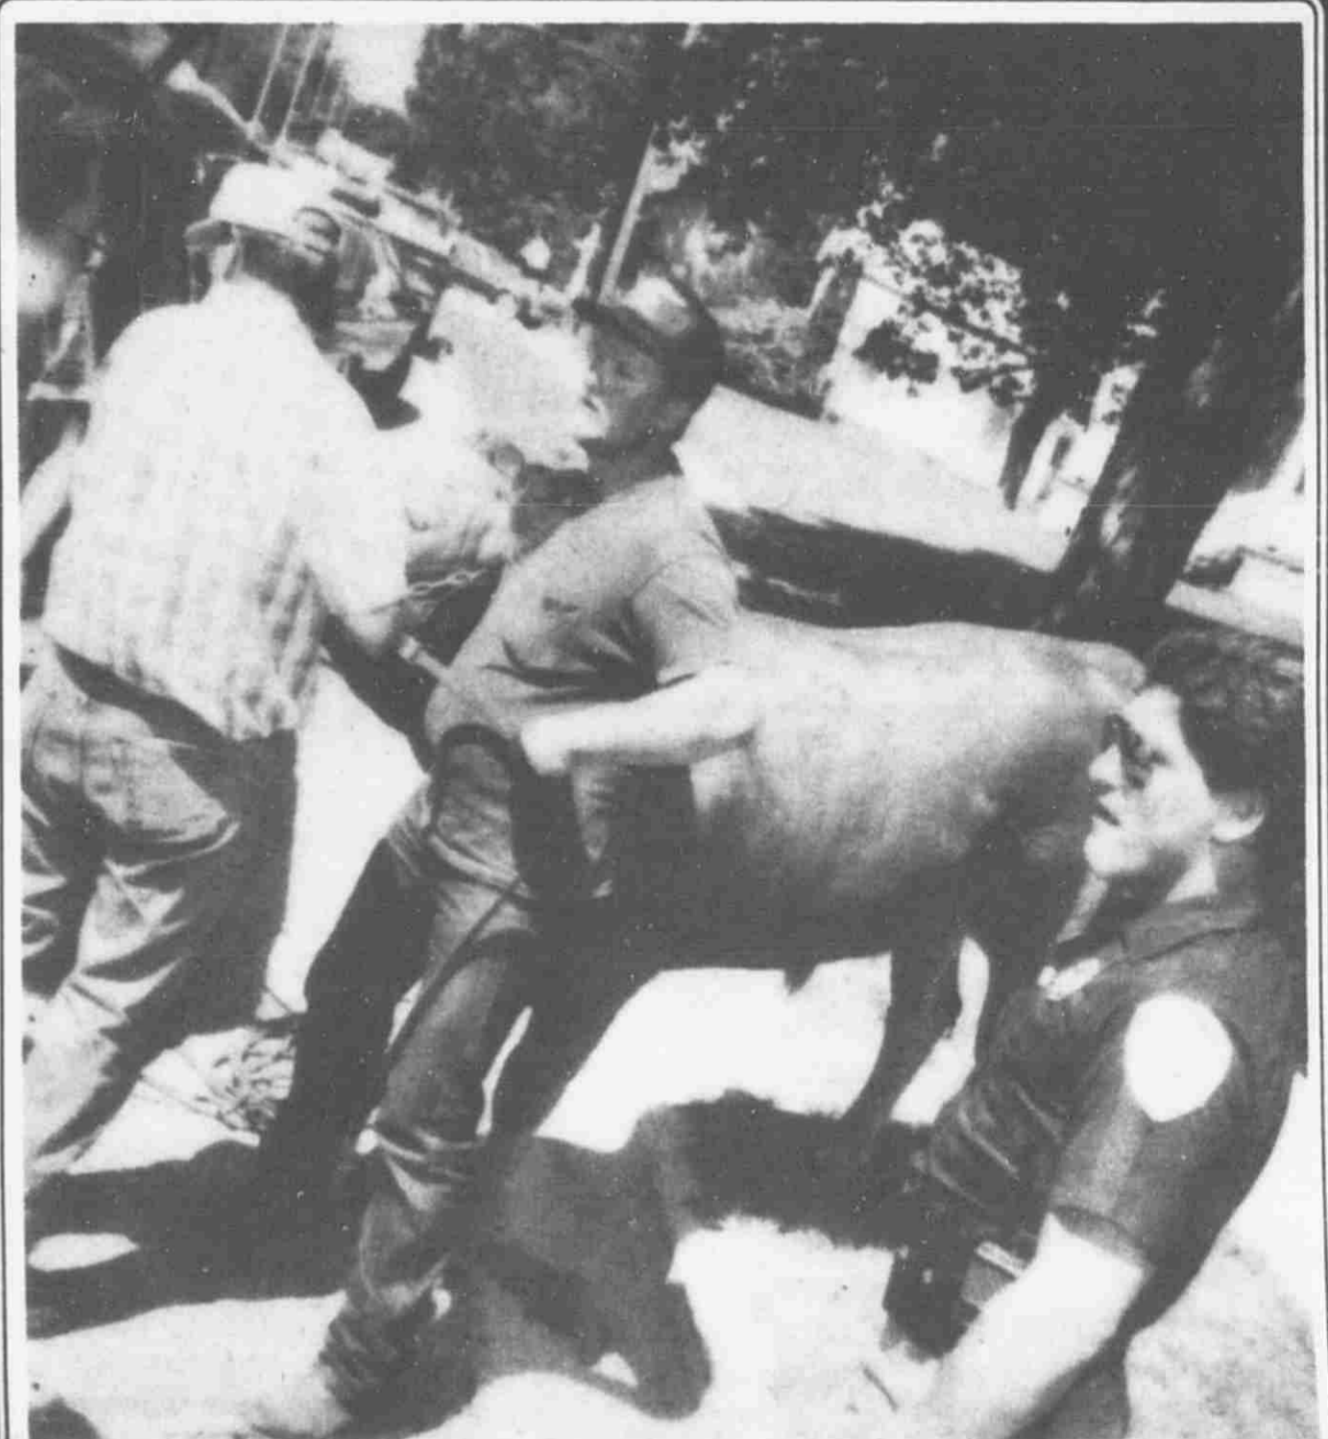

Monday night at the opening ceremonies youths were reminded by our State Majority Leader Richard Posthumus that while successes and how a person deals with them are successful even more important is how we deal with disappointments.

"There was a man in Kansas City who for months was looking for a job. He persevered through many rejections before being hired to take care of the advertising in a local church directory," Posthumus related. "He took the job, working in a small shack. During his time there he busied himself creating characters in the back end of the shack. Today he's known as Walt Disney. The character her created while working for the church directory was "Mickey Mouse."

The Michigan Senator noted that there are two kinds of successes. One, being where a person does what no one else can (a genius). The second being, the average man or woman doing the average thing in a special way.

Joining Posthumus at the opening ceremony were State Congressman Paul Henry, and County Commissioner Judy Harrison. Fox 17's Miranda was the host. Also in attendance were Ron Wenger, President of the Kent County Youth Agricultural Association and City representatives Jim Hodges and Don Green.

The 1992 Fair Court shared the stage with the governmental dignitaries. On hand to introduce the Court was 1991 Fair Queen was Nicole Patterson. Folk music entertainment was provided by Beats Set'en Home.

Steering his way to trouble, a 4-H Fair Youth livestock lead rescuers on a chase.

Steering outside the lines, leads to afternoon chase

The Kent County Youth Fair officially got underway Monday.

4-H Fair youths settled in with their livestock and projects over the weekend at the Fairground campsite.

Forgetting that it was only Sunday afternoon a livestock visitor got a little nervous with the lack of activity at the fair.

So, after freeing itself from its pen, a brown steer fled northbound on Alden

Nash toward Lowell's Main Street.

Lowell Fire and Ambulance observed the steer as it rumbled past the fire station.

After notifying the Fairground officials, the three entities secured the fleeing steer near Main Street.

There was no property damage, no people were injured, and 4-H livestock was not injured.

However, the livestock was cited for steering outside the lines.

Mid-East region missionaries visit Congregational United Church of Christ

Hans and Sylvia Meyer, after serving 40 years in Turkey and the Mid-East region, will be sharing their experiences and insights with the members and friends of First Congregational United Church of Christ of Lowell. They will be in the community Wednesday, August 19.

A morning program for pastors and church leaders will be held at 10 a.m. in First Congregational Church's lounge. Refreshments will be served. An evening session, with dessert and beverages will be held at 7 p.m. in the church. The community is invited to share with the Meyers' warm, friendly and informative style.

"Hans and Sylvia bring a rich heritage of ecumenical understanding. They look forward to these opportunities to discuss the events of the Middle East with ecumenical groups." These comments by Dr. Roger LaWarre, pastor of First Congregational as he anticipates some of the vitality and richness that the Meyers' will bring.

Pastor LaWarre continued, "The Meyers really have a story to tell. They have been very involved in the Gulf War while living in Tarsus, very near to our active air force base, and now the Kurdish situation."

Hans, a West German citizen, was educated at Gutenberg University in Mainz, West Germany (at the time) and Goshen College in Indiana. He received his masters degree in science education from Yale University, New Haven, CT. Sylvia Meyer graduated from Wheaton College in Illinois and did a year of graduate work at Syracuse University in New York. The Meyers have four children, all of whom are presently living in Germany.

Hans has been head of the science department and assistant foreign principal and treasurer at the Uskudar American school. Mrs. Meyer has taught English and music at the same school.

The Meyers have spent nearly 40 years in Turkey and are nearing retirement - Sylvia has a bit longer. Hans is already "retired" and is doing social work in the Tarsus area.

All interested persons are invited to join in this opportunity to hear first hand what is happening in the Mid-East region.

Summer picnic — A splashing success

The genuine rationale behind the completion of Stoney Lakeside Park was played out Friday by Sharon McMahon's 1991-92 class.

McMahon and her resource room students spent the afternoon lounging in the sun and swimming at Stoney Lakeside Park.

"The students did a wonderful job all winter thus I decided to reward them for their effort," McMahon said.

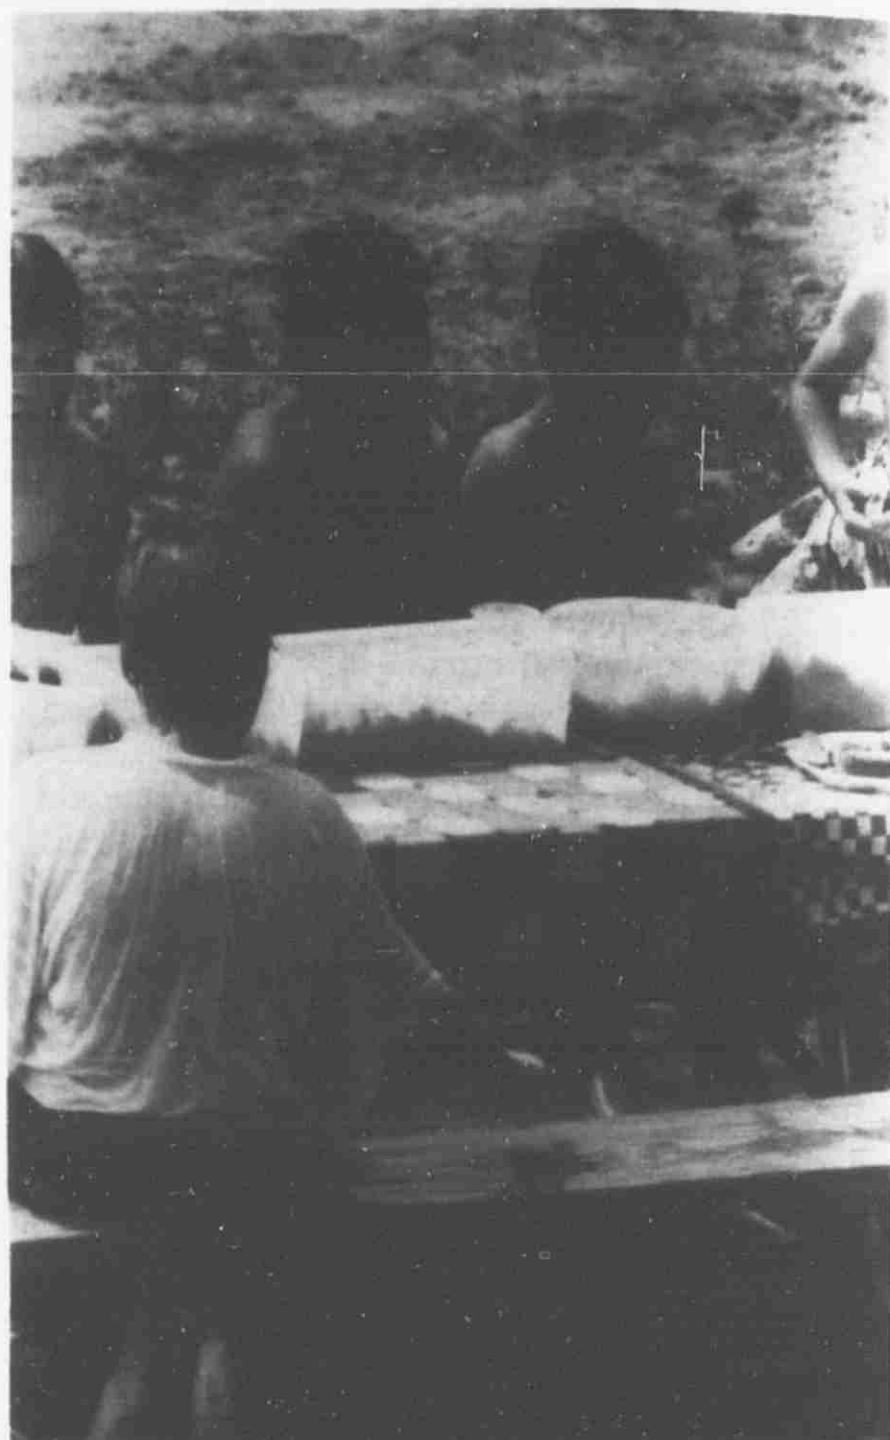

McMahon has been teaching at Alto for the past seven years. Helping her with the picnic were four mothers and a father.

Students enjoyed grilled roasted hot dogs, potato chips, cookies and Kool Aid.

Deanna Brooks, one of the 16 students who attended the picnic, described it this way, "Totally Cool."

What the students liked best about the afternoon varied from the food, to swimming to the squirt gun fights.

"This is the first time I've done something like this for my class," McMahon said. "But it won't be the last time."

Tommy Dorsey Orchestra swings life into big band fans

Paraphrasing the loveable fictitious Tom Sawyer, "The death of big bands has been highly over exaggerated."

It wasn't the Savoy Ballroom in Harlem, New York or the Aragon in Chicago, but it didn't have to be. The big American band sound of the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra still had that feeling of the 1940s to the 200 1990s fans that were on hand Friday night to welcome Buddy Morrow and the legendary big band.

"The big band sound has that feeling that I don't hear in other music," said Wayland's Frank Kacienda. "The music brings back such great memories."

Kacienda grew up in Harlem and now lives in Wayland. "The Army paid my way here," he laughs.

As a young kid in Harlem, Kacienda recalls the great jam sessions he listened in on with Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Bunny Berrigan and Ella Fitzgerald.

"Big bands create such a feeling, a mood and a discipline. It's an American tradition that's alive and doing well," Kacienda says.

While Kacienda recalls his youthful Harlem days and the big band sound, seated not far from him is Bev Thompson of Grand Rapids. She recalls that same feeling at the Aragon in Chicago that Kacienda felt as a youth in Harlem.

"The big band music is excellent. The Tommy Dorsey band is excellent, I follow them whenever I can," she says. "This is real music. It gives duck bumps."

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra is now led by Buddy Morrow. He first teamed up with the big band in 1938.

"Having rehearsed and been with Tommy for some time I can still hear his directions and hear the way he would've wanted it," Morrow says. "The big band sound is great music. It's traditional in a sense."

Buddy Morrow and the Tommy Dorsey Band played for roughly three hours Friday night at the Lowell Middle School gymnasium.

The big band jam session was scheduled for the Lowell Showboat Amphitheatre, but promises of early evening rain pushed it inside.

The move prevented ticket buyers from dancing beneath the stars, however, they danced happily to the sounds of the "Sentimental Gentlemen of Swing" inside the Lowell Middle School gymnasium.

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra played such favorites as Blue Skies, and I'll Never Smile Again.

Gene Sampson of Cascade, a teacher at Alto said, "This is great, I love the trombone sound the best."

Diane Hammerman, seated next to Sampson adds, "I really like the vocal sound of Walt Antrus. I just enjoy his style."

Antrus is a 28-year singer with the crooning style of Frank Sinatra. He sang with Dorsey's old vocal group, "The Pied Pipers."

Lowell's Grieser and Richmond attend FFA conference

Richmond meets U. S. Senator Don Riegle

Randy Grieser and Andie Richmond of Lowell are greeted in Washington, D.C., by Michael Bennett, (right) of Artesia, NM, WCP Director of the National FFA Organization. Grieser and Richmond are attending the week-long National FFA Washington Conference Program.

Andrea Richmond of Lowell recently met with U.S. Sen. Don Riegle (D-Mich.) in his Washington office. Richmond was in Washington for a national Future Farmers of America conference.

Andie Richmond and Randy Grieser of the Lowell FFA Chapter of Lowell attended the 1992 Washington Conference Program in the nation's capital.

The week-long program helps FFA members improve leadership skills, develop an understanding of national heritage and prepare for more effective leadership roles in their chapters and communities.

Sessions on human relations, goal setting, and inter-personal communications were combined with discussions on personal outlook, motivation, and values to help members become effective leaders in the science, business and technology of agriculture.

Visits to Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson Memorial and other historic sights in Washington were included in the conference.

A highlight of the week was the visit to the office of Congressman/Senator Sen. Donald Riegle. The chapter's FFA advisor is Pete Siler. The trip to the conference was sponsored by Lowell FFA Alumni.

Letters

Dear Editor,
 Well, it's all over but the screaming. A very narrow defeat for Marsha Wilcox in her second bid for the State House.

My own feelings aside, we in this district can be proud to live in a place which ought to be receiving a great deal of analysis by Michigan and National G.O.P. brain-trusters. Look not only at the hair's width vote margin, but look at the vote distribution within the District. See the jurisdiction in which she did the best, in one place four to one. What kind of voters live in such places, Republican or otherwise? One has to analyze age distribution, income, level of education, and what emerges is an opening gulf in the Republican coalition.

Now the Democrats managed for a long time with a patch-work known as the New Deal Coalition that finally eroded away in 1972. In that same decade the Republicans started putting one together that was utterly triumphant in 1984. So these marriages of convenience can work.

But to be crude about it, as a party, would you rather have the voters of East Grand Rapids for or against you... or Township X, Y or Z.

Oh yes. Don't you just hate the Michigan primary system, wherein one has to be chained to one party? I can tell you this, the Founding Fathers and the farmers would not cotton to it one little bit.

Respectfully,
 G. M. Ross

WAS YOUR TAX BILL INCREASED TOO?

I opened my mail box a few days ago to find two familiar envelopes, both with return addresses to my favorite taxing units of government. Instantly, I knew they were my Summer tax bills. It's the pink color showing through the window envelope that gives away the secret of the contents. Like most other people, I stashed both envelopes under the other month end bills hoping they would some how evaporate before I had to pay my Summer property taxes.

As I opened the envelopes a few nights later, my first impression was that the Summer property taxes had doubled and I immediately began to determine what mistake had been made. And then I remembered - it was a NEAR NORMAL TAX BILL. Except for the half mill added to the school districts debt service millage because of the property assessment freeze, this tax bill was just getting back to normal after a difficult 1991 taxable year. For those of you who may have had a similar experience, or still haven't opened the envelope, maybe a brief review will relieve any mental anguish you may incur.

Recall that a small number of voters, 86 to be exact, caused the school district's request for a renewal of 26.1 mills for operations in June of 1991 to fail. As a result, the school district levied only a total of 8.0836 mills on the 1991 summer tax bill. The breakdown for the Summer tax bill was as follows: 2.4250 Debt Service, 4.9697 County Allocated operational mills, .6889 Energy & Maintenance, and 0.0000 Operational millage for the total of 8.0836 mills.

However, with the reinstatement of the 26.1 operational millage on September 24th by the largest voter turn out in the history of the school district, the full millage rate was reinstated on the Winter 1991 Tax bill. The breakdown on the 1991 Winter tax bill was as follows: 2.4250 Debt Service mills, 4.9697 County Allocated operational mills, .6888 Energy & Maintenance, and 26.1 Operational millage for a total of 34.1835 mills.

With millage rates getting back to normal, it means that taxing units of government equally distribute the tax rates between Summer and Winter tax bills. Therefore your tax rate for Summer 1992 tax bill is 2.6750 Debt Service, .6889 Energy & Maintenance, and 13.0500 Operational millage for a TOTAL Summer School Tax rate of 21.3836. Your 1992 Winter School Tax millage rate will be the same.

Note that the millage rate of 26.1 mills is divided in the 1992 levy with 13.05 mills being levied in June and 13.05 mills levied in December. By collecting half the operational millage in the Summer and half in the Winter, it spreads the tax bite on the property owner and saves the school district interest expense since it does not have to borrow operational dollars to cover expenses during the first half of its fiscal year (July to December).

So, did your tax bill increase? Except for the .0005 mill debt service increase due to the assessment freeze, your annual tax bill did not change. To see that in real numbers you have to add the Summer and Winter tax bills together from 1991 and divide by 2. However, if you bought your house during 1991, built an addition on to your existing house, built a garage or increased the value of your property in any way that was subject to an assessment change, then your tax bill may be bigger because of the assessment change by your local taxing unit (city or township) rather than the school millage rate.

Now that I understand the minor shock I had when I compared my Summer property tax bill with last Summer's, I can't wait to compare my Winter tax bill with last Winter's tax bill. It will look like I got a real bargain! I know it won't be a reality, but it will feel good anyway.

Airport Board gets assurance of loan from City for new hanger

Looking for assurance of insurance, sought and gained the approval of a $4,500 loan from the City's general fund.

The request was made by Lowell Airport board member Joe Aitchison.

The Lowell Airport is seeking to proceed with another six-place T hanger next to the one constructed in 1989.

Aitchison pointed out that the Airport had enough assets in 1989 that a loan from the City was necessary. The Airport board anticipates having enough assets to help garner a Michigan Aeronautics Commission loan. Currently there is $14,000-$15,000 available through assets.

If necessary, the approval of a loan from the City's general fund will total $4,500.

The cost of a new six place T hanger will be $45,000 (at six percent interest).

The loan application will be considered by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission On Sept. 23.

The $4,500 loan from the general fund will be repaid with hanger rentals at six percent interest.

Aitchison said he believes the Airport will have all six spaces rented out before the new hanger is completed. The rent on the new space will bring in $1,500 of revenue a month.

Airport records show that currently the Airport has yearly expenses of $10,000 with revenue of $19,000. Aitchison said those numbers do not reflect a couple outstanding bills totaling $3,000.

"The Lowell Airport has made significant improvements over the last 5-10 years. I believe you will continue to see more improvements through the years," Aitchison said.

If a loan is granted through the Michigan Aeronautics Commission, there are hopes of a new hanger by winter.

TOWN TALK

This past week was the 30th anniversary of Marilyn Monroe's death, do you believe her death was caused by suicide or was the Mafia involved?

Sandy Hendrick
It wasn't suicide at all. She knew too much about the Kennedys. She became a threat to them and to other important things. I think the Kennedys were afraid she would spill the beans.

Sherry Rider
The Kennedys had something to do with it.

Chris Smith
I believe it was an overdose. She was so used to taking pills. That's all you ever heard about when she was alive.

Audrey McBurney
I'm not sure it was even suicide. I think it was a carelessness in mixing booze and pills. She lived in a world of drugs and booze and I think she just lost control.

Randy Johnson
At first I thought it was suicide. Now enough things have been told that I think the Kennedys were involved. Marilyn's death came shortly after Bobby told her to get lost. I think the Kennedys thought she was beginning to get in the way.

Linda DeCator
It was suicide. She had problems dealing with the limelight and with her involvement with the Kennedys.

It doesn't matter. It won't influence anything and it won't change anything. Now, if we were to find out about John F. Kennedy's assassination, that would mean something. People have a preference for information about Marilyn and Elvis.

Mitch McMahon
I think it was an accidental overdose. Marilyn had a problem with despair after the breakup with Bobby Kennedy.

Township's approval is all that stands in way of water pact

Lowell Township Supervisor John Timpson described the mood of the Township Board as comfortable following a work session with Township engineer Gary Voogt. Voogt used the work study to clarify the numbers used in the latest nine-point water agreement proposal put forth by the City of Lowell.

Following his explanation, Voogt recommended that the Township approve the most recent proposal at its Aug. 17 meeting. "I believe the Township Board is comfortable with the proposal," Timpson said. The Township Supervisor said their was only one Township board member who still had reservations. Although, he added, he expects a positive vote on the 17th. "I'd hope it could be unanimous," Timpson says.

If approved by the Township at its Aug. 17 meeting, the next step would be having the City attorney write up a formal contract. Timpson said he felt secure in that the contract can be reviewed with a formula agreed to by both sides. That will allow us to use real numbers and not estimated numbers.

The Township Supervisor added, that in the end, both sides recognized the advantage of attaining water from the City. "It's a better product and it provides an assurance of treated water," Timpson explained.

A week earlier Timpson met with assistant superintendent Gary Kemp and Lowell School Board President Ray Quada, discussing the numbers the school would have to provide for water and sewer. The school will be asked to provide $500,000 up front for water and $350,000 to $500,000 for sewer. It is expected that figure will be closer to $350,000.

"The numbers were justified to Quada's and Kemp's satisfaction," Timpson said. "Another key, is that it looks like there will be a good chance for the school to recover its costs through new hookups."

While it took time, Timpson is pleased that it finally looks like an agreement will come of it. "Time has a way of making things work out. I also think in the end both sides were determined to get things done."

School & City combine efforts to initiate East Waterfront Area Plan

A goal to create a plan that is appropriate for the community and school system with recommendations to create a functional development, as well as an aesthetically pleasing area on the east end of town. As it unfolds this project will become more commonly known as the East Waterfront Area Plan.

The significance of the plan is natural tie with the river walk, expanded and off-street parking which is just a few of the ideas being considered. More than that, this plan will be developed and carried out through the cooperative efforts of the City of Lowell and Lowell Schools. It will also include the suggestions and ideas of the Lowell Chamber of Commerce, the library board, and the city planning commission to name a few.

The study and services needed to produce the East Waterfront Area Master Plan will be completed by WBDC. The WBDC group has already performed services for background information, site analysis, site analysis/conceptual plans review workshop, a preliminary master plan, review workshop meeting, and a final plan preparation. The total projected cost for WBDC's consulting fees will total $7,308. Based on a 50-50 split of the costs, the City would be responsible for $3,519. The City's funds will be provided from the Lee Fund. The Council approved this cooperative effort at its July 20 meeting. Following a work study session on July 30, the School Board approved the plan Monday night.

Lowell Area Schools regarding the re-utilization of the Runciman/Riverside buildings as a community services center which will include school board facilities, administrative offices, a senior center, and adult education facilities, among other uses. The conversion of these buildings is currently targeted for 1994. "This is a plan for joint building utilization," said director of school and community services, Dick Korb. "It will allow us to use the land to its maximum capacity, thus everyone benefits."

Korb said the plan has a natural tie with the plans the school made through the bond issue. "With the money and services it makes good economic sense to work together."

By planning together the two entities save money and prevent the duplication of services. The scope of work which will be carried out by WBDC will include a collection of

You can use! DENTURE ADHESIVES

Question: I have a full upper denture and it is starting to slip and slide around in my mouth. I have tried a dental adhesive that seems to be of some help. Is it okay to use adhesives with dentures?

Answer: As a temporary agent during the initial period of adjustment, these powders and pastes may be helpful. Mixed with water, they swell, become sticky and help keep your dentures in place. But, they should be discouraged as a permanent agent. They can retain odors and encourage you to hang onto an ill-fitting denture that can cause sore spots and growths. If your denture is slipping and sliding around, spend the money on a visit to a dentist. It's a wise investment.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF Barbara Risher-Davis, who left us 2 years ago August 9, 1990.

God saw you getting tired, a cure was not to be. He put his arms around you and whispered come with me. With tearful eyes we watched you suffer and saw you fade away.

Although we loved you dearly, we could not ask you to stay. Many times we think of you and many times we've cried.

If love could have saved you, you never would have died.

A heart of gold stopped beating, two shining eyes at rest.

God broke our hearts to prove, He only takes the very best. You will never fade in our hearts.

Alan,
