"The Oaks" nearly ready for development

Jack Ryan, 2807 Segwun, shakes his head as he reflects back on the process he went through in order to clear the way for development on his 17 acres of property located just south of the Lowell Township offices at 2820 Alden Nash.

"It's a lot more work than I imagined," Ryan said.

Ryan expects to have the access road (Ryan Ridge Drive) completed by the end of the week. "The only thing left to do will be the mulching of the banks and putting in seed," Ryan explains.

Development on the 17 acres, which has been divided up into seven parcels (all just a little over two acres), may begin as early as September.

Ryan said three of the seven parcels have already been sold. The residential development will be called "The Oaks."

The chief engineer at Lowell Light and Power the last 34 years purchased the 17 acres from the County.

After purchasing the land he sought approval from the Lowell Township Planning for the development. After getting approval, Ryan sought a building permit for a private road from the Lowell Township Supervisor.

The private drive, which is being put in by O.E. Bieri and Sons, will be inspected by Township Road Inspector, Dave Miller.

"The Oaks is going to be a small, pretty development," Ryan says.

Lowell Police Department's newest cruiser took a beating around midnight Friday. The marks on the hood were made with an ax.

Ax wielding Ada man decimates cruiser

Officials apprehend assailant Monday for violent weekend rampage

An Ada man, apparently under the influence of alcohol, became violent when police began questioning him as to why he abandoned his car and his pit bull on South Division late Friday night, early Saturday morning.

Burt Vern Vosberg, 34, of 8828 Grand River Dr. was arrested Monday at a friend's home on two counts of woeful and malicious destruction of property, two counts of assault with a deadly weapon and two counts of a felony with a firearm.

Lowell Police were patrolling South Division late Friday night when they noticed a car sitting off the road on the left hand side down in the ravine. After checking for the correct registered owner, police drove out to the Vosberg residence to find out why he left his car and dog on South Division.

As police began speaking to him, Vosberg became violent and began threatening the officers. Using what police described as a large kitchen knife, Vosberg came outside and began approaching the officers with the knife. As the officers backed off, Vosberg circled the police car and then began to stab at it. First, puncturing the driver's side front tire and then the trunk of the police car. With the strike to the trunk, the knife bent in the shape of an "L," cutting one of Vosberg's hands.

After discarding the knife, the Ada man picked up an ax and went back to work on the police car. Before he was through, all the police car windows were broken out and there were a number of cuts made with the ax into the hood of the car and throughout the rest of the vehicle.

Lowell Police Chief Barry Emmons said Vosberg made lethal force threats to the officers if they came near him.

"In situations like that it is better to let the assailant cool off before approaching him and risking personal danger," Emmons said.

After Vosberg finished destroying the five-month old police cruiser he ran off into the woods. Shortly thereafter police heard a gun discharge.

"While in the woods he made threats with his gun," Emmons said. "After he was lost in the woods and we were unable to locate him the Kent County Sheriff's Department and the Lowell Police Department decided to pull back and look for him later."

Emmons said he believes Vosberg

Cultural harmony and the underprivileged Sunsplasher's biggest beneficiaries

While Sunsplash organizer, Ed Taylor Cline, Kent County Director of Parks, Larry Ross and Vergennes Township Supervisor Jim Cook won't be making the final decision on the future of Sunsplash at Fallasburg Park, they all agree that the tragic accident that occurred following the festival should have no bearing on that decision.

The event, which started at the house of Taylor 10 years ago, has worked to help enhance Kent County's cultural harmony over the past 10 years.

Funds from the event have specifically gone toward helping children attend Camp O'Malley, a camp designed for underprivileged children, who might otherwise not be able to attend.

The families of the two youths have established scholarships in the name of Heather Conner and Millicent Knox at their respective schools (Rockford and Thornapple-Kellogg). The festival organizer says it will be donating funds toward the scholarship in memory of the two girls killed in the accident following the festival.

As do the approximately quarter-of-a-million festival fans, Taylor believe in what it does. "Money has never been a motivation, cultural harmony has," he says.

Zayac's work adorns LAAC walls with Victorian buildings & history

Lowell Train Depot

Authentic Uniform - Civil War

"Things keep happening. For me, the constant changing light and color offers a selection and choice not found in looking at photographs," says Dick Zayac of his outdoor Victorian watercolor selections.

Whether his selection comes from a visit to St. Augustine, FL, Mackinaw Island, Harbor Springs or Leland, Zayac is consumed by the way a building is delineated with shadows on a sunny day.

His Victorian building and costume work is heavily influenced by the Victorian/Edwardian period in history (1880-1890's) and the work of Winslow Homer.

His fascination for history was a preamble to his art work that followed. "I just love old buildings and costumes. Put a Victorian costume on anybody and the subject immediately turns terrific," Zayac explains.

Zayac's accomplishments don't stop with Victorian buildings and costumes. Provide him a brush, canvas and watercolors and Zayac brings history alive. Included in his watercolor exhibit at the Lowell Area Arts Center is a vivid memory of the old Lowell Train Depot.

His work somehow helps viewers observe an old tractor relic with a fondness usually reserved only for the life-long farmer. His inspiration in this area came from the great American painter John Singer Sargent.

Zayac's watercolor exhibit will be on display at the Lowell Area Arts Center through Sept. 13.

As teenager the Detroit native studied at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Society of Arts and Crafts. Later, while majoring in commercial art at Cass Tech, he received scholarships to the Art Students League and Pratt Institute in New York City.

"It amazes me what was available to us in 1935-36 through our classes at Detroit Institute of Art," Zayac recalls. "We got a lot of extra education beyond the classroom, education not available to my kids."

Zayac said he first realized he had a special artistic ability in high school when he began winning contests and later scholarships.

His success does not get in the way of his continued learning. "If I've done something in one of my paintings that I like and want to progress and learn from than I keep for a while," Zayac said.

The watercolor artist spends many vacations painting in St. Augustine, FL. That has resulted in his purchase and renovation of an 1885 building. The historical site now serves as his studio, gallery and winter home where he focuses his painting on the historical landmarks and surrounding beauty of St. Augustine.

No matter the location, Zayac is always tuned in to the historical landmarks that surround him. On Sunday, before his reception at the Lowell Area Arts Center, Zayac and a few friends went out to White's Bridge for a painting session. "I've painted White's Bridge before. But it is always different. The light is different. The time of day is different. The view is always may have been camping out down near the river.

One of Vosberg's shots with the gun hit a LIFE Ambulance which was dispatched to the scene for safety reasons.

Emmons said, once out in the woods, the few glimpses police did get of him showed that Vosberg had removed all of his clothing.

Making the decision to discontinue its hunt for Vosberg early Saturday morning, Lowell Police Sergeant Al

Eckman was able to contact Vosburg by phone on Saturday afternoon through a number attained from his parents.

"I tried to talk him into giving himself up, but he said he needed to talk to his wife and a lawyer," Eckman said. The Kent County Sheriff's Department and Lowell Police renewed their search Monday morning. They caught up with Vosberg at a friends house where the arrest was made.

"He wasn't argumentative and did not resist arrest," Emmons said. Vosburg was to be arraigned on Tuesday morning.

The new police cruiser incurred $4,000 - $8,000 damage. Emmons said bids will be let out for repair of the cruiser. "Not only was the body damaged but a lot of the equipment on it was damaged," he said. Lowell's police chief said the department would be without its new cruiser for at least a month.

...let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing (James 1:4).

"Haste makes waste," we are told. And how true it is! Hurry doing the dishes and see how many cups you drop.

Homepun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

Hurry mopping the kitchen floor and observe the spattered base board. Hurry to phone a friend and you get a wrong number. Hurry and impatience make waste in the everyday activities of living. Impatience in spiritual things also takes its toll.

Patience is a must in the Christian's life. It must be exerted in one's attitude toward one's own self, toward others and in regard to the leading of the Lord. A parent doesn't expect a child to run until he is able to walk. Neither does the Lord expect more from the Christian than he is able to perform. He understands our incapacities, our weaknesses, our limitations. He allows each of us to run the race as rapidly as we are individually capable of traveling.

Patience is a difficult virtue to cultivate—acquired, many times, in the furnace of affliction. Discomfort may accompany the obtaining, but the result is "perfected character."

Prayer: O Lord, Thou knowest my weaknesses and my limitations. Thou art mindful of my abilities and lack of them. Help me to be patient. Teach me to wait for Thee. Amen.

different," he says. "White's Bridge is my favorite bridge. I like the Michigan rock foundation."

Zayac does all his work on location. While some artists are intimidated by onlookers Zayac is not. "I'll spend three-four hours on location painting." Being on location helps Zayac capture the shadows.

He describes his work as being a kinder art. "I'd like to think that it is a reflection of me, but that's not always the case. This work can be stressful and it doesn't always turn out," Zayac explains.

But the work that does turn out and that which is on display currently at the Lowell Area Arts Center is worth your time and a view or two.

Learn to wait—life's hardest lesson, Learned, perchance, through blinding tears While the heart throbs sully march on To the tread of passing years.

Viewpoint

cozy corner by Roger Brown

"Sea Cow" sailed last weekend! You may remember a column from last winter about a friend and I buying an old C-scow sailboat that had been left outside and neglected for a number of years. My partner is a dairy farmer, hence the name. We haven't put the name on the boat yet, as we haven't figured out how to do it. There's almost no visible transom on a C-scow, so the name has to be emblazoned on the deck. We thought about first painting the deck black and white like a holstein hide, but our wives said they wouldn't be seen in it if we did that. I can't believe it's still red.

The boat was in pretty sorry shape, but since it was constructed of fiberglass and aluminum it was salvageable. The cockpit was full of water and frozen into a huge block of ice which contained all the hardware. We weren't sure what was in there, but replacements would have easily doubled our $450.00 investment in the entire boat and trailer. As the days passed and the ice melted in my partner's workshop, the expensive pieces of hardware appeared, one by one. I swear, the ordeal was on a par with expeditions documented on PBS or in National Geographic.

After the "Ice Age" our inventory concluded that everything was accounted for except the mainsheet. For you landlubbers, that's the line, excuse me, rope, that threads through a myriad of blocks, excuse me, pulleys, and controls the mainsail. My dad fashioned a new tiller, excuse me, handle-that-affixes-to-the-rudder-and-steers-the-boat, from a piece of ash. And, with a lot of elbow grease we had "Sea Cow" pretty well ship shape and ready to sail. That was last spring. Because of busy schedules, lots of lousy weather on weekends and our basic primal fear of looking absolutely stupid about sailing a C-scow, we didn't get the old girl in the water until mid-August.

We finally got a weekend that we could both get away. The weather was beautiful for sailing. Unfortunately, our fear of looking stupid was well founded, as we crashed into my dock a few times, nearly ran over some swimmers and upset some fishermen as we sailed briskly through their trolling lines. However, my partner and I take looking stupid in stride and we both agreed we got at least $450.00 worth of fun out of one weekend.

I do believe we've created a monster. That is, we had so much fun we're eager to get back at it. We broke our halyard. That's the line that hoists the sail. Boy, if I could only assume that you readers had even a small working knowledge of sailing nomenclature, it'd sure make writing this column a lot easier. Anyway, first thing Monday my partner ordered a new halyard from the manufacturer. I dropped $75.00 on an 80 foot length of double braided half inch Dacron line for a new main sheet. And, we've got a friend in the tool and die business

"A" IS FOR ATTITUDE

With over 32 years in education, I have had the opportunity to observe hundreds of students from the day they entered kindergarten to the day they received their diplomas and entered the adult world to make a success or failure of their lives. Many who fail in adult life and "hit bottom" for a variety of reasons, rearrange their personal priorities and become better persons because of the experience. Those who were naturally successful and those who learned how to become successful had one common element - a positive attitude.

Successful adulthood isn't guaranteed by getting straight A's in school, and the best students are not always the brightest ones. Surprised? It's true: native intelligence is only one factor - and not really the most important - in the making of a successful student or adult. Success at school can be defined as making the most, academically and socially, out of the school experience. It all starts with that positive attitude.

We design school curriculum not just to impart facts, but to help students to feel good about themselves, to learn to be good citizens, to be physically fit, socially well-adjusted and sensitive to the needs of others. In short, we work toward the development of your child as a whole person, from the time he/she enters kindergarten until he/she graduates from high school as a young adult.

As for grades, some students do have an easier time than others, but hard work and good attitudes often go a lot further than IQ. Just as there is more to living than going to work every day, there is more to school than grades. Learning to get along with others, developing leadership skills, pursuing hobbies and interests, getting to know one's strengths and weaknesses, and finding out how to maximize opportunities are some other crucial lessons that a student can learn while in school which will serve them a lifetime.

HEALTH

With Dr. Joyce deJong

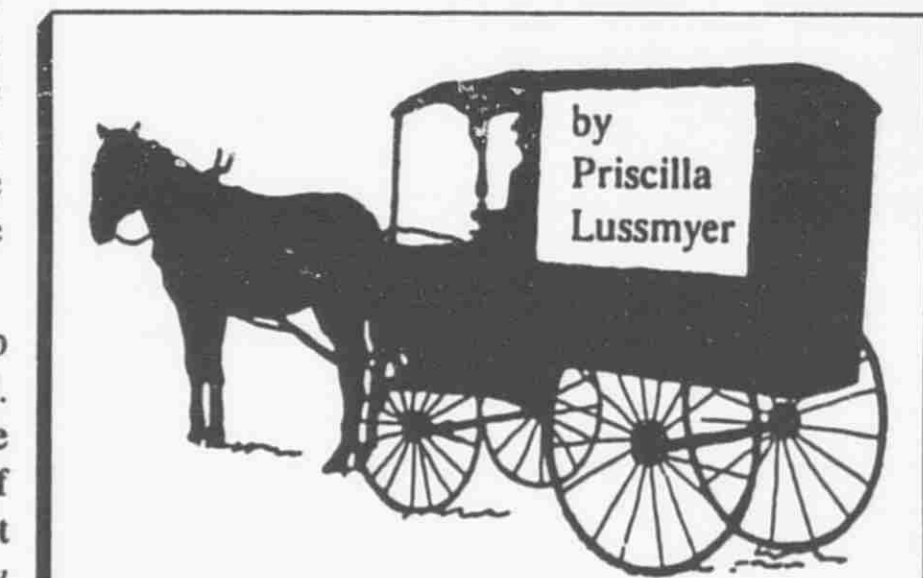

Skin reactions due to plant contact are one of the bane of summertime. From late spring to early fall, a walk in the woods may result in a red, bumpy, itchy rash. The plants responsible—poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac—are found throughout the United States.

Poison ivy, the most common of these plants, is usually a small woody shrub or climbing vine. It can be recognized by its shiny green or reddish leaves that grow in clusters of three. In the late summer and early fall, it may have small, yellowish-manufacturing a new kick-up rudder for us. The rudder modification will allow us to sail into shore rather than crash into my dock. This should be good news to the fiberglass hull.

This C-scow is not a pleasure craft. It's set up for racing. There are gadgets with names like out hauler, Cunningham and boomvang that control, tweak and shape the sail in every way imaginable. Consequently, there are lines, sheets, blocks, cleats, travelers, and other stuff (the ultimate sailing term) scattered about the boat. Of course we know virtually nothing about how and why all this "stuff" works. The scary part is, we both want to learn. I'm not sure why. If we get all this stuff figured out, that simply means the boat will go faster, which in turn means it will be a bigger crash when we hit my dock.

Each year the festival has been reviewed following its two-day celebration. Ross said that will not change. "Each year it is discussed how the festival could be changed and if stipulations need to be added or changed. That will be done again this year," Ross said. "Each year the organizers of the event comes forth with a proposal for the next year's event, the Board of Park Trustees then either approve it or they don't."

That decision will take in the experience and concerns of Lowell Township.

The County has the authority to schedule events for recreational purposes. Townships cannot prevent such events from taking place if the County chooses. However the County does take into consideration the safety and welfare of the Township.

Cook said the accident should not serve as a principal in outlawing the festival. Cook's concerns with the festival were two-fold:

1. The energy/power shortages people around the Fallsburg area experienced during the festival. "The Fallsburg Fall Festival rations the amount it uses. People around Fallsburg experienced outages and electrical malfunctions.

2. The Township Supervisor was also concerned as to whether alcohol was being sold on County property.

Ross, who was there both days, said he saw very little of that happening.

Both men agreed that the event brings enjoyment to thousands of spectators. "It's a super event for people in and around the area," Ross said.

Taylor and Amway will each be donating funds toward putting in a shelter at the park. Taylor and the festival organization will be donating $15,000 and Amway will donate $5,000. "The shelter will be a plus for organizations and for all area residents," Ross said.

The shelter will include a memorial in memory of Conner and Knox.

white berries hanging from it in bunches. Poison ivy often grows along the ground in woody areas or on low fences, but it is very adaptable and may be found almost anywhere.

Poison oak is very common along the Pacific Coast. Its leaves may be shaped like oak leaves. Similarly to those of poison ivy, poison oak leaves grow in clusters of three. It frequently grows along the edges of paths, woods, and stream banks, and on fences and beside buildings.

Poison sumac resembles nonpoisonous sumac and is found only in swamps and peat bogs.

Q: Why does a rash occur? A: A reaction occurs when the oils of the plants come into contact with your skin. The oils are released when the stems or leaves of the plant are broken or crushed. These oils can get onto your skin through a number of ways—direct contact with the plant, from the fur of animals who have had contact with the plant, from the smoke when the plants are burned, and from clothing or tools that have the oils on them. Within a few days of contact with the plant, symptoms of itching, redness, and burning may develop. Soon after the first signs of itching, small red bumps usually appear. Very sensitive people may develop their first symptoms within a few hours, and less sensitive people may not get them for 2 weeks. A small number of people have a natural resistance to the plants and may never develop symptoms.

Q: How can you avoid a reaction? A: The best way to avoid a reaction is to avoid contact with the plants. However, this may be very difficult, especially if you like the outdoors.

The second best way to avoid a reaction is to shower. Within the first 30 minutes after these oils come in contact with your skin, you can wash them off easily with soap and water. After 30 minutes, the oils bind with your skin, and there is no way to avoid a reaction. It is important to wash as soon as possible.

In addition, touching objects that have oils on them, such as clothes, pets, or toys, can spread the oil to your skin and cause a reaction. Oils from these plants may remain on clothing, animal fur, baseballs, or other objects for a long period of time—people have gotten a reaction in the spring from clothing they wore in the fall. If you go hiking in the woods or any other place where you think you may have touched these plants, wash your clothes in the washing machine with detergent as soon as you get home. Wash your shoes, too, with soapy water. Give pets a bath, and wash gardening tools or toys.

The only way to get a reaction is from the oil itself, which you can get from other people's skin or clothes. You can also spread the oils over your body if you have them on your hands.

Contrary to popular belief, you cannot catch the rash from someone else who has it, even if that person's skin is oozing, and you cannot spread it to other areas of your own body by scratching. (When you develop a reaction in one area and it seems to spread, the other areas it "spread" to just had less oil on them and took longer to react.)

Q: What can you do once you have a rash? A: There are many preparations available in the drugstore that help control the rash. Cortisone cream and other similar preparations help stop itching. A cool bath or a paste of oatmeal is often soothing. Lotions containing calamine can be used to dry up the rash.

If rash is fairly severe or if it is on your face, see a doctor. He or she may give you cortisone pills to clear up the rash. Even though it won't spread the rash, try not to scratch. Scratching will make the irritation worse and may cause infection or scarring.

Remember...

• Poison ivy, poison oak, poison sumac, and other plants in this family always have clusters of shiny leaves in odd numbers.

• To avoid a reaction, the oils must be washed off your skin within 30 minutes. The oils can stay on inanimate objects indefinitely, so be sure to wash clothes and anything else that may have oil on it.

• You can't "catch" the rash from other people who have it, but you can get a rash from clothes or pets that have oils on them.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

The 1992 graduate of Lowell High School joined the Marine Corps in April 1992.

Seniors use dedication to celebrate completion of porch

Not long ago there was some question as to who would oversee the Lowell Senior Neighbors Center?

It's activities director resigned. Who would plan activities? Who would make sure lunch was cooked and served? Who would tend to the dishes? Who would tend to the bookkeeping?

Questions that were difficult at the time were all solved by the most obvious of answers. The Senior Neighbors, themselves. Who better qualified to serve their needs and likes?

Though, they admit, it wasn't always easy, through a cooperative effort by the neighbors, the Center has continued to operate, quite smoothly they add.

"Things have gone real well," said senior neighbor Grace Kutchev. "It's been a cooperative effort with all 50 or so members taking turns seeing that the work gets done."

The Lowell Senior Neighbors Center used the Lowell Porch Dedication ceremony Wednesday to highlight the newly renovated closed-in front porch and the relative ease its members have displayed in stepping in and keeping the center running for the past 2-1/2 months.

"Actually it may be running even smoother," said Elva Raymor.

The Senior Neighbors Inc. out of Grand Rapids announced after the ceremony that Sharon Wilson will be the new center activities director starting Sept. 2.

The enclosed porch was the idea of the seniors. It's members even donated $800 toward the project.

The project went from planning to construction following Lowell Township's $5,000 donation from its Community Development Block Grant Fund.

The Lowell Senior Neighbors Center also received $1,000 for energy conservation improvements from the Grand Rapids Office of Services to the Aging.

The Senior Neighbors Inc. located in Grand Rapids chipped in with roughly $1,300.

After all the funds came rolling in for the project and construction was completed, the Lowell Senior Neighbors had an enclosed front porch with a new ceiling, roof, insulated walls, energy efficient windows, carpeting, a stabilized floor, and handicap accessibility from the inside.

Schneider Manor was responsible for the new roof

Potato salad, hamburgers and cake awaited seniors following the ceremony.

IT'S A BOY!

Cathy Kuehle and Gary Acker, are proud to announce the birth of their son, Cody William, born August 10, 1992 at Butterworth Hospital. He weighed 8 lbs. He is welcomed home by his brother, Jeff and proud grandparents: Bud and Ruby Acker and Harold and Alma McKellar.

over the porch and the new steps leading up to the porch.

The completed renovation work will help make it easier to expand the Senior Neighbor program in such areas as tax aids, legal aids, meeting space and health assessment.

"The Lowell Senior Neighbor volunteers have kept this place running for the last couple of months," said Michelle Powell, volunteer and public relation coordinator for the Senior Neighbors Inc. "It's a credit to how they care. I'm sure at times it has been stressful, but they've gotten the job done."

The Lowell Porch Dedication program was chaired by Fern Lamb. "She did an excellent job," Raymor said.

Orion Thaler hosted the event. The center's executive director Dr. Eunice Thurman and Lowell Mayor Jim Maatman spoke to the crowd prior to the ribbon-cutting ceremony. The ribbon-cutting was performed by Maatman and Ray Onan, Lowell Senior Neighbors' eldest participant. He will turn 100 years old later this year.

For Rachel Condon the Senior Neighbors Center has been a blessing. "It's been the best medicine for me. I'm a widow. Since my husband's death the center has improved my outlook on life. When my husband died, I thought I needed to stay home. Now I come here every day that I can. I don't feel so alone anymore."

School Food Service Program

Lowell Schools is proud to offer a hot lunch program in each of our school buildings. The cooks will be ready to serve tasty nutritious lunches the first day of school, Tuesday, September 1.

Prices for lunches will be $1.35 in the elementary and $1.50 in the middle and high school. Adult lunches will be $2.20. Milk sold separately will be 25¢. (Milk is included as part of a hot lunch).

Lunch tickets are sold each morning in the elementary schools. We encourage students in all schools to bring their money for the week on Monday. Students may, if they wish, bring their money for the week on Monday. This is not mandatory, but is very helpful.

Free and reduced price lunches are available to qualifying families upon proper application. An information letter to parents and an application is included in this publication. Applications will also be available in all school offices. Parents who think they may be eligible must complete the applications by Monday, August 24, for lunches on Tuesday, September 1st.

Lunches include a variety of food including popular pizza, burgers, breakfast-for-lunch, tacos, fresh fruits, and chef salads for older students. We are especially proud of the excellent homemade breads, rolls and cookies prepared from scratch by our talented cooks.

Weekly lunch menus are published in school newsletters, the Lowell Ledger, the Buyers Guide and Lowell Cable TV.

We do not sell candy, gum, or carbonated beverages in our cafeterias.

A child's nutritional status has a direct influence on their physical and mental development. Our dedicated food service staff is proud to be a vital part of meeting needs of our children.

Parents having any questions about school food service may call Mrs. Carol Harper at 897-8415.

In Compliance With Title IX And Section 504

The following procedure is provided for any member or students of staff of the Lowell Area Schools who feel they have been discriminated against on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry, age, marital status or sex. Registering New High School Students

High school students new to Lowell Area Schools should call the high school at 897-4125 during the week of August 10 to make an appointment to register and enroll in classes.

In order to assure the correct placement in high school and to insure that the requirements of state laws regarding residency, guardianship, and immunization are met, it is expected that students will provide the following documentation:

1. Proof of legal guardianship if not living with parents or proof of custody if living with divorced parents.
2. Current Immunization records.
3. Birth Certificate.
4. Transcript, reportcard(s), withdrawal form and/or other proof of classes, grades and last date of attendance from previous schools.

All registrations will be done by appointment and a parent/guardian should accompany the student to the appointment.

1. Proof of residency within the physical boundaries of the Lowell School District.

PHONE CALLS ONLY! PLEASE!

The staff at Lowell High School is committed to providing your children with the best education possible. To achieve that goal, we ask parents to help us by making good attendance a priority. To help students we have set a maximum number of allowable absences as a prerequisite for earning high school credit (no more than 12 total absences or 6 unexcused absences per semester). The details of the policy can be found in your student's handbook which will be distributed the first week of school.

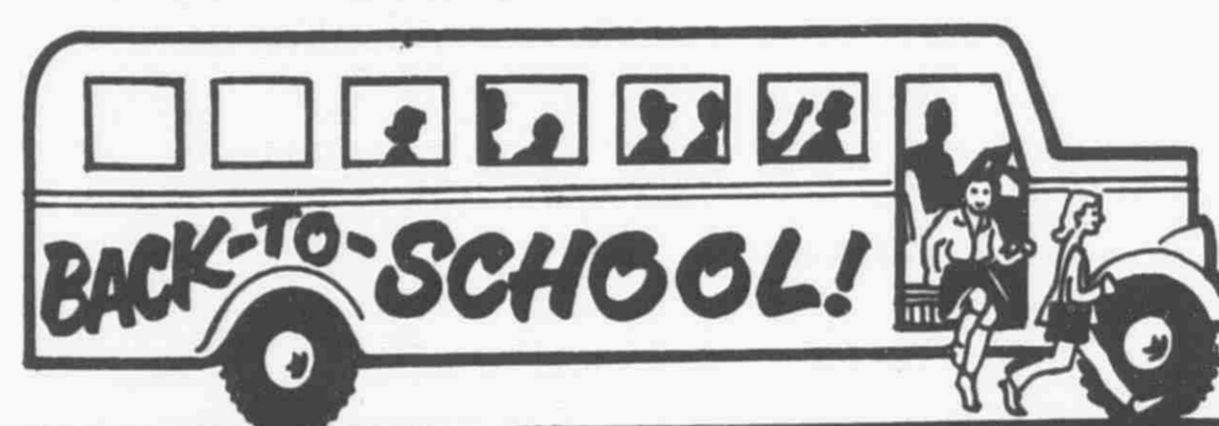

Please take time to review this policy with your child. Good attendance habits can only be established when the parents and school work together.

We will communicate with you immediately if a potential problem arises, and we ask that you notify us as soon as possible if a problem or illness occurs. Together we can develop good work habits and insure that both the teachers and the students can focus on what we are all committed to - learning.

1992-93 SCHOOL BUS ROUTES AND SCHEDULE

SPECIAL EDUCATION - Parents please call the transportation office after August 21 for times and schedules.

KINDERGARTEN INFORMATION - All kindergarten students will attend Runciman School again this year except those living in the Alto attendance area. They will attend Alto School. Please have your student tagged with name, address and phone number. It is also helpful to have a back pack or tote bag to carry shoes and papers. Students will be going all day alternate days. Your students should have been assigned to an A or B group. If you have not received a letter to this effect, please contact your school office. Kindergarten students will ride the regular buses with the older children to and from school.

KINDERGARTEN PARENTS - Please let your student ride the bus the first day of school. This will enable the bus driver to locate your exact residence and get acquainted with your child. If your child is concerned about finding their school room it is suggested that you meet the bus at school and accompany them to their room.

BABYSITTERS - Students must be at the sitter five days a week to qualify for transportation. Students will be picked up and returned to your home address unless babysitter forms are turned into the transportation office prior to the starting of school.

BUS RIDER REGISTRATION FORMS - Students will be given this form on the first day of school. Please fill it out completely and return to driver by end of first week. This form is very important to our office for any changes made since the last school year.

SECONDARY STUDENTS IN VALLEY VISTA - will be expected to walk to school
