Council moves to keep compliance with ADA

Lowell's City Council moved at its Dec. 21 meeting to stay in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities

The Council agreed to provide $2,300 from its contingency fund. A study will review current positions and analyze any revisions of tasks. Lowell Light and Power has also agreed to provide $1,150.

Lowell Schools share aerial map information with Qua-Ke-Zik

School Board and the Qua-Ke-Zik Club Board shared something, it was a court-

That was until November of this year, when the Lowell School Board approved a request by Qua-Ke-Zik for a copy of the topographical map the school had completed when it was developing building plans for the school sys-

"The Qua-Ke-Zik Club Board did not figure there would be a hard problem," club president, Bruce Bobo said. "It would have served no purpose not to provide us with a copy.

The club's cost for the copy from WBDC was $165. That covered retrieving it out of the archives and recording it on a disc so that additions could be made to it.

Had the club had to pay for a topographical aerial survey the cost would have run be-

The last time the Lowell tween $1,500 and $3,500, according to Bobo.

> The topographical map is a start to the Sportsmen's Club's long term development. This will include expanding and creating some community projects and events, such as, a biatholon, cross country skiing trails and hiking paths.

> "Optimistically, I think it will be a couple of years before the plan gets off the ground and running," Bobo

> Superintendent Fritz Esch said that contrary to what some people may think, the school is willing to share material that will help benefit the club.

> "Our business is to get with educating kids and not to dwell on the past," Esch said.

> Both Bobo and Esch agreed that both sides were looking at their primary responsibility. "The school had its viewpoint and we had ours. That's now over and we're both willing to move on," Bobo said.

Unnecessary ambulance and rescue assistance cost Township taxpayers

"I've fallen and I can't get up!" This may seem like a humorous line from a commercial, but when it cost the taxpayers money no one laughs.

Until recently Lowell Township ambulance and rescue teams were called to scenes where no assistance was needed. At a cost of $50 a call, not including equipment cost, it adds up to a substantial cost to local taxpayers.

"There were times when the ambulance and rescue teams would spend one to two minutes at a scene," said County Supervisor John Timpson. "That basically amounts to driving up the driveway and then backing out."

According to city officials most of the non-emergency calls came from Cumberland Manor. These calls asked for assisting the elderly into their chairs and beds, a situation the staff would attend.

"We were being called out there (Cumberland Manner) on any call that came in," said Fire Chief Frank Martin. "Most of the time there was no reason for us to be there."

According to Martin a better line of communication has been developed to stop the dispatching of an ambulance for non-emergency calls.

Ambulance and rescue teams used to respond to calls simultaneously without knowledge of the emergency status. This has been changed, with the ambulance company now monitoring the calls and prioritizing them for the rescue team. Priority one refers to a life threatening emergency, priority two is an emergency but non life threatening, and priority three is assistance but not an emergency.

"We are currently going to respond to priority one calls, these being the life threatening situations," says Martin.

The Lowell ambulance and rescue teams are a valuable and needed asset to the community," said Timpson. "With the better line of communication the teams will serve the community in a more efficient manner."

not telling the truth to some other body under oath.

When did our government make the decision to forego honesty in pursuit of personal gain and safety.

One statement Bush did make before the Christmas holiday that I hope he hasn't already forgotten was, "There will be a full report to the Congress and the public describing the details and the extent of the Iran-Contra cover-up." The Reagan, and now Bush administration, have been covering up, and holding back information for six years. My question is can we believe them now that the findings will be revealed.
