First day cancellation offers Elvis stamp collectors "Return to Sender" service in line waiting to buy their Elvis stamps.

At the front of the line was Lowell's Sandy Brown. "I arrived at a little past 11 a.m.," she explained. "I don't collect stamps I just collect Elvis memorabilia. Brown was wearing an Elvis shirt she purchased in Graceland in 1989. The shirt had a postmarked Elvis stamp on the front of it. Brown purchased two sheets of Elvis stamps. Each sheet contains 40 stamps.

There was no limit on the number of stamps an individual could buy.

Edna Cook stood in line for her son, Duane. "I purchased two sheets of stamps, one for my son and one for me," she explained.

Carla Hendrick was in line for her boyfriend, Mark DuPont. "He collects Elvis memorabilia also," she says.

Rosella Maloney, a long time Elvis fan, said she has also collected many of the King's records and videos. Her favorite song was "Are You Lonesome Tonight." Maloney said she's liked all the Elvis movies she has seen.

City plans emergency alert system test for Jan. 21 over Lowell Cable Television

The community alert system purchased for the Lowell Cable Television System will be tested at 8 p.m. on Jan. 21.

Lowell Chief of Police Barry Emmons announced the testing time at the Jan. 4 Lowell City Council meeting.

The community alert system will allow members of the Lowell Police Department to 'over-ride' the audio channels on all of the Lowell Cable Television stations in the event of an emergency.

"This will be done by placing a telephone call to the emergency alert system and then entering the access code," Emmons explained.

He added that subscribers to the Lowell Cable T.V. system would be given an audio message by the Lowell Police Department about the emergency (tornado warning, evacuation, chemical spill, etc), with further information as to what is requested of them.

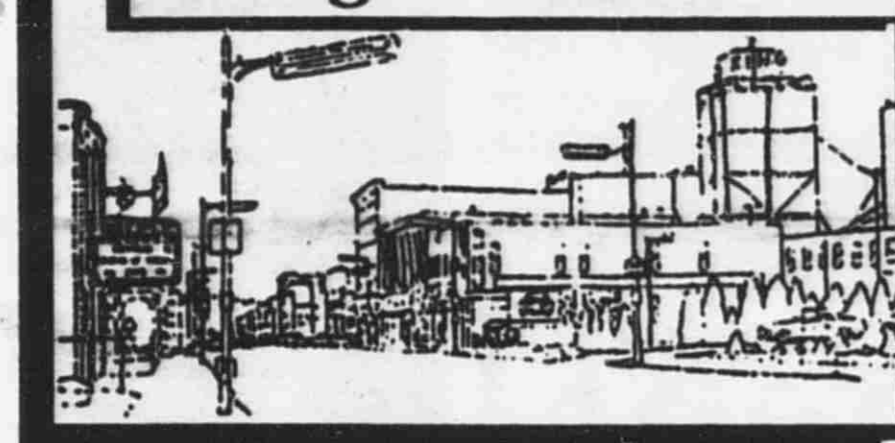

The emergency alert system has been installed at the 'head-end' station.

The $3,544 unit was funded through the Look Committee.

The alert system will override all Lowell Cable channel signals. Any message will be preceded by a high-pitch tone.

Emmons said it is a tremendous asset which provides the department another means of getting an emergency message out to the community.

"Are You Lonesome Tonight?" It is doubtful that the "King of Rock and Roll" was, on Friday, Jan. 8.

Commemorating what would have been his 58 birthday, the United States Postal Service, in response to the encouragement of Elvis fans, that it "Don't Be Cruel," put on sale 300 million commemorative Elvis Presley stamps.

The official first day ceremony for the Elvis stamp occurred late in the evening of Jan. 7, with the stamps being issued just after midnight on Jan. 8. The stamp went on sale nationwide at noon local time on Friday, Jan. 8.

"First-day cancellations were available from the Memphis Post Office," said Officer in Charge at the Lowell Post Office, Pat Fonger.

The 300 million stamps that were printed makes the stamp the most popular commemorative stamp ever issued by the U.S. Postal Service. The total is twice the normal run for a commemorative stamp.

OK Alternative supporters solicit 250,000 signatures

Both partisan tax cut proposals on the November ballot went down to defeat by large numbers.

They were proposals that went from the legislators and special interest to the people.

Lowell School Board Trustee, Marcia Wilcox, attended a conference at the Kent Intermediate Public Schools on Wednesday to launch a campaign to secure 250,000 names so that the OK Alternative can become a legislative initiative. Each one of 100 school districts will be asked to attain 2,500 signatures.

The legislation for the OK Alternative was written up by the developers of the plan David Olmstead, the Detroit School Board's Finance Chairman, and University of Michigan Professor, Phillip Kearney.

Wilcox said the OK Alternative supporters are hopeful of having all 250,000 signatures by summer. If that happens, Wilcox said it should be known if the legislature will act on the proposal by fall.

Christmas tree sales effort sprouts roots of success

It was a "tree"mendous fund-raiser for the Lowell Area Schools Athletic Boosters Club.

It provided trunks full of monies for Red Arrow athletes, both girls and boys.

Lowell's Athletic Boosters Club's first year for selling Christmas trees and wreaths exceeded all expectations. The club sold 342 trees and 30 wreaths.

"Toward the end we were going to Allegan to cut the trees down ourselves so we could come back and sell them in Lowell," said sport booster member Pat Mull.

The sale raised $2,873. The money will be put into a fund and divided amongst all sports evenly based on the number of athletes.

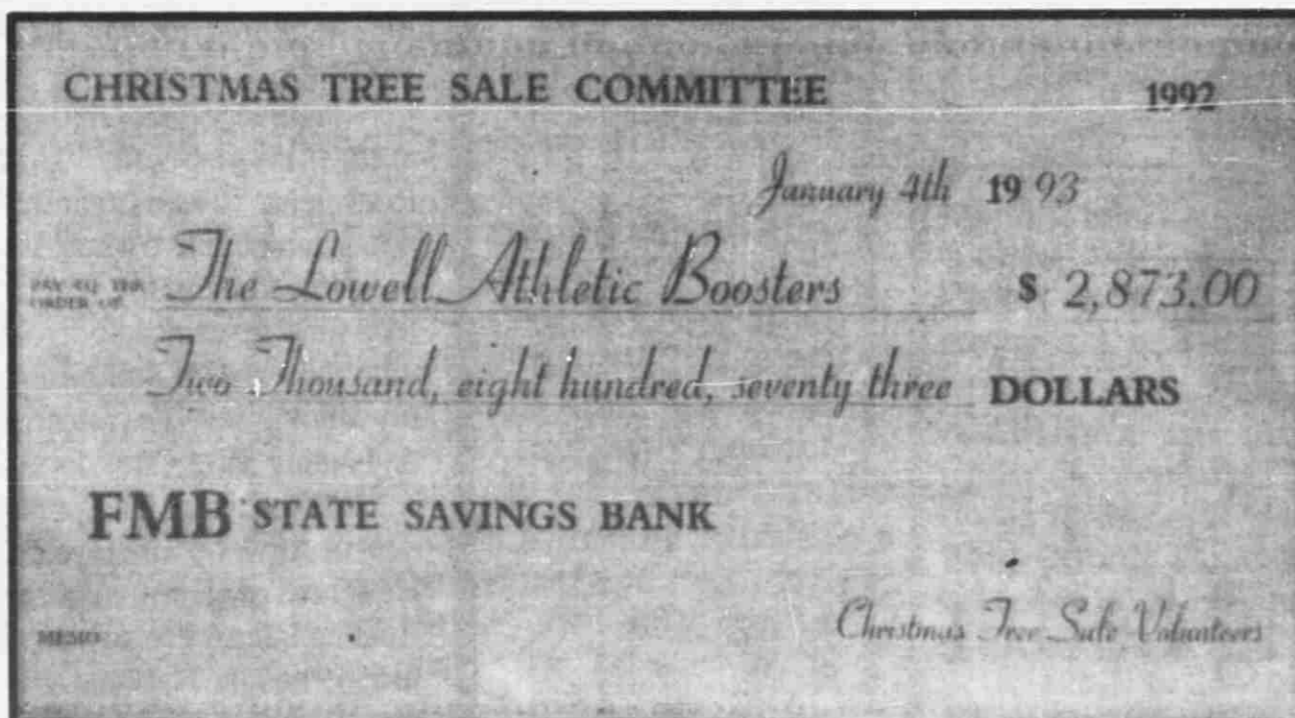

Mull said people were stopping by while the club was tagging trees, before it officially started selling them on Nov. 27.

"The club had to quit selling trees a week before it was scheduled to, because it could not get anymore trees," Mull said. "The sale went much better than we'd hoped and the volunteer force was wonderful."

Under the direction of Mike and Sharon Lesky a fund-raising committee was formed for athletics.

Mull said other fund-raisers are planned throughout the 1993 year.

The Lowell Athletic Boosters Club sold over 300 Christmas trees in raising $2,873.

TOWN TALK

With recent studies showing that second-hand smoke is harmful to non-smokers, do you now believe it should be banned from all public places?

Linda Ruesink
Yes. Smokers should be considerate of others. I smoke, but consider myself a courteous smoker toward those who don't.

Tammy Wielinga
No. I think segregation of smoking and non-smoking is good enough.

Lisa Hewitt
Definitely, it should be banned. My father and children have allergies. The smoke causes them breathing problems. People shouldn't be subject to things they don't want to be.

Sue Dykstra
I don't care one way or the other. I go outside to smoke at work and when with relatives.

Convictions are more dangerous enemies of truth than lies. —Friedrich Nietzsche

The Florentine sculptor Ghiberti spent 48 years making two sets of doors for a church in Florence, Italy. Michelangelo named these doors "The Gates of Paradise".

Denise Neubecker
Yes, smoking should be banned in public places. It is unfair to the non-smokers. It infringes on their rights.

Rhonda Kropf
Yes. Non-smokers should not be affected by the smokers' choices.

Perfect courage means doing unwitnessed what one would be capable of doing before the whole world. —La Rochefoucauld

Bruntons to hold concert at Lowell's First Baptist Church

Bob and Becky Brunton, a husband and wife vocal duet team from Eaton Rapids, will present a concert of sacred music on Jan. 17. The concert will be held at First Baptist Church, 2275 W. Main in Lowell at 10 a.m.

They have been seen by millions on national syndicated television. Their records are heard on radio stations from Canada to Ecuador and from Korea to West Africa. They have had concert tours taking them from Maine to California and from North Dakota to Texas and even beyond the borders of the United States.

Today as it becomes more important to discern between Christian music entertainment and Christian music ministry, the Bruntons have become a standard of what ministry in music is about.

The concert will include familiar songs as well as some of their own compositions and will feature something for all ages and musical tastes.

They were married in 1963 and were involved in educational careers for many years in the Lansing area.

Becky Brunton, a music teacher for the Michigan School for the Blind, and her husband, Director of Payroll for Michigan State University, resigned their positions in 1979 to begin their singing ministry. They currently have eight albums released on the Pinebrook label.

Their delivery is crisp and dynamic, featuring the use of live piano, synthesizer, violin, and taped accompaniments. The concert, which is open to the public, will challenge, encourage and share their joy.

If you are ever at a loss to support a flagging conversation, introduce the subject of eating.

Viewpoint . . .

by Roger Brown

I hesitate to admit this, is that Ludenhouter is borderline whacko. Most of my kids' friends call me Mr. Brown. Ludenhouter has called me Rog since the first time I met him. His big claim to fame is the time I wrote about him in this column for T.P.'ing my house and yard with toilet paper. I still owe him one for that.

Consequently, he spent his entire week with us doing nutty stuff in an attempt to again gain fame by getting his name in print in the Ledger. I hate to patronize the kid, but he won't leave me alone until I do this, so here goes.

The first night there Ludenhouter announced that he was sleeping on the porch. There was an extra bed or a couch where he could have slept, but that's not his style. He rolled out his sleeping bag on the porch and spent a sleepless night with my dog licking his face, curling up on top of him (the dog weighs ninety-some pounds) and just plain bothering him. So, after an experience like that, you'd think he'd opt for the bed or couch the next night. Nope, not Ludenhouter. He slept out on the porch with the dog every night. He thrives on that kind of stuff as material for his non-stop wisecracks like, "Well Thor, are you ready to hit the sack?" or "Thor and I didn't sleep so well last night, he had bad breath, and I kept trying to get him out of my face."

One night we were having hamburgers, and Ludenhouter proclaimed he was on some sort of health kick. He did a bunch of stretching exercises; rode his bike three miles to town, bought some chicken breasts and grilled one for himself. The next morning he got up, went through the stretching routine again, went on a cardiovascular bike ride and came back with a four pound bag of glazed jelly doughnuts. He ate about half of them and proclaimed they were on his diet. I could go on and on, as this type of behavior is normal for Ludenhouter. The scary part is, after spending a week with him, I began to accept him as being normal.

Ludenhouter wanted to SCUBA dive with us. We gave him a crash course in the canal, and took him out to the reef one day. The only equipment we had that fit him belongs to my daughter, so we all got a big kick out of suiting Ludenhouter up in a hot pink dive skin complete with hot pink, mask, fins, buoyancy vest, boots, gloves and tank. If you think this bothered Ludenhouter, think again. He loved it!

He spent the entire afternoon pretending to be one of those fellows who are described as being a little light in the loafers. His commentary included stuff like, "I'm not afraid of sharks, but I hope there isn't a big stud grouper down there!"

There, I've appeased Ludenhouter. He's a student at Michigan State, and has the Ledger sent to him there. I can see him now, running up and down the halls of his dorm screaming, "I made the newspaper! I made the newspaper!"

I have to admit that stooping to write about Mike Lindhout is self-serving on my part. He threatened to T.P. my house again if I didn't.

TESTICULAR SELF-EXAMINATION

Last week we discussed the importance of annual mammograms and the need for monthly self breast examination. Proving once again that we are not sexist, this week we are going to review testicular self-examination.

Testicular cancer usually affects young men from age 15 to 35. Fortunately, testicular cancer treatment has been very successful if the disease is detected at an early stage. An individual is at increased risk of developing testicular cancer if one or both of the testes have not fully descended into the scrotum at an early age. Men with a completely undescended testicle that is located in the abdomen have an especially high risk of developing testicular cancer. Men who have had family members with testicular cancer are also at increased risk.

The first sign of testicular cancer is usually a painless nodule or lump on a testis. Occasionally, a dull ache, swelling or heaviness may occur. Your physician will usually examine your testes during a physical exam but you are urged to perform monthly self-examinations. At this time there are no recommended diagnostic tests like mammogram in the female that are available to men.

The testicular self-examination should be done after a shower or bath when the scrotum is relaxed and the testes are hanging low. Gently roll the testes between the thumb and first two fingers feeling for any hard lumps or fixed areas. The testicles should be freely moveable within the scrotum. By performing this examination monthly you will become more familiar with the normal contour of the testes. If you are unable to palpate one of the testicles because of a previous infection or a history of an undescended testicle, you should be examined by your physician.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry (Psalm 34:15).

"Mama, are you listening?" my children often asked when they wanted to tell me something. Two chubby hands would reach up, take hold of my face, and turn my head around until my eyes looked straight into the ones of the questioning child.

"Yes, I'm listening," I would assure the children.

When we pray we are sometimes prone to wonder if our Heavenly Father hears our petitions. Is He listening? Is Thine ears are open to my cries. I thank Thee for the privilege and the blessing of prayer. I trust Thee to hear me and to answer my petitions according to Thy will. Amen.

... The Father waits to hear every prayer of faith, to give us whatsoever we will, and whatsoever we ask in Jesus' name.... If there is one thing I think the Church needs to learn, it is that God means prayer to have an answer, and that it hath not entered into the heart of man to conceive what God will do for His child who gives himself to believe that His prayer will be heard.

"He is listening."

Prayer: Gracious Heavenly Father, I know Thine eyes are open to my needs and

Lowell's longest running business has new owner

Following 19 years of loyal employment at Hahn Hardware, Lowell's Bob Ford took the next step on the first day of January in 1993.

He purchased the Hahn Hardware from its owner, Donna Hahn. "I've known for at least 10 years this is what I wanted,"

Ford said. "While Gurney (Hahn) and I never officially talked about it, it was something that we both knew and understood."

Donna Hahn (the widow of Gurney Hahn) chose to sell the business, following her husband's death last year. Ford plans on retaining the Hahn touch that attracted customers. "Gurney never put himself above anybody. Customers always felt he was just another normal person," Ford said. "I'm sure Gurney would want me to continue the type of service he provided each customer. He'd do anything for his customers."

Ford said he will employ two students to work afternoons and he will fill the rest of the hours. "I've wanted this long enough, that I'm willing to work the hours at least for a while," he explains.

The new owner of Lowell's longest running business (over 40 years), is anxious to get started.

Hahn Hardware has always carried a lot of industry based items. Ford describes them as items you don't find in just any hardware store. "Hahn Hardware has always had the reputation of carrying hard to find things. It's always been here for the do-it-yourselfer."

hardware business has come from the enjoyment of getting people what they want.

One noticeable change since Ford's takeover has been the hours. Hahn Hardware is now open Monday thru Saturday from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Czarnopis serves as chairman of Northwood's automotive show

Toby Czarnopis, a senior from Lowell, served as personnel chairman of the Automotive Aftermarket Show section of Northwood University's 1992 Automotive Industry Show. This 29th annual event was held Oct. 16, 17 and 18 on the Midland campus and attracted thousands of spectators from Michigan and the automotive industry.

Czarnopis is the son of Toby M. Czarnopis of Lowell.

The auto show, billed as the largest outdoor auto show in the nation, is administered, promoted and conducted entirely by Northwood students representing many of the college's business management curriculums, including automotive marketing, automotive aftermarket management, advertising, management, and hotel/restaurant management.

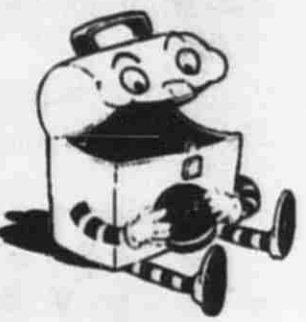

This year fifty-four display teams organized 825 new domestic and imported cars, trucks, recreational vehicles, conversion vans, motorcycles, Nascars, and experimental concept and specialty vehicles for display. Automotive aftermarket students arranged an extensive automotive aftermarket exhibition in the school's sports complex.

Northwood University is a private, accredited college specializing in managerial and entrepreneurial education offering two and four year degrees in a variety of enterprise fields. A new Executive MBA program has been added to offer the widest array of free market-based degrees in management and entrepreneurship available anywhere. The college emphasizes the importance of free enterprise and is dedicated to the preservation of the free market and the important relationship between business and the arts.

Northwood operates three residential campuses in Michigan, Florida and Texas; the Margaret Chase Smith Library Center in Skowhegan, Maine; twenty four External Plan of Study extension centers throughout the United States; and international study programs abroad, principally in Europe.

Dunn's 19 points spark Red Arrows past Spartans

After losing three very competitive O-K White Conference matches, Lowell took the fight out of Sparta early Friday night and then coasted to a 70-65 win. The Red Arrows pressed intensely, full and half court, on the undersized Spartans in building a 23-9 first quarter advantage. "We didn't want to sit back and give Sparta any ideas that it could beat us," Beachler said. "So we went after them with intensity and never let them get in the game." The great start enabled Beachler to mix and match different player combinations. "Thus I got to give everyone some playing time," Beachler said. The Red Arrows played without the services of Torrey Gemmill and Nate Jones. "Without Jones in there we're a quicker team," Beachler said. That bodes well for their full and half court pressure. With Jones out, Lowell's Chad Dunn was used in the low post. "Things worked out well. Chad scored inside and I think we got some better perimeter play from other players," Beachler said. One of those players was George Ponchaud. He tallied 13 points. Many of those were off lay-ups and steals. Dunn led the way with 19 points. Dunn sprained his ankle midway through the fourth quarter. The severity of the sprain wasn't known. David Jones tallied eight points, Leigh Summers scored eight, James Manion added seven, and Matt Craig and Chuck Mesler each added six points apiece. Lowell out-rebounded Sparta 35-21. Dunn led the Arrows in rebounds with eight. Lowell's junior varsity was a 74-54 winner. A 20-2 second quarter Wyoming Park spurt lifted the Vikings to a 65-62 O-K Whited victory over Lowell. With the score tied 10-10 after one period of play, the Vikings exploded out of the gate to start the second quarter, out-scoring the Red Arrows by 18 and opening up a 30-12 advantage. Lowell scored the last six points of the half to pull within 12 at 30-18. The Vikings controlled the better part of four quarters before their lead began to deteriorate. "We played good basketball for three quarters and five minutes. Then, through substitutions, we lost momentum and quit playing smart basketball," said Wyoming Park coach Kelly McEwen. "Give Lowell credit, they played very hard the last two minutes and made a game of it. We are glad to win. We've lost a couple games like this." The Red Arrows lacked defensive intensity and strength on the boards, according to its coach. "Wyoming Park out-rebounded us, and out-hustled us," Lowell coach Phil Beachler said. "Pank also did a nice job defending us." Lowell's coach said he felt the two week holiday layoff hurt his club. "I would have preferred to play a game over the holidays." Park was led by balance scoring. Jeremy Blok tallied a team-high 15 points, Rich Wohlford added 14 and Adam Faber netted 13. Lowell got a game-high 24 points from Chad Dunn. "Dunn is a scorer, but I was pleased with our defensive effort against him," McEwen said. Leigh Summers was the only other Red Arrow to reach double figures, he netted 13 points. "We were fortunate foul trouble took Summers out of the flow of the game," McEwen said.

Lowell's Chad Dunn poured in 19 points in leading Lowell to a 70-65 win.

League coaches sing Summers' praises

Lowell exchange student Leigh Summers is very brief and succinct when asked where his natural basketball talents and understanding of the game comes from?

"My Dad," he explains. Many might read that and think it is said out of love and respect for the 17-year old's father.

No, his natural basketball talents and understanding of the game are rooted to his father, Ross Summers, for two entirely different reasons. His father was a back injury away from making the Australian National team. Secondly, Leigh's coach for the 12 years prior to coming to Lowell, has been his father.

"I've been playing basketball since the age of five," Summers recalls. "My father has been my coach for eight to 10 of those years."

Summers says he would like to play in the National Basketball League in Australia when he is finished with school. Only players who play in the State Basketball League are asked to. "I was playing in the State League two weeks prior to coming to Lowell," he said.

The National Basketball League (NBL) season is only 24 weeks long. Summers says he also plans on teaching physical education during that time. "Australian players play basketball and hold another job."

Summers adds that players in the State Basketball League get paid $40 for a victory and $20 for a loss. He says players in the NBL receive anywhere from $20,000 to $80,000 for their play.

His play at point guard for Lowell this year has helped elevate the Red Arrows to a legitimate competitor in the O-K White.

Not only has he drawn accolades from Lowell's coach, Phil Beachler, but also from opposing O-K White coaches. "He's the best point guard to come through Lowell in quite some time," Beachler says. "Leigh sees the floor and anticipates what his teammates are going to and should do."

Beachler points to Summers' work ethic and hustle as his biggest assets. "He makes the players around him smarter."

Another big adjustment for Leigh is his adjustment to a different team and different abilities.

"In the United States there is more pressure on players to do well. The crowds are bigger also," he explains.

When the 17-year old from Perth, Western Australia, was asked to critique his play, he points to passing as a strength and ball handling as an area that needs improvement.

Opposing coaches may not agree. "Leigh is quick, physical, can handle the ball and can shoot the three pointer, that's a tough combination to guard," Northview coach Mike Diebold says. "I think his quickness off the dribble is helped by his good crossover dribble."

Both Diebold and Forest Hills Central coach Mark Stevens agree he is one of the better point guards to come through Lowell.

"He's definitely in the upper echelon of the league," Stevens said. "He shoots, penetrates and handles the ball well. With Summers and Dunn in the backcourt, Lowell has a pretty good tandem."

Following Wyoming Park's 65-62 win over Lowell, Park coach Kelly McEwen asked if Leigh had any brothers that might be interested in coming to Park to play.

"Leigh has size, quickness and strength and that is hard to come by," McEwen said. "He's a smart player who can shoot and penetrate."

With the exception of Michael Dumas, McEwen said Summers is the best point guard to come through Lowell in his eight years at Wyoming Park. "Dumas may not have had Summers' basketball skills, but Mike was a great competitor with great athletic ability."

Beachler may have summed up Summers' playing ability best when he explained that after a game Summers may have eight turnovers next to his name, but five of those come off passes that should have been turned into a layup by one of his teammates.

Lowell spikers drop league opener to Park

Lacking what Lowell volleyball coach Laurie Kuna called any flow or rhythm, the Red Arrow girls opened the season with one win and two defeats.

One of those two defeats was a crucial O-K White drubbing handed to them by Wyoming Park, 15-3, 15-0.

The second defeat came at the hands of Saranac, 15-1, 15-7.

The Red Arrows only victory was against Cedar Springs, Lowell rallied from a first set defeat, 0-15, to win the next two sets 15-7, 15-13.

"We must learn to step up and take the ball," Kuna emphasized. "The girls must also take it upon themselves for some internal motivation. That doesn't always come from the coach."

The absence of a serve spelled doom for the Red Arrows against Wyoming Park.

"You can't continue to give good teams the opportunity to beat you," Kuna emphasized. "Poor serving does just that."

Lowell did not record one ace, while Park was led by Marian Bentley's three aces. Rolanda Jones led the Vikings in assists with 12. Kerry Nugent led Lowell with six.

Leslie Wagner had a game-high nine kills for Park. Erin Nausieda led Lowell with three.

The lone bright spot was the passing Sarah Hall did in the backcourt," Kuna said.

In its win against Cedar Springs, Lowell was charged by the outstanding serving of Nausieda. "Erin served points six through 15 for us in game two," Kuna said. "She put on a serving clinic." Nausieda finished with 13 service points and four aces.

Tousignant contributed with five service points and four kills. Jodi Bishop tallied seven assists.

Kuna also pointed to the hitting of Alison Kissinger and Stacy Tousignant.

In its two-set loss to Saranac, Kuna described Lowell's play as lackadaisical. "We played better in the second game but we need to work harder in practice on our fundamentals."

Lowell's next conference game will be at home against Sparta on Jan. 21.

The senior Lowell guard scored a team-high 24 points in the Red Arrows' 65-62 defeat at Wyoming Park. Lowell's leading scorer netted a team-high 19 points and grabbed eight rebounds in Lowell's 70-65 win over Sparta Friday night.

Chris Miedema

Lowell's 171 pounder was 4-0 at the Grandville Invitational. "Chris is really going after people," Lowell coach Gary Rivers said. In O-K White Conference action against Northview, Miedema delivered one of eight team pins. At the Hastings Invitational, Miedema went 3-1 and finished third.

Lesley Murphy

In Lowell's season opener against Creston, Murphy placed in three events, the vault, balance beam, and in the floor exercise. Against Creston and Mona Shores, Lesley posted regional qualifying scores in the floor exercise. The sophomore needs to repeat that feat two more times this season to qualify for the regional in the floor exercise event.

Red Arrow wrestlers dump Northview, 66-6

Chris Kamphuis works toward a 15-8 decision over his Northview counterpart.

Jason DesJarden records one of Lowell's eight pins against Northview.

Just two league matches into the season and O-K White wrestling novelists have already marked down the date of Jan. 21.

That's the night Lowell and Sparta will once again determine league supremacy.

Sparta has breezed past Zeeland and Wyoming Park, while Lowell has manhandled Forest Hills Central and Northview.

In Lowell's 66-6 thumping of Northview, the Red Arrows recorded eight pins. Lowell won 12 of the 13 matches. The only loss came when Jeff Thon pinned Lowell's Sean Smith at 1:14 of the first period.

Lowell's light in weight wrestlers, but lightweights by no means, opened the match with three consecutive pins.

Scott Swanson, 103, pinned Ken Padilla at 3:45 of the first period. Freshman Dan Spicer followed with a pin at 57 seconds of the first period against Northview's Brian VanAnancem. Mike Rottier, 119, then pinned Brandon Jacob at 3:35 of the second period, staking Lowell to an 18-0 lead.

That lead increased to 21-0 when Doug Weeks decisioned Aaron Jacobs at 125 pounds, 13-6.

Justin Anes, 130, upped the advantage to 27-0 with a first period pin at 27 seconds against Bob Scribner.

Chris Kamphuis, 135, pinned a 15-8 loss on Wildcat Matt Prinz.

Following a Northview forfeit at 140 pounds, Lowell's Jason DesJarden pinned Jason Squires at 26 seconds of the first period, giving Lowell an insurmountable 42-0 lead.

Cory Kirkbride won by forfeit at 152 pounds. Rich Stouffer and Chris Miedema, 160 and 171 pounds respectively, tallied pins against their Northview counterparts increasing the lead to 60-0.

At heavyweight, Chris Nauta posted a pin at 1:38 of the first period.

"Three of our big kids dropped down a weight so they could certify," Rivers said. "Despite that they still wrestled well. Our boys can't let up, we must continue to wrestle well."

Hastings Invitational

That's what the Red Arrows continued to do over the weekend, as Lowell came away with the Hastings Invitational championship.

"We have never wrestled well at Hastings since we started going there," Rivers said. "I'm very happy with what I saw at Hastings over the weekend. The boys are impressing people."

Lowell's 33-year mentor said he believes the Grandville Invitational helped his squad mature much earlier than it has in recent years.

"The boys are going into matches with a mind set of what they want to do and they are getting it done," Rivers said.

Of Lowell's 13 wrestlers, 12 metaled.

Lowell finished the LH Lamb Tournament with 194-1/2 points. They were followed by Charlotte 111; Grand Ledge 108; Lakewood 100-1/2; Battle Creek Central 83; Middleville 78; Greenville 65; Hastings 61; and Battle Creek, -Harper Creek and Ionia 26.

The Red Arrows claimed three firsts. Heavyweight Chris Nauta (3-0) recorded a take down with 16 seconds left in the third period to defeat Robert Young of Greenville 10-8. "Young is a good wrestler," Rivers remarked.

Kirkbride, wrestling at 152, finished 3-0 defeating Darrell Slaughter of Greenville in the championship with a pin at 3:40 of the second period.

Rich Stouffer, 160, defeated his cousin Chris Foster of Middleville, 6-0 in the championship round.

Tallying seconds were Scott Swanson (103), Jim Inman (140) and Jason DesJarden (145).

Swanson (2-1) lost the title match to Greenville's Dirk Peterman. He was pinned at 3:15 of the second period.

Inman suffered a shoulder injury and thus had to default the title match. Rivers said the severity of the injury was not known. "We were not going to take any chances so we pulled him from the final match," Rivers explains.

DesJarden, 2-1, lost to Brad Thayer of Hastings 4-2 in overtime.

Coming off the mat in third were Justin Anes, 130 (3-1); Chris Miedema, 171 (3-1); and Sean Smith, 189 (3-1).

Finishing fourth were Chris Kamphuis, 135; Dan Spicer, 112; and Mike Rottier, 119.

Lowell wrestles Wyoming Park on Thursday. Due to exam week it's a special starting time of 5:30 p.m.

Lowell High School offers students intramural program

There were at least three times as many boys who went out for basketball this year, but only 36 were selected to play.

Last year a group of concerned parents looked at the interscholastic sport activities being offered, as compared to the intramural offerings for all students. What they found was a stark contrast.

Monday night, the Lowell Board of Education approved the employment of Jack Ogle as the high school intramural program director.

"It's an opportunity to open up the gym for students for four hours on Saturday morning," Lowell High School Principal Jim DeWier said.

Students were polled to see what activities they would like available to them. The top three activities listed were volleyball, aerobics and basketball.

A budget of $1,500 has been set aside to pay the director and to cover the cost of the program.

The program will begin the second semester of the 1992-93 school year.

Lowell gymnasts open season with victory over Creston

Lesley Murphy and Liz Arnold both have helped the Red Arrow gymnastic squad get off to a solid start in the O-K Rainbow Conference in 1993.

Their backgrounds, which led them into the 1993 gymnastic season, are completely different, but in the first full week of the gymnastic season both Murphy and Arnold showed a similar ability of leading by example.

Both Red Arrows placed in three of four events in the season-opening home match against Creston, a match Lowell won 99.5-94.45.

Murphy, sophomore (second year out), placed in the vault, the balance beam, and in the floor exercise.

"Lesley did a great job for us, especially in the floor exercise," Lowell coach Annette Pearson said. "She tried hard, works hard and keeps improving."

Arnold, a junior (first year out), placed in the vault, on the uneven bars, and in the floor exercise.

"Liz has never come out for gymnastics before, but she has some talent. She takes herself seriously, has confidence and doesn't seem to get nervous," Pearson said. "She could show a lot of improvement in a short amount of time."

In the vault exercise, Creston had the top score with a 7.65. Murphy finished third at 6.85 and Arnold was fourth with a mark of 6.7.

"The scores were lower than I thought they would be. The girls were a little rusty," Pearson said.

Lowell took four of the top six spots on the uneven bars. Arnold claimed top honors at 6.2. Anna Lietzke was third at 5.75, Sara Kropf was fourth at 5.70 and Betsy Elzinga was fifth with a score of 5.65.

"This is the hardest event. We need to work on our strength and endurance," Pearson explains.

Creston had the top score on the balance beam with a tally of 6.15. Lowell's Amy Pullen was fourth at 5.5 and Murphy was sixth at 5.30. "We're a little behind on the balance beam. What's encouraging though, is I have a lot of girls who want to participate in the event," Pearson said.

Murphy's mark of 7.8 was good enough for a first in the floor exercise. It was also a regional qualifying time. If Murphy can attain a mark of 7.8 or higher three more times this season she will qualify for the regional in the floor exercise.

"I was really happy with the team performance in the floor exercise," Pearson said. "It looks as if that will be our strongest event. We still need to work on our tumbling and dancing."

Mona Shores 133.95
Lowell 99.15

The defending state champion, Mona Shores, showed why, as it outclassed the visiting Red Arrows.

Heather Schneller took first in two events, and Becky Swelinis and Sarah Flermoen each took a first in one event.

Swelinis tallied a top score of 8.85 on the vault. Lesley Murphy was the only Red Arrow to place. She finished fifth with a 7.45.

Schneller was first on the uneven bars with a mark of 8.90.

Lowell's top score was handed in by Anna Lietzke at 5.35, however, no Red Arrow placed.

Schneller was first on the beam with a mark of 7.95. Teammate Tina Voss tied her for first.

Lowell's top score was handed in by Murphy and Kropf at 6.35. Lowell received a surprise performance by freshman Jamie Denton. She scored a 5.15. "Jamie never performed on the beam before. More importantly she didn't fall."

Flermoen took top honors in the floor exercise with a mark of 9.55. Lowell's Murphy tallied an 8.55 for a third place finish and Sara Kropf tallied a mark of 8.05. For Murphy, it marked her second regional qualifying score in the floor exercise. For Kropf it was her first.

"The girls seemed a little more relaxed," Pearson said.
