Incumbents Win!

••• Incumbents Jack Lane and Ann Mulder were the winners of four-year board of education terms in Monday's election.

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

By nearly a 2-to-1 margin, school board incumbents Jack Lane and Ann Mulder were voted to four more years on the Lowell School Board.

For Lane, this will mark the third four-year term he has served in the Lowell School District.

It will be Mulder's first four-year term. She earned enough votes in a '94 election to serve out Charlie Kohler's final year of a four-year term.

Only about six percent (approximately 800) of the registered voters turned out to vote on Monday. The unofficial results did not include the 35 absentee ballots.

Mulder tallied an election -high 564 votes. Lane was 36 votes in back of Mulder with 528.

Muldergamered 288 votes in Precinct I, 33 in Precinct II, and 243 in Precinct III.

Lane tallied 274 in Precinct I, 33 in Precinct II, and 221 in Precinct III.

••• Amanda Tichelaar died in a weekend crash, her close friend Amberlei Harrall rests in fair condition at Butterworth Hospital

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Amberlei Harrall is resting comfortably, but in fair condition at Butterworth Hospital following a late Saturday evening, early Sunday morning crash in Grand Rapids.

"She knows everybody, but she sleeps a lot," her brother Brad Harrall confers. "Her body has been trauma-

"Her body has been trauma- Amanda Tichelaar tized and she is recovering from a bad concussion. Doctors say it is normal for patients like this to sleep a lot. It takes a while for the body to heal."

While doctors are sure Harrall's young 17-year-old body will heal in time, what they, parents and friends are not sure of is how Amberlei will react and then recover from the news that her best friend Amanda Tichelaar was killed from injuries incurred in the accident.

Harrall and her sister had been in a wedding Saturday, and Tichelaar babysat for Harrall's sister.

The girls were supposed to spend the night at the sister's home in Grand Rapids, but decided to drive to Harrall's house on Murray Lake.

Harrall, driving east on Knapp Street, stopped at the first set of southbound lights on the East Beltline. She then, according to the Kent County Sheriff's Department, proceeded but failed to yield at the blinking set of red lights that followed.

A work reunion is scheduled this weekend for Creekside Kingdom

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Maintenance will keep it together.

Sounds like it could be a Captain and Tenille song from the 70's.

In reality it's the charge behind a Creekside Kingdom work reunion scheduled for June 17 & 18.

"Creekside Kingdom is a great playground that will last 25 years," said work reunion coordinator Tina Phillips. "However, without proper maintenance it won't last that long."

So bring your sander, your rake, your pitch fork, your wheel barrel, your disc grinder, your cordless screw- driver, your extension cord, your safety glasses and be reunited with some ole familiar working buddies.

Work is scheduled to begin at approximately 9:30 a.m.on Creekside, cont'd. pg. 8

On behalf of the Lowell Senior Parents and the Class of '95, we would like to express our thanks for the tremendous support we received for the Senior All Night Party. Because the Class of '95 was the first class to graduate from the new high school, the theme of the event was "Firsts." The class reminisced about other firsts: steps, bicycle, date, dance, car. etc.

The evening began with pizza and bowling at the Eastbrook Lanes. From there they went to the Michigan Athletic Club for swimming, raquetball, tennis, basketball, a chance in the casino (with lots of prizes), making a video Fun Flick, and more food. The last stop was Larkin's Other Place with dancing, more prizes and breakfast.

We would like to thank the following merchants, organizations, churches, foundations, and individuals that donated to this great event. You have helped us provide our young adults with a fun and safe celebration of an important milestone in

Amended 1994-95 budget and proposed 1995-96 budget approved

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

From its original budget in June of 1994 to an amended budget in January to the final amended budget of the 1994-95 school year, Lowell Schools experienced a favorable swing in its deficit of approximately $701,000.

The 1994-95 school year began with a budget deficit of $728,024. In January it stood at $296,306. Business manger Dale Folkert presented an amended budget with a deficit of $27,114 at Monday night's board meeting.

Folkert indicated that the deficit reduction of approxito do with the reduction in the budget as anything. mately $270,000 since January came about in part because of a reduction in MESSA costs and the bidding out of insurance also a savings of roughly $70,000 of what was budgeted for utilities as well as $75,000 budgeted for early retirement was not used.

"We were helped by the second warmest winter on record,"

Folkert indicated. "People in all the buildings carefully watched what and how they were spending money."

Lowell experienced increased revenues in the areas of miscellaneous (+$81,000) and incoming transfers and other transactions (+$120,000).

Reductions in expenditures were enjoyed in the areas of instruction/employment benefits, general administration, and support services/employee benefits.

Folkert also noted Lowell Schools ended the year with a fund balance of $1.98 million. It was suggested to Folkert that overestimating had as much

"In the areas of insurance and utilities, we did overesti-

Folkert indicated that he did not believe such a large swing in the deficit would occur again. "I'm trying to be as accurate as I can, but I'm still being conservative."

"We were helped by the second warmest winter on record," Lowell Schools business manager Dale Folkert indicated in talking about what went into lowering the budget deficit. "We were also helped by a reduction in MESSA costs and by bidding out

The proposed 1995-96 budget calls for a budget deficit of $53,953. Revenues for the year are projected at $17,852,960. Expenditures are projected at $17,906,913.

The proposed fund balance for the 1995-96 school year is $1.98 million.

Bladder infection or cystitis is an inflammation or infection of the bladder lining caused by bacteria. Approximately one half of women ages 14-61 years of age will have at least one bladder infection in their lifetime. Pain and burning during urination are probably the most common symptoms. Some women experience urgency or the sensation of need to urinate frequently, and the sensation of incomplete bladder emptying. There may be lower abdominal pain or cramping. Blood may be present in the urine.

For those of you who love books and whose favorite place is a library—have I got a book for you!

Sarah Stewart has written a loving memorial to her friend

Starting from birth, Stewart poetically introduces her audience to a "reader of readers." I've never known anyone like Mary Elizabeth Brown, but there are people like her, I have no and read herself to sleep."

A book is a great comfort or for small businesses to grow by changing the way they are rewarder, or quieter or incentive, don't you think? Well, Mary Elizabeth Brown even vacuumed with a book in hand. Wait until you see the comical drawings that Stewart's husband, > Diagnosis can be made with a urinalysis and urine culture. Some vaginitis and vaginal infections may cause similar symptoms as a bladder infection.

> Treatment involves antibiotic therapy as directed by your doctor. Follow-up urinalysis is important in women who are pregnant and those who have frequent or recurrent infections.

> About one-fourth of women will experience a second bladder infection within six months. Women with multiple recurrent bladder infections and no underlying urinary tract abnormality may receive long-term preventative antibiotic treatment. Women who experience infections after intercourse may receive preventative antibiotic therapy. These women should also empty their bladders immediately following intercourse, and drink plenty of water. If lubricant is needed during intercourse, use a water soluble product, such as K-Y lubricating jelly. Other preventative measures are as follows: avoid caffeine, drink eight glasses of water every day, avoid feminine hygiene spray or deodorants, wipe from front to rear, wear cotton crotch underwear, and avoid postponing urination.

To a book lover this poetic, whimsical memorial will be a treasure. For children it will be a delight, and a good example of the loving tribute of a friendship, as well as gratefulness for the privilege of having books available at a library.

Thom Ellis returns to Lowell Showboat for benefit, June 24th

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

As a young 14 year old, his parents took him to the Grand

That visit helped forever root Thom Ellis to the core of traditional country music.

"My love for country music is based from Waylon Jennings," Ellis recants, via the telephone, from his home in Nashville.

The traditional country music is stuff by which artists are still identified - s omething Ellis believes is missing from the new country which has swept the nation the past couple of vears.

"There is nobody to identify with the music. None of the music is clearly identified with any of the artists," Ellis said. "There are a few exceptions such as the Joe Diffys and Faith Hills."

Ellis has not had that one big hit yet. A few years ago that would have stuck in his crawl. Today, he is able to view it with different spin.

"There are male artists after male artists out there, and if things don't happen after that first single, they are gone," Ellis says. "Had I found temporary success a couple of years ago, it probably would have come around to bite me in the tail."

For the past six months Ellis has been writing and singing with a group called "Alavez" - which is Spanish for beginning together.

That beginning, new of sorts, has given Ellis a freshness in his excitement.

"We're writing and singing about stuff that makes sense that comes from the heart," Ellis explains. "We're writing with a conviction. You can't fake stuff that comes from the heart."

The boy with Lowell roots describes it as a southwestern sound. "It's Marshall Tucker, it's Santanna, it's country," Ellis said. "It's an alternative, another format from the music they are playing now."

CREEKSIDE KINGDOM PLAYGROUND TEMPORARY CLOSING

The music Ellis talks about can be heard at the benefit concert on June 24th at the Showboat Amphitheatre.

One of the songs is entitled "Border." "It's about an El Paso, Texas, migrant risking his life to get across the border and a patrol officer risking his life to stop him and how the two eventually meet," Ellis explains.

Another song Ellis and the band will perform is "Trails of Tears," which relates to the farming community.

Thom Ellis Opening for Ellis will be Solid Ground. General admission tickets are $10.

Tickets can be purchased by calling 897-8280 or by stopping at the Flat River Antique Mall or Lowell Chamber of Commerce office.

The chairman coordinator Dale Triplett said as always, volunteers are needed. "Companies may also buy tickets in blocks if they so desire."

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell Schools and its bus mechanics reached a two-year contract agreement.

The agreement falls within the parameters set by the board personnel committee.

The two-year contract calls for a salary increase of 1.9 percent in 1995-96 and an increase of 2.35 for the 1996-97 school year.

Lowell will also provide its mechanics with VSPII vision insurance which is in alignment with all other fulltime school employees.

Lowell Schools will reimburse them $100 a year for vision expenses and the cost for VSPII will be $150 a year.

Mike Matlosz, interim director of personnel/community services, indicated that the bus mechanics are not part of any union bargaining group.

It is his reasonable conversation which mostly frightens us in a madman.

Lowell couple brings back more than just money from Las Vegas

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Editor's Note: At the request of the Lowell couple, of which this story is about, the fictitious names of Mr. and Mrs. X are being used due to the nature of their work.

It was their first trip to Las Vegas.

It was their first expedition to a casino to gamble.

"It was great fun," said Mr. X. Mrs. X adds, "I had a good time but I lost everything."

She lost the green stuff we call money, but they experienced the highest of highs during their six-day stay in Las Vegas.

The high was not a product from an extraordinary gambling experience or even from a Wayne Newton show.

It came one April evening on their drive to dinner. They came to a stop at a corner when Mrs. X noticed that a man was lying on the ground in a parking lot.

The registered nurse of 10 years mentioned that maybe they should stop and see if they could help.

"I'm not sure that a registered nurse is obliged to stop and help, but at least I would like to think that a registered nurse would stop," Mrs. X said. "Although, not all registered nurses are trained in emergency."

After identifying who she was and that she was a registered nurse who also had six years of experience as an EMT, Mrs. X quickly diagnosed that the gentleman lying on the ground had suffered a heart attack.

"I felt for a pulse and didn't get one. He had quit breathing," she said.

Mr. X, who had been an ambulance attendant for eight years and receives CPR training every year, initiated respiration. A nurses aide, who was also on the scene, began compressions. Also helping with compressions was an off-duty county sheriff from South Bend, IN.

After approximately 10 minutes, the paramedics arrived. After shocking the victim twice, they got a pulse. From there, a tube was inserted and an IV was started. He was then transported to a Las Vegas hospital.

The X's received a letter from Nancy Sundell, Syracuse, New York, after returning from vacation. The letter stated Ernest Sundrell was in the Las Vegas hospital for 16 days and then air ambulanced home. It stated he incurred minor brain damage from the heart attack. He is currently undergoing rehabilitation and doctors believe he will recover almost completely.

After a month-and-a-half stay in a rehabilitation facility, Sundell went home on Monday, June 5. "Ernest received some brain damage. However, he is able to talk and walks with the aid of a cane," Nancy Sundell said. "Our doctor said he believes Ernest will be close to normal within a year."

Nancy Sundell said she was kneeling beside her husband after he had collapsed from a heart attack when the X's stopped to help. "It's wonderful to know that people will still stop and help," she said.

The experience is something the Sundells and the Xs will never forget. "It was an exhilarating experience," Mrs. X said. "What could top it? It's not something we will forget."

When the X's left Sundell that evening, he was in critical condition and on life support.

"When I received the letter from the Sundrells, I was afraid to open it," Mrs. X said. "But it had good news and was just a lovely letter."

The X's said such an emergency brings out a raw energy which allows them to focus and shut out everything else around them. "You do what you've been trained to do," Mr. X said.

With the X's on their vacation were Tony and Connie Stencel. "Tony said to us afterwards, 'Wow, I didn't know you guys could do that.""

A gentleman recovering from a heart attack in Syracuse, New York, is mighty grateful they could.

"The letter I sent to them thanked them for stopping and helping Ernest. We are very thankful and lucky they stopped," Nancy Sundell said. "Ernest would have died otherwise."
