Waning interest forces St. Mary's School to close its doors

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

For the first time in 42 years St. Mary's Elementary School will not be offering classes for Lowell parochial students.

Father George Fekete said the decision to discontinue classes wasn't finalized until late this summer.

"Last year we had a decline in enrollment, but we hoped to still offer classes this year," said Fekete. "But through the summer we realized we would not be able to get enough students to enroll. It's just not practical or feasible to have classes this year."

St. Mary's opened its doors on Sept. 11, 1953 to students in grades K-6.

Fekete said at the beginning of the 1994-95 school year, the enrollment was 69 students. However, by the end of the year only 58 remained.

"The financial aspect was a tremendous consideration, but ultimately it was a lack of interest by parents and decline in enrollment that led to our decision," said Fekete.

Fekete said the majority of students who left either transferred to St. Patrick's, located 11 miles from St. Mary's in Vergennes Township, or to a public school.

Interest may have waned this year, but Fekete and church officials hope to offer classes sometime in the near future.

"This area is growing fast and if young parents move here, interest in attending St. Mary's may return," said Fekete.

Fekete said discussions have taken place regarding the best way to offer classes, but nothing definite has been determined.

"We've talked about the possibility of offering just a kindergarten class next year and then see how that goes," said Fekete. "If that peaks more interest in the school then we may think about adding another class the following year and so on."

Fekete's optimism is enhanced by the number of three- and four-year-old children amongst his parishioners.

"We looked at the numbers and found that there are 20 four-year-olds and 31 three-year-olds in our parish. If those numbers remain or grow then we could possibly have classes next year," he said.

LAAC workshops created to bring out the artistic talent in all

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

Cold weather is just around the corner so instead of spending time in front of the television, why not try expressing your artistic talents?

The Lowell Area Arts Council (LAAC) is starting its fall workshops with activities for the entire family.

The workshops begin with a collage workshop for children hosted by this month's featured artist Nadine Miller.

From 8 a.m. until noon on Sept. 20 and from 3:30-5 p.m. on Sept. 27, children can create their own wearable art.

Miller, in conjunction with her exhibit made possible by a grant from the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, will help children create t-shirts by exploring the technique of collage.

Children can bring in family photographs, magazine clippings or other objects, and Miller will help them cut up the images and rearrange them on a t-shirt.

The cost for the collage workshop is $20.

Lowell students who would like to expand their artistic abilities can do so at a workshop conducted by Sandy Bartlett beginning Oct. 5.

Bartlett will work with children ages 8-12 at a new and exciting drawing workshop for beginning artists.

This workshop will be conducted everyday after school from 3:30-5 p.m. and runs for six weeks.

All materials are included in a fee of $65 for LAAC members and $75 for non-members.

A familiar face to the LAAC and West Michigan area will conduct a two-day workshop for beginning students.

Watercolorist Dick Zayac will lecture and demonstrate

Kent County receives $65,000 anti-drug grant

The continuing battle against drug abuse in Kent County will be enhanced by a state grant of more than $65 thousand for anti-drug programs, education and enforcement, announced Senate Majority Leader Dick Posthumus (R-Alto) on Aug. 30.

"This grant is good news for the residents of Kent County," remarked Posthumus. "When even one Kent County resident is caught in the tight grip of drug abuse, the whole county suffers. The grant will allow us to continue our all-out war on drugs and drug addiction."

The Kent County Office of Community Corrections is being awarded funding from the Byrne Memorial Formula Grant Program in the amount of $65,037. The money will be spent in the Zero Tolerance Offender Treatment program of Project Rehab in Grand Rapids for drug testing and treatment of previous offenders.

This is part of a $15.2 million state-wide program from the Governor's Office of Drug Control Policy aimed at cracking down on drug abuse and trafficking.

75 applicants chosen for the Fallasburg Park Festival

The artists chosen for the Lowell Area Arts Council's 27th Annual Fallasburg Fall Festival represent a wide variety of art and craft skills. Seventy-five applicants were chosen from those who applied to the jury for the annual festival to be held Sept. 23 and 24 at Fallasburg Park.

The artists will display the products which are always popular at the annual art show: jewelry, pottery, woodworking, painting and drawing, photography, weaving and stitching, dried plantlife, glassware, baskets, and leather goods. In addition the festival will feature artists working with turn-of-the-century crafts which fit the theme of the festival. There will be handmade shoes, marquetry, blacksmithing, scrimshaw, wooden toys, handmade soap, dipped candles, paper-making, and Shaker boxes.

Most of the artists are from Michigan, although one artist each is from Indiana, Ohio, and Wisconsin. The artists represent all areas of the Lower-Peninsula from Indian River to Harbor Springs, Kalamazoo to Ann Arbor, and Holland to Frankenmuth. As might be assumed, however, almost half of the artists call the greater Grand Rapids area home.

Nine booths feature local artists. They are Mary Kingsbury and Paul Filler from Ada; Pam Hemmes and Karen Bileth from Greenville; and Jody Haybarker, Susan O'Connell, Mary Kulema, The Lowell Showboat Garden Club, and Doug and Sandy Lindhout of Lowell.

In addition to the artwork, festival visitors can enjoy food booths, entertainment on the outdoor stage, a free children's craft area, turn-of-the-century demonstrations, antique autos, and a philatelic display at the Fallasburg Post Office featuring an original cancellation designed by Mike Pelz. The annual quilt raffle is a highlighting of each festival, and the value of each raffle ticket has been greatly increased by the donation of artwork by many of the festival artists. The quilt has been designed by Dolores Dey and features an impressionist's view of the covered bridge. Those who might be unfortunate enough to miss the festival due to conflicts can buy raffle tickets before the festival from LAAC members or at the Lowell Art Center. If at all possible, however, everyone should save some time during the last full weekend in September to enjoy the Fallasburg Fall Festival.

Homespun Devotions

By Pauline Spray

... to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God (Ephesians 3:19).

A long, long time ago Aunt Hulda wrote in my childhood autograph book: "I love you little. I love you lots. I love you enough to fill ten pots. Nine tin buckets. Eight tin pans. Five wash kettles and six dish pans."

As youngsters we plucked off the daisy petals to the rhyme, "He loves me. He loves me not. He loves me. He loves me not."

Love. Measured love. With God there is no "He loves me little." He always loves lots, for He knows no "little" love. His love was so compelling it forced Him to give the greatest gift of all time. Our human minds cannot comprehend the magnitude of His sacrificial offering.

But how do we feel toward Him? As individuals, how do we respond to His love? Do we love God little? Much? Enough to work for Him? Do we love Him more than temporal wealth or esteem? More than popularity? More than pleasure? Can we afford to give less than our best when He has done so much for us? Do we love God "little or lots?"

Prayer: My Jesus, help me to love Thee more and more. I am not content to love Thee little. I want to love Thee lots. Increase my love. Amen.

My Jesus, I love Thee; I know Thou art mine; For Thee all the follies of sin I resign. My gracious Redeemer, my Saviour art Thou; If ever I loved Thee, my Jesus, 'tis now.

Farm Fest provides fun and food for a good cause

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

In the midst of this season's numerous festivals one can claim that one stands apart from the rest.

It's not the amount of entertainment or attractions that makes this one popular - it is popular for what it gives back to the community.

On Sept. 16 the Franciscan Life Process Center will conduct its seventh annual "Farm Fest."

The annual "Farm Fest" is staged on a 212-acre farm, 11650 Downes Rd. in Lowell, which is home to the center and the Franciscan Sisters of the Eucharist.

The festival's main goal is to raise funds so those in need can take advantage of the center's various programs.

"We've got a lot of interest in our programs and we don't ever want to turn somebody away because they can't afford it," said Sister Colleen Ann Nagle, F.S.E., director of the Franciscan Life Process Center.

Nagle said all proceeds raised are put into the center's scholarship fund, which provides funds for people with a low or moderate income who can't afford to participate in the programs.

The center's programs range from preschool and counseling services to retreats and parenting classes.

The center also provides music education, music therapy, and collaborative care for the elderly.

One of the center's most popular programs is the basis for its existence.

The Franciscan Sisters moved to Lowell 23 years ago with the idea of providing programs that would get people back in touch with nature.

The center's Integrated Learning Experiences program successfully fulfills their intentions.

The learning experiences program is an educational and therapeutic program consisting of instruction and work with animals or the land.

"Part of our dream in setting up the center was to conduct it on a large farm," said Nagle. "We believe getting in touch with the elementary process of nature will help people get in touch with their lives."

Last year's Farm Fest raised $20,000 and Nagle hopes to meet or exceed that amount this year.

"Last year we attracted more than 200 people, but this year I believe we can exceed that number," said Nagle.

Farm Fest will kick off at 5:30 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres and a silent auction.

The auction will feature more than 100 items donated from area residents and businesses. The list of items available includes fine jewelry, an autographed West Michigan Whitecaps baseball, tickets to an opening act from the Broadway Theatre Guild and much more.

After the silent auction patrons will be treated to a prime rib dinner with various delectable treats.

While eating, visitors can enjoy the sounds of "Beats Settin' Home," a bluegrass band.

"The event is ideal for adults, couples, single people or business groups. It gives them a chance to contribute to those in need," said Nagle.

cozy corner

by Roger Brown

The last year or so has been tough on this old boy. I'm not complaining. It has been a good year, and for the most part, a fun year. But, I can't remember a more tumultuous time in my life. We sold our cottage and moved our junk out of there. We sold our house and moved all the stuff accumulated over twenty-some years of marriage. My daughter has moved from Lowell to Ann Arbor to Lowell to East Lansing. My son has moved from Lowell to Grand Rapids to Lowell and on to a two-year hitch in the Army. He's currently stationed in Kansas. Whew!

That may sound like a lot, but I'm not finished. My wife has been living and working in the Florida Keys for well over two years. We'd been renting a house there and shopping for a home. A little over a year ago we purchased a twenty year old place that had basically been designed as the main floor of a two-story structure. The second level was never completed, so we hooked up with an architect, contractor, bankers, etc. and went to work. Down there, any building project involves more governmental agencies than I ever knew existed. All the locals said I was nuts to attempt such a project. They weren't telling me anything new. That is, the part about me being nuts is something I've known for a long, long time.

The builder started back in January, and finished about a month ago. My wife lived on the main floor while a complete house was constructed over the top of her. I have to admit she's borne the brunt of this project. But, it wasn't any cakewalk for me either. Between the phone, FAX, FedEx and Delta Airlines, I've been pretty involved in the project even though I'm 1,600 miles away. I have grown to loathe modern technology.

The big move was about a month ago. I'd actually been looking forward to it. Hauling the last of the household goods down there meant I was nearing the end of this year of hell. I rented a moving truck and a trailer to transport our household furnishings and an old MGB I've had for years. A friend of my daughter's has been helping me with all this hoopla. He's sorta been on a payroll, sorta helping out of friendship, sorta working for "bennies" like trips to the Keys, plane rides and the occasional use of my old Harley. Mostly he works for food. I keep him fed when he's working for me, and that's no small part of his wages. He and my dog Thor made the trip with the moving truck. I'm afraid the drive would have put me over the edge.

I flew down a couple of days later. After a week of grueling work in sweltering heat, we were pretty well settled in. I was getting ready to breathe a huge sigh of relief as the time for my departure drew nearer. Unfortunately, the fates had different ideas. A hurricane threatened the Keys, warnings were posted, and all airline flights were cancelled. We spent a day battenning down the hatches in preparation for the storm. Fortunately, the system tracked north and the warnings were lifted. We put away all the storm shutters and booked flights for home a day late. With two days of cancelled air traffic in the system with us, I had a bad feeling about the flight from the start. My big sigh of relief was just going to have to wait.

75 YEARS AGO IN THE LEDGER - SEPT. 2, 1920

The community picnic at the west side park last Tuesday was a success, with games for children and adults, singing, picnic and demonstrations by Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls. The dangerous south approach to the upper Grand River

Things went bad from the start. The airline wouldn't let my dog fly home because it was three degrees warmer than the maximum temperature they allow pets in the cargo hold. I threw a bit of a hissy fit, but found that rules are rules. Thor was air freighted home a few days later. The poor guy just doesn't have much luck flying. You may recall the article I wrote about him being stranded in Cincinnati. He'll probably bite me if I ever try to put him in that travel kennel again. Can't say I'd blame him.

After weather problems, equipment problems, transfer to a different airline, re-routing and even an instance where there was no pilot available to fly our plane, we arrived home at three o'clock in the morning. I had a huge amount of catching up to do at work the next few days, so my big sigh of relief had to be delayed.

The rest of August seemed terribly frazzled. Work was hectic with lots of people on vacation, both at my shop and among my accounts. There were a lot of loose ends to tie up regarding the new house. I did take a long weekend to go fishing with a buddy, but it seemed like I had to peddle so hard to get a couple extra days off there wasn't much rest and relaxation involved.

Yesterday was Labor Day. I slept in until nearly nine o'clock. I puttered around at the airport. I read a little Hemingway. I played a few games of washers with my daughter, her boyfriend and my helper over the past months. We all pitched in and made a nice dinner. I talked to my son for awhile on the phone. I ate some ice cream. I didn't do anything very fast. I think I finally breathed that huge sigh of relief. It was very fitting that it happened on Labor Day.

HELPING KIDS LEARN BETTER

One thing we know right up front is that educational funding and resources are limited. And BO, we try to do as much as possible with what we have. We try to be efficient. That used to mean setting up to teach all kids the same things in the same way.

But children are as different as snowflakes. Each person has a unique blend of intelligences or ways in which he or she understands the world - linguistic, logical, mathematical, spatial, musical, or physical. We use these skills to understand others and to understand ourselves. Now that we understand this, we cannot treat all kids as if their learning styles were the same.

Experts at Harvard Graduate School of Education tell us that asking children to imitate actions or memorize facts is of little use when there is no broad context or relevance for those facts or actions in a kid's world. That 8 where families come in.

Families can help their children learn and understand better in the following ways.

-Get to know your children's learning styles, strengths and interests. The goal is to be able to communicate in a manner the child can grasp.

-Use every learning opportunity available to your family. This includes school-sponsored lessons and clubs, community programs, sports teams, and private instructors.

-Encourage a variety of activities, some of which a child does alone and some with a group or team.

-Encourage kids to stick with their choices for long enough to gain skill and understanding.

-Encourage mentorships. These could be with a teacher to learn more about a specific subject or with a grandparent (to learn how to bake from scratch or to appreciate fly fishing).

-Visit schools. Talk with teachers. Attend classes. Ask people you respect about what they know about your child's school.

-Accept responsibility for being your children's most important role models.

-Help kids see a variety of people from background different than your own. Visit museums, factories, festivals, hospitals, nature preserves, and city halls. Give children a perspective on their own lives with family stories, photos, their own artwork, and discussion about their interests.

At school, we value the uniqueness of each child. We have some skills to help each one learn in his or her own way. We believe that each child can learn. The resources will always be limited, but with the help of parents, grandparents, community members, and businesses, school staff can help make the learning process effective and fun for kids.

SANDPAPER SKIN
Kerstosis Pilaris is a common skin disorder, which affects the skin on the backs of the upper arms, anterior thighs or buttocks. These are the tiny white firm bumps which feel dry and like sandpaper. To many individuals, these bumps are unsightly, cause concern, and embarrassment. These bumps are about the size of the head of a straightpin, and usually occur at the opening of hair follicles. The white solid material can be scooped out with the fingernails. There is no itching associated with the bumps.

The cause of Kerstosis Pilaris is unknown. It tends to be more common in individuals with skin allergies and within families. Secondary infection and inflammation may occur with scratching, tight-fitting clothing or with abrasive cleansing. Generally it is a harmless skin disorder, with no specific treatment or cure.

Some general treatment recommended includes mild soap, cleansing, soaking tub baths, gentle soft brush to remove plugs, or using lubricating ointments or creams may help reduce the rough feeling skin.

Capital Commentary
By Dick Posthumus

For the past couple of weeks, Michigan schools have been kicking off a new school year. And while some students are anxious about starting new classes with different teachers and classmates, far too many youngsters must worry about another year of possible violence in school hallways and classrooms.

Throughout the past several years, reports of violence in our schools have escalated to horrifying proportions. Every day, children bring more than 135,000 guns into schools across the nation. In fact, in the first quarter of 1994, 108 Michigan children were expelled for violent acts — 73 of which involved guns.

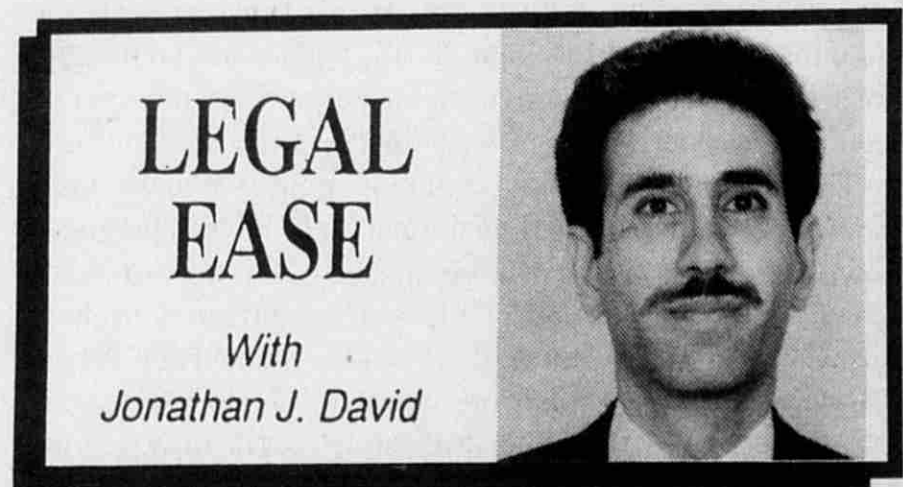

Last fall, the Michigan Legislature passed and the Governor signed a bill to reverse this violent tide. Commonly referred to as the Gun-Free Schools law, it is designed to make classrooms safe for students who want to learn and for teachers doing their jobs. Unfortunately, many media sources have misinterpreted the law or failed to give the public the whole story. In light of that, I'd like to take this opportunity to outline what the law does and why it's good public policy.

Under this law, when a student in the fifth grade or lower comes to school with a gun or other dangerous weapon, he or she will be expelled for 90 days. If a student in the sixth grade or higher does the same, he or she will be expelled for 180 days. In both cases, the parent or legal guardian is allowed to petition the school board to reinstate the student at the completion of the mandatory expulsion period.

However, the law isn't black and white. To accommodate unique circumstances, the school board may choose not to expel the offending student if the student shows: 1) the weapon wasn't intended for use as a weapon, 2) he or she didn't know he or she possessed a weapon, 3) he or she didn't know the weapon was a dangerous weapon, or 4) he or she possessed the weapon at the suggestion, request, expressed permission or direction of school or police authorities.

In addition, the law allows expelled students to attend special public schools established for alternative education. And while many districts already have such schools, the current school code provides each school district the authority and funding to establish an alternative education program to fit

LEGAL EASE

With Jonathan J. David

DEAR JONATHAN - When my husband died a few years ago, I put my daughter's name on everything I own, including my car, so that at my death my entire estate would go to her without being probated. After she receives all of my assets she has agreed to divide them equally with her brother and sister. My problem is that my car insurance agent told me that it was unwise to have her name on the title of my car from a liability perspective. Since my daughter does not drive the car, I do not understand my agent's concern. Can you please explain?

JONATHANSAYS - Yes. Under Michigan law, the owner of a vehicle is liable for any injury caused by the negligent operation of the vehicle when the vehicle is being driven with the owner's consent or knowledge.

Since your daughter's name is on the title, she is a joint owner of the car and she obviously knows that the car is being driven by you on a regular basis. Therefore, if you were to get the district's and students' needs. Without question, giving local officials the decision-making power is a better approach than having the state mandate a one-size-fits-all solution.

So as you can see, the Gun-Free Schools legislation isn't as unforgiving or inflexible as it has been portrayed. Rather, it's a tough law designed to crack down on crime in schools and make our classrooms safe for children who want to learn.

Clearly, kids and guns do not belong together. But when they do mix, teachers and other students are put at risk, and that's a situation we can't tolerate.

into an accident and it was determined that you were negligent, your daughter, as a joint owner, could be held liable along with you for the damages incurred.

Because of the potential liability that a joint owner of a vehicle may incur, it is recommended that vehicles are not titled in joint names.

Having answered your specific question, I have some comments regarding how you have titled your assets. You indicated that you put your daughter's name on your assets for the purpose of avoiding probate. In order for this to work, however, the title to the asset must indicate that you and your daughter are either "joint tenants with full rights of survivorship," "joint tenants," or "joint tenants and not tenants in common." If you did not use one of the above phrases when re-titling your assets, then your assets would be deemed to be owned between you and your daughter as tenants in common and there would be no survivorship right in those assets. This means that upon your death, your interest in your assets as a tenant in common would pass to your heirs after those assets are probated. Obviously, this is just what you are trying to avoid.

Even if you used the proper language when re-titling your assets so that they will avoid probate upon your death, I do not recommend this method as a way of avoiding probate. First of all, by re-titling the assets in your name and your daughter's name, you have in effect made a gift to your daughter and depending upon the value of the assets, you may have unknow-

Local optometrist elected to Michigan Optometric Association

Dr. David G. Durkee of Lowell has been elected a trustee on the board of directors of the Michigan Optometric Association. The election came during the association's 99th Annual Convention at the Boyne Highlands Inn, Harbor Springs, MI.

Also, Dr. Durkee's wife, Corrie, was elected a trustee on the board of the Michigan Affiliate of the American Foundation for Vision Awareness (AFVA), the association's auxiliary organization, during the convention.

Dr. Durkee, a 1981 graduate of the Ferris State University College of Optometry, Big Rapids, MI, is a past president of the West Michigan Optometric Association and previously served the state association as chair of the Career Guidance and Assistance to Graduates Committee.

On the state association board, Dr. Durkee will serve as trustee in charge of the Communications Division which includes committees on awards, public information, publications, speakers and the Vision USA free eye care program for low income persons.

ingly incurred gift taxes on the transfer. Also, upon your death, even though your daughter has promised to split all of those assets with your other children, she will be under no legal obligation to do so. This is because at the time of your death, those assets will be titled in her name alone.

Further, if any of those assets are income producing, then while those assets are in her name she may incur income taxes which she'll have to report on her income tax returns.

As you can see, although properly re-titling assets with another individual can help you avoid probate, it can create more problems than it is worth. A better way to accomplish your objective of avoiding probate without any of the above-stated disadvantages, is for you to create a revocable living trust and then transfer all of your assets to that trust. By doing so, you are not giving up control of any of the assets because you would be your own trustee while you are alive and capable. At the time of your death, the assets would avoid probate since they are owned by the trust and not you individually. Also, in the trust you could direct the trustee to divide all of your assets equally among your three children. This would accomplish your objective of providing for your children equally without creating any tax problems for your daughter and without having to rely on your daughter's promise to split the assets at your death.

In order to avoid probate with the use of a revocable living trust, you want to make sure that all of your assets which are currently titled in your name and your daughter's name are re-titled in the name of the trust. Re-titling your vehicle in the name of the trust, however, would not be necessary if at the time of your death there are no other assets which need to be probated. In Michigan, all vehicles owned by an individual which do not exceed a total of $60,000 in value can be transferred through the Secretary of State's office without having to be probated first, so long as the decedent has no other assets that need to be probated. As discussed earlier, however, I would re-title that vehicle in your name alone.

I recommend that you meet with an estate planning attorney who can discuss in more depth the attributes of a revocable living trust and how it could benefit you. Good luck.

A. 2240 W. MAIN - BEACON SIGN CO. ON BEHALF

OF NAPA AUTO PARTS - VARIANCE TO ALLOW POLE SIGN - SET PUBLIC HEARING (9/5). Beacon Sign Co. has requested a variance to allow a pole sign on behalf of NAPA Auto Parts for its new premises located at 2240 W. Main. A variance was petitioned because the total square footage of signage allowed has been exceeded. Currently, there are two wall signs totalling 189 square feet. A total of 160 square feet is permitted for this site.

Though the pole sign proposed is smaller than the maximum allowed (45.2 s.f. proposed, 50 s.f. maximum), the overall square footage has exceeded the maximum. Thus, a pole sign can not be allowed without a variance.

IT WAS MOVED BY HODGES and seconded by MAATMAN to set a public hearing date for Tuesday, September 5 to consider a request from Beacon Sign Co. on behalf of NAPA Auto Parts for a variance to allow 189 square feet of signage where 160 square feet is permitted at 2240 W. Main.

Item #3. REQUEST TO PURCHASE THE POLICE DETECTIVE VEHICLE FOR THE AMOUNT OF THE LEASE RESIDUAL VALUE. Police Chief James Valentine stated that the 1991 Chevrolet Lumina has been leased as a detective unit for the past four years. Originally, the car was utilized as part of a county wide drug enforcement unit. Valentine explained the vehicle is currently used by the Officer/Investigator and officers who attend training sessions and court.

Valentine stated that the vehicle has less than 50,000 miles. He felt the car could be utilized for approximately 4 - 5 years. He noted that with the knowledge of the City Mechanic Tom Hartman, much preventative maintenance can be performed on the car. Valentine wished to purchase the vehicle utilizing drug forfeiture funds.

The residual value of the car at the conclusion of the lease (August 24, 1995) is $3,838.20 plus 10 percent for a total buy out of $4,222.10.

IT WAS MOVED BY GREEN and seconded by THOMPSON to purchase the 1991 Chevrolet Lumina as a detective/utility vehicle in the amount of the lease residual value of $4,222.10 from GMAC Finance Services with funds to be paid from the drug for feiture account.

(Shawano, Wis.) providing the truck body and Woodland International supplying the chassis for $89,256 was low bid. Fire Chief Frank Martin stated that the cost will be split between the City, Lowell Township and Vergennes Township equally.

Councilmember Hodges questioned if the townships were aware of this purchase. Martin responded yes. Further, he stated that Woodland International would allow $1,000 for the trade-in of the 1970 vehicle. In discussions with Lowell Township Supervisor John Timpson, Martin said that the truck is worth between $5,000-$6000.

IT WAS MOVED BY HODGES and seconded by GREEN to purchase a new fire/rescue truck with 3-D Manufacturing, Inc. providing the truck body and Woodland International supplying the chassis for $89,256.

In seeking bids from vendors, it was determined that the two PC's to be purchased would be compatible with the recently acquired Compaq. The system will be interchangeable.

Also, the attachments for the communications connection for the county would be purchased through Computer Products and Resources of Kent County. The following quotes were received through the efforts of Doris Titcombe, receptionist/computer specialist from three vendors:

Item #7. CITIZEN COMMENTS. Carol Bardwell, owner of Roll Away (805 E. Main) expressed to the City Council for their assistance with her business through her seven years in Lowell. She will be moving to Florida. Also, Mrs. Bardwell introduced Robert Van Noller, the new owner of Roll Away. Van Noller stated he was from Grand Rapids and is looking forward to moving to the Lowell area.

Item #8. COUNCIL COMMENTS. Councilmember Thompson said that brush is beginning to grow over the stop sign at the intersections of King and Jackson and James and Grindle. Director of Public Works Art Gall stated that he would investigate the situation.

Mayor Maatman noted that Chatham Street has weeds growing between the curb and the road. Gall said in the past there were discussions about using spray for the weeds in the City sweeper. However, there were concerns with the overspray this would cause. Mayor Maatman felt a direct spray of weed killer should do the job. Councilmember Hodges stated that if the weeds are on public property, a licensed person must apply the spray. Mayor Maatman felt the City should take some action regarding this situation.

Councilmember Hodges felt the Department of Public Works performed well overlooking the City's sidewalk projects. He noted that the angled sidewalk at Richard's Park looked good.

Councilmember Green stated that Cedar Springs Fence was to install the poles for the backstop and fence at Recreation Park. Green mentioned that the City set up a snow fence until the backstop arrives. He noted that the Parks and Recreation Commission was in agreement regarding a grandstand which includes a cement slab with a pole building arrangement. Also, there will be siding or fencing on the back of the building to block the view and noise of the adjacent Michigan Wire plant. Green said that the new construction will provide the straight grandstand or possibly have a curved grand stand with angles following the backstop. An updated report for the Council will be given regarding the grandstand after the September 9th Parks and Recreation Commission meeting.

City Manager Pasquale said that the new grandstand would have four portable bleachers (five rows each). Green stated plans include picnic tables and a childrens play area.

Item #9. CITY MANAGER'S REPORT. City Manager Pasquale reported on the following:

A. The Council is requested to ratify the appointment of James Valentine as Officer Delegate and Art Gall as Officer Alternate to the MERS 1995 annual meeting.

Jeff Altoft of Light and Power and Charlene McNab were selected to be Employee Delegate and Alternate respectfully.

AWANA Club celebrates silver anniversary at Alton Bible Church

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

For 25 years the AWANA Club at the Alton Bible Church has taught the youth of Lowell about the bible, while still making it fun.

At 8 p.m. on Sept. 13 the church will celebrate its silver anniversary and kick off the new year with several special events.

The Cornerstone College Airport will honor the occasion with a candy fly-by dropping of candy with silver wrappers, and Mountain Man Ministries will add a distinct outdoors flavor to the event.

In 1970 the Alton Bible Church, a member of the Independent Fundamental Churches of America (IFCA), put in motion training for an AWANA Club and the following year it became a realization.

Al Matthews, Commander of the Alton AWANA Club, said his groups silver anniversary is special for several reasons.

First, the success of the Alton AWANA Club blazed a trail for other awana clubs in the area and was also one of the first clubs in the world.

"The Awana's have clubs across the world and each has a specific charter number," said Matthews. "Right now those numbers are in the 10,000s. Our charter number is 251."

The AWANA Club provides a religious learning environment for preschool kids to sixth graders.

Their emphasis is to teach bible verses to children and still make the meeting as fun as possible.

"We do games, have special speakers, and bring in puppets to teach children," said Matthews.

Matthews said his club had 150 kids at its inception in 1971 and has been able to maintain a similar number despite the presence of additional clubs in Lowell.

"Right now we have about 100 clubbers," said Matthews. "One thing we're noticing with some of the kids is that their parents once attended this club."

The second generation "clubbers" will be met by two of the club's original founders.

Gallery artist Xerox's art abilities to earn solo show

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

When you imagine creating art, what comes to mind? A paintbrush, some paint, an easel, or some sculpturing tool may be the most common response, but what about a Xerox copying machine?

JV girls open season with two victories

The Lowell JV basketball team got its season off to a great start with two wins in the first week of play. On Tuesday, the Red Arrows defeated Belding 41-32. Lisa Posthumus scored 11 points, Nicole Arnett netted eight points and Susan Rozman had eight points. Liz Rooker claimed a game-high nine rebounds.

On Thursday, the JV's defeated Wyoming Rogers 51-36. Posthumus again led scoring with 19 points while Rooker added 10. Arnett had a game-high 10 rebounds and Angie Jones came up with a game-high six steals on defense. Stacey Napierkowski and Courtney Compeau played an important part in this win with great efforts coming off the bench.

In The Service

David A. Bulthuis, son of Corliss Bulthuis of Wyoming, and Bruce Bulthuis of Lowell, enlisted in the United States Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP), according to TSgt Ronald Holcomb, Air Force recruiter.

Bulthuis is a 1995 graduate of Lowell High School and is scheduled for enlistment in the Regular Air Force on January 18, 1996. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course near San Antonio, Texas, he is scheduled to receive technical training in the mechanical area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

world. One artist who has embraced the machine as an art form will have her work on display at the Lowell Area Arts Center beginning Sept. 17.

Artist Nadine Miller will showcase her "Collage and Other Stories" work at a reception from 1:30-3:30 p.m. that Sunday. It will be the main attraction at the gallery until Oct. 29.

Miller began using a Xerox machine in 1982 after viewing an exhibit by Nam June Paik.

At the time Paik used television sets as art in his exhibit. "It was at that time that I realized I didn't need to stick to the traditional mediums. I knew then I could use the electronic medium," said Miller.

Miller's interest in using a copy machine stemmed from her desire to use multiples in her work. Miller uses her own photographs, or pictures from magazines, to cut up, rearrange, and put back together again. Once they're put back together Miller photocopies the arrangement to create patterns of repeated motifs.

"It's a lot like collages where you cut up paper and glue it back together again, but I use a Xerox machine," said Miller.

The show at the LAAC will highlight two of Miller's newest and biggest pieces. Thanks to a 1994 grant from the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, Miller was able to work on wall size pieces. And thanks to the LAAC she has a place to show them.

Miller's first show at the LAAC is also the first solo show she has ever had.

"I'm not nervous now, but I suppose I will be once the day gets closer," she said.

Her introduction to the LAAC came several years ago at the Fallsburg Fall Festival and from the center's reputation. "As an artist, once you hear about a gallery that supports the arts as much as Lowell does, you can't wait to become a part of it," said Miller. "David (Davis, director of the LAAC) and the council value an artist and respond to the artistic community as well as their own."

Visitors to the center can expect to see multiple images of the human body, said Miller. And although there is some nudity Miller said it's not pornographic.

"I use the body as a form.

Miller will continue her work with the LAAC once the show is hung by conducting two workshops for children.

The workshops, scheduled for Sept. 20 and 27, will allow children to create their own t-shirts using family photographs or magazine pictures. The Arts Center Gallery is located at 149 S. Hudson in Lowell. Hours are from 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and 1:30-4:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Red Arrow soccer team overcomes injuries in wins against Lakewood and Greenville

By Thad Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell soccer underclassmen were pressed into duty when key varsity starters were injured in the first full week of the high school soccer season.

Despite a slew of injuries to key starters, Lowell got a great effort off its bench from underclassmen, finishing the week at 2-1.

"We played pretty well despite the injuries," Lowell coach Dave Wydock said. "The players off the bench were up to the task. They showed a lot of heart."

Lowell lost Matt Carstens for two weeks to a broken arm which he suffered in the Red Arrows' 3-0 win over Lakewood.

In a non-conference tussle with Greenville, Lowell's Ryan O'Dell strained a knee and won't return to the starting lineup until Thursday against Northview (Sept. 7).

Sophomore Ben Cowen banged his knee up in practice and is scheduled to return to action this week.

Stepping up to fill in the holes against Lakewood were sophomore Matt Maatman and from the junior varsity, freshman Nick Blough.

"Matt is an aggressive, fast, physical player," Wydock said. "He's showing signs that he can be an excellent player."

Maatman scored Lowell's third and final goal of the game. Blough helped Lowell break on top in the first half against Lakewood with his first varsity goal of his young career.

"Nick did a fantastic job for us. I was skeptical about bringing him up to the varsity, but he worked his tail off and seems to have a head for the game," Wydock said. "He has good ball skills and he's quick and fast."

Lowell's first goal of the second half was recorded by Ben Kohler.

"The defense was terrific. Our midfield players (Dan Spicer, Matt Carstens, up until he broke his arm, and Brandon Hamilton) did a good job of winning the ball," Wydock said. "We took Lakewood right out of its game."

In its 2-1 win over Greenville, Lowell needed a goal by Matt Carstens with one minute to play in the second overtime to pull out its first victory of the season.

"We did not play well against the Yellowjackets until the overtime. Then the boys did what they had to," Wydock said. "Overall, I was not happy with our play."

Lowell's only goal in regulation was delivered by Ryan O'Dell.

In its first game of the year, Lowell trailed Tri Unity 3-0 at the half.

The Red Arrows put together a dominating second half, but its rally fell short by the count of 3-2.

"It's a game we should have won," Wydock said. "We came out flat in the first half, but the boys picked it up and played well in the second half. We had four shots hit the post in the final five minutes."

Lowell's goals came on a throw in by Ben Cowen. Kohler took the throw in and pushed it past Tri Unity's goalie.

Carstens used a perfect header play to score Lowell's second goal. "Matt played exceptionally well," Wydock said.

Lowell's coach said the excellent defensive play is being led by Denny Briggs and Ryan Teelander. "They are doing an outstanding job for us," Wydock said.

Lowell netters find success in matches against Union and Rogers

By Thad Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

It was an auspicious start to the 1995 high school tennis season for the Lowell Red Arrows.

Lowell's close losses last year to Grand Rapids Union and Wyoming Rogers improved with a win and a tie last week.

The Red Arrows dominated an undermanned Union team in defeating it 6-1. Lowell tied Rogers 4-4.

"I thought these were teams we could beat last year and we didn't," Lowell tennis coach Wendy Ackermann said. "I am happy that this year we did. The girls played well."

In its season opener against Union, Lowell swept the abbreviated flight play at singles. Union did not field third and fourth singles players.

Lowell's Cheryl Anderson straight set Betsy Scheiffer 6-0, 6-3. "Cheryl's serving was strong."

At second singles, Beth Hoag bested Jenny Sage 6-0, 6-1. "Beth was in control. She placed her shots and forced her opponent to make mistakes," Ackermann said.

Lowell's Stephanie Stormzand and Melissa Malone combined strong net play and solid ground strokes as they outlasted Union's Katie Miller and Amy Krasinski in number one doubles play 7-5, 6-3.

Union's Leslie Green and Jessica Miller upended Lowell's Liz Lonick and Amy Meiste 6-4, 6-2.

In third doubles, Lowell's Lindsay Gustafson and Nicole Linkfield straight set Barb Bechtel and Kerri Snow 6-3, 6-0.

In an evenly contested match with Rogers, Lowell split its four singles matches and its four doubles matches with the Golden Hawks.

"It was a good match all around, by two evenly matched teams," Ackermann said. "Many of the matches were close and could have gone either way."

Rogers Mandy Dubridge was better than Anderson by the count of 6-4, 6-1. Hoag, second singles, controlled Holly Harper 6-1, 6-3. "Hoag's consistent shot-making kept Harper moving," Ackermann said.

Malone upended Rogers'

Debbie Droule 6-4, 6-1. "Melissa did a nice job of being persistent. She never let Droule get in control," Ackermann said.

Rogers' Ann Lidy defeated Lowell's Amy Snell in a competitive two-set match 7-5, 6-4.

In doubles play Rogers won the top two flights.

Brooke Rosenberg and Jessica Lackey defeated Stormzand and Becky Thomas 6-1, 6-3 in number one doubles.

Beth Hopfinger and Sara Dickey took three sets to beat Lowell's Meiste and Lonick 6-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Gustafson and Linfield handled Angie Puller and Luanna Kole 6-4, 6-2 in third doubles.

"They controlled the match and most of the games," Ackermann said.

Lowell's fourth doubles team of Laurie Roth and Diana Fick straight set Heather Vane

Linksters have rough start before coming around in full swing for easy victory

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

The Lowell boys golf team has yet to hit its stride in the early season, but coach Jack Ogle said their improved play should continue.

The Red Arrow linksters opened the season last Tuesday with a loss against Wyoming Rogers. Despite a good effort from senior Scott Smith, the Red Arrows wound up losing 184-190.

The two teams played on the back nine of the Deer Run Golf Course in Lowell.

Smith shot a 42 to take home medalist honors. His effort was backed up by a 48 from Rob Cindric, and a 49 from Adam Scheid.

The Red Arrows followed their loss early in the week with an impressive win over Belding High School 176-205.

The young squad played the front nine at Deer Run and was led once again by Smith.

Smith was the event's medalist with a score of 39. His closest competition came from teammate Cindric who shot a 41.

and Amber Kausar 6-2, 6-2. "They did a nice job at the net. They kept Rogers off balance."

Other Red Arrows to place were Scheid with a 46 and freshman Jim Gilchrist with an even 50.

The Red Arrows may have split their matches in the opening week of play, but Ogle feels their time is yet to come.

"We showed improvement from Tuesday to Thursday," said Ogle. "We still have a couple of guys who are trying to play themselves into shape, so once they get into the full swing of things we should perform well."

Ogle said his young team needs to get some more matches under their belt before they can play with confidence.

"We have a lot of freshmen who need to get used to playing against this kind of competition. They are young, but they're learning," he said.

The Red Arrow freshmen will get an early lesson as league play opens this week and the competition intensifies.

The Red Arrows' next match is a triangular meet with league powers East Grand Rapids and Forest Hills Central.

Red Arrow football team controls both fronts in posting a season-opening shutout over Ionia

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

A stifling defense and overpowering running game propelled Lowell to lopsided victory over Ionia.

Coming into the contest Red Arrow coach Phil Christensen felt his team could control the game, but never thought their 33-0 season opening victory would be so one sided.

"I don't think we really dominated the line of scrimmage like the score reflects, but I was happy with the way both the defense and offense performed," said Christensen.

Lowell opened the scoring by marching down the field on their first possession with a balanced running attack.

The work load was carried by quarterback Jeff Catlin, who rushed for 31 yards on the opening drive, including two key runs on third down. Catlin scored Lowell's first touchdown with a spinning and hard fought five yard run. Catlin led all rushers with 80 yards for the game and Lowell amassed 298 total rushing yards for the night.

"We have six strong running backs who can all run well and they showed it tonight," said Christensen.

When the Red Arrow offense wasn't pounding the ball downfield for scores, the defense was shutting out Ionia's offense.

Midway through the second quarter the Bulldogs had two excellent opportunities to draw even with Lowell, but the defense wouldn't allow it.

On Lowell's second and third offense possession of the first half, the offense fumbled once and threw an interception, which caused some concern for the coaching staff.

"They really had two great chances to get in the game, but our defense shut them down on eight consecutive plays," said Christensen.

Following Lowell's first turnover Ionia took over from the 25-yard line. But after grinding out one first down, their only first down in the first half, Lowell stuffed the scoring drive.

"We got lucky on one play (a sure touchdown pass dropped by Ionia's Jim Olsen), but after that it was our defense that shined," said Christensen. "I knew coming into the season it would be a quick and aggressive bunch and they played like it in the second quarter."

After the defense held Ionia, the offense came back on the field, but fumbled the ball back to Ionia on the nine yard line.

"We definitely have to work on not putting the ball on the ground. We got away with it today, but if we do that during the rest of the season it will come back to hurt us," said Christensen.

In this contest the defense wasn't going to allow anything to hurt them.

Lowell pushed back Ionia's running game on three successive plays, following the fumble, and forced their receivers out of bounds on a pass in the end zone to preserve the shutout.

The second quarter events proved to be Ionia's only real scoring threat for the game.

Following the defensive stand the Red Arrow offense took the field again and this time reeled off an impressive march downfield that led to a 23-yard touchdown run by tailback Aron Kennedy.

Kennedy's score put Lowell ahead 14-0 by halftime.

The second half was the same as the first with the Red Arrow offense consistently marching downfield for easy scores. Catlin led the second half scoring with three touchdown runs and Andy Smith provided Lowell with its final touchdown run in the fourth quarter.

Except for late in the fourth quarter the Lowell defense continued its domination with Ionia never threatening to score.

Christensen was happy with his teams opening game effort, but said there is still room to improve.

"Coming into the game I wasn't exactly sure what the offense would do," said Christensen. "They played

Lowell cross country teams sweep Middleville; swept by Caledonia

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

The Red Arrows cross country team put their best foot forward and came away with a split in the opening meet last week.

The meet pitted Lowell against state power Caledonia and Middleville. The Red Arrows ran past Middleville but fell short to the Caledonia squad.

"We knew it was going to be tough. When you face a power like Caledonia you just try to run your best time and hope it's good enough," said coach Tom Harper.

The boys' squad fell to Caledonia by a score of 21-34 and beat Middleville 16-46.

The lowest score wins in a cross country meet and a perfect score is 15 points, which reflects the finishing places of individual runners.

Ryan Wittenbach led Lowell with a third place finish of 17:38.

Caledonia's top runner finished with a 17:11.

Other Red Arrows to place were Jon Dean, sixth, with an 18:15; Matt Inman, seventh, an 18:18; Casey Harper, eighth, an 18:29 and Jon Mull, 10th, with an 18:49.

With the same times the Red Arrows outdistanced their counterparts from Middleville.

The Red Arrows almost swept the standings to record their 16 points.

Wittenbach finished first; Dean, second; Inman, third; Harper, fourth; and Mull, sixth.

Dismal shooting leads to tough opening week for girl hoopsters

By Marc Popiolek
Contributing Writer

When the Red Arrows basketball team lost several key players from last year's squad, coach Ken Akers knew this year would be a learning experience, but he couldn't prepare for the shooting effort of this year's team.

The Red Arrows opened the season last week with a disappointing 58-42 loss to rival Belding.

Lowell was led in scoring by senior Tammy Stauffer with 19, but that was the lone bright spot in the team's shooting.

Lowell was led in scoring by senior Tammy Stauffer with 19, but that was the lone bright spot in the team's shooting.

The Red Arrows finished the contest shooting 26 percent.

"We struggled early against Belding and our shots weren't falling," said Akers. "But I was happy with our second-half effort."

Elena Richmond pitched in eight points and eight rebounds in the loss.

Middleville's top runner finished with an 18:46 to take fifth.

The Red Arrows repeated their male counterparts' efforts with a split against the same teams.

Lowell fell to the Caledonia squad, two time girls state champions, 15 to 48.

However, the Red Arrows defeated Middleville 15-50 to put a positive twist on the season.

The Caledonia girls swept the standings with Sarah Parbel taking home top honors with a 19:03.

Lowell's top runner was Annie Oesch, who took sixth place with a 20:13.

"Annie ran on the Caledonia girls heels all afternoon. She ran perhaps her best time and almost beatsome of the Caledonia girls," said Harper.

Other Red Arrows to place were Andrea Baker, ninth, with a 24:15; Amy Teunis, 10th with a 26:28; Beth Laraby 11th, with a 27:02 and Ann Townsend with a 27:21 to finish 12th.

Against Middleville the girls won twice.

Harper said his team beat Middleville's team in time and in scoring because the Middleville team was one runner short from officially qualifying.

In comparing times Oesch took first with Baker finishing fourth, Teunis, fifth, Laraby, sixth, and Townsend, seventh.

"Because they were a runner short we got a perfect score getting their shots off quicker," said Akers. "There is a big difference in the amount of time they have to shoot at the varsity level, compared to last year."

Akers said once his team gets their timing down, he expects them to come around and be competitive.

"We'll continue to work hard and try to improve. I believe we'll get better as the season goes along," he said.

Christensen was particularly pleased with the efforts of Catlin, but said he still needs to get better.

"Jeff is quick and has a lot of abilities, but he's got to get under control. Once he gets more experience he will be an excellent quarterback," said Christensen.

Next up for Lowell is a home game against Hudsonville. Christensen said his team needs to build on its effort against Ionia and play error-free in order to beat Hudsonville.

of 15, but even if they would have had enough runners we would have beaten them," said Harper. "So, in reality, we won twice."

According to Harper, his boys' and girls' teams are running strong.

"We're running well for being early in the season," said Harper. "Our girls' squad is young but improving, and our boys will get stronger as the season progresses."

The boys' will get a good look at one of the league's top teams next week in a league meet against Hudsonville.

Although the meet isn't considered a competition,

Harper said it is a good opportunity to scout the opposition.

"We'll get a good idea of what the best has to offer next week. Hudsonville is the defending champion and is expected to repeat that this year," said Harper.

The girls' squad, which is led by Oesch, is young with Oesch and Teunis being the only seniors, but Harper expects the younger runners to improve as the season gets into full swing.

"As the young girls race more they will get better," said Harper. "If we can improve from meet to meet, then we should finish strong."
