Foreman resident asks that the city let safety rule in sidewalk issue

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Dave Austin asked the Lowell City Council Monday night to consider safety before aesthetics when determining placement of sidewalk on the north side of Foreman Road.

Serving The Lowell Area for over 100 Years

The council stated that it wished to initiate the special assessment process for the proposed sidewalk projects on Elm and Foreman.

At its March 18th meeting, the council will vote on a resolution to set a public hearing to establish a special assessment district. City manager Dave Pasquale said a public hearing would then be held on the special assessment district. That nmeeting is tentatively scheduled for April 1.

Once that process is completed, the council would vote on a resolution to establish an assessment roll. A public hearing would then be held on the assessment roll.

Both the assessment roll and special assessment district would have to be approved before an assessment could be put in place.

"Residents on ForemanRoad and Elm Street will receive a letter notifying them about the hearings, and notices will be put in the paper," Pasquale said.

Austin said there are many obstacles (utility poles and trees) in the way if the sidewalk is laid out in the traditional way.

"If the goal is to save the trees, my concern is that the council not compromise the safety of the sidewalk," Austin said. "Let safety be the rule, and then address the trees with the property owners."

Austin said he would prefer the city get rid of trees rather than shorten the width of the sidewalk in some areas to four feet and butting it up against the curb.

The Lowell resident at the corner of Foreman/Lincoln Lake said with children coming down the sidewalk, as much space as possible is needed. "We don't want kids jumping curbs to make room. Foreman is a busy street."

Austin added that in considering safety before aesthetics, the council may lose more trees than it thinks.

The city council determined last year that construction of new sidewalks and repair of old would be undertaken along the entire length of Foreman Road and Elm Street.

Department of Public Works director Art Gall provided the council with cost estimates for each affected property owner proceeding east to west.

The Elm Street project includes one new walk and eight repaired walks totaling $5,571 in estimated costs.

The Foreman Road project provides 20 new walks and seven repaired walks totalling $83, 719.60 in costs. This would cover both the north and south sides of Foreman.

The city also has $4,818.50 in charges for municipally owned property (primarily intersection work).

Austin pointed out further that with seven drives on the north side of Foreman, there is an added concern about cars backing out of driveways with children coming down the sidewalk. "If there are obstacles obstructing the vision of drivers, then there is really a concern."

The council said it was determined last year that these sidewalks were priority due to their close proximity to the

Lowell Charter Township ponders cost of ridding pests before they multiply

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

Hoping to get them before they get us, the Lowell Charter Township Board discussed joining the effort to battle gypsy moths in Kent County.

The township board agreed earlier in the year to join a county-wide coalition to battle the moths, but now it's time to determine if the effort is cost effective.

The township board learned that it is not in dire need to spraying, but there are areas which could prove to be trouble in the near future.

The survey (the first performed in the township) reveals that 360 acres of land are infested with the moths, which are known to destroy thousands of acres of land in less than one season.

At a cost of $16.50 per acre, the township and residents' cost is estimated at $5,940-a sum that some trustees considered to be good compared to the other options.

"This could get much more expensive if the problem escalates," said trustee Alyn Fletcher. "It's best to get on top of it now in order to keep up with the problem."

The county's spray program, which is slated to begin at the end of May or beginning of June, is not designed to destroy all of the moths, but control them as best as possible.

In a letter sent to the township, the county suggested that "the reduction of the number of gypsy moths to tolerable levels is the goal of the effort."

It's also the goal of the program to allow natural predators and parasite population to build up and create a natural balance.

However, until that can be done, an organic chemical, called BT, would be sprayed this year.

Investigation is still pending on an accident that occurred Thursday afternoon just north of town on Lincoln Lake. A pickup truck driven by Lynn Marie Woodhead, 18, Lowell, was southbound when a vehicle driven by Timothy Tobias, 33, Orleans, pulled out into her path. After the collision, Woodhead's vehicle came to a stop 161 feet from the point of impact, according to State trooper Kris Douponce. Woodhead suffered an injury to her chin and some contusions. She was transported to Butterworth Hospital. Tobias was not injured. The accident is still under investigation and no citations have been given at this time. Douponce said Woodhead was not wearing a seatbelt.

City enters into contract with Bonding Authority for library project

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell City Council gave its full faith and credit to the bond obligation of $745,000 in the public library construction project.

As part of the financing process for the construction of the new library, bonds will be sold through the Building Authority to provide funds not raised through grants and public donations.

Currently, the library building project, which includes all construction and furnishing costs, has been estimated to be $1,344,000.

Contributions at this time total $738,500. The largest of those is a benefactor gift of $380,000 and $270,000 from the Look Memorial Fund.

In considering financing, the following amounts were deducted from bonding:

Nadine Miller, fabric designer and fine artist, whose work appeared at the Lowell Area Arts Council Gallery this fall, brought her expertise into the eighth-grade classes of Karen ambert.

Students were asked to "feel" textures in paper bags, looked at Nadine's and other artists' designs, listened to directions on different approaches and made actual textures by rubbing with crayons, drawing on meat trays and printing them with brayers and ink.

Finally, they were asked to sort out designs and glue them on a cardboard along with issue paper and cut paper, making some three-dimensional. The end result, if the student brought in a t-shirt or fabric piece, was a photocopy on the material done by Miller. The students had a great time and learned how designs are produced.

For 25 years students have been engaged in the success of the Kent Career Technical Center

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lynne Case, marketing and enrollment coordinator for the Kent Career Technical Center, clearly states that it is not in competition with, but is an extension of, the public schools.

The center serves 20 percent of all juniors and seniors in Kent County public and nonpublic schools, which is more than double the eight percent where it started in 1971.

It plays a greater presence in high school education today because it has successfully integrated academics. work-based learning and postsecondary articulation.

Jane Torry, in her ninth year as the Kent Career Technical Center work-based learning coordinator explains, "We've made changes along the way so that we stay up with business and industry.

It has also nurtured educational partnerships with Grand Rapids Community College, Davenport College and Ferris State University.

These partnerships have no doubt been in part responsible for the growing number of students who go on to college or further training after they finish at the Kent Career Technical Center.

In fact, today 45-50 percent of the students at the center will go on to college. "These numbers represent students who have enrolled in college not students who say in the spring they plan on going to college.'

Twice a year an advisory committee made up of approximately 250 businessmen meet with the center's instructors to talk about ways its curriculum can better serve its students.

It has been awhile since I've written about my dogs. Of all the stupid things I manage to churn into material for this column, dog stories seem to elicit the most response from readers. Anywhere I go with the dogs, there always seems to be someone who knows them by name from reading my column. They might not know me, but when they see me going through the car wash, the oil change place, parking at the grocery store, etc., there always seems to be someone who confronts the dogs.

The initial conversation usually goes something like, "Hey, you must be the guy who writes for the Ledger." Then I'm immediately ignored as the reader reaches through the back window of my car to pet my dogs. They even call them by name, knowing Thor is the big old yellow Lab and Tito is the smaller, younger chocolate Lab. I'm tellin' ya, it's a humbling experience every time. Nobody knows, or seems to care, who the heck I am, but they sure recognize my dogs.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Unconscionable, inaccurate, and destructive; these words all describe Charles Myers's remarks directed toward the Lowell City Planning Commission upon his resignation. Having just received a copy of his comments printed in the February 1, 1996, Community Edition of the Grand Rapids Press, I feel compelled to respond to Mr. Myers's remarks, not allowing the inaccuracies to go unchallenged.

As a former member of the Lowell City Planning Commission, (resigning upon my relocation), I am deeply disturbed Mr. Myers would choose a public forum to voice his dissatisfaction, rather than privately discussing what he perceives are problems with the Planning Commission. It would seem private discussions would achieve what Mr. Myers describes as a "spirit of cooperation and consideration" and would have been a more appropriate, constructive fashion to determine if there is a problem.

I do not believe there is a problem nor do I remember myself or other commissioners acting in what Mr. Myers describes as a "mere sheriff, enforcing ordinances by the letter of the law." I do remember serving with concerned "residents and business owners" who volunteer to the community because they feel it is important to protect the city, where they live. I also remember spending countless hours on evenings and weekends, with other commissioners meeting with businesses and citizens. These meetings were held to facilitate a standards before a project begins than to be reactionary after

THE MICHIGAN CONSTITUTION HAS ESTAB-LISHED A FLAT TAX FOR MANY YEARS.

"We, the people..." If asked, you probably would have recognized these three words as the beginning of the Preamble to the Constitution of the United States of America. But did you know that they are also the first three words in the preamble of the Michigan Constitution?

The Michigan Preamble reads: "We, the people of the State of Michigan, grateful to Almighty God for the blessings of freedom and earnestly desiring to secure these blessings undiminished to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution."

Our Constitution is a very powerful document that lays out the basic goals and limitations of our government. In Michigan's history, we have adopted four Constitutions. those of 1835. 1850. 1908. and our current version, 1963.

For the next few weeks, I want to spend some time talking about specific parts of Michigan's Constitution and how it affects us in our daily lives.

If you've seen the news in the past few months, you'd know that one of the central issues of this year's presidential election is the flat tax. Currently, the federal government uses a graduated income tax system. Under a graduated tax, the more you make, the higher percentage of your income you pay to the federal government.

As Americans, we believe that hard work and dedication are the ingredients of success and possibly a higher income. Effectively, a graduated tax penalizes an individual whose income rises from a lower income bracket to a higher one, charging you more for working hard and achieving success.

Did you know that this idea of a flat tax, which is being labeled as "new and revolutionary" has actually been used in our state for years. In fact, the Michigan Constitution mandates a flat tax. Section seven of the Finance and Taxation portion of the Constitution states: "No income tax graduated as to rate or base shall be imposed by the state or any of its subdivisions." In Michigan, we all pay 4.4 percent income

Our flat tax system is truly flat because it taxes all income, including income from interest and dividends, at the same rate. One of the nationally talked about versions of the flat tax doesn't include income from interest or dividends. Cecause of this, it tilts the tax system in favor of those who earn more of their income by investing. A person who earns a living from jobs like teaching, working in the auto industry, or farming must send a percentage of their paycheck to Washington, but someone who makes his or her money solely on Wall Street hy investing, pays nothing. Because this system still favors one group of people over another, it's really not a flat tax, and it's not the version that I support.

The only true flat tax that accomplishes the goal of being fairer to everyone is the one that we have had in Michigan for vears: the one that the architects of our Constitution had in mind when they wrote it. To quote Governor Engler from his State of the State Address this year, "They're debating it in Washington, but we're doing in Michigan."- knows why we get canker sores. Possible explanations are an over-reaction of the body's immune system or a self-inflicted wound caused by biting the tongue or cheek while chewing Occasionally a virus may be the inciting agent.

Foods high in acid, such as grapefruit, peppers, tomatoes, and pineapple, are likely to exacerbate the pain caused by canker sores. Sometimes stress can seem to worsen existing sores. Women often report a worsening of their condition during a menstrual period.

Treatment is usually not needed as most canker sores resolve spontaneously. Over the counter drops or pastes are available that help numb the area and lessen pain. Home remedies may also be beneficial. Some people report success by swabbing a mixture of antacid liquid and a liquid antihistamine on the site. Mouthwashes may also provide some relief You can make your own mouthwash by mixing hydrogen peroxide with water in a 50/50 ratio.

Item #2. CONSIDERATION OF FUNDING FOR HOPE NETWORK TRANSPORTATION SERVICES. At a previous meeting, it was brought to the Council's attention that the Hope Network Transportation Services does provide transportation on a door to door basis. Also, Lowell Township had recently provided funding for this service. Pasquale felt that this would be an opportune time to have representatives from Hope Network explain the services provided. Funding for this could be considered through an allocation from the 1996-97 Community Development Block Grant of $2000.

Dan Gowdy, Administrative Manager of Hope Network, explained that Lowell Township participates with North Kent Transit, which Hope Network manages. North Kent Transit serves a number of townships in the northern part of Kent County and now the eastern section. It is a door to door service available to the public. The primary users have been persons with disabilities and those who are 60 years of age or older. This program has proven to meet a need and has grown considerably. This year Grattan and Nelson had joined the system, using Block Grant funds. Rockford has been a long standing member, but uses part of their General Fund instead

An itemized statement will be sent to the City on a monthly basis, showing who used the service and rider classification. The North Kent Transit Steering Committee meets on a quarterly basis. The main purpose of this committee is to evaluate the service and provide the individual townships information on how many residents are utilizing the transportation. The $2,000 is an estimate. If only one person would use this service, then only this would be subtracted from the $2,000. At the end of the year, it could be evaluated and could be rolled into the next year or use the funds for another project.

> Councilmember Myers asked if it was a subsidized fare with the person using the service and the City each paying part. Gowdy responded yes, depending on the different cost structures.

> Councilmember Shores stated that Hope Network comes into the City of Lowell at this time. Gowdy said yes, noting those passenger's trips are funded through Community Mental Health. These individuals are already given transportation, which is rather strict and defined. CMH provides two trips a day, to their day program, work and home

> City Manager Pasquale stated it is proposed that the City utilize $2,000 in Block Grant funds for the 1996-97 fiscal year. The $2,000 previously allocated to the storm drain would be replaced by the General Fund. This provides the City options. If the General Fund is utilized for the transportation services, the City can not use Block Grant in succeeding years because these dollars can not replace the General Fund.

> IT WAS MOVED BY MYERS and seconded by GREEN to approve that $2,000 be set aside from the Community Block Grant Funds for the 1996-97 fiscal year to fund the Hope Network Transportation Services. YEA: 4 NAY: 0.

Dream of a Lowell Charter Township park stays alive with revised plan

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

Lowell Charter Township may not have a public park available, but the board has kept the dream alive, for at least another five years.

The township board conducted a public hearing to update their parks and recreation plan in order to qualify for state funds it has been awarded for the purchase of 70 acres of land off Grand River Drive.

The update consisted mainly of changing population figures, said township supervisor John Timpson.

But it also kept the township's hopesup of someday obtaining the land.

"I can't think of a more ideal location," said Timpson. "It's near the river and would be a great place for families to spend the day."

A. TRANSFER OF PROPERTY FROM LOWELL AREA SCHOOLS FOR THE LIBRARY SITE. Councilmember Myers, as a member of the Library Building Committee, explained that the City had accepted the south one acre of the Riverside School property for $1.01 to construct the new public library. At this time, approximately three quarters of funds necessary to build this structure had been raised.

City Manager Pasquale also explained that the school had requested that additional property be developed to accommodate 16 parking spaces. Initially it was agreed that the additional parking would be developed remaining as school property. In discussing this issue with the school, it appeared to be more feasible that property be deeded to the City to avoid conflicts regarding maintenance of the parcel, such as snowplowing and changing TV Board to set a direction on how to address some of Lowell Area Schools deed over 5200 square feet of acre parcel. The biggest concentration of moths is located at Pratt Lake Avenue and 36th Street, where more than 174 egg masses exist on one 40-acre lot, and another 74 egg masses have been located nearby "That's potentially our biggest problem area," Timpson

The county would spray the areas with an aircraft, but citizens who wish, can ask that their parcels be left off the spray

The township will send "objection letters" to residents in the near future. On these letters, residents can identify one of six reasons why they want their property to be bypassed. Those who choose to allow the spraying will be billed for their portion of the cost in that area. The board is scheduled to make a decision about approving the funding for the project at its next regular meeting.

schools (Middle School and Cherry Creek). "With the interest rates where they are, now is a good time to start," Mayor Bill Thompson said. "However, this council has learned of the importance of taking it slow and hearing from all property owners."

Notice is hereby given that the OPTECH Computer Program Testing for the March 19, 1996 Presidential Primary Election will be conducted Tuesday, March 12, 1996 at 6 p.m. at the Lowell Township Hall, 2910 Alden Nash SE, Lowell.

OFF THE BLOTTER

The chemical is designed not to be harmful to humans or the foliage, but does kill the moths by "melting" them from the Charter Township that should be sprayed. Those areas include parcels on Timpson Avenue and 36th St., and Emery Drive and

Those areas have between 35 and 96 egg masses in a 40-

Red Arrow boys advance in district with opening round win against Greenville

By Thad Kraus

Lowell Ledger Editor

"It's nice to have another day," Lowell coach Pete Bush said with a smile, following Lowell's 62-54 opening round Class A District basketball win over Greenville Monday night

The win was the Red Arrows' third victory of the season to go against 18 defeats. It is, however, enough to get into the district quarterfinals to face the 5-14 Rockford Rams, who are coming off a regular season-ending 54-40 win over East Kentwood.

Lowell's win Monday night was also its second of the season against the Yellowiackets.

"Lowell probably wishes it played us more often." chided Greenville coach Kent Ingles. "They also seem to shoot pretty well against us."

Ingles was referring to senior Scott Smith's five threepointers, and Lowell's 13-of-27 shooting in the first half. "I think that Lowell is physically bigger than us has something to do with that," Ingles said

The two clubs played evenly untill a two-minute stretch in the second quarter where Lowell turned Greenville turnovers into a 9-0 spurt.

"I thought that was the difference in the game," said Ingles, who played four sophomores, two juniors and just a couple of seniors. "Our underclassmen will be older and wiser next year.'

Greenville's first-half zone also aided what has been a poor-shooting Lowell team.

"The boys made the skip pass and got the ball to where we wanted it," Bush said. "If we're patient and work the ball to the open spots against the zone, we have guys in Smith and Barber who can light it up."

The Yellowjackets switched to a man-to-man in the second half. It was instrumental in Greenville's rally from a 10point, third-quarter deficit.

"We didn't do a good job of running our offense against their man-to-man," Bush said. "But once Greenville tied it up, our guys put it together."

Bush credited senior point guard Joe Hohbach with coming off the bench and having a calming effect on the squad. "Joe got us back into our pace," Bush said. "Give Coach Ingles credit . he has gone through a lot of personal setbacks; he had his club playing much better and his boys hustled." One area where his club showed that hustle was on the offensive boards, especially in the second half "Greenville's hustle had something to do with it, but if we do the right things fundamentally, they shouldn't have that kind of success on the boards," Bush said. Smith led all scorers with 18 points. Steve Bosserd added 12 and Aaron Brander chipped in with 11.

Brander hit a big time three with 2:24 to play, extending Lowell's lead from five to eight points. "It wasn't the shot we wanted, but he was squared to the bucket and it went in." Bush said with a smile.

Bush also commended the play of Jeff Catlin. "Jeff made a big three-point play on a drive to the basket to put us up three and then on our next trip down the court he made a good pass down on the blocks to Brander which resulted in a bucket," he Steve Kramp led all Greenville scorers with 13 points.

A 31-14 third quarter explosion helped the Vikings blow past Lowell.

Gamble not worth the payoff for Township's midterm census

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

Lowell Charter Township's dreams of earning extra funds from the state failed to fly, even before they left the ground.

The board had discussed performing a midterm census in an effort to receive additional state funding. The situation registration increased less than 11 percent and its building seemed simple, except the state had one catch.

The township must prove a 15 percent increase in population in order to receive funds. If the township failed to provide the adequate increase, no extra funds would come and the township would be out the cost of performing the census.

That cost was estimated at approximately $3,000.

To determine its eligibility, the township used a formula, put together by Gaines Township, as a barometer to their impending success or failure.

Gaines Township officials successfully performed a midterm census, proving a population increase of 18 percent.

In order to determine whether it would be successful Gaines Township used two factors to determine the probabil- hills of Appalachia, rather ity.

Lowell landscape offers artistic therapy for local artist

By Marc Popiolek

Contributing Writer

Visitors to Lowell's FMB State Savings Bank at 414 East Main may have felt a little nostalgic while performing their daily business.

Don Holstine's love of rustic settlings hasled him to paint area churches such as the Snow United Methodist Church. Holstine plans to donate one of his two "Snow Church" paintings to the congregation. His repertoire includes barns, bridges and other churches across the

And that is exactly what artist Don Holstine tried to capture at his recent Lowell Area Art Center exhibit.

"I like to capture the vanishing landscape of the area," said Holstine, a local artist whose latest work recently graced the walls of FMB's central location. "Lowell has a lot of old rustic landscape that I just enjoy capturing on canvas. The old rustic, fading landscape has always been fascinating to me."

FMB hosts monthly exhibits for the LAAC, but rarely does an artist give visitors a look into their own backyard.

Holstine's work is relatively new, with most of it being produced during the past three years, but his love of painting has lasted a lifetime.

"My father was a painter and my brother is an illustrator. so it's been in my family for a long time," he said. "I didn't really do a lot of it until recently and I'm really enjoying myself."

Prior to being a full-time artist, Holstine worked as a machinist, but due to a degenerative disability he had to give up that career.

"You could say it's a blessing in disguise. Because of my disability I've been able to put more time to my work and I fell in love with it," he said. "Art can be frustrating, but for me it's therapeutic. I get a lot of enjoyment out of my work and it helps me deal with the disability."

Although Holstine hasn't undergone any formal training, the years spent posing for his father and watching him create his own work gave him the necessary background to keep the family tradition alive.

While Holstine's father worked in oils and he himself has dabbled in various artistic mediums, he said watercolors always offered the best venue for his work.

"I like the spontaneity of watercolors," Holstine said. "A number of things have been done with watercolors, but I'm trying to find my own place."

One aspect of watercolors that adds to Holstine's search are the number of "happy accidents" that occur when "paint meets paper."

"They are unique to watercolors because nobody can exactly repeat any work, not even I can exactly recreate my work;" he said. "That adds something special to every painting. Watercolors also accentuate the rustic feelings of my work because of how the colors blend."

Holstine's rustic appreciation is best displayed through his depiction of old barns.

While some people may view them as a crumbling building, Holstine senses a part of history.

"It's my connection to the past. The more they are weathered, the more I appreciate the history behind them." he said. "When I'm painting a barn I try to imagine what role it played in the life of that family. It's one of the most enjoyable experiences for me."

Holstine's enjoyment of local landscapes is far from being extinguished, but he does have a desire to capture the same landscape along the lake shore and with centennial farms.

Holstine and his wife hope to pursue those dreams this summer, but until then he will try to put his work on display in the Ada Township Hall and in local galleries.

"As long as I'm enjoying my work I plan on continuing it," he said. "There is so much out there for me to view and paint that it keeps me excited and wanting to do more."

CROP Walk recruiter rally March 13

By Thad Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

A bigger crop translates to a bigger yield.

That's the hope of the second annual Lowell CROP Walk on May 5 as its coordinators work to surpass the total number of participants (250) involved in last year's walk for hunger.

"We had a very good first year," said Lee Feusse, Lowell CROP Walk's public relations coordinator.

In its inaugural event the Lowell Crop Walk raised $15,241.

Methodist Church and the Lowell Senior Neighbors.

The CROP Walk was organized in Michigan in 1948. Michigan has been the leading fundraising region for the Church World Service for the past 10 years.

Coordinating this year's walk will be Lowell First United Methodist Church pastor Gordie Barry and Dick Doezema of the Snow Methodist Church.

Churches, organizations and individuals interested in participating in the CROP Walk can call Doezema at 897-9657 for more information or are encouraged to attend the state.

BEWARE MARCH 8

Charlie Johnson will be on the roads. Watch out for "Chuck's Truck."

"Our goal this year is to raise $20,000," Feusse said. "For that to happen we will need more churches and organizations to participate."

Walkers can designate which food service agency they would like 75 percent of the funds to go to. The other 25 percent is returned to the local community - in Lowell's case the ACCESS 6 food pantry at the Lowell First United recruiter rally at the First Congregational Church of Lowell, 404 N. Hudson, on March 13 at 7 p.m.

Last year 137 Michigan communities participated, resulting in $1.7 million. There were over 28,000 participants in West Michigan.

Lowell superintendent Bert Bleke will be the grand marshal for this year's event.

COLLEGE NEWS

For more than a decade. Grand Valley has been the state's fastest-growing university. That growth has been paralleled by increases in the quality of our students and of their academic accomplishments.

> Students from this area who graduated at the conclusion of the fall 1995 semester included Lorinda C. Goins, of Lowell, with a Master of Education (MED) degree.

Marine Lance Cpl. Anthony J. Teft, son of James and Mary Teft of Lowell, recently reported for duty with Marine Air Control Squadron 4, Marine Air Control Group 18, 1st Marine Air Wing, Okinawa, Japan.

IN THE SERVICE

Teft's new assignment is an example of how Navy and Marine Corps men and women are assigned to ships, squadrons and shore commands around the world. Whether serving in the Persian Gulf near Iraq or in the Adriatic Sea near Bosnia, people like Teft are making a difference as they work to improve their knowledge and skill as part of the most highly technical naval force in history.

The 1993 graduate of Lowell High School joined the Marine Corps in March 1994.
