ITM adds warehouse to Vergennes site with headquarter plans in the making

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

With the hopes of someday calling Vergennes Township its corporate headquarters, ITM Corporation has received the go- ahead from the planning commission to build a 100,000 square foot warehouse in the Lincoln Lake Industrial District.

The commission approved the company's plans, after representative Brian Winkelman presented detailed plans about the project that included a glimpse of the company's corporate headquarters.

According to Winkelman, the new building will be used mainly as storage, but will allow them to "finish" parts that are not complete.

In conjunction with the building construction, the company will add 39 new parking spaces to accommodate added employees.

ITM is limited to 30 employees working at the site within a 24 -hour period, but initially it expects to have many less.

VALUES TO LIVE BY

*Lowell community identified five character traits that can be integrated throughout curriculums, organizations and businesses.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell community members including teachers, clergy, civic organizers, local business representatives and parents identified character traits for children and adults to uphold and practice at a character development meeting Thursday night.

"Talk to local business representatives about what they are looking for in an employee and they start out with human character traits (responsible, honest, commitment) they want in a human being. They don't start with math skills," Lowell superintendent Bert Bleke said. After nearly 2 1/2 hours, approximately 160 community members identified responsibility, respect, integrity, compassion and honesty as five character traits for district children and adults to follow in their daily lives.

Winkelman said only two employees will man the first shift and just one on the second and third shifts.

Winkelman and township officials expect those numbers to jump once the company builds new offices at the site. However, at this time, no discussion has taken place on when those offices will be built.

"From my understanding, it is the desire of ITM to move most of its manufacturing here and have its corporate headquarters here as well," said Winkelman.

Winkelman said ITM was forced to build a new warehouse because it currently stores parts at warehouses throughout Grand Rapids and many of those agreements will cease this year.

As ITM begins the shift to Vergennes, it must also look at constructing a private access road to offset traffic concerns on Lincoln Lake Avenue.

Currently, there have been no complaints about

Snowmobilers provided a limited corridor so they can gas up for trip home

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell has rapidly become known to snow mobilers traveling on the state Department of Natural Resource (DNR) trail passes as the "dry city."

Many snowmobilers travel south into Lowell from Greenville, Belding and Rockford and north from Wayland and Allegan on the state DNR trail.

They enter the city thru the southeast part of Lowell. They also enter with little gas left in their tanks.

Fuel is then needed for their return trip.

Wherein lies the problem. The city ordinance prohibits snowmobilers from traveling on city streets therefore denying them access to any gas stations.

Out of desperation snowmobilers have to violate a city ordinance and the Lowell Police Department has to spend time going to the gas station to enforce the law.

"Trail users used to be able to purchase gas in Grattan, north of the city and on 84th St. south of the city," said Flat River Snowmobile Club member Bradley Potter. "However, these stations have now closed."

Potter asked that the city provide a limited trail corridor from the parking lot on South Jackson to Jefferson Street and then two blocks

Snowmobile, cont'd. pg. 8

First United Methodist Church of Lowell pastor Gordon Barry identified R-I-C-H-R as an acronym derived from the five traits.

"I believe churches, businesses and government working together promoting, reinforcing and teaching these values enrich the community," Barry said. "It does take a village to raise kids. It requires being consistent throughout the community and not just in one area."

The process began with 25 tables (made up of 5-8

Approximately 160 Lowell residents broke up into 25 groups of 5-8 people to discuss which values meant most to them.

people at each table) listing redeeming values and/or traits they would like to see in an individual.

 Then each person had to put a check by the seven character traits they valued most.

Following this, the groups were asked to write on a large sheet of white paper the traits that had three or more checks by them. They ranked them according to the number of checks received. Each table then hung its page of values on the middle school cafetorium walls.

After everybody had a chance to review the values other tables came up with, each table was given an opportunity to add values or character traits from other lists to their own.

Next, each table was asked to identify the top four character traits from their list, record them on a large white sheet of paper and tape them on the wall.

The last step had each person take a strip of seven dots and apply them next to the seven traits they valued most. They could only vote for a character trait once.

The final tally read like this: Responsibility 124; Respect 119; Integrity 110; Compassion 84; Honesty 76; Self-Discipline 34; Caring 34; and Commitment 29.

Because there was a clear break between honest and self- discipline, the top five were selected.

"I think 4-5 is the limit and still have it mean something," Bleke said. "I believe values exist in all communities. This is a process by which they can be identified."

The Lowell superintendent explained that professionals can determine the knowledge and skills a student should have when they leave school. "However, the community should identify what a kid's character should

Commission gives endorsement on adult-oriented business proposed zoning ordinance

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Gaining the city council's acceptance on any proposed adult-oriented business zoning amendments is at least a couple of months away.

What is clear, however, within those proposed amendments will be a restriction on the business location.

It will recommend that adult-oriented businesses be allowed on two parcels of property at the city's west end - the Lowell Motor Inn lot and the lot just east of it.

Councilman Don Green, who is chairing an ad hoc committee to review the impact and how to effectively regulate adult-oriented businesses, said such establishments cannot be completely zoned out of a city.

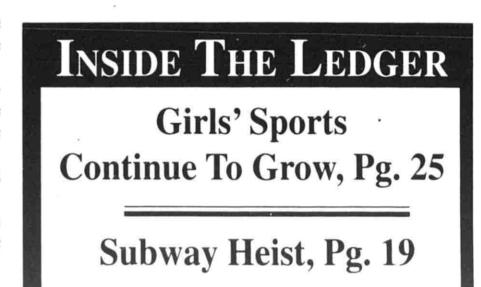

"However, a city doesn't have to provide a lot that is vacant or that has a building on it," Green said.

Lowell Planning Commission chairman Mike Blough raised a concern that the lots, where the businesses would be allowed, are located near the west entrance into the city.

"The committee looked sideways at it too," Green said. Other than banning them completely, which the city cannot do, the proposed zoning regulation would require a minimum of 500 feet from a residential or public facility (residences, schools and churches).

"If the minimum required feet limit was lowered, there would be the possibility of many more of these sites in town," Ordinance, cont'd. pg. 8

City uses Community Development Block Grant funds for sidewalk and transit service

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) allocations to participating local units of government were released by Kent County.

The county informed the 1998 city of Lowell that it would receive $43,882.35 in CDBG funds

The monies are available for various community projects beginning July 1, 1997

Main sidewalk improvements

The most densely-populated city in the world is said to be Hong Kong, where there are 43,443 people per square mile. Manhattan, New York, is the most densely populated county, with 67,181 people per square mile.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on February 10, 1997, at 6:00 p.m., a subcommittee of the Planning Commission of the City of Lowell will hold a public hearing at the Lowell City Hall, 301 E. Main Street, to review and receive comments on the current zoning ordinance as it applies to flags, banners, pennants, streamers and similar devices.

All interested persons may attend the public hearing, and written comments concerning the request will be received at the City Hall until the time of the meeting.

Monday morning's big hurdle was installing the rather elaborate ignition harness and magnetos. I was really getting into this stuff. I watched intently as my mechanic installed and timed the left magneto. When he was tied up with a lengthy phone call, I tackled the right magneto. My success stories concerning anything mechanical are extremely uncommon.

By noon we had the engine ready to run. We consulted the overhaul manual for the recommended break-in procedure. My heart began to sink as my mechanic read aloud from "The Book." ALTITUDE SICKNESS

As people brave the ski slopes at high elevations each winter, one of the least concerns they may have is that of altitude sickness. Altitude sickness is, however, a very real dilemma and can be to great degree prevented.

At higher elevations, there is less oxygen and lower air pressure and humidity, leaving people at risk for dehydration and breathlessness. People rarely take the time to hydrate themselfs well, and dehydration remains one of the chief reasons individuals become ill at higher elevations.

Oxygen depletion is another risk at increased heights, and in extreme cases overexertion may cause a person to cough up frothy, bloodstained sputum.

Prevention is the key factor in any discussion regarding altitude sickness. People who travel to higher elevations should take a day or two to acclimate, eat lightly, get plenty of rest, and consume increased fluids. (Alcohol avoidance also helps.) If you have had a recent respiratory tract infection, make sure you are fully recovered before exerting yourself on the slopes.

If you develop symptoms of altitude sickness, it's best to seek help. A medication called Diamox can substantially lessen symptoms. If you are prone to altitude sickness, taking Diamox preventatively is a good idea.

I shut off the switches and headed for the hangar my mechanic read from "The Book", is I slowly began to moving with the same deliberation as when heading for the car after an ordeal at the mall.

That night we did a compression test, checked the oil screen, inspected the spark plugs, etc. Everything checked out superbly. The next morning there were a few chores to finish emotions. I played with the throttle until the engine settled in and I was ready to head back to Michigan around 10. Village snow plow operator Lafayette Tanner would like car owners to stop parking on sidewalks. The new coal delivery trucks will haul six tons and unload it automatically (no shoveling). Lowell's new salt-free well is flowing, and the water is softer, too.

Snow, sleet and wind closed roads and schools last Thursday Friday. The Rotary speaker will be Mr. Peterson from El Dupont De

An elderly couple writes to the Ledger, inquiring why the proposed Senior housing project is not progressing. Yogurt is becoming popular as a low-calorie health food, especially with fruit or flavoring added. Former school superintendent Walter Gumser has moved to Walter Jr's home in Dayton, OH. Ice fishing is excellent on the smaller lakes, as is rabbit hunting in state game areas.

Michigan's continued growth and prosperity, it's even more critical that the South Beltline be built. In the first point of his seven-point plan to improve Michigan's infrastructure, Governor Engler asked the Legislature to appropriate $70 million in additional road funding for local and state projects. According to the Governor, this increased funding will allow state construction to begin on the South Beltline. The South Beltway (M-6) will be a 20-mile bypass for the Grand Rapids area that intended to ease increasing traffic volume from the local road system.

Serne and VanWeelden announce engagement

- CITY

The Lowell Ledger-Wednesday, February 5, 1997-Page 7

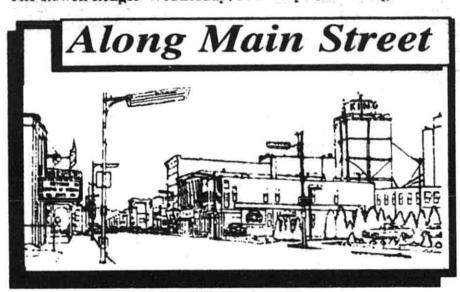

Jim and Eleanor Serne, of Ada, are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Carol Serne to Mark VanWeelden, of Lowell.

The future grooms parents are Gil and Sandie VanWeelden, also of Lowell.

The bride-to-be is a 1984 graduate of Lowell High School, Kellogg Community College and Grand Valley State University. She is currently working at Metropoli tan Hospital.

The groom-elect is a 1981 graduate of Lowell High School and Ferris State University. He is employed by UPS.

be." Bleke said. "What emerges is what is already there."

Middle School assistant principal Mark Weber concurred. "What you find is that the age old virtues and values identified are the simple values that have been with us for thousands of vears.

Ben Zoodsma, a participant at table 10, agreed that the values are many years old. "The problem I see is that they are, not being handed down from generation to generation."

Ginger Sper, a member of table one, was expecting a panel and audience-type format. She was pleasantly surprised. "I attended because I thought character development was an important topic. Everybody in attendance participated. I'd describe it as a community of thought."

Along the same lines. Rod VanCamp said values and traits are not taught at home. "Many kids don't even know the meaning of these values."

Some believed students using the same process would identify many of the same values. Carla Bunce disagreed. "The values and their importance only come with experience and wisdom," she said.

As for the selection of her table's fourth character trait. Bunce said there was some difficulty in identifying that value. "The trouble is, some words are inclusive of others, so we found ourselves going with the bigger thought."

The table's fourth value was compassion, a word it added to its list from another list.

Sue Snell was comfortable with the list, but felt strongly that conflict resolution, inclusiveness and fairness should have been covered in the final list.

"Everyone needs to know that they are someone and that they are important," Snell said.

What's next? Bleke said the list of values will be taken to each building and department and will be cultivated into the curriculums.

"The values are a foundation as to what we're about and serve as a commitment to our growth," Bleke said. Lowell Schools' curriculum director Jim White led the 25 tables through the process.

"It was great. I am happy that so many people agreed to participate." White said.

turning left into the facility, but township officials fear it could become a problem in the future.

In order to build the road. ITM must meet with Consumers Power, who will want to use the road for access to one of its substations, and devise a time frame to have the road built.

Realizing the current construction will not add much traffic to the site (approximately one truck every half hour), the commission decided to approve the request.

With the approval. Winkelman said ITM hopes to begin construction later this spring.

TOWN TALK_

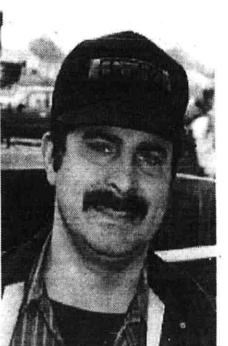

Tonya Harding recently suggested that she would reapply in an effort to skate in the next Winter Olympics. Should she be allowed to?

John Clark I don't have a problem with that. People are forgiven for wrong doings all the time.

Mark Brown No. she shouldn't be allowed. She's had a bad influence on the sport.

Scott Driggers lowed to. Everyone makes a mistake.

Rose Ennis No. She had her chance and she blew it.

Norma Lowing No. She messed things up for others. Let's give other young skaters a chance.

Rose Juarez No. She was kicked out for what she did.

Barbara Cottrell someone we want representing the United States. There are enough U.S. skaters - I think we can do better.

Three-home development proposed for Burroughs Road

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

The building boom continues in Vergennes Township as the planning commission has received plans from Focus Survey to build three new homes on Burroughs Road.

The commission acquired plans from Steve Smit, a surveyor with Focus Survey, to build the single family homes on two -acre lots.

take as long as two years to complete.

The proposed development, owned by Mark McWilliams, would be called McWilliams Estates.

Rather than propose a site condominium project, which is common in today's building market, Smit sought preliminary approval on a plat plan.

In accordance with the plat design, Smit must then submit the plan to the Kent County Road Commission, Drain Commission, and Health Department as well as other county and state agencies before bringing it back to the township level.

Smit said no matter what each governmental agency estab-Smit's presentation was the first step in a process that can lishes as guidelines for the project, they will be met and the plans will still conform to all of the township's guidelines. "This is a difficult process because of all the approval needed and time frames," said Smit. "But we'll meet any

Vergennes Planning Commission ponders changes to driveway and home ordinances

By Marc Popiolek Contributing Writer

The Vergennes Township Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing for March 3 to discuss changes to its driveway setback and minimum square footage for new homes. The township wants to shorten its driveway setbacks for property that is 100 feet wide in Residential 3 zoning from 15 feet to 10 feet.

"Our setback for a home in this size lot is 10 feet, so it didn't make sense to have our driveway set back at 15 feet," said planning commission chairman Rick Gillette.

The commission felt the 15 -foot setback may be too restrictive for 100-foot width lots, the minimum width allowed a problem with making the minimum square footage uniform. in the township

The driveway setback changes are restricted to parcels in R3 zoning that are only 100 feet wide.

As the township shortens the requirements for driveways, it will also look to increase the minimum square footage for the first floor of a two -story house from 750 square feet to 900 square feet.

"Nobody builds a home that has less than 900 square feet nowadays," said commissioner Mark Weber.

Vergennes' decision to increase the square footage coincides with policies enforced in the city of Grand Rapids and many surrounding townships.

Currently, the township requires single story homes to be a least 900 square feet, and the planning commission did not see

Subway - victim of money

heist; Wittenbach used

No. I don't think Tonva is Lowell Ledger Editor Two subjects attired in camouflage-type clothing robbed the Subway Station in Lowell Saturday night at approximately 9 p.m. They entered the fast food restaurant with one subject brandishing a sawed-off shotgun, according to Lowell police chief James Valentine.

After the Subway employee emptied the draw, the two subjects fled the scene on foot.

The Subway employee called police. A state tracking dog was brought in, in an attempt to track down the robbers. "The dog lost the trail in an area of heavy foot traffic," Valentine said.

The Lowell police chief said they have several different directions to go with the case, but no substantial evidence at this point.

As of Tuesday morning, it still had not been determined how much money was stolen from the cash drawer.

A four-wheel drive GMC Jimmy was stolen from the Wittenbach used car lot early Monday between 2 and 2:30

The Jimmy was first spotted doing donuts down at the fairgrounds

"The driver saw police and then took off," Lowell police chief James Valentine said. "The officer said he was too far away to pursue the vehicle."

The Jimmy was spotted for a second time on Hudson Street.

With a Lowell police officer in pursuit, the driver fled south out of town to the expressway. From there, he drove east on 96 to Clarksville.

The driver turned around in the median and came back west on 96.

Valentine said the driver continued until arriving just west of the Hastings Road overpass. "At that point he decided to attempt cutting through a field." The vehicle either quit running or got stuck and the driver got out of the car and fled.

A state tracking dog ran a good track for about 2 1/2 miles to a residence at Alden Nash and Cascade. Police then discovered the assailant had stolen a pickup truck Late Monday night, police found the truck parked in the Root Lowell parking lot. Valentine said forensic work was being done on both vehicles for fingerprints.

The assailant broke into the Wittenbach used car office and grabbed the keys to the Jimmy.

The case remains under investigation.

The township will conduct a public hearing on March 3 to further discuss the project.

Lowell grapplers surprise Wyoming Park 43-31

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

It is not always a win that gives a team momentum. Lowell wrestling coach Gary Rivers pointed that out following his club's 43-31 win against Wyoming Park. "I really think it was Nick West's 10-6 loss to Mike Mix that got these kids fired up." Rivers said. "Mix is a heck of a wrestler and West went out there and went at him for six Mark Holden, giving Lowell a 21-3 advantage. minutes.

The win improved Lowell's O-K White conference record to 4-1 with matches against league leading Forest Hills Central and Hudsonville remaining.

The Red Arrows are currently alone in second place. However, Northview and Wyoming Park, both with two losses, have already wrestled and lost to the Rangers.

"These kids keep reaching down and doing things," Rivers said. "We come into Wyoming Park, wrestling a team with seven or eight seniors. It's seniors' night, they have a big crowd that is all pumped up, and the boys find a way to win." Leading 6-3 following West's inspiring performance

Brad Lyons gave Lowell some breathing room. Harper (119) pinned Matt Hatkowski at 5:32 of the third

"Roudabush has been hanging out for four years. He is finally getting a chance his senior year," Rivers explained. "What people don't know is Nate is one tough kid. I'd like to have him one more year."

Harper controlled his match throughout except for a brief moment when he got put on his back.

"Coming into the match I did not believe we matched up well with Wyoming Park," Rivers said. "We started out strong and then got the job done between 119 and 140.

Park's Brian Gorman pinned Lowell's Chris Wilkens at 2:31 of the second period to make the score 21-9 Lowell. Red Arrow Brett Plattner answered with a 9-1 decision against Mix. Red Arrows Casey Harper, Nate Roudabush and against Jeff Witbrodt, pushing the score to 25-9.

Item #1. COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT - 1997-98 ALLOCATION OF FUNDS - PUBLIC HEARING. Kent County had previously informed the City of an estimated $43,882.35 in Federal Community Development Block Grant funds available for various community projects beginning July 1, 1997. As discussed at the last meeting, the City staff had recommended that these funds be distributed for the West Main Sidewalk improvements project ($41,882.35) as outlined in a Council directive and North Kent Transit. assistance for senior citizen and handicapped riders ($2,000).

No public comments were received. Mayor Thompson closed the public hearing.

Councilmember Hodges stated that these projects were an excellent way to redistribute money back to the community.

Item #2. ASSESSOR EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT James Marfia has served as City Assessor since January, 1988 under an employment agreement. It has been proposed that this agreement be extended two years with an amendment in the compensation schedule. In 1997, Marfia's salary would be $24,600 per year (from the present $23,660). This would increase to $25,600 per year in 1998. These raises amount to approximately 4% per year. Marfia will continue to provide office hours all day on Wednesday and Thursday of each week.

City Manager Pasquale stated that he is guite pleased with Marfia's performance and recommended that the Council approve the agreement.

Mayor Thompson asked if there were many complaints on Marfia's performance by residents. Pasquale stated that there are those residents by nature that object to property taxes and therefore may complain about the Assessor. But since the passage of Proposal A, the number of disagreements had been reduced considerably. This proposal states that taxable value of property can only increase to the rate of inflation. Marfia always takes time to discuss residents' concerns and has never been short with them.

Councilmember Myers inquired if his contract normally deals with the salary issue for two consecutive years. Pasquale responded that this is how it had been carried out in the past and it appears to work well.

Councilmember Myers questioned if there was any benefit or detriment for the City in having the same assessor since 1988. Pasquale stated that as long as the assessor is up to date with the requirements of the profession as well as the State laws, there would be no need to hire another assessor. Marfia has a Level 3 certification, which is a greater level needed for the City.

He also has provided assessment services for other communities, which keeps Marfia advised as to what issues other jurisdictions are facing. Therefore, it is an advantage to the City for the experience and knowledge he has

Councilmember Hodges felt it was advantageous having same assessor. Marfia's experience gives him an advantage and working for other communities provides him a balance.

Councilmember Myers asked if the City had been approached by any other assessors for services. Pasquale responded that he had not received such inquiries re-

Mayor Thompson mentioned that Marfia had continually improved his filing system and information provided in the Assessing Department.

IT WAS MOVED BY GREEN and seconded by MYERS to accept the two year Assessor Employment Agreement with City Assessor James Marfia with compensation at $24,600 for 1997 and $25.600 for 1998.

Item #3. SOCIAL SECURITY COVERAGE OF ELEC-TION WORKERS AND ELECTION OFFICIALS. Th City is required to cover employees by Social Security but there are exceptions for election workers and offi cials. Before the Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994, election workers and officials were excluded from Social Security/Medicare coverage if they earned less than $100 in a calendar year. The Social Security Administrative Reform Act of 1994 has allowed exclusion if payments of the election workers and officials' wages amount to less than $1,000 in a calendar year. Based on prior history, such city election workers would not reach that amount. It was recommended by staff that the Council adopt a resolution to provide this exemption .

IT WAS MOVED BY SHORES and seconded by HODGES to adopt the resolution to exclude election workers and officials who are paid $1,000 in a calendar year from Social Security/Medicare coverage, commencing January 1, 1997. lactic active setting street r

In reviewing the quotes, Van Loozen Systems, Inc. provided the only comprehensive quote that included the rotary file, fireproof cabinet and posting shelf for $1,985, including freight and installation. Therefore, it was recommended that the rotary file and two drawer fireproof cabinet be purchased from Van Loozen Systems, Inc.

Green also gave an update on the information which will be brought to the Planning Commission at its January 27 meeting from the Adult Businesses Regulation Committee. After the Planning Commission reviews this, a recommended ordinance will be brought back to the Council, hopefully by early April. It was also mentioned that Eric Williams, Big Rapids City Attorney, would be asked to provide a presentation at the joint Planning Commissions meeting in April.

Green also stated that those who served on the Adult Businesses Regulation Committee should be commended and thanked for their work.

Councilmember Myers stated that the east City Limits sign still had the "Lowell's On A Roll" board attached to it. He requested that this be removed. He also had noticed on Sunday that the Christmas decorations were still in place and asked who removed these today. City Manager Pasquale responded that Meredith Decoration Services took these down.

Mayor Thompson inquired on the status of the City entrance signs. Pasquale responded that the Planning Commission had appointed a committee and should be giving a report at their January 27, 1997 meeting.

The schedule assumed the lowering of the river. But, upon further review, King Milling had concerns about such a procedure at this time and the potential dangers the ice Councilmember Green presented a list of dignitaries as would cause. King Milling stated its intention to not lower the river until the ice melts.

Looks can be deceiving.

It looked as though the Red Arrow basketball team was in pretty good shape in its pursuit of an illusive first league win. Lowell led by two with two minutes remaining in the third quarter when East Grand Rapids' leader P. J. Cwayna picked up his fourth foul

At that point East turned it up a notch on defense and offense and in Lowell coach Pete Bush's words, "Lowell had nowhere to go.

The Pioneers came away with a 52-43 win.

"We have to learn to turn it up and do things right," Bush said. "Over the last eight minutes, East made the plays and we didn't."

With Lowell leading 27-25 with two minutes to play in the third, the Red Arrows had six consecutive possessions where they never took a shot at the basket. It resulted in East taking a 30-29 lead into the final quarter.

The fourth quarter began much the way the third ended. "We began the fourth quarter throwing the ball inbounds nd then we threw it out of bounds," Bush said:

East outscored Lowell over the final eight minutes 22-14. John Myers led all Pioneers with 23 points. Mike Norkus contributed with 13. Lowell got a team-leading 18 points from Kevin Brown.

Jeff Catlin added seven. Lowell was outrebounded 31-19. Justin Balcer led the Red While equality in basketball has not totally come about, it has in track, according to Talus.

Increased skill remains the key element in the growth and popularity of girls' athletics.

"The overall skill of girl athletes in all sports has grown dramatically," Lowell softball coach Bob Rodenhouse said. "The acceptance of girls in athletics can be attributed to this. Girls' athletics is no longer recreation. They have shown the willingness to work

Their work, however, has not brought about a change in some of the more subtle areas of high school athletics. "I think there needs to be a closer scrutiny given to the subtle things (pep assemblies, pep bands, cheerleaders)," Kuna said.

She adds there is not equality in the process used to hire coaches for boys' and girls' teams. "Girls are short changed in this area."

Press coverage in the West Michigan area is seen as pretty equal by Rodenhouse.

"I think coverage of boys and girls has been equal. The bottom line is if you're a bad team, you don't get press; if you're good, you do.'
