Few district schools escape threat posed by contaminated strawberries

•••• Lowell Schools offers preventative treatment against hepatitis A for students who may have eaten contaminated strawberries as part of their hot lunch meal on Tuesday, March 25.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell was one of 18 schools in the Kent County School District to be notified Monday morning that the strawberries they had served to children may have been contaminated with hepatitis A.

"The Kent County Health Department was in contact with all the schools on Monday determining if they had received and served strawberries," said Kent County Health Department's community relations coordinator Mike Mullet. "All but two of the schools had received and served the strawberries."

Some schools served the strawberries more than six weeks ago and some had served them within the last two weeks.

Lowell Middle School sixth-grader Andrew Bursley feels a slight bit of discomfort from his hepatitis A immune globulin injection.

after an exposure. The symptoms may include fatigue, poor appetite, fever, vomiting, jaundice and abdominal discomfort.

"Preventative treatment is effective only when given within 14 days after exposure," Mullet said.

The preventative treatment is an injection of hepatitis A immune globulin.

Mullet said Lowell was one of a few districts whose children ate the strawberries within the last two weeks.

Lowell students were served the strawberries (with shortcake) on Tuesday, March 25.

Kent County Health Department nurses were sent to Lowell Schools on Tuesday to give shots to students whose parents filled out a consent form sent home with students on Monday.

Lowell superintendent Bert Bleke did not receive the word about the contaminated strawberries until Monday.

"The school sent out letters and consent forms to parents at the earliest possible date," he said. "We will work to set up a follow-up date for shots if parents did not receive the form from their child."

The injection will only be effective if given before April 8.

As of Tuesday afternoon, before the Ledger went to press, Mullet said the Kent County Health Department had not received word that any student had contracted hepatitis A.

The infectious virus is spread by the fecal-oral route. The virus can be carried on an infected person's hand and can be spread by direct contact, or by consuming food or drink that has been handled by that individual.

Symptoms of hepatitis A appear within two to six weeks

Mullet said the shot should not be given to people who already have signs and symptoms of hepatitis A or if the exposure to the virus occurred more than two weeks ago.

"Some of the schools served the strawberries more than six weeks ago, a few within the last two weeks, and others in-between two and six weeks," Mullet said.

Vergennes Township budgets fund pension plan yet to be adopted

In preparation for a pension plan, the Vergennes Township Board has budgeted $12,000 for the upcoming year, but must adopt an ordinance before it can spend the money.

Englehardt, major library benefactor, dies

For 75 of his 96 years, Lowell's Harold Englehardt lived in Lowell.... No, he served the Lowell community.

In doing so he touched the lives of many individuals. His $380,000 contribution toward the Englehardt Public Library insured the community that he would continue to serve the residents of Lowell long after he died.

Englehardt, the former president and CEO of FMB State Savings Bank, died Tuesday, April 1.

"The library fit in with Harold's educational concerns and will broaden the scope of his generosity to individuals of all ages," said Englehardt's friend Chuck Myers. "Many people may not have known Harold the way I did, but they will always recognize and associate his name with educational opportunity as they pass through the doors

Englehardt was preceded in death by his wife, Mildred. He is survived by several nieces, nephews and close friends. Mr. Englehardt had been a resident of Lowell since 1922. Lowell uses leasing/ ownership program to attain seven district buses

By Thaddeus J, Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Regulation prohibiting schools from borrowing to pay for capital equipment has Lowell and many other districts leasing when charged with replacing old buses.

"For a school to borrow money from a bank to purchase buses, it needs an unqualified statement from its legal council saying it is authorized to do so," Lowell's interim business manager Jim Gallagher said. "With the legislation currently in place, legal council cannot give an unqualified statement."

The Lowell School District has contracted out a fiveyear ownership-lease program with Ryder Transportation Service to replace seven buses.

The contract with Ryder has the district paying $71,125.37 per year. At the end of the five years, Lowell will purchase each bus for $1 apiece.

In total, Lowell will pay $355,626.85 for the seven, 71 passenger buses. Delivery of the buses is slated for September.

Lowell transportation director Larry Mikulski said the district will replace three 1984 buses and three 1986 buses. "The seventh bus will be an addition to our fleet," he said.

Both the state and AAA recommend that schools do not of service to go back and get 3 percent of their total wages placed in the pension.

The idea of a pension plan did not upset many residents at a recent township budget hearing, but residents were not happy about allowing officials to go back 10 years and receive pension funding.

"You can take whatever percentage you want for your current salary because that is money you are contributing, but when you go back 10 years and draw funds, then you're taking taxpayers' money and that is not right," said resident Roger O'Dell.

Residents were curious as to who would determine the pension plan and when.

Stone said no ordinance has been adopted and when it is, public input will be welcomed.

"We have not hammered out an ordinance so we can't answer all the questions," said Stone.

Stone said the funds budgeted have been placed there in preparation to a plan being adopted later this year, but until then the funds will not be touched.

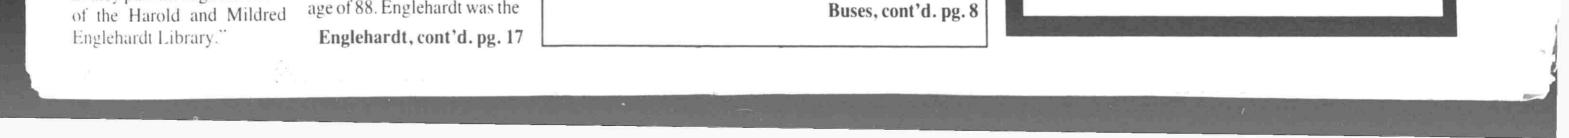

"The money can't be spent until we have an ordinance that says we can," said Stone.

Cook, along with Hoffman, would be the only two township employees eligible for the 3 percent funding over 10 years.

Cook pointed out to residents that township officials will not receive a raise this year and that the public will have a chance to discuss the plan before it's adopted, but did not inform residents when that may occur.

The Lowell Middle School "Skits & Improv" teams had an extremely successful season. The teams took firsts in their district academic track meets against Rockford and Kenowa Hills, as well as first in the regional meet which also included Comstock Park.

The team has five capped off their season, one minutes to develop the premise into a three to five meet and the second performminute skit. They're judged on interpretation of the forum meeting at the middle premise, creativity, projec- school.

Easter Sunday was quite a celebration at Lowell Wesleyan Church as a record cash offering of nearly $12,000 was received. The congregation exceeded their goal of $11,252 with more expected to come in.

The large offering was in response to a challenge issued by Pastor Bill Price to "Give It All" (one week's wages) in one great Easter Miracle offering. The purpose of the offering was to challenge the faith of LWC attenders and prove a necessary cash base for preliminary building expenses.

Lowell Wesleyan Church plans to expand its facilities later this year. Phase One of its building plans includes doubling the area of the lobby (foyer) and adding large rest rooms on the main level. Construction is expected to begin this fall with completion slated for Easter 1998.

"This was a huge faith exercise for our people" said Pastor Price. "I felt that now was the right time to move our ministry to the next level. I also knew that it always takes sacrifice to move to a higher level. Our people responded beautifully!" Space at LWC has been at a premium for 27 years. Now, as ministries have grown and expanded continuously over the last 18 months, children, youth and adult ministries all need more room. The church seeks to fulfill its vision to serve families in the Lowell community.

Complete master plans are in place to develop the facilities at Lowell Wesleyan from a capacity of 150 to over 400 people. The projects are scheduled over six phases. It is estimated to take about 10 years to complete.

The next challenge for the LWC congregation will be raising $55,000 in 88 weeks to complete the Phase One building project. Lowell Wesleyan Church is located on Hudson St., 10 blocks north of Main St. It is a family ministries community church, serving groups of all ages. Rev. Bill Price has been their pastor since 1995.

Winning and losing just a part of Dean's football program vision

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Community business representatives and individuals attending the "Touchdown Club" steak dinner Tuesday at Larkin's "The Other Place." sponsored by Curtis Cleaners, learned of Lowell football coach Noel Dean's philosophies and beliefs for building a championship football program both on and away from the field.

Dean noted that football in Lowell, can offer more than winning or losing records.

"It can offer and develop companionship, leadership, dedication and character to all involved." Dean said.

Dedication and character have been displayed both in and out of the classroom.

The LHS weightlifting program has enjoyed a high level of participation. Since the program began, 71 boys kids participating in the Dean also highlighted the many different camps that will be offered to kids.

As Dean was speaking to viduals, Lowell Youth Football League president Dave Biggs learned that Lowell was voted in as the newest member of the Northern Rocket Football League.

Lowell will play in the teams from Cedar Springs, Coopersville, East Grand Northview, Sparta, Rockford and Greenville.

With the addition of Lowell there will be over 2,800 league this season.

Biggs expects that 250-300 of those players will be from Lowell. These players will be divided into six-nine teams set by the Northern Rocket Football League.

"I think the numbers reflect the excitement that has been generated for the Lowell football program," Biggs said. "The high school program has made a difference." One of the biggest changes, however subtle, is explained by the fact that no longer are the youth football league and the high school football program talked about as separate entities. "Now the Lowell Football program includes all levels."

TOWNSHIP OF VERGENNES NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Ordinance No. 97-3, amending parts of Section 201.307, Flat River Ordinance, of the Vergennes Township Zoning Ordinance, was adopted by the Township Board on March 31, 1997 and becomes effective 30 days after public notice of its adoption.

A summary of the changes is as follows:

- I. A change in wording of A. Statement of Purpose and Description in Section 201.307 more clearly establishes the goals of the Township for the land within the Flat River District.
- II. An addition to Section 201.307 (F) more clearly provides for a 50-foot setback requirement from a bluff, as set forth by the Michigan Natural River Act of 1970.
- III. The deletion of Section 201.307 F, a. and b. eliminates the formula which allowed the reduction of certain setbacks.
- IV. An addition to Section 201.202 provides a definition for a filtered view of the river.

The full text of the adopted amendments can be reviewed at the Vergennes Township Hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

First grade learning fun

The students in Lanie Rice's first-grade class spent time learning first-hand about band. They were completing a unit on short and long U vowel sounds and got to see, hear and feel the instruments from Bob Rice's high school symphonic band. They had a chance to have a hands-on experience with drums, flutes, trumpets and tubas as well as heard tunes and music. The day ended with the students playing their own instruments and forming their own marching band.

The Lowell Ledger-Wednesday, April 2, 1997-Page 24 Lowell High School band members earn individual honors

By Thaddeus J. Kraus

Lowell Ledger Editor

Playing off the excitement of the symphonic and concert bands' division one ratings at the District 10 Concert Band Festival, Lowell High School band members

Steve Schmidt, Jennifer Gingerich and Troy Ballard met with the same success at state solo and ensemble.

Schmidt and Ballard earned division one ratings playing the tenor saxophone while Gingerich earned similar honors on the clarinet.

Lowell's Katie Balaam was also a participant in the state solo and ensemble, earning a number two rating on the violin.

All four band members qualified for the state solo and ensemble by receiving a number one rating at the district solo ensemble.

"They like and enjoy playing their instruments," Lowell High School band director Robert Rice said. "They are also dedicated and each one of them studies privately."

Ballard was selected as one of the top performers in his section and therefore was nominated to audition as a soloist with the state honors band. Ballard was also selected to play in the Central Michigan honors band.

Gingerich has been selected to play in the Grand Valley, Michigan State and District 10 honors bands.

Lowell's Angie Ward (clarinet), Curt Hines (percussion) and Tonya Crater (clarinet) were also selected to play in the Grand Valley honors band.

CITY OF LOWELL SPRING LEAF PICKUP PROGRAM

Starting the second and third weeks of April, leaves will be picked up by Denny's Disposal. You must purchase leaf bags at the same locations as the trash bags:

City Hall Family Fare Supermarket

Hahn's Hardware Lowell 66 (formerly Phillips 66)

These bags are sold in lots of 20 for $5.00. They hold 30 gallons and are made of a paper, biodegradable material. The leaves are taken to a compost area.

This is a leaf composting program. Leaves, yard waste and twigs up to 2" in diameter may be placed in the leaf bags. The composting operation cannot accept leaves in plastic bags.

If your trash pickup is Monday or Tuesday, your leaf pickup day is Tuesday, April 8 or 15. If your pickup for trash is Wednesday or Thursday, your leaf pickup is Wednesday, April 9 or 16.

Also, the leaf pickup program will continue the first Tuesday and Wednesday of each month from May to November!
