Liberty is Free; It Wasn't Cheap

John E. Moon
Commander-In-Chief

Has this special day of remembrance been lost on the American people? Many veterans believe so.

Reprinted with the permission from the May 1998 VFW Magazine

As in every town, large and small across the country, ceremonies were held to commemorate those who gave their lives in war so that a nation could enjoy its freedoms today.

And so it was Memorial Day in Lowell, as citizens gathered on Washington Street to honor their local war veterans. Most then gathered at Oakwood Cemetery for a Memorial Observance service. Former U.S. Army chaplain Gary Hauck delivered an address. The ceremony was emceed by Dave Clark and VFW 8303 commander Gordon Marshall. The benediction was given by Ed Rash, chaplain of the American Legion Post #152. Music was provided by the Lowell High School band.

It's a sacred day to all war veterans: None need to be reminded of the reason why Memorial Day must be commemorated. But what about the general public, and more importantly, future generations? Do most non-veterans really recognize the importance of May 30?

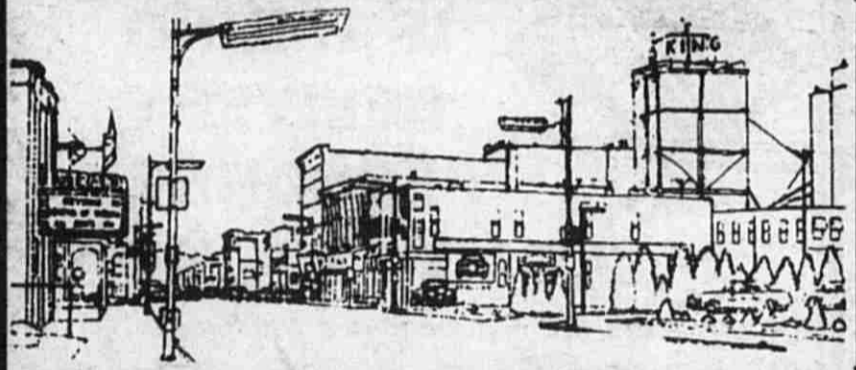

Changing the date merely to create three-day weekends has undermined the very meaning of the day. No doubt, this has contributed greatly to the general public's nonchalant observance of Memorial Day.

Judging from what Memorial Day has become—simply another day off from work—the answer is a resounding no. Perhaps a reminder is due then. And it is the duty of each and every veteran to relay the message.

Sacrifice is meaningless without remembrance. America's collective consciousness demands that all citizens recall and be aware of the

Vergennes schedules road work for some of its more dusty trails

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

The Kent County Road Commission says Vergennes Township may need another 80-100 years before it is able to finish all the needed maintenance and paving on its roadways.

That doesn't mean it won't continue to slowly progress toward completion of that costly task.

The township plans to carry out work on Burroughs, Bennett and Downes roads this summer.

The township has been advised to balance the amount of graveling and pavement it does each year.

The township currently owes a balance of $12,363.49 to the Kent County Road Commission for engineering studies completed on Downes and Bennett.

Through the road program the township participates in with the county, its share is 55 percent of each individual road project.

Burroughs Road is scheduled to be graveled this week.

deaths of their fellow countrymen during wartime.

Far too often, the nation as a whole takes for granted the freedoms all Americans enjoy. Those freedoms were paid for with the lives of others few of us actually knew. That's why they are all collectively remembered on one special day.

This should be regarded as a civic obligation. For this is a national debt that can only be truly repaid by individual Americans. By honoring the nation's war dead, we preserve their memory and thus their service and sacrifice in the memories of future generations.

They came from all walks of life and regions of the country. But they all had one thing in common - love of and

Library services improve with new computer system

...Efficiency at the core of library's new on-line catalog service

The Kent District Library (KDL) is switching over to a new on-line catalog this June that will improve library service. The new catalog is easier to use and works like the Internet when searching for titles and authors. The computer system improves library service by giving staff a more efficient tool to use for check out, check in and filling requests.

Other new features give the public greater access to help themselves. They will be able to access their own records (with a pin number) and view items they have checked out and see when they are due. Patrons can place their name on a hold list to reserve an item. Households with Internet access can search the catalog from home through the KDL web page (www.kentlibrary.lib.mi.us).

Kent District Library has launched a new web page in anticipation of the new computer system. "The new KDL home page acts as a springboard to the Internet," said John Van Valkenburg, Public Relations manager. The web site provides full access to the library catalog, other indexes and databases, Internet resources including search engines, and library news with a calendar of events. The KDL home page also includes links to community resources.

A new feature of the web page is the on-line version of the KDL "What's Next" book. This book is a directory of books in a series with rec-curring themes and characters (such as X-Files books or Babysitters Club). On the web page, this directory is a searchable database that matches booklists to inquiries.

The Kent District Library is converting to the new computer system, which will be shared among all members of Lakeland Library Cooperative throughout West Michigan. To improve consistency with neighboring libraries, the Kent District Library is changing its book-lending period to three weeks. The new loan periods go into effect when the new computers are ready for use in June.

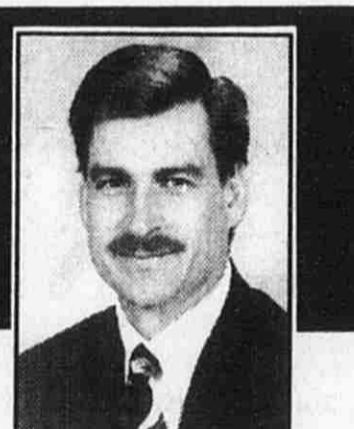

For more information about the new library catalog and computer system, please contact the Public Relations Department of the Kent District Library at 336-2557.

KCEA award honors Zeeuw, an unsung hero in Lowell School District

By J.N. Boorsma
Contributing Writer

The only thing Nan Zeeuw had her eye on this year was the Lowell Schools' mug that marked her 10 years with the district.

So when the letter from the Kent County Education Association came in the mail over spring break announcing that she had been named Paraprof of the Year, well...saying she was just a little surprised is probably just about right.

"It was over spring break so I couldn't talk to anyone in the school about it," Zeeuw said. "I decided to call the teacher that I used to work for, because I figured she would be someone who would do something like this."

Much to Zeeuw's surprise, it wasn't Karen Burd, with whom she had worked for three years in a Bushnell kindergarten class but, rather, a cast of five who nominated her. Among the "culprits" were Bushnell first-grade teacher Lanie Rice; Burd; Alto kindergarten teacher Kay Wisner; Bushnell principal Louie Dudeck; and director of curriculum and instruction Jim White. Zeeuw is either working for or has worked for all of these people during her years at Lowell.

"They were in cahoots with each other," Zeeuw said with a laugh.

But in reality, no one perhaps deserved it more than Zeeuw, said superintendent Bert Bleke during a recent board of education meeting.

"Many times when people think about education, they don't think about the paraprof and all the people who work with the children that are the unsung heroes," Bleke said.

Zeeuw works directly in the classroom as a health care aide in Rice's room.

Bleke noted Zeeuw has a wonderful way with kids and exemplifies the marvelous job done by the district's paraprof.

Because she seems like such a natural with children, it's hard to believe Zeeuw once considered not becoming a paraprof.

"Actually it fell into my lap," Zeeuw said. "I had been a fairly active mom in the school system and my twins were in first grade."

Zeeuw received a notice that Alto was experiencing some overcrowded classrooms and the principal was wondering if she would be interested in taking a paraprof position. It was a difficult decision for Zeeuw since she had been mulling over the idea of being able to do what she wanted with her days since the last of her children were now in school full time.

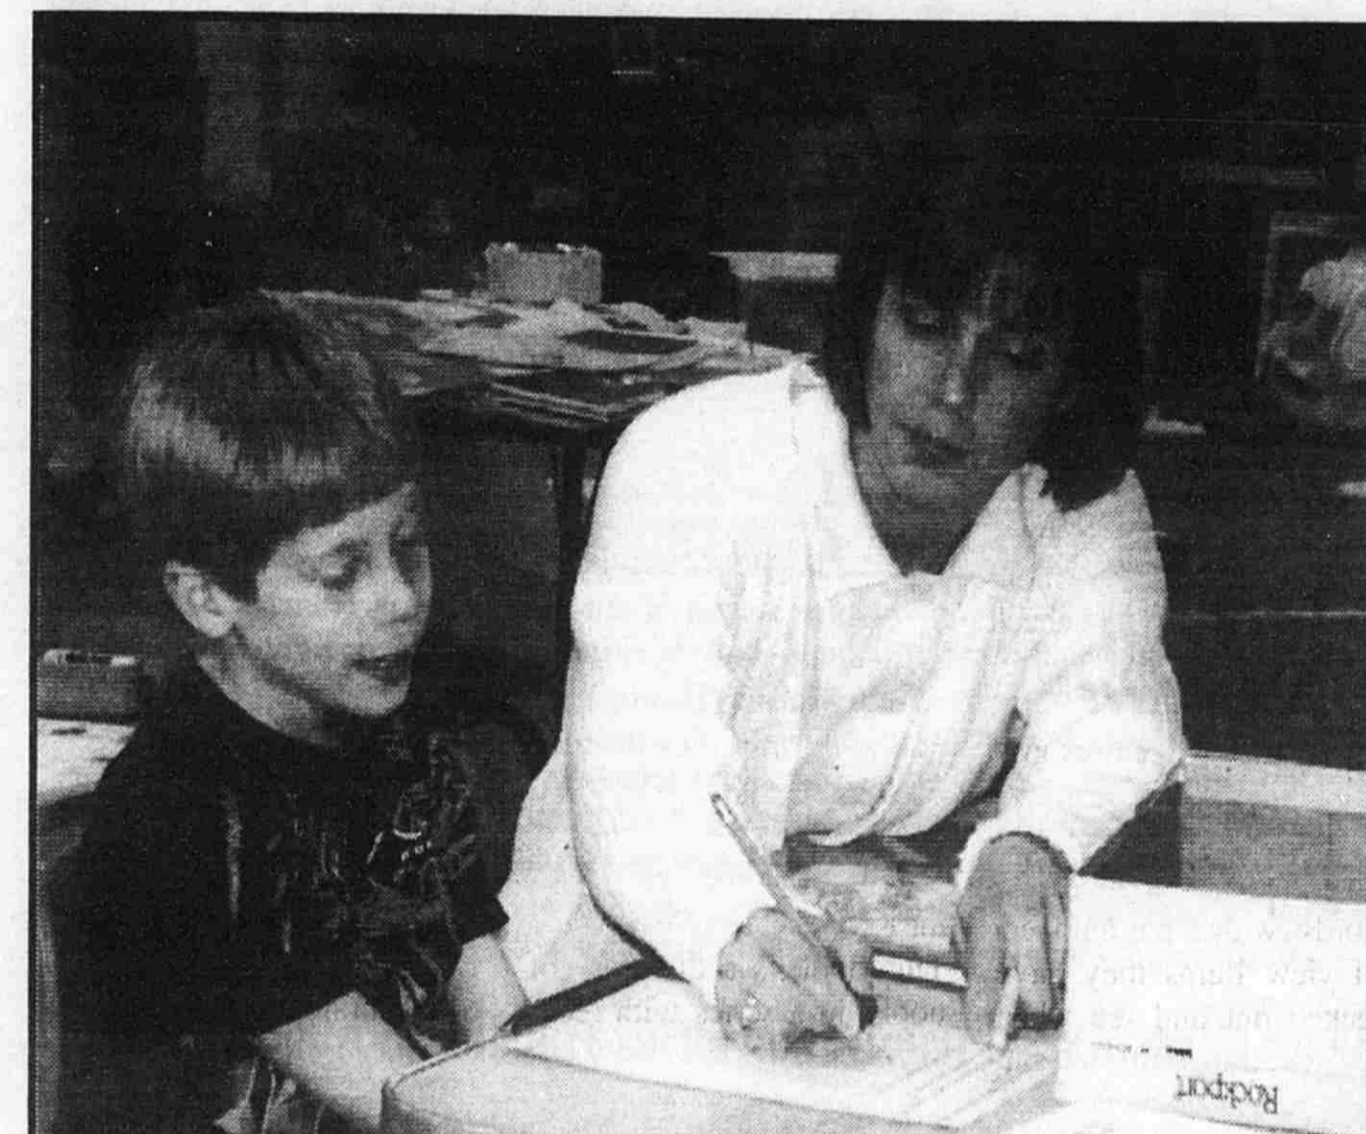

Needless to say, we all know her decision, and Zeeuw said she certainly never regretted it.

"The kids are little amazing wonders," Zeeuw said. "Every day is different and what comes out of the mouths of the children is interesting."

Now 10 years later, Zeeuw is seeing some of the elementary school children she worked with all grown up...along with her own children Elizabeth, 20, a graduate of Lowell and attending Western Michigan University; and twins Joe and Ben, 17, juniors at Lowell High School. Zeeuw, born and raised in Grand Rapids, has lived in Lowell with her husband Bryan for the past 20 years.

"I have to say I owe a lot to all the teachers I have worked for," Zeeuw said. "They are all a part of what I've become and I've learned a lot from them."

And Zeeuw doesn't plan on leaving her position too soon either. Her newest goal? "Finding out what you earn after 20 years to add to that mug," she said with a chuckle.

Nan Zeeuw helps one of Lanie Rice's first-grade students with a writing assignment.

VERGENNES TOWNSHIP NOTICE

A Public Hearing will be held during the Vergennes Township Planning Commission Meeting on Monday, June 1, 1998 at 7:00 p.m. at the Vergennes Township offices located at 10381 Bailey Dr., Lowell.

The hearing will be held to allow public comment on proposed language making allowances for and regulating docks, stairs and boardwalks in the FR (Flat River) District. It should be noted that Vergennes Township regulates permanent structures on land within the Flat River District and temporary structures in the river itself with guidance from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. Permanent structures placed in the river itself continue to be regulated by the DEQ. A summary of the proposed ordinance is as follows:

Definitions added to Article II, Section 201.202:

SS. River Access Dock - a temporary and/or seasonal appurtenance constructed primarily of natural materials which serves as a landing pier for boats and does not exceed four (4) feet in width, nor sixteen (16) feet in length with no more than four (4) feet extending over the water.

TT. River Access Stairs - a permanent stairway constructed primarily of natural materials on steep slopes to the river where no other environmentally sound access is feasible; which does not cut into the stream bank; which does not exceed four (4) feet in width; which has no landings.

UU. River Access Boardwalk - a permanent walkway constructed primarily of natural materials used to provide access to the river where a marshy area is present, and no other access point is available; which does not exceed four (4) feet in width nor does it exceed the length determined by the Zoning Administrator needed to reach the river's edge.

To Article III, Section 201.307, B., add 3., a., b., and c., which further delineate dock, stair and boardwalk construction.

a. Concerning docks: One temporary and/or seasonal dock per parcel containing a residence is permitted. Must obtain a dock and/or building permit from Vergennes Township prior to installation or construction. There are different allowances for maximum dock length for docks built in the natural course of the river and for docks built on the dammed portion of the river where river width exceeds 500 feet. Permanent docks require a permit from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

b. River Access Stairs - one stairway per parcel containing a residence is permitted to be constructed using a single handrail if needed for safety; plantings established along the sides; building permit from Vergennes Township prior to construction.

c. River Access Boardwalk - One boardwalk per parcel containing a residence is permitted; low profile; single handrail if needed for safety; building permit from Vergennes Township prior to construction, and may need a permit from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality depending upon individual circumstances.

A copy of the proposed ordinance can be reviewed at the Township Hall from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Written comments will also be considered if submitted to the Township Clerk by 7:00 p.m. on May 4, 1998.

Reflections

Of Faith

By Rev. George J. Fekete of St. Mary Church

Before a young boy left for his grandparents' house, he ran into his backyard to fill the birdbath with water.

Three days later, he returned home and he ran to the backyard expecting to see birds splashing in the bath. But there were no birds; in fact, there was no water. "Mom," the boy cried, "someone has dumped all of the water out of the birdbath!"

"No," said his mother. "nobody dumped the water, it has just gone back in the place at one time. Another reading on Ascension Thursday was from Ephesians 1:17-23 telling us that Jesus is not absent but that He, like the evaporated water, is working in other new ways. The reading tells of the strength the Father "showed in raising Christ from the dead and seating him at his right hand in heaven, high above every principality, power, virtue and domination...He has put all things under Christ's feet and has made him thus exalted head of the Church which is His body; the fullness of him who fills the universe in all its parts." Jesus is exalted now in heaven. He is seated at the Father's right hand for He is equal to the Father. The glorified Jesus shares in the reign of God over everything. He exercises His kingly power on earth through the Church. While the glorified Jesus has completed His earthly life, He is able to influence people and even the whole universe through the members of the Church, filling the world with the goodness of God. Yet He still remains Jesus, Savior with a personal knowledge and love of each of us. So the emphasis of the Ascension is not on the absence of Jesus, but on His powerful new presence among us.

sky to make a cloud so that it can go on and become rain, so that it can work in other parts of the city. When you go to school, you will find out that the teacher will call it evaporation, water moving from one place to another without being seen. But water always comes back to us in rain to help the flowers and vegetables grow."

"Mom," the little boy said, "is that what happened to Jesus? Did He evaporate so that He could go other places to help other people?"

The little boy was pretty perceptive with his question. Last Thursday, May 21, we celebrated the Ascension of the Lord into Heaven. Two Scripture references we used that day were Acts 1:2 and Luke 24:51 telling us that Jesus "was taken up to heaven." Jesus going up so that He could also come down and work in many places now. Remember before His death Jesus could only be in one

Bushnell 1st-graders raise $7,600 for St. Jude children

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

Bushnell first-grade pledges for the St. Jude Math-a-Thon just kept adding up. Pledges collected by the 110 participants more than doubled its previous high. "We've never raised over $3,500," said Bushnell Elementary first-grade teacher Annie Charles. "This year they raised $7,600."

All the proceeds will go toward helping children at St. Jude Children's Hospital. The first-grade students earned pledges for "per problem completed" or for "completing the entire book."

"Most of the kids were so excited about participating, they did the whole book in one day," Charles said.

It took Katie Sefton more than one day to garner a pledge-leading $410. Her total was the highest among participants. "I approached this with the kids under the community value compassion, and caring about others and helping to save a life," Charles explained.

DEAR JONATHAN: I have been running my own business for several years now. The first couple of years I operated the business as a sole proprietor and then I incorporated. The main reason I incorporated the business was so that I could limit my liability exposure. The business went through a downturn the last several months and as a result I got behind on my rent. Consequently, my landlord sued both my business and me individually. Luckily, I was able to work it out with him and he dropped the lawsuit. Even though I was able to work this out, I am concerned as to what could have happened. I thought being a corporation protected me from being sued.

JONATHAN SAYS: Incorporating a business does not automatically eliminate one's exposure to liability. A properly incorporated business will in some instances limit a shareholder's liability to whatever he or she has invested in the business. However, it is not a blanket protection from liability. Typically, when we speak of limiting an owner's liability, we are referring to protecting an owner against liability for the business' obligations. However, if you as the owner were to borrow money on behalf of the business from a bank, for instance, the bank would most likely require you to guarantee the corporation's debt so that if the business fails the bank has recourse against you. This is especially true when it comes to new businesses.

Regarding your particular situation with the lease, if you executed the lease in your personal name, then you would be personally responsible for the lease obligations. Since the landlord sued both you and the business, I suspect that the lease was executed by you on behalf of the corporation and then you guaranteed the corporation's obligations under the lease. If that was the case, then the landlord would have a cause of action against both you and the business for the rent due under the lease.

You also have to be careful that you follow the required corporate formalities and state law requirements if you want to take advantage of the limited liability protection a corporation affords you. For example, if you fail to treat the corporation as a separate entity by commingling your personal money and/or assets with the corporation, by executing documents in your personal name rather than as an officer of the corporation, or you fail to hold annual meetings (or at least documenting action taken by written consent) of the shareholders and directors, then you open the door for a creditor to "pierce the corporate veil" and hold you personally responsible for the obligations of the business. Although piercing the corporate veil is not a common event, it is an example of what can happen if you fail to do what is required of your business as a corporation.

Encourage you to review your corporate practices to make sure that you are doing everything you are supposed to in order to give you as much limited liability protection as possible. You should also review the lease agreement, loan documents and any other contracts which you have executed to determine which documents you signed on behalf of the corporation (or guaranteed on behalf of the corporation), and which documents you executed in your individual name.

DEAR JONATHAN: My father recently died. Although he did not leave a will, a couple of years prior to his death he put my name on the title of all of his assets. Since I am on all of the titles of his assets, it is my understanding that there is no probate to deal with and no taxes that have to be paid. Is this correct?

JONATHAN SAYS: Whether your father's estate will need to be probated will depend upon how those assets were titled between the two of you. If you were placed on the title as a joint tenant with full rights of survivorship, then you are correct and those assets are now legally owned by you without the necessity of probate.

On the other hand, if any of those assets were titled between the two of you not as joint tenants with full rights of survivorship, but as tenants in common, then one-half of any such property will be deemed owned by your father and will need to be probated. Upon the completion of probate, the one-half interest in any such property will pass to your father's heirs pursuant to Michigan law since he did not leave a will.

Your understanding regarding the taxability of your father's estate is incorrect. The rule is that any time a decedent is titled on an asset with another person who is not the decedent's spouse, the entire value of that asset is taxed in the decedent's estate unless the estate can show contribution by the surviving titleholder or titleholders. You indicated in your question that your father placed your name on his assets a couple of years prior to his death which indicates that the assets were already in existence, which would further indicate that you did not provide any consideration for those assets. Consequently, if this assumption is correct, then all of those assets in which you, and your father hold title to together would be taxed in your father's estate.

I strongly urge you to meet with an estate planning attorney to review the titles on the various assets to determine whether a probate estate needs to be opened on behalf of your father. At the same time, that attorney, with the help of a CPA, can review the valuations of the various assets to determine whether a federal estate tax return needs to be filed. Good luck.

NATURAL HORMONES A POSSIBLE ALTERNATIVE?

Menopause is the cessation of menstruation due to the ovaries failing. Premenopause is characterized by a gradual decline in ovarian function and estrogen production. The average age of menopause is 51 years with the range being 40-60 years. There are numerous studies that show evidence that estrogen replacement therapy (ERT) affords numerous benefits to postmenopausal women. ERT reduces the risks of heart disease and lowers cholesterol. It improves memory. ERT, in combination with calcium and vitamin D, reduces the risks of osteoporosis. ERT also alleviates hot flashes and reduces vaginal dryness. The four main reasons why women decline to take ERT are as follows: 1. A history of breast cancer or endometrial cancer, recent blood clots, and history of chronic impaired liver disease. Women with these medical problems should not take ERT. 2. The fear of developing breast cancer. There has been recent media attention stating estrogen increases the risks of breast cancer, even though research is conflicting and far from complete. 3. Women discontinue ERT due to nuisance side effects, especially bleeding. 4. A common phrase from women is, "Why should I take ERT if I don't have hot flashes or any symptom of menopause?" They are not aware of the benefits of ERT.

There are many over-the-counter self-treatment products available, without FDA approval. The safety of these preparations may be greater than normal physiologic hormone levels. Firm scientific evidence has yet to be obtained for most nonhormonal remedies, but many women consider them helpful, especially for mild symptoms.

Phytoestrogens are plant-derived substances and are weaker than the estrogen in hormone replacement therapy and their effects on menopausal symptoms tend to be strong. Phytoestrogen agents are prominent in most herbal products. The hormonal traits of phytoestrogens are attributed to a family of compounds known as isoflavones. Food is the safest source of isoflavones, such as: alfalfa, almonds, apples, cashew nuts, corn, flax seed, lentils, licorice root, miso, oats, papaya, peanuts, peas, seaweed, soybeans, tofu and wheat. In one study it took 12 weeks of following a phytoestrogen diet to see relief of menopausal symptoms.

Some other natural products used to treat menopause symptoms are estrogenic herbs - anise, black cohosh, chasteberry, dong quai, fennel, ginseng, red raspberry leaf and sage. Progestogenic herbs are Mexican wild yam root and sarsaparilla.

This type of natural therapy is not for everyone, but if you are unable or unwilling to take prescription ERT, there is another treatment option. There are no studies to test the amount of natural hormones that are safe. Keep in mind that large amounts of some compounds can be toxic. Long term effects of natural ERT have not been studied. Women who take considerable amounts of phytoestrogen should probably add a natural progesterone in order to avoid build up of the uterine lining and the risk of endometrial cancer. Traditional estrogen replacement therapy is very helpful in millions of women.

Vergennes Township approves its first PUD

••• The 18.83 acre site at 1900 Lincoln Lake Rd. was approved with three contingencies.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

Engineer Ray Zandstra and Jordan Meadows developer Mike Harding have seen plenty of Vergennes Township officials since drawing up their plans last November.

Anxious to get started with their site development, Zandstra and the Hardings were pleased when the Vergennes Township Planning commission agreed to recommend rezoning under the PUD ordinance and the township board later approved its first PUD.

The approvals came with a few contingencies:

- That the developers get a letter of approval from the Kent County Health Department on the plan. With a change in site boundaries, developers were asked to have soil borings done so to check for the lands perkability (ability to handle waste materials).
- Approval of the Zoning Board of Appeals.
- That Jordan Meadows and Jim Hegerty, engineer, come to an agreement on roadside ditches inside the development. Zandstra prefers using the natural topography; Hegerty recommends using ditches.

The 18.83 acre site with the average lot size just under two acres will leave seven acres (a third of the site) in its natural state. The site is located at 1900 Lincoln Lake Rd.

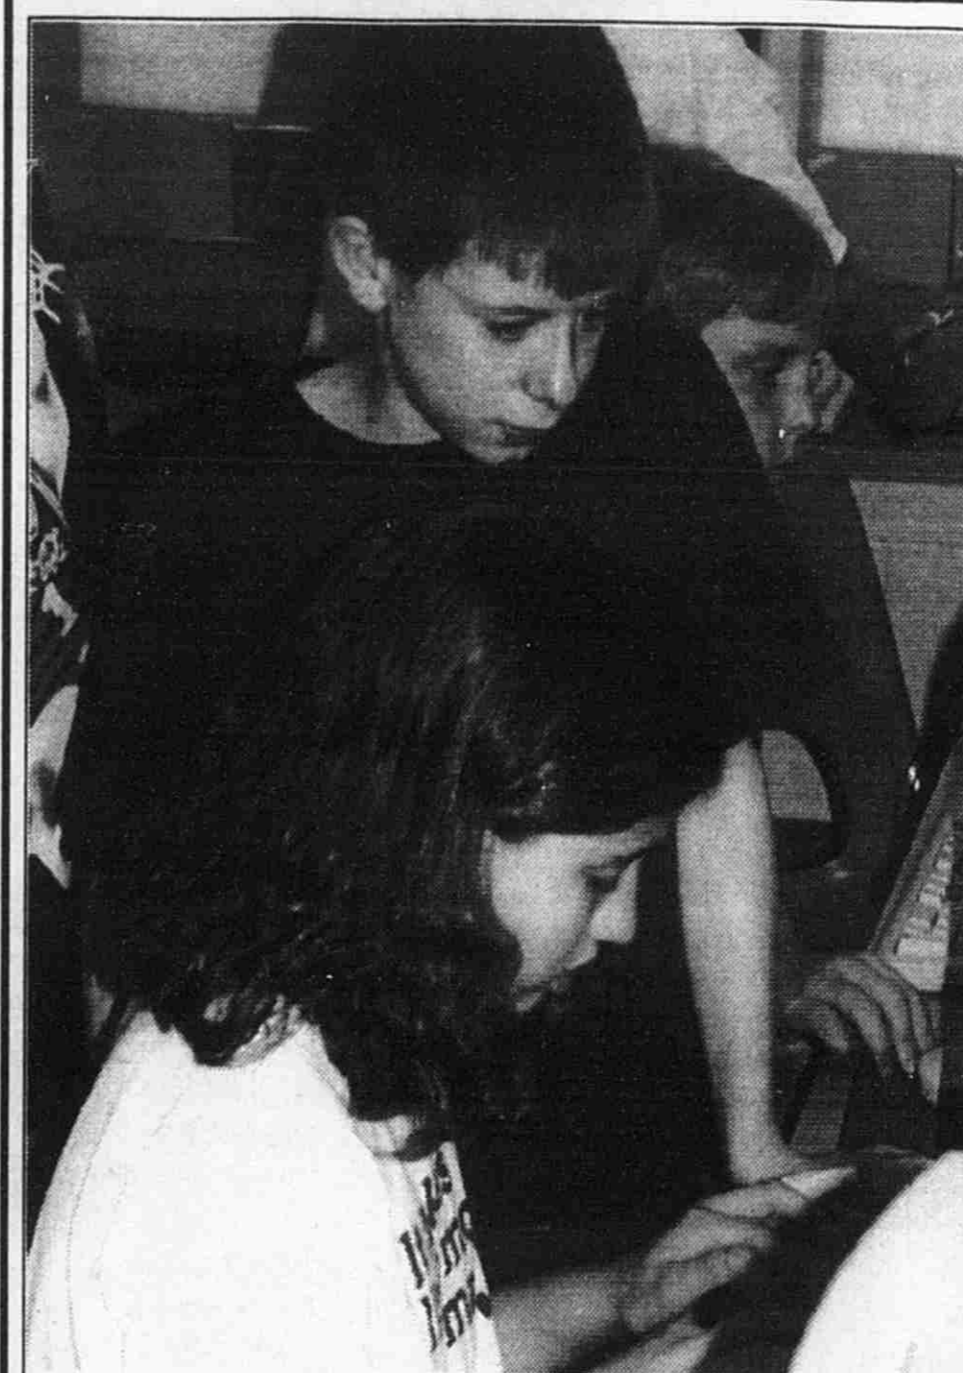

Cherry Creek students design their own Web page

••• They not only learned about computers, but also about writing and interviewing. The big reward will be dialing it up at night and seeing it on their screens.

Gary Heitz

Cherry Creek Elementary instructor

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

Mike Fillman's Cherry Creek fifth-graders discovered that designing a Web page can be fun and a lot of work.

The Cherry Creek Elementary Web page will be up and ready for use on Friday. Browsers will then learn the students' Web page is also very informative.

"I thought it would take a week to get it up and running," said Adam MacDonald, one of its eight designers. "But it takes a long time to pull everything together."

The project has helped expose students to technology they need to be involved with and understand.

Helping MacDonald with the Web page design were John Peirce, Chelsea Kara, Meghan Beachum, Audrey Fleet, Andy Smith, Jenna Dickerman and Lerin Bommarito.

"The Web page includes information about the school, staff, and what's happening at Cherry Creek," Bommarito explains. It will also detail a student section containing movie and video game reviews and student surveys.

"In the future, we would like to add tutor pages, class newsletters and a monthly feature," Fillman says.

Various cover drawings for the Web page were designed. Students, then chose what they thought looked best.

The work was done in Cherry Creek's computer lab, with the guidance of computer instructor Gary Heitz. "I just steered them in the right direction; they did all the typing," he explains.

The Web page process took a couple of months. Fillman's class spent 40 minutes a week working on it.

"They not only learned about computers, but also about writing and interviewing," Heitz said. "The big reward will be dialing it up at night and seeing it on their screens."

The web page can be accessed by dialing up <http://www.iserv.net/~cherry>.

"It has been years since Burroughs has been graveled," said Vergennes Township interim supervisor Marsha Wilcox.

The total project cost for graveled Burroughs is $16,800. The township's share will be $9,240.

The township's share for paving Bennett Road is $167,269. The total project cost is $304,126.

The graveled of Downes Road ($60,000) will cost Vergennes Township $33,000.

The township budgets $60,000 each year for road maintenance and paving.

loyalty to country. This bond cemented ties between them in times of trials, allowing a diverse lot of Americans to achieve monumental ends.

We remember the loss of loved ones, a sense of loss that takes group form. In essence, America is commemorating those who made the greatest sacrifice possible - giving one's own life.

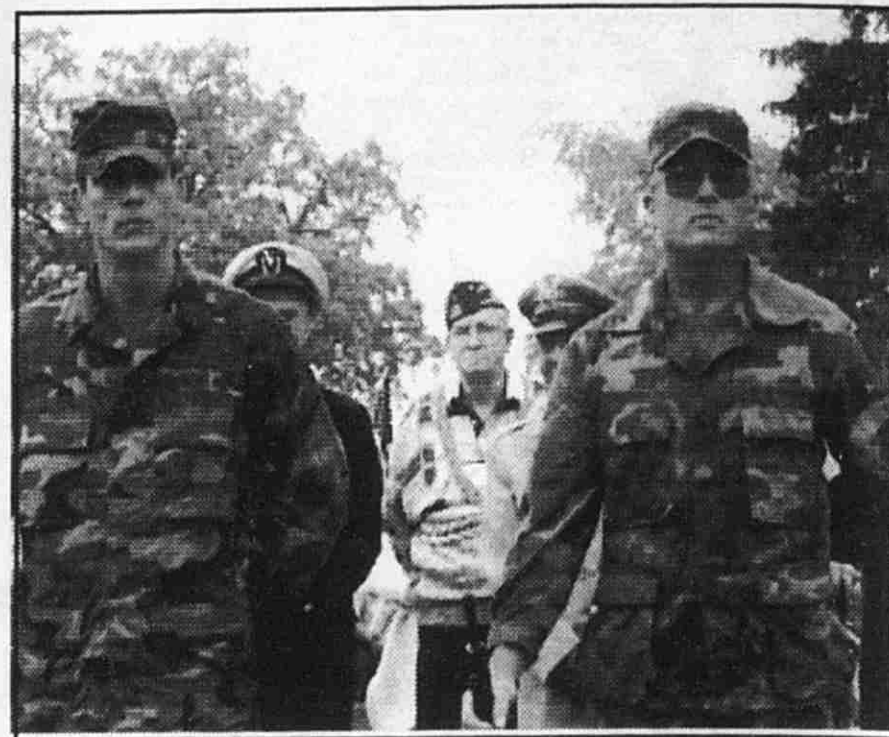

Means of paying tribute vary. Pausing for a few moments of personal silence is available to everyone.

Attending commemorative ceremonies is the most visible way of demonstrating remembrance: placing flags at gravesites, marching in parades, sponsoring patriotic programs, dedicating memorials and wearing Buddy Poppies are examples.

Whether done individually or collectively, it is the thought that counts. Personal as well as public acts of remembering are the ideal. Public displays of patriotism are essential if the notion of remembering war dead is to be instilled in the young.

As America's 12 million war veterans fast disappear from society's landscape, there are fewer and fewer standard bearers left to carry the torch of remembrance. Such traditions will live on only if there is a vibrant movement to which that torch can be passed.

Vergennes Township Board fills vacancies

Vergennes Township filled seven vacancies representing four different township boards.

Kerry Tap, Joe Host and Scott Jernberg will make up the newly formed construction board of appeals.

Host will also replace Mari Stone as the alternate on the zoning board of appeals.

With input from the Vergennes Township Planning Commission, the Vergennes Township Board appointed Cyndi Dalga to the planning commission. Dalga was one of three applicants.

Dalga and Ron Rittersdorf were reappointed to the Vergennes Township Historical Commission.

City Operating Budget for 1998-99. The document outlines proposed revenues and expenditures for the coming fiscal year. The General Fund has a total of 1.904 million in proposed expenditures. After the hearing, the council will consider adoption of the budget.

Manufactured Housing Meets a Variety of Needs

Who buys the fastest-growing type of housing in the U.S.? Over 1,000 Michigan residents, that's who. Nearly two-thirds of Michigan's manufactured home owners are under 50 years old (65 percent) and more than 60 percent have household incomes of less than $30,000. Occupations are divided between blue collar workers, white collar workers, retirees and other (students, agricultural workers, service workers and military employees).

Why manufactured housing? Two reasons: affordability and value. This type of housing is the answer for many Michigan residents who haven't been able to qualify for their own home at today's prices. With site-built housing costs averaging more than $100,000, many residents are priced out of the market, especially if they are young, or have single or fixed incomes.

With household composition changing, the future market growth potential for manufactured housing appears to be singles, unrelated couples, married couples with one or more children, and single parents with one or more children—all of these groups are generally found to have low-to-moderate incomes and are renting their current dwellings. Already this change in household makeup has im-acted the industry. In Michigan, more than 37 percent of manufactured home owners are women living alone or with their children.

Senior adults continue to find manufactured housing an attractive alternative to site-built homes. Even though this group is more likely than younger groups to own their homes free and clear, they often live in older homes and find the cost and labor of upkeep and repair to be more than they want, or can afford.

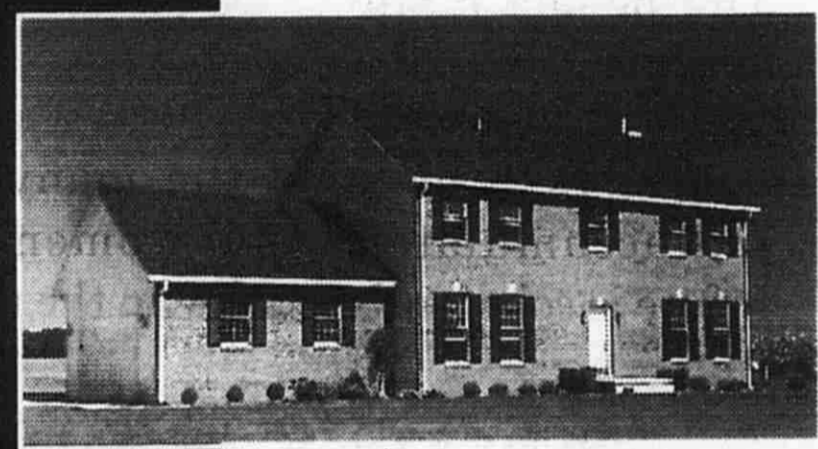

Manufactured home communities serve the needs of many Michigan homeowners. In a 1997 survey by Macomb Community College, 44 percent of residents who recently moved to a manufactured home community moved to another manufactured home community. Manufactured housing, according to this survey, met many of the needs of its homeowners. Residents of communities stated that they liked the security of their neighborhood atmosphere and the lifestyle that it provided.

The 'People' Side of Factory-built Housing

Make no mistake about it, the manufactured housing industry is also a people business.

A lot has been written about the advantages of having a home built in a factory with all the protection of a factory roof and the modern technology that is housed in the plant... it's all true. The industry also has a professional army of men and women who run the plants and use the modern technology to build the homes.

Roger Lewis lives in Michigan and makes a short trip across the border to his work at an Indiana manufactured housing plant. He's spent the last 18 of his 52 years in the industry. Lewis takes an enormous amount of pride in his work. If you ask him what he does, he'll hand you a personal card that says "Roger D. Lewis, Design Engineer & Cabinet Maker." Visit him at work and you'll find him surrounded by machinery, cabinets and fellow workers. Watch him and you'll see a man who moves quickly, is very efficient with his time and is obsessive about quality. They call his area of the plant the cabinet shop.

As you watch the partially constructed home approach the cabinet shop, you'll see Lewis and his fellow workers move a set of cabinets into place that are specifically built for that house. As they install them, it's remarkable how precisely they fit. Lewis remarks that their tolerance is zero, "everything must fit perfectly."

The HUD building code for manufactured housing was introduced in 1976 and has set high standards for construction. According to Lewis, most manufactured homes are overbuilt, "We actually go beyond the HUD code; we build a better house than we have to."

When asked about his challenges, he says that one of his greatest is designing new cabinets for the ever-changing floor plans. He has a special area at his home where he can take building prints and spend time creating new designs. He remarks, "We're constantly upgrading our cabinets to reflect the consumer's taste."

Watching the process of a manufactured home being built is a unique experience. Lewis and his colleagues waste no time. As the homes slowly move between the various construction areas, workers move with great swiftness. There are no hammers and nails, but there are automatic nail guns popping rhythmically; you'll also hear the high-pitched sound of a u t o m a t i c wrenches. Overhead, large cranes gently lower walls and roofs to their exact location.

Electrical craftsmen systematically guide carefully prepared bundles of wires along walls and floors; window installers place name-brand windows in their specific openings. And, there's the ever-present inspection team, double checking each operation. Each person working on the line has a special skill.

Cleanliness is obvious as you walk through the plant. The people maintaining the order are constantly at their work... nothing accumulates, refuse is constantly being removed.

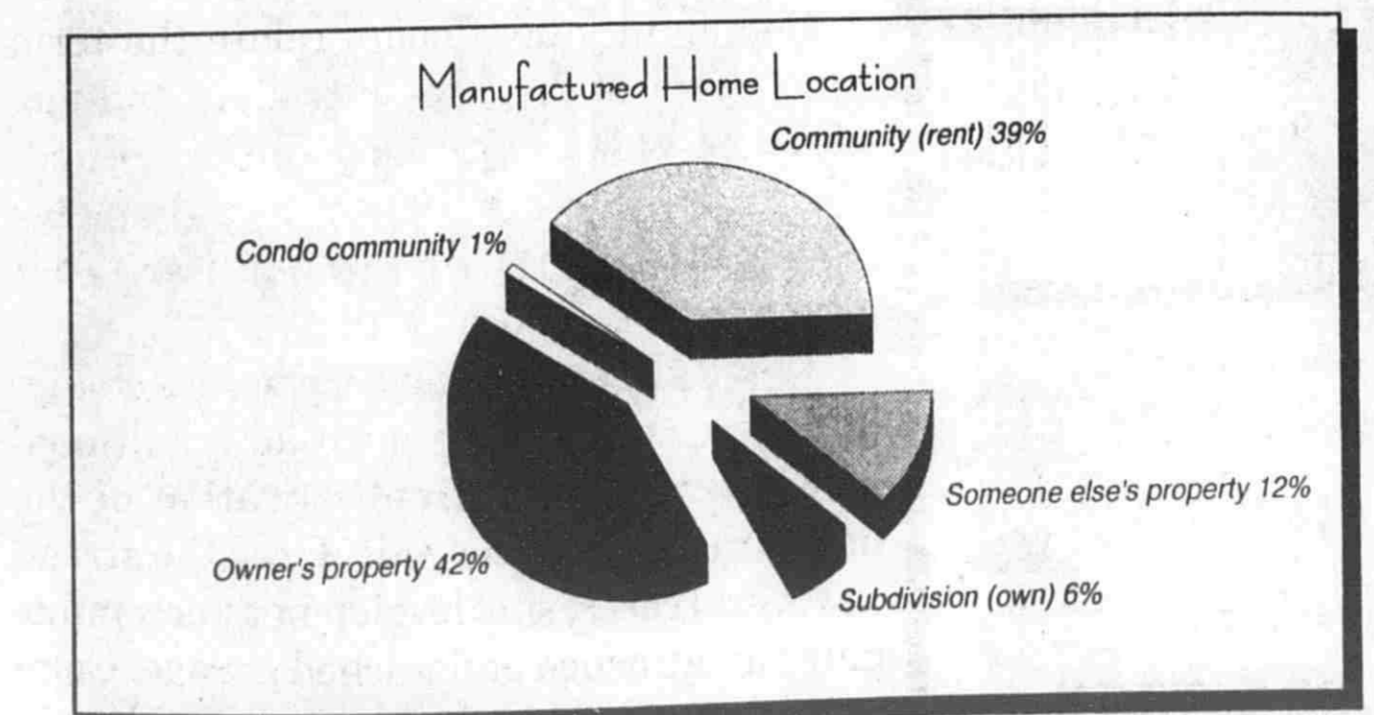

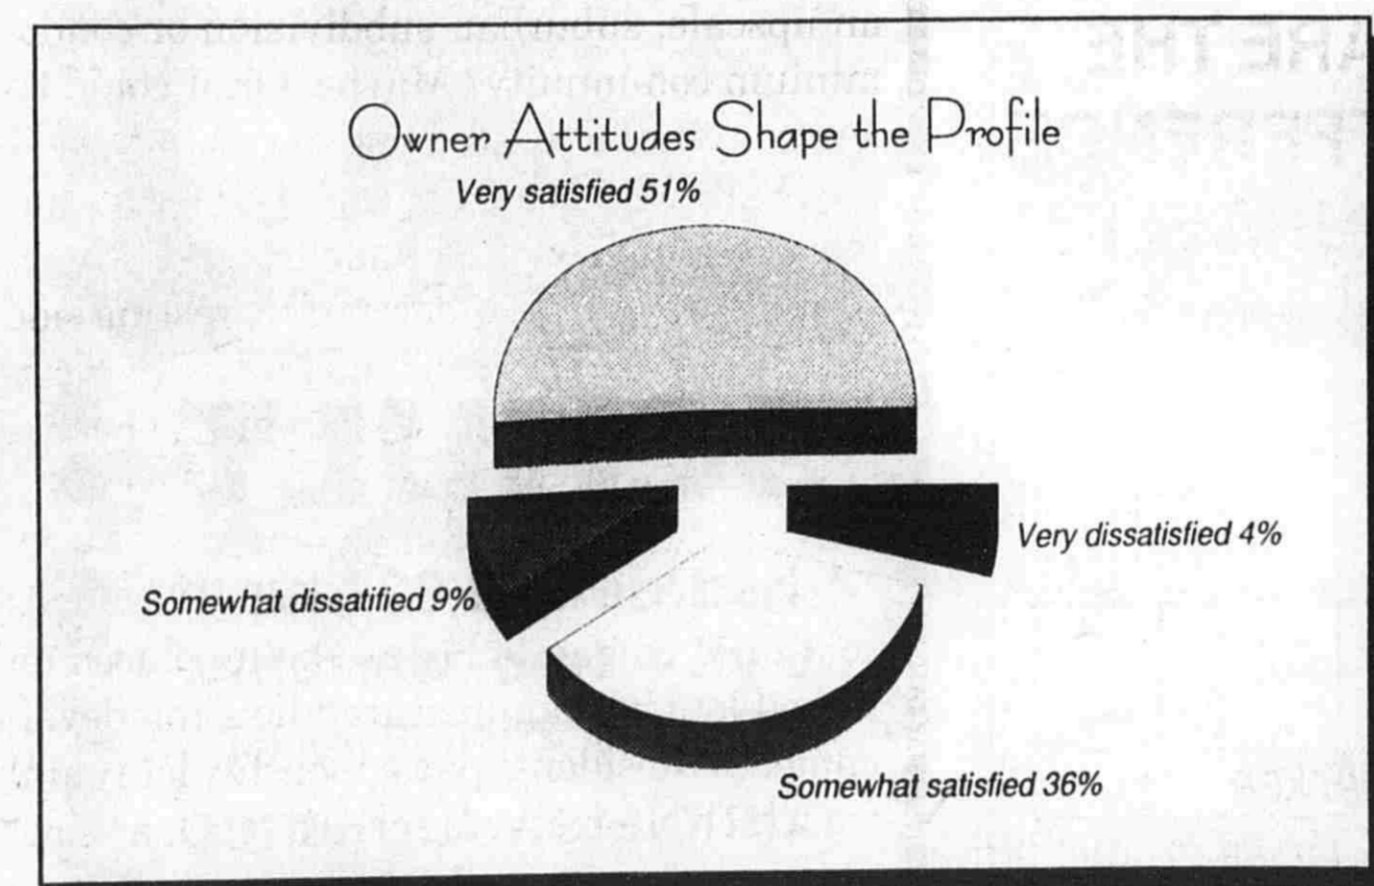

Computer screens are found throughout the plant. The highly trained people who operate them provide modern designs and floor plans; efficient use of materials, right-ontime scheduling, and communication with suppliers and retailers.

Teamwork is apparent. If one person along the line fails to do their job properly, it affects all of the workers. Each worker knows that what he or she does has an effect on everyone else.

Roger Lewis is a professional and an excellent example of the many men and women who make up the manufactured housing industry. It is also a people business.

Inside A Manufactured Home

There are two ways to build a home. Outdoors in the elements... where materials, workers and the entire home-building process are at the mercy of mother nature. Workers are limited to the use of only basic tools. It's also a place where construction can come to a halt for long periods of time because of the shortage of workers. Or, in a controlled, modern factory... where skilled workers use weather protected materials. Giant high-tech fixtures and jigs guarantee perfect corners, true walls, and tolerances that are by the book. Walls, roofs and floors are brought together with large overhead cranes. It's a place where teams of skilled workers efficiently combine their energies to build a quality home in a timely fashion. It's easy to see which is best for the home and its owner. The materials used, after all, are the same in the two structures. The difference is that those used to craft your manufactured home are stored indoors and then assembled in a controlled climate, making the most of both materials and worker talents. When a manufactured home begins to take shape, all the materials needed to create it are at hand—wood and wiring, windows and floor coverings, plumbing and electrical fixtures. There's no waiting for supplies, no weather-damaged materials. It is your home, too. More than half of the homes built in factories are built to the individual order of the new homeowner—built to custom specifications, but within the controlled setting of the factory.

Packaged or custom-ordered, manufactured homes have many features that create a better home and happier owner. Typically, floors are built upon a steel I-beam frame, with 2"x 6" joists and 16-inch centers. Most sidewalls are 2" x 6" construction. High quality sidewall insulation keeps manufactured homes comfortably cool in summer and snugly warm in winter.

Flooring is glued and nailed to joists, and electrical wiring and plumbing service is brought up neatly through the floor. Walls are built on jigs—perfectly square walls matched to perfectly square floors, attributes rarely found in homes built on site. Name-brand windows and doors are added and completely sealed. Cutting-edge technology is seen in such features as thermal pane windows, including some with E-glass, argon filled.

Atop the walls are trusses, then roofing and shingles, assembled indoors into complete roofs ready for the toughest punishment nature can dish out.

That's all standard. But factory construction doesn't mean that all manufactured homes are alike. Your dream house takes shape here, with up to four bedrooms, multiple baths, cathedral ceilings, skylights, porches, pitched roofs and sidings of vinyl, redwood, aluminum or wood. Some manufacturers use sidings from national suppliers, so you can add a garage or other building to match.

The kitchen layout meets your needs, the wall treatment matches your tastes, the appliances and floor coverings are your choice.

Manufactured Housing Retailers Offer Full Service to Consumers

So, you're interested in a manufactured home, but you're not sure how the buying process works for a home built in a factory and not at the home site. Here are answers to some of the most frequently asked questions—from home selection to move-in—and the role of your professional manufacturer housing retailer from start to finish.

Where do I start?
• Call 1.800.477.5333

for a consumer information kit on manufactured housing.

• Check the yellow pages under "mobile homes" or "manufactured housing."

• Contact your local chamber of commerce for names of retailers, or call the Michigan

Manufactured Housing Association in Okemos (517.349.3300).

• Like any purchase, shop around for the retailer that has the type of product you want and with whom you feel comfortable. Most retailers represent several home manufacturers to cover a wide range of options and pricing. Others are able to offer this through one manufacturer. Some retailers offer only the larger multi-section homes.

What can I afford?
As in site-built housing, most people have a good idea of what they can afford on a monthly basis. Your retailer will assist you in translating that figure to the cost of a home.

Don't Call Me Trailer... Anymore!

My ancestors be the automobile fathers provided ground. He was a bit some or grow old gracefully. My grandfather wasn't nearly the wanderer that his father was. After World War 11, the veterans came home looking for temporary housing for their "baby boom" families. "Trailer parks" were common; people found them to be good places to live, and trailers were easy to move to a new job location or for long vacations. They were short and skinny and didn't take up much room wherever they went.

and dryer, and a carport—all things the older generation thought were frivolous.

Safety was a big issue. The government established new laws in the '70s that mean we are much less vulnerable to the elements. Our neighborhoods look nicer, too—not like trailer parks, anymore—instant, much like any suburban subdivision.

Here I am—all grown up in the '90s. My father says I am more beautiful and sophisticated than our ancestors could ever have imagined. He says I look just like our city cousins who always stayed in one place, never went anywhere.

Everyone in my generation has all the finer things anyone would want: microwave ovens, dishwashers, Jacuzzis, skylights, wood-burning fireplaces and garages, to name just a few. And, our neighborhood is so beautiful—no one ever moves away. The community has a pool, clubhouse, tennis, golf, biking trails, and nearby, all the shopping anyone needs. Some of us prefer to be out in the country, on private land with lots of room between us and our neighbors. Others are "up north," on a wooded lot or along a sandy Michigan shoreline as a comfortable vacation getaway.

My children are expecting even more when they grow up. They already see themselves as no different than their city cousins. They expect to have built-in home theaters and audio systems, picture phones, miniature satellite dishes—anything technology develops, they will have.

Is It Manufactured, Modular, or Mobile?

Manufactured, modular and mobile—is there a difference between these homes? The answer is yes.

Manufactured housing is defined as a structure built on a permanent chassis which is designed to be used with or without a permanent foundation when connected to the required utilities. Additionally, it is constructed in a factory with federal standards enforced by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). Modular homes, also factory-built, meet codes regulated by state and local agencies. In Michigan and most Midwestern and Eastern states, this is the Building Officials and Code Administrators International, Inc. (BOCA) code.

Manufactured homes are single-story and delivered to the homesite in one, two, or occasionally three sections. Flooring, cabinetry, fixtures, appliances and plumbing have been installed at the factory. Modular homes can be one- or two-story dwellings and are delivered to the homesite in two or more sections, often as a shell of a house. Some of the interior amenities may be installed at the homesite, therefore, governed by local codes.

"Mobile home" is the now-outdated name for manufactured housing, the term mandated by the federal government in 1976. As described by the Manufactured Housing Institute, manufactured homes are more residential-like and larger than traditional "mobile homes." According to Timothy J. DeWitt, executive director of the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association IMMHA, "Less than five percent of these homes are ever moved, so calling them 'mobile' is passe." A manufactured home has dimensions larger than 8 feet by 32 feet and is a permanent dwelling. All of this housing built after 1976 must comply with federal standards which regulate such things as durability, materials and systems, wind and fire safety, and energy efficiency.

These standards make manufactured housing competitive with site-built homes in terms of physical performance and comfort. A recent University of Michigan study noted that the manufactured housing industry has been a leader in developing and implementing new technology that has eventually made its way into site-built housing.

Today's manufactured housing offers more space than ever before. Multi-section homes are available with floor space ranging from 1200 square feet to over 2400 square feet. With 5/12 pitched roofs, garages and landscaping, these homes are often indistinguishable from conventional site-built housing. In Michigan, multi-section homes now outsell single-section homes, 70 percent vs. 30 percent, an increase of 11 percent in the past three years. This places Michigan #1 in the nation in multi-section sales in relation to total sales.

For more information about manufactured housing, call 1.800.477.5333 for a free consumer information package or contact the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association, 2222 Association Drive, Okemos, MI. 48864-5978; 517.349.3300.

Michigan Manufactured Housing Association

The Michigan Manufactured Housing Association (MMHA) is a nonprofit trade association representing the manufactured housing industry in Michigan founded in 1941. There are nearly 1,000 MMHA members including retailers, suppliers, community owners, installers, service companies, financial institutions, and manufacturers.

Did you know that nearly 35% of all new housing starts in Michigan are factory built "Site Ready" homes? What are the main reasons for this?? ...Affordability, convenience and value! Today's manufactured homes offer amenities also found in high end "custom" site built homes at a fraction of the cost. Compared to site built housing that ranges from $65.00 to $95.00 per square foot, factory built BOCA code housing (the same code used for site built homes) ranges from $45.00 to $50.00 per square foot. While factory built HUD housing ranges from $25.00 to $30.00 per square foot.

This could save you tens of thousands of dollars in your investment. For example: a 1500 square foot BOCA code home can save you over $40,000! Today's factory built housing quality and value will surprise you. If you have not seen a manufactured home lately and you are in the market for a new home, you owe it to yourself to "check it out." You will find a variety of floor plans to choose from (or you can design your own) and the options are almost endless. These homes are designed to meet a variety of today's lifestyles. LAAC spaghetti dinner fund-raiser June 8

The Lowell Area Arts Council Center, located at 149 S. Hudson St., will be a jumpin' joint Monday, June 8.

Mike and Judy Tummino and the Ionia County National Bank have come together to present a spaghetti dinner fund-raiser for the Lowell Area Arts Council.

Tummino is known within the community for his famous spaghetti dinners. The menu for the evening will feature spaghetti with or without meat sauce, garlic bread, salad of mixed greens with choice of dressings, pie and iced beverages.

Also on view in the gallery space is "Harry & Friends," an annual water-color exhibit.

If that were not enough, a special musical performance will be presented by Grand Rapids resident Nick Washburn. Don't let his young age of 13 fool you; this young man has been around. Washburn is knowledgeable of many instruments, from cello to electric and acoustic guitar. His experience ranges from St. Cecilia Music Society's Youth String Symphony to a gig at the Rhythm Kitchen Cafe.

Due to space limitations, this event is by reservation only. Reservations may be made for 5:00, 6:15 or 7:15 p.m. seatings and they are $10 per person. Call Liz or David at the center at 897-8545. Don't miss this evening and your chance to support the arts in your community.

FHN ousts Lowell girls' soccer team from district

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

The game plan was to score early, put pressure on the opponent and maybe create a little frustration. Forest Hills Northern would have none of it. The Huskies, playing with some motivation, came out and took the game to the underdog Red Arrows. Northern scored a little less than 10 minutes into the game on a trick play off a corner kick.

Julie Wisner leaps high into the air to stop the ball with her foot.

Lowell was plagued by another slow start. "We were flat," said Red Arrow girl soccer coach Ryan Conlan. "We needed to come out and score early and apply pressure. We're not experienced enough to know that it's okay to be behind, the game is 80 minutes long."

Lowell struggled to move the ball up field against a seasoned Huskie team.

"We chased the ball a lot," Conlan said. "We also didn't do a good job of marking up. The girls got burned on many give and goes."

Boys' 3200 relay team takes 1st at John Bos

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

The Lowell boys' 3200-meter relay team showed again it is one of the best in West Michigan.

The team of Ryan Wittenbach, Jeff Ortowski, Adam Mix and Nate Schoen took top honors at the John Bos Invitational with a time of 8:14.8.

The foursome was third in the Champion of Champions with a time of 8:14.3.

Tyler Southwell placed sixth in the pole vault with a height of 12-6.

The senior finished seventh in the Champion of Champions.

Mike Williams was eighth in the 100-meter at the Champion of Champions meet. He was clocked at 12 seconds.

Wittenbach came home fourth in the 800-meter run. He posted a personal best time of 1:58.8.

Conlan called his club's performance frustrating. "We just didn't play smart. It wasn't one of our better efforts. Northern is a good team. They were just too much for a first-year program."

Lowell finished its first season of girls' soccer with a record of 5-12. "I'm not disappointed. Starting from scratch and adjusting to a coach is tough," Conlan said.

The Red Arrow coach wished his club could have won one of their close games with Zeeland or Hastings. "I think that would have given us more confidence for next year."

Conlan says starting a new program was the challenge he thought it would be.

"We're going to get a summer program going and get the girls to begin lifting weights," he says. "They need to step up and make a commitment to getting better."

Red Arrow boys finish regular season with four wins in five outings

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

Winners of four of its last five games, the Lowell baseball team seems primed for district play.

"It helps," said Lowell baseball coach Kris Kropf. "Four of five gets us going." After doubling up Lake-wood, the Red Arrows liked it so much they repeated the feat against Northview.

Lowell defeated Northview 12-2 and 7-4 to finish the year at 4-10 in the OK White.

Dusty Gless picked up his fifth win of the year in game one. The Lowell ace pitched four no-hit innings while giving up two walks and striking out three.

"I took Dusty out after four innings because we were up 10-0. I wanted to save his arm," Kropf explained.

Leading 3-0, Lowell broke the game wide open with a seven-run third inning. The Red Arrows lined seven singles to go with one walk.

Collecting RBI singles were Keith Valentine, Steve VanLaan and T.J. Thayer. Brad Lyons contributed with a two-run single.

VanLaan batted twice in the inning, singling in each at-bat.

The Red Arrows scored their three runs in the second inning on RBI singles by Lyons, Jim Gilchrist and Tim VanLaan.

In game two, Northview jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

The Wildcats held on to that lead until the second inning.

Lowell rallied, plating four runs.

The big hit in the inning was a two-run double by Josh VanAlstine. Tim VanLaan also added an RBI single.

Van Laan (2-1) also picked up the victory, pitching five innings in relief. He allowed two runs on six hits while striking out four.

The two clubs exchanged runs in the third. Northview added a run in the fifth and Lowell came back with two of its own.

Lowell scored two runs on nine hits.

The Red Arrows finished the season at 11-15 overall. They will play the winner of the Forest Hills Northern and East Grand Rapids game in district play in Caledonia.

Northview scored the winning run in the ninth inning of game two on a walk, an error, and a sacrifice bunt.

On the sacrifice, the ball and runner arrived at third base at the same time, with the ball getting past third baseman Amy Snell and shortstop Angie Young (backing up on the play).

"It was a heartbreaking loss," Lowell softball coach Bob Rodenhouse said. "We wasted a great pitching performance by Andrea Rickert."

Lowell's ace allowed only two hits, setting down 17 of 18 hitters from the third to ninth innings.

"We just could not get a key hit when we needed it," Rodenhouse said.

Lowell rapped out nine hits against pitcher Katy Atchison. With the score tied at 1-1 in the seventh, Beth Fredline leadoff with a triple for Lowell. A strikeout sandwiched between two pop outs left Fredline at third.

Lowell again had a runner at third with one out in the eighth, but Atchison escaped by striking out the next two batters.

The Red Arrows tied the game at 1-1 in the sixth inning on an RBI single by Erin Koevers.

Northview took the early lead with a single run in the third inning.

Rickert gave up two runs on two hits, walked two and struckout five Northview hitters.

Cherelle Weber had three hits for Lowell. Laurie Barton and Becky Brander each tallied two hits apiece against Atchison.

In the opener, Northview scored five runs on four hits and four walks against Rickert.

The Lowell pitcher then shut Northview down the rest of the way on two hits.

"We just could not get an out in that first inning," Rodenhouse said.

The Red Arrows could only manage three runs off from Atchison. Two of those runs came in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Lowell had nine hits against Atchison.

Lisa Posthumus, Snell and Rachael Fredline each had two hits.

Mandy Tichelaar Tournament

Two runs in the second and fourth innings were all Andrea Rickert needed in Lowell's 5-2 decision over Kenowa Hills.

A double by Becky Brander and RBI singles by Cherelle Weber and Angie Young accounted for Lowell's two runs in the second.

Back-to-back-to-back singles by Young, Beth Fredline and Weber accounted for Lowell's two runs in the fourth inning.

Rickert gave up two runs on five hits while walking four and striking out six.

In the championship game of the tournament, Lowell was blasted by Rockford 17-1.

The Rams broke open the contest with 10 runs in the third inning.

Lowell pitchers gave up eight walks and four hits in the inning.

Rachael Fredline takes a cut at a Katy Atchison fastball.

The answer to this week's Whitecaps trivia question: What is a one-two-three inning in baseball? Three batters up, three batters out.

"We just couldn't get anyone out in the third. We went through four pitchers," Rodenhouse said. "Rockford is a good team. You can't walk that many batters against a good ballclub."

Lowell scored one run on five hits against Rams' Kristie Loddin.

Rockford advanced to the finals with a 3-1 win over Grandville.

This year's Mandy Tichelaar Scholarship winner is Cara McQueen.

Lowell's week ended with a 10-1 nonconference loss to Ionia.

The Red Arrows enter the district in Caledonia with a 19-14 record. Lowell was 8-6 in the OK White, tying it for third with Wyoming Park.

Wisner sets a personal best mark (17'2") in long jump at Champion of Champions meet

Senior gets looked over in the 200-meter run.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus
Lowell Ledger Editor

It was apparent to everybody at the John Bos Invitational.

except the timers that Julie Wisner had finished third in the 200-meter run.

"Everybody who watched the race knew Julie was third, but the scoring got messed up and they gave her eighth place," said Lowell coach Kathy Talus.

Ironically, third was awarded to Wisner's teammate Christie Johnson (26.5).

Wisner fared better in the long jump. Her mark of 16-2 placed her second.

The John Bos Invitational highlights some of the top West Michigan track athletes who have qualified for state or want to better their times or distances.

"Julie was disappointed with what happened in the 200, but she didn't make a big scene. She handled it with class," Talus said.

Johnson also ran in the 400-meter run. Her time of 59.9 earned her a second-place finish.

"The race allowed Christie to gain some wisdom on how to run the 400 at the state meet," Talus said.

Champions of Champions

The Champion of Champions meet matches up the top two athletes in each event from each of the OK conferences.

Lowell claimed two firsts.

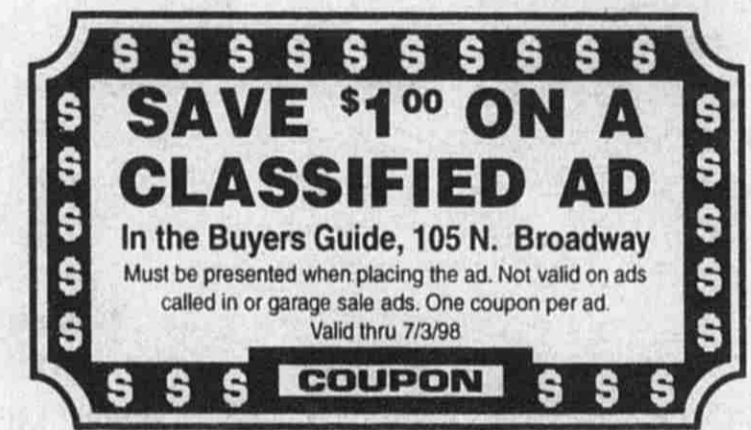

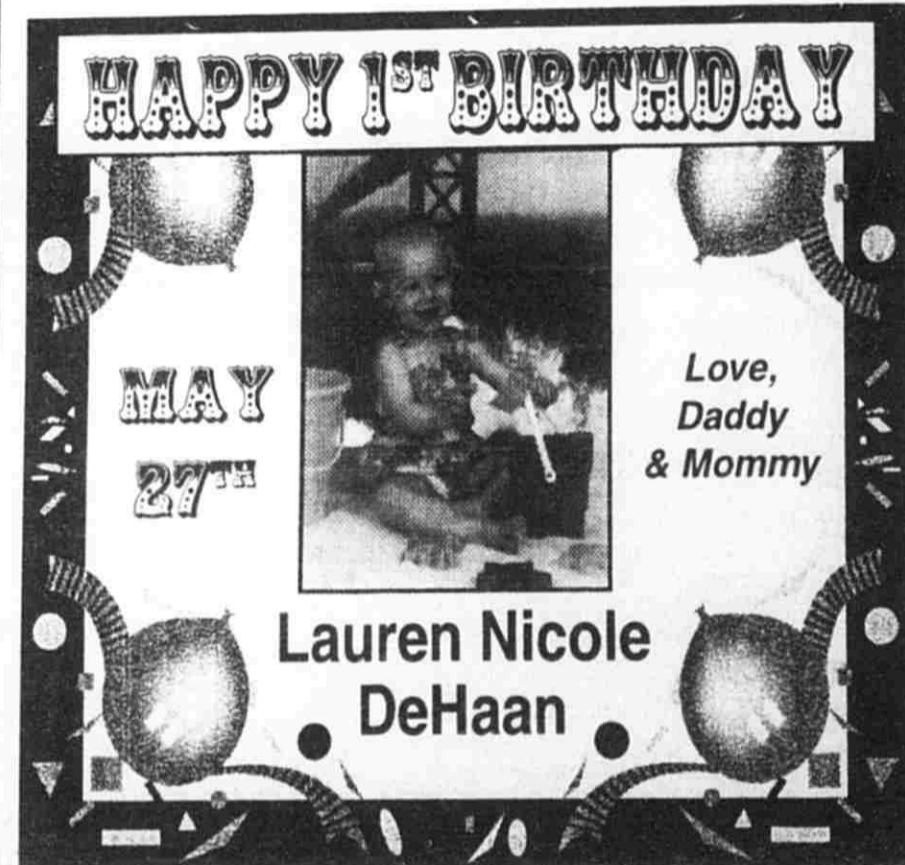

Johnson won the 400-meter run and Wisner won the long jump.

Wisner's winning distance was an all-time best of 17.2. The senior was also fifth in the 200 in a time of 26.5.

Johnson stopped the clock in a personal best time of 59.3. Junior Celena Risner placed seventh in the long jump.

Sophomore Maggie Wisner competed but did not place in the discus.

"If Julie does what she did at the Champion of Champions meet she will place at the state meet," Talus said. "She has a goal. She wants her picture up on the wall where the all-state plaques are."

CITY OF LOWELL LOGO CONTEST

The City of Lowell is sponsoring a "City Logo Contest." The City is looking for a logo that would be suitable to be placed on a flag or banner.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM - In memory of Shirley Topp who passed away - Mother's Day, May 10, 1998.

The family wishes to express our appreciation to everyone that in some way touched our hearts by remembering her. This poem written by granddaughter Terri L. Meyers so capably outlines what she meant to not only her relation but also to her many friends.

She made us afghans and mended our socks. When we went fishing She was 1st on the docks.

She liked to play cards and she loved to read. She gave us more love than we could ever need.

She had a heart of gold and never complained. Even at the end with her body in pain.

She spent quality time with family and friends. Someday, we know we'll be with her again.

The Lord gave her a gift when He took her away. He brought her home on MOTHER'S DAY.

Charles Topp; Marlin & Margaret Meyers Mark & Linda Meyers & Heather, Darren & Terri Meyers; Marshall & Jan Major; Todd Moorhead; Troy & Kelly Barna & McKenzie; Michael & Cathy Topp, Justin & Bradley.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my brother and my best friend Tom Fox. Deep in my heart there is a picture of a loved one laid to rest. In memory's frame I will keep it. Because he was one of the best. He was always true unselfish and kind. Few in this world his equal you'll find. A beautiful life that came to an end. He died as he lived, everyone's friend. I love you and I miss you so very much. Your sis, Mary O'Connor.
