

Lowell Middle School (6th-8th-grade) students collected non-perishable food items for the area needy prior to going on Christmas break. In two weeks the students collected over 3,000 items. The food items were donated to the Flat River Outreach Ministries/Access 6 food pantry. The contact periods competed against one another for juice and donuts. Kelly Moody's class won, bringing in 490 items of food. Jim Hubbard's class was second with 320 items.

City looks to volunteers for Richards Park ice rink

By J.N. Boorsma Contributing Writer

The city of Lowell could have an ice rink this yearprovided that enough volunteers come out to help build it.

At its Monday night meeting the Lowell City Council gave approval to use Richards Park as the site for the ice rink, proposed by resident Bruce Walter, and to contribute $1,500 for tools, supplies, and port-a-johns for the site. This is all contingent on Walter and his group supporting a rink in the city being able to get enough volunteers to help build, maintain and police the rink.

"If there is so much interest in the rink, then it shouldn't be that hard to find volunteers," said Mayor Bill Thompson, and the council agreed.

The idea for volunteers came out of the fact the Department of Public Works does not have enough full-time staff to help with the rink. City manager David Pasquale said all of the drivers have had some reluctance to working on the rink, coupled with the fact that during the winter most of them work 10-12 hour days plowing.

Dan Desjarden, DPW director, said it has been a chore for the department to maintain a rink. The department tried for seven years with warm weather being the main downfall of the rink.

supervisor, announced Monday night that he will appoint Ken Ewing as his deputy township supervisor.

"Ken is detail-oriented, meticulous and will add to my effectiveness as supervisor,' Wittenbach explained.

While Ewing will have no voting rights, Wittenbach said Ewing will have the rights of a supervisor in his absence which appeared to be the only stumbling block with the township board.

"I am uncomfortable with a deputy that is not elected, making decisions," township board member Mark Weber said. "This is something that can be worked out."

The five-member township board agreed that deputy job descriptions need to be written out and defined.

Planning commissioner Bob Pfaller recommended that Ewing be bonded. "We're all human and make mistakes. Having the deputy supervisor bonded protects township finances."

Township resident Kerry Tap questioned Wittenbach on the number of hours he spends in the office.

The township superintendent explained that by law he is required to spend four hours a week. Currently Wittenbach is in the office on Monday and Friday afternoons. "Although I have a pager and two cell phones. I am available if people need to get a hold of me."

Tap said he is against having decisions or opinions on township matters given by those not elected.

Craig Kulross countered that a deputy supervisor could enhance communication and ensure that important information get to

The amount of time community-based instruction students have spent with the elderly at Laurels of Kent has made a difference.

"I love getting visits from the children. The students remind me of my days growing up in Saginaw," says Maggie, a Laurels of Kent resident.

That sentiment is shared by her former card-playing partner, Elva. "It's great seeing the young people," says the resident.

I don't know about y'all (I'm in Florida now and can use

Republicans were sticking to their guns while the Democrats was why the Democrats so desperately wanted to censure the

Along about Ft. Wayne, Indiana I started hearing reports that we were bombing Iraq. Yes, I saw "Wag the Dog." Yes, that was my first thought. And, I'm still convinced the pending hearings had more to do with the timing of the attacks than the Baghdad, and so did more bombs. I drove and channel-surfed Merry Christmas and a Happy Rama-lama-ding-dong! all through Georgia, Florida, the Everglades and on down the Keys. I pulled in our driveway about 6:00 p.m. Bombs were still falling on Iraq and the hearings were slated to commence the next morning. Talk about a big news day.

I ate some dinner, showered and was comatose by 9:30. The next morning I was back in the car making sales calls for our publication down here. Throughout the day I made at least forty stops and logged about 200 more miles. Of course I listened to the impeachment hearings, bombing reports and talk shows along the way. I arrived home at 7:30 and hung some Christmas lights, not so much because I was in the spirit of the holiday as I needed something mindless to do so I didn't pass out. Did I mention my life was becoming surreal?

Saturday had me back in the car making more sales calls. The impeachment votes were being carried live, and since "Rama-lama-ding-dong" hadn't started, there were more bombing reports to listen to while in the car.

Finally, by mid-afternoon I had the bulk of my sales calls made. I began to relax a little, and as I unwound I felt the first stage of gooniness setting in. It was good that I was nearly through my sales calls.

One of my customers that afternoon was wearing a Saginaw Valley State t-shirt. I asked if he was from Michigan originally. The answer was, "Yes, the thumb area." However, he had spent some time living in the U.P. and that's what he wanted to talk about. Given my state of "gooniness," I did the smart thing ... I shut up and listened.

A story began to unfold that couldn't have been more timely Postmaster Ellsworth has improved the appearance of the post office by rearranging all the furniture. Mr. S. City of Lowell. Dickinson explained the audit provides an opinion of the funds. He stated no items came to their attention which would warrant special disclosure or recognition.

Dickinson noted the report must be in compliance with Federal and State requirements. The Federal requirements are minor due to the fact the Federal revenue was below the limit requiring additional procedures.

Dickinson pointed out the City's primary source of revenue comes from property taxes. This has increased at IT WAS MOVED BY MYERS and seconded by GREEN a rate of 3.8% from last year. Councilmember Blough questioned the schedule for the Cable TV debt repayment of $330,000. Biggs responded the entire debt will be paid in 2014. Biggs stated the schedule was spread out as of March 1, 1997, in recognition of expansion needs.

Mayor Thompson noted the residences of Lowell receive a 25-30% savings compared to other electric and cable companies. Thompson added both boards deserve credit for what has been accomplished over the years.

RITE AID BUILDING (411 EAST MAIN STREET), Build ing Inspector Doug Hopkins had determined that the canopy extending from the old Rite Aid building located at the northeast corner of West Main Street and Washington is unsafe. No response from the owner was received after sending certified mail.

Bids were sought for removal of the canopy. The cost of this will be assessed as a lien against the property, if not paid. The following two bids were received:

$3,780.00 D'Agostino Builders (Lowell) Pitsch Companies (Grand Rapids). .. $5,480.00

Councilmember Blough removed himself from discussion due to conflict of interest.

Councilmember Myers asked if the owner of the Rite Aid building resides out of state. Pasquale stated Rite Aid, as owner, has headquarters in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He further noted the Historic District Commission has stated the canopy is not part of the original building and hase no concerns with its removal.

Mayor Thompson was concerned about the City supporting Rite Aid, especially when the company is not taking care of the neglected building. Thompson suggested the City contact the media regarding this problem.

Councilmember Myers questioned if this could be placed on their personal property taxes. City Manager Pasquale responded no. Pasquale added taxes are current on the property. *

Thompson suggested the Zoning Administrator, Building Inspector and Fire Inspector investigate the building for any code violations.

Councilmember Myers stated Councilmember Blough has placed much effort into the Townships and the City working together. He asked if Pfaller believed this has improved over the years. Pfaller responded it has improved greatly. Councilmember Blough stated this progress was made possible by many participants.

Mayor Thompson felt Vergennes Township should do a work study on the issue. He was concerned of what the system could handle. City Manager Pasquale stated he will receive a status report on the study. He believed the City is only at 50 to 60% capacity with the water system. Sewer would be more of a problem .

Mayor Thompson was concerned regarding the investments with the taxpayers and those customers using the system. He questioned what would be gained from this development, particularly with sharing revenue. He noted Cedar Springs has successfully carried this out. City Manager Pasquale stated under Public Act 425, this could be reviewed.

Councilmember Blough was in agreement with finding out current capacity and potential of the system.

Councilmember Green commended Vergennes Township on looking ahead to the future.

The Council considered holding a worksession on the development issue. In reviewing possible dates, City Manager Pasquale stated on January 14, 1999, there will be a joint meeting with Lowell and Vergennes Townships and the School Board. On January 30, 1999 will be the Goal Setting Session.

The Council scheduled Monday, January 11, 1999 to hold a worksession to receive the study results on the wastewater system and review information on P.A. 425.

Municipalities would join together under a recreational authority alliance

By Amy Briggs Contributing Writer

What's a Recreation Authority, and what's it got to do with me?

The communities of Lowell Charter Township, the city of Lowell, and Vergennes Township are considering an alliance called a Recreation Authority. A Recreation Authority occurs when communities join together, cooperating to maintain and operate recreational facilities. This is in compliance with State of Michigan Act 156 which was developed in 1917.

At the Lowell Charter Township regular board meeting Dec. 21, board member Alyn Fletcher explained that the Recreation Authority was still in its "early formation stage" and, while the contract that has been drawn up is in its second draft, it is not yet ready for approval.

The three communities are considering the erection of a Township supervisor. large recreational facility including soccer fields, baseball diamonds, a community center, and a pool. The Recreation Authority would oversee these facilities, and operating and maintenance costs would be shared by districts in the Authority.

"The cost of a project like this one is monumental. It's not something one community can afford alone. But, joining together, we could see it happen," said Fletcher.

Fletcher indicated that without community approval, this project and the Recreation Authority may never get off the ground. Ways to voice opinions are available - it will be addressed at the City Manager's Roundtable Meeting Jan. 14, and surveys will be mailed to all voters in late January or early February, Fletcher said.

"Till we get the public knowledgeable about this, no decisions will be made," confirmed John Timpson, Lowell Township supervisor.

Lowell Charter Township purchases bookkeeping program

Is a computer program geared toward organizing your banking worth $2,000?

Lowell Charter Township answered "yes" to that question at their regular board meeting Dec. 21.

The board approved the FundBalance bookkeeping computer program for use in the Lowell Township treasury department once funds become available to purchase it.

Lowell Township treasurer and board member Jean Huver notified the board that the treasury's current computer bookkeeping system was slow, inaccurate and ineffective.

"Recently our department spent 10 days trying to work out an error in our system. With FundBalance, it could have taken 10 minutes," Huver said.

FundBalance's Reconcile system handles deposits of funds, checking, and incoming receipts, among other things. Huver explained.

"Considering the amount of time we spend remedying problems with our current system, this program would be an investment," said Huver.

FundBalance, a program out of Ann Arbor, MI, comes with training and a 24-hour phone helpline. The board hopes to purchase the program for the treasury before March 31, 1999, if possible.

The year that was... 1998 continued a trend of growth for the Lowell community. The second phase of the Downtown Development Association project is completed and whispers are heard of pursuing even more projects.

A grant program (through the Lowell Area Community Fund) is initiated by the Downtown Historical District to repair and restore buildings within the district.

The first round of grants from the Harold Englehardt Lowell Area Community Fund are awarded.

It was also a year where familiar faces vacated familiar posts. Dick Korb, after 20-plus years in the Lowell School District, left the district for a superintendent's position in Ipswich, Mass.; Judy Noonon, after a long stint as city treasurer, retired; Jim Cook and Gil Wise, after years of dedicated service to Vergennes Township, retire from public service; Paul Christman retires from his superintendent position with Lowell Light and Power and Lowell Cable Television; Jill VanAntwerp and Sandy VanWeelden step away from long and distinguished teaching careers in Lowell.

Lowell's Chris VanAntwerp didn't step away, he stepped up to receive the distinguished Governor's Award.

What follows is a week-by-week summary of these and other key happenings and news events of 1998. Enjoy.

January 7, 1998

After roughly a year of drafting a home-based business ordinance. Vergennes Township residents continue to express concerns with the proposed ordinance. The two sides discuss at what point does a home based business begin to interfere with maintaining a rural/agricultural property.

A grant helps keep the city streets a little safer - especially on the weekends. A safe and sober grant is designed to fund overtime pay to put an extra car on the streets during prime holiday times. Lowell is one of six Kent County law enforcement agencies participating in the grant.

Grant applications for the Lowell Community Fund are due by April 27. The fund was established as a result of Harold Englehardt's $12 million trust created for the Lowell area.

Alto resident Judy Harrison, Kent County commissioner for the past 12 years, announces she will seek Jack Horton's House of Representative seat.

For 24 years, Joyce Blasher was a special education bus driver for Lowell Area Schools, serving the transportation needs of the severely handicapped. Blasher retired during Christmas break.

January 28, 1998

Getting the 1998 summer downtown construction project done as expeditiously as possible was the consensus among merchants and engineers in attendance at a Jan. 21 meeting. Lowell downtown business owners want contractor to be held responsible, asking that incentives be offered for early job completion.

Four-year veteran of the Lowell Planning Commission has been named its new chair Dan Brubaker was unani mously voted by the commission to replace Michael Blough as the head of the planning commission. Blough was elected to the Lowell City Council by city residents in November of 1997.

Lowell Charter Township honored for available housing by home builders association

By Amy Briggs Contributing Writer

Housing works in Lowell Charter Town-

That was the message relayed by Duane McIntyre at the township's regular board meeting Dec.21. McIntyre is affiliated with the Greater Grand Rapids Home Builders Association and is the chair of the group's Affordable Housing Commission.

At the meeting, McIntyre explained that he commission offers an annual recognition award to an area township or municipality that makes affordable housing available to its residents. The 1998 award was presented to Lowell Charter Township.

Criteria for choosing the winning township involved the assessing of how many lots of one acre or less are available for building and how many homes at 846 square feet or less are for sale.

"Some communities refuse to allow land to be cut into small plots," McIntyre said, "and that prohibits some people from buying into a community."

McIntyre explained that many factors can "jack up" the price of building or purchasing a dwelling in a community: land costs, extensions, and hookups, among others. The award Lowell Township received indicated that the township made costs like these affordable for buyers while making homes durable and less expensive.

"We appreciate Lowell Township for allowing homes in the community that fit our criteria at Affordable Housing," said McIntyre. "People that want to live here can

LMS play "Family Album" - a portrait of our lives

The Lowell Middle School eighth-grade drama class, under the direction of Cheryl Blodgett, will present the play Family Album on Thursday, Jan. 7. Family Album is made up of 12 skits - episodes of our lives - that trigger happy and sad memories, that remind us of moments we love to remember and some we wish we could forget. Some scenes are just plain fun, like Family Reunion. TV Wars, Name That Stress; other scenes capture the heart, like Dreams, Suicide, Freedom and The Trip while others, like Pick-Up Baseball and The Accident, Dinner Time and Senior Split bring back memories of the complexities of growing up. Come and enjoy a very special and free evening of entertainment. The play will be presented in the LMS cafetorium at 750 Foreman. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

In the most recent game, the Red Arrows found themselves searching for more offense and the usually stalwart Lowell defense was not able to contain the hard charging Huskies.

Forest Hills Northern dominated the puck on both ends of the ice in the first two periods of play scoring two goals in the first period and three in the second. The third period proved a little better for the Red Arrows. They were able to put a score on the board on a goal by Daniel Woods with assists from Ben Sevald and Adam Dabaja.

Unfortunately when the clock ran out, the Huskies handed the Red Arrows their third divisional loss 5-1, dropping the Red Arrows' record to 3-3 in divisional play and 3-4 overall.

Lowell loses a pair of league games to Rangers and Saxons

By Thaddeus J. Kraus

The defensive intensity displayed against Lakewood, Rockford and Hastings was not there Friday night at Forest Hills Central in Lowell's 64-52 loss. Yet, the game was still there for Lowell's taking at 19-5 in the quarter, taking a 52-34 lead.

halftime A Ryan Mix seven-foot baseline jumper at the buzzer pulled the Red Arrows to within four (33-29) at halftime. "I thought that bucket would give us a little momentum going into the second half," Lowell basketball coach Pete Bush said.

The Rangers, however, had different ideas.Central outscored the Red Arrows 8-0 to start the third stanza and opened up a 41-29 advantage. The Rangers outscored Lowell

"Central came out and took it to us in the early minutes of the third quarter. They played well," Bush said.

Shane Teelander led all Lowell scorers with 15. Ryan Mix and Brady Foster each tallied 10 points and Bob Jones netted Central's Chris Telman led all scorers with 21 points. Lowell was victimized by the Rangers' transition game and by its 20 turnovers in which an area Lowell showed marked improvement in its first three games. "We had just eight turnovers against Hastings," Bush explained

However, 19 percent shooting from the floor was Lowell's Achilles heel.

"We started slowly but we put a great run together and did it all with defense," Bush explained. "We just couldn't put the ball in the basket. You're not going to win many games scoring 35 points."

On Tuesday night, The Red Arrows were outscored 17-9 in the first quarter, but narrowed the deficit to 23-22 by outscoring Hastings 13-6 in the second quarter.

Lowell was outscored 27-14 in the second half as Hastings earned a 50-35 victory.

Teelander was the only Red Arrow in double figures as he tallied 16 points. Aaron Alsgaard tallied nine points. Tony Bowne tallied 15 points for the winning Saxons. "We're disappointed in the losses, we go and expect to

Camp serves up volleyball techniques for Middle School students of the game

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell Middle School volleyball players were given a chance to get involved in volleyball before the season even

A three-week seventh- and eighth-grade volleyball camp held at Lowell high School focused on honing serving, passing and setting skills.

The third week of the program concluded Saturday. The three-hour camps, run by Lowell High School volleyball coach Kristen Ference, were attended by approximately 20 girls in each of the three weeks.

Ference will also hold an open gym at the middle school on Wednesday, Jan 6th, 13th and 20th from 6 until 8 p.m.

The first-year volleyball coach is being assisted by Jackie Malokofsky and Mike Schmidt.

Beginning in February before each middle school home game, Ference will hold mini volleyball camps for fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders from 2:30 until 3:30 p.m.

Ference will also implement a ball-girl program for varsity volleyball games.

A seventh- and eighth-grade volleyball player will be selected for each varsity home game.

"They will shag balls in an effort to keep the game moving along," Ference explained. "It also gives them and their parents exposure to the game of volleyball. That's important to a program (she points to Lowell's wrestling and football programs as examples).

The Lowell Ledger-Wednesday, December 23, 1998-Page 44 Township denies Shady Acres beer and wine license •••• Vergennes Township asks planning commission to develop ordinance to regulate liquor license.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

A request for a beer and wine license by Thomas Widerski, owner of Shady Acres, a banquet hall at 10336 Bailey Drive, was denied by the Vergennes Township Board.

The denial was based on inconsistency with current zoning, with traffic at the intersection (Bailey/ Vergennes), objection by neighbors, a lack of a township property ordinance and an impending recommendation from the planning commission. The ability to run the business there is grandfathered in with the property. The business predates zoning in the township and thus has a legal, "non-conforming use" zoning status.

A license would allow Widerski to control who is drinking and how much is being consumed.

Township clerk Mari Stone said she always thought Shady Acres was a hay ride place. Widerski explained that it has always been a place for alcohol parties such as New Year's. A license would enable him to employ bar servers and cut people off before they become abusive; also all liquor would have to be consumed inside the building.

When asked whether the way liquor is currently being served is legal, township zoning administrator Jeanne VanderSloot said it is allowed.

If a license is allowed, township board member Mark Weber would like to see ordinances in place dealing with parking and to ensure neighbors are not inconvenienced. He noted that Widerski has the right to run a business as long as it is not out of sync with the laws.

In denying Widerski's request for a liquor license, the township board requested the planning commission develop an ordinance to regulate the use of the liquor license.

Lowell joins pop vending consortium

The number of machines, the amount of advertising and who determines what is sold in the soda vending machines will all remain the same.

"Nothing will change. The district will do the same thing that it is doing under its current contract, but will do it for more money," Lowell superintendent Bert Bleke explained about the board's decision to participate in the Kent Intermediate School District beverage consortium cooperative agreement. Lowell assistant superintendent for finance and personnel, said the district would be in line to receive $25 per pupil or $91,500. "There is a possibility we could get even more money per pupil," Gillette said.

That is good news unless your area dentist is board trustee James Reagan.

"This agreement is not in the best interest of student health. This is a strong arm freeze-out tactic by cash-rich companies who are bypassing parents in supermarkets by going right after the young kids in school. I see the damage these companies are doing everyday," stated Reagan.

Board secretary Ann Mulder was the only board member to side with Reagan and vote no on the agreement.

"There are those who feel we should participate in the

The Lowell School District currently has seven years remaining on its contract with Coke.

It, like other schools in the consortium, will have to buy out any contracts it works under, even if it's the same soda company.

For Lowell, that would mean a cost of $14,000. That is the preliminary estimate given by Coke.

"The estimate would be up for discussion before Lowell would agree to pay it," Gillette said.

Board trustee Norm Byrne said the contract is more practical than what Reagan and Mulder suggest and is a strike against student rights.

"I think it would be impractical and unfair to high school students not to have pop machines available. Lowell High School is a closed campus (students can't leave the grounds). It would force students to bring their own pop to school," Byrne explained.

Mark Blanding, board vice president, said machines need to be available for after school events, meetings and public use.

Pete Gustafson, board president, noted that the district still determines how many machines, where they are located and what is vended.

Currently, 17 schools in the KISD have signed on to the agreement, two have not.

After the board approved the agreement by a 5-2 vote, Gustafson appointed an ad hoc committee to devote its overall attention to nutrition.
