Grant money to heighten visibility

•••• The $18,300 from the Lowell Area Community Fund will dress up the exterior of the LAAC building.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

By all accounts it has been a pretty good holiday season for the Lowell Area Arts Council.

The LAAC Christmas Gift Shoppe surpassed its sales goal of $8,500; and last week LAAC received word that it was approved for an $18,300 grant from the Harold Englehardt Lowell Area Community Fund.

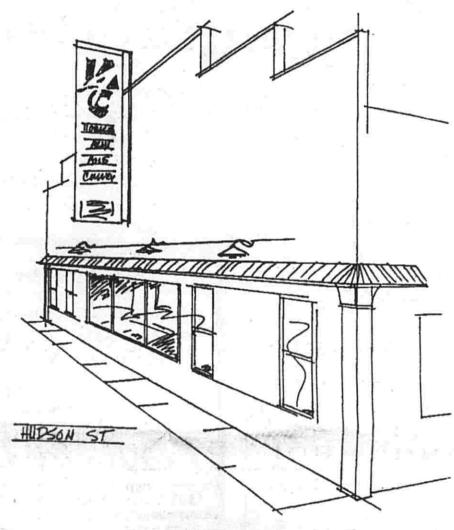

The grant money will be used for capital improvements to the exterior of its building.

"We are very excited and pleased to be receiving the grant money," said LAAC executive director, Loraine Smalligan. "The renovation work will serve and protect the new windows and wall repair, and also professionalize our image to the community."

Through this second phase of renovation as outlined in the strategic plan, a two-foot wide by two-foot high cantilevered metal roof and eaves will be constructed around the south, west, and north sides of the building. Plans also include large posts on the southwest and northwest corners under the eaves, an extended covered entrance with a brick walkway and handicapped ramp, lighting under the eaves for increased

City council seeks other bids for Main Street traffic light study •••• Council agrees with need for Along Main Street light, but says a bid process is necessary to determine true value of study.

By J.N. Boorsma Contributing Writer

No one would perhaps debate the need for a traffic light near Main and Monroe streets, but up for debate is exactly how to convince the Michigan Department of Transportation that a light is necessary.

At its Monday night city council meeting, Lowell City Manager David Pasquale made a recommendation to accept a bid from Ed Swanson of Wade-Trim for $7,800 to cover the cost of a study to determine the need for a traffic light on Lowell's east side. A possible location that has been kicked around by city officials is Main and Monroe streets.

"I think we are all from the standpoint that because of the amount of development in the area and the increase in pedestrian traffic, we have a need to interrupt the flow of traffic for pedestrian traffic," said Lowell Police Chief Jim Valentine.

No one on the council would disagree with the need for the traffic light. Councilor Charles Myers said, however, he would like to see the city put such a study up

"How do you know that $7,800 is the value for this type of work?" said councilor Michael Blough, who pointed out that without other bids, the city really doesn't know whether it is getting its moneys' worth.

Pasquale said he approached Swanson about the project because of his past work with the city. He said while Swanson or his firm are not the only possible choice, he is the local candidate for such work.

Swanson has done traffic studies for various communities in and around the Kent County area. He used to own his own firm, which was recently acquired by Wade-Trim. Swanson is best known for his work in developing studies to help convince MDOT of the need for traffic signals and other road signs.

The city approached

MDOT about the possibility of putting a traffic light near Main and Monroe streets, but after MDOT conducted a study of its own, the department turned down the request.

According to Swanson, 11 different criteria are used to consider if an intersection needs a signal, Pasquale explained. MDOT only applied one criteria to the past request.

In Swanson's bid letter, he states the study conducted by his staff will provide the

Been there. Done that. Survived them all. And we'll survive Y2K too. Especially when it comes to your money in the bank.

That's because the Federal Reserve, FDIC, Comptroller of the Currency and Office of Thrift Supervision have rigorously examined every bank and thrift in the country.

And found that more than 99 percent are ready now for Y2K.

Many banks, in fact, are already operating on post-2000 computer systems. They all routinely back up their financial records. And every bank keeps contingency plans on hand for emergencies-including Y2K. So, when New Year's comes, you can still write a check, use a credit card or stop by the ATM for some cash for the weekend. Your money will be there when you need it. Your records will be safe.

The safest place for your money is in a FDIC-insured bank account.

You should all know my stand by now. I'm pretty much the grasshopper in the old fable or the, "What, me worry?" Alfred E. Neumann character from Mad Magazine. I may be singing a different tune come Saturday morning, but for now I'm sticking with bait in the freezer and gas in the boat as my Y2K readiness plan.

Actually I've had bigger fish to fry than this whole KY Jelly thing. It's an annual crisis. It is thankfully over for another year. I am, of course, referring to the Christmas "pond scum" dilemma. Every year I procrastinate on all my Christmas gift shopping. Every year I rush around at the eleventh hour trying to recall gift ideas I have had and failed to make note of. Every year I lower myself to visiting the big stores and malls in a desperate attempt at stumbling across some great gift idea. a gift idea. I asked a jeweler and customer of mine for an idea. Every year I end up groveling for gift ideas from my wife. Every year I beg my daughter to tell me what Terese has gotten for me so that I might come close in numbers of gifts and dollars spent. All this is a usually fruitless attempt at not looking like "pond scum" when the gifts are opened Christmas

TO THE EDITOR

It was brought to our attention following the December 13

article about the museum progress that some people thought the YMCA would soon be moving from the Graham Building.

However, this is not accurate and we would like to clear up any ing on creating an Exhibit Museum on the west side of the

Graham Building (the old library part) and is hoping to have this open to the public some time in the year 2000. We hope to someday create period rooms in the space that is currently used by the YMCA, but this will happen only if and when they

As a sidebar, this experience is exactly why I'm not an have gotten a proper perspective from pictures on a computer Bring on the new millennium! monitor. Even something so seemingly mundane as a bread machine has a certain presence that must be experienced firsthand. There, I've again justified the fact I'm too cheap and Seriously, I consider online shopping akin to catalog shopping. Besides the above-stated drawbacks, there is the freight to pay and the wait. Then there is the hassle of boxing the stuff back up and returning it if it isn't what you really wanted or if it was damaged in shipment. On top of all this, there is the fact you are not supporting your local economy. I digress. In fact, I digress to the point this might actually qualify as an editorial.

Back to the pond scum nonsense. So, with one gift down, and armed with the information I'd pried from my daughter, I figured one more major gift, a few small things and the usual stocking stuffers would put me home free. Terese is no different than most women. That is, jewelry always works as Again, this is a holiday tradition. He looked at me this year and said, "I believe the woman has just about one of everything by now." I hate it when a retailer is so brutally honest. Aren't they supposed to sell you stuff they know you don't really need?

Finally, I did manage to pry out of Terese a gift idea. She said she'd always wanted a bracelet of gold conch shells. I This year I did okay. Maybe the pond water was a little asked some of my customers here in the keys where they would murky, but there was no real scum layer. A couple of weeks ago buy such a thing. I got a couple of ideas and found a selection Terese made the mistake of mentioning she would like a bread of three at the very first store. The one I like best was a bit good gift idea so near Christmas. I made a flying trip to a large dawdle. I made the purchase and had it wrapped. From there I

I am asking the Lowell community to help me get some information for the upcoming edition of One Hundred Years of Lowell High School Football, 1900-1999.

I would like to give credit to those young men who have played football for Lowell High School and later died while serving in the armed forces during any of the four Twentieth Century wars. I have been able to gather the names of the men who were killed during World War II, but I need all the names of those who were killed in World War I, the Korean War and the Vietnam War. I do not want to leave anyone out, so I need the help of family and friends who can provide this information to me. If anyone is uncertain whether or not a young man played high school football for Lowell, I can cross-reference played. I would like this information as soon as possible.

The names of former high school players which I have train by six inches. gathered to date are World War II casualties Gerald Ellis, Raymond Barrett, Robert Finies, Hoyt Phelps, Lavant Potter, Calvin Preston, Edward (William) McDonald, Harry Gould, Lee Hoag, Gerald Schreur and L.J. BLOOD IN THE URINE

Blood in the urine is termed "hematuria," and is something which should not be treated lightly. Sometimes the blood is not visible to the naked eye, but is visible under the microscope. It is then termed "microscopic hematuria." Some of the more common causes of hematuria are:

- urinary tract infection
- kidney stone
- taking certain medications
- a tumor in the urinary tract (kidney or bladder)
- inherent kidney diseases (glomerulonephritis, cystic kidney disease)

electronics store where they had several to choose from. They was within a few stops of having stocking stuffers (cosmetic were all very similar in options, features and price. I made the items, fancy candy and a usable item or two) purchased and I'd educated choice. I opted for the one I thought would look the be done. As Homer Simpson so aptly puts it when life is good,

Christmas morning came and went. Terese loves her new online shopper; well, this experience and the fact I'm not bracelet. The house smells like fresh baked bread. I am not actually online. When making a purchase, I need the look, heft, pond scum and I am ready for Y2K with a new fishing rod and smell, fit and feel of a product. In this case the look was the reel I found under the tree. We're now stockpiling fresh baked most important aspect of my final decision and I never could bread and have a sizeable stash of candy from all the stockings.

KEENE TOWNSHIP

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE Tuesday, January 4, 2000 at 7:30 PM

Keene Township Hall 8505 Potters Rd. Saranac, MI 48881

Ionia County

The following Zoning Ordinance Amendments will be heard:

Keene Township Planning Commission will be holding a public hearing and accepting comments from the public for zoning ordinance amendments to the existing Land Division Ordinance and a proposed new Private Road Ordinance.

The proposed amendments to the Land Division Ordinance changes the review process by removing the Township Board requirement. Zoning Administrator and the Planning Commission will review and approve land division applications.

The proposed private road ordinance will regulate an application and review process for the construction of new private roads. Current existing private roads are proposed to be exempt from this ordinance. There will be standards for construction and water drainage Private roads that serve 4 or more lots will be required to apply for and receive approval from the Planning Commission.

Copies of the ordinance amendments will be available at the Keene Township Hall on two Thursdays: 12/16/99 and 12/30/99 between the hours of 6:00 PM and 8:00 PM. Al interested persons may attend the public hearing and comment on the ordinance amendments. Written comments will also be considered if mailed and received at the Keene Township Hall prior to 6:00 PM on January 4, 2000.

Planning Commission of Keene Township

This award recognizes Grim for his outstanding success and achievements.

SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE NO. 99-11 ADOPTED BY THE LOWELL CITY COUNCIL ON DEC. 20, 1999

Ordinance No. 99-11 amends Section 2.03 of Chapter 2, Section 2.20 of Chapter 2 and Section 12.03 of Chapter 12 of Appendix A Zoning Ordinance of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Lowell. Such amendment permits the location of vehicle repair facilities, excluding body shops, in the C-3-General Business District zoned areas in the City by special land use as regulated by Chapter 17 of the Zoning Ordinance. A vehicle repair facility is defined as a building and premises where the primary use is the repair of vehicles, not including body shops, and provided all work is performed within an enclosed building, and storage of vehicles is within a completely screened area.

Ordinance No. 99-11 is effective ten (10) days after its publication.

Revenues Have It

•••• Lowell Charter Township revenues for the 1999-2000 fiscal year exceeded expenditures by $1,447.

By Jeffrey Redmond Contributing Writer

The end-of-the-year financial statement of the Lowell Charter Township budget report shows the township to once again be in the black. Revenues have exceeded expenditures, and will continue to do so for next year.

For the 1999-2000 fiscal year, the township had incomes from such sources as property taxes, $75,000; state revenue, $315,000; licenses and permits, $14,700; cable TV, $12,000; and a state grant for $142,000. Total revenues amounted to $606,700, and with transfers from other funds equaled $729,094.

Expenditures for the township included $26,800 for the assessing office; $190,000 for road maintenance; $73,300 for fire protection; $150,000 for recreation; and $51,900 for general operating costs. Pay for township officials continued to be kept low at $16.189 each for the supervisor, clerk and treasurer.

With the total of all expenditures at just under $727,635, the final balance was $1,460 to the good. The next fiscal year's proposed budget includes $503,446 in income and $501,999 in expenditures. This will make a final balance of $1,447 to the good.

Township officials continue their policy of fiscal responsibility as before. A slight increase in pay for the supervisor, clerk and treasurer will put their salaries at $16,254 each for the coming fiscal year. Other township officials receive pay in varying ranges of approximately half these amounts.

LAHA seeks info on servicemen

In an effort to preserve the history of some of the area's servicemen and women, the Lowell Area Historical Association is collecting information on its service activity.LAHA will circulate a military records information form to be completed for each service person.

If you won an all-expense-paid, round trip to anywhere in the United States and the flight was at 11:30 p.m. New Year's Eve, would you go?

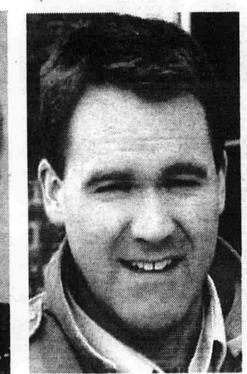

I would have to decline. Getting in an airplane is one thing I wouldn't do. Everything in a cockpit of an airplane is computerized.

Being a part of the process something Thompson relished

It's been fun to be involved and to see and be a part of the changes that have taken place. The value from serving on the council comes from what a person learns and understands, and the wisdom one gains.

Bill Thompson

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Annoyed with the work of the city building inspector, a young Lowell resident took his troubles and differences to then city manager, Ray Quada.

"I got things straightened out," says Lowell mayor, Bill Thompson, in reflecting back some 16 years ago. "Afterwards, he told me that I ought to run for city council. It would be a way for me to make a difference and change things."

Thompson heeded Quada's advice and ran for a council seat in 1984. He won a four-year term and has been a permanent council fixture ever since.

Thompson's tenure as a councilman came to a close Monday (Dec. 20). During the last four years he presided over the council proceedings as mayor.

The irony, in all of this, is the person responsible for persuading Thompson to run in 1984 is the same person (Quada) who will fill Thompson's seat on the council beginning in January.

"It's been fun to be involved and to see and be a part of the changes that have taken place," Thompson said. "The value from serving on the council comes from what a person learns and understands, and the wisdom one gains.

"My children are at a young age now and I want to be more involved with what they do," he added.

The sewer treatment plant, improved park system, and improvements to the downtown are three significant projects in which Thompson is proud to have been involved.

"I think roads and infrastructure will continue to be an issue for the city," Thompson explained.

The waste water /sewer treatment plant was the first project Thompson tackled as a councilman. As he leaves the council, the system is nearly maxed out and with the new millennium, discussions of adding or building on will commence.

An item Thompson did not see completed before he left was the purchase of all the properties needed in the City Hall/police station renovation.

"I would like to have seen all the properties finalized, but I think we will be close," Thompson explained. "Throughout the process, I've tried to make sure that we use and treat the taxpayers money correctly."

As a councilmember, Thompson said he has stepped away when there is a personal conflict and has never let his personal opinion get in the way of what's best for the city. "I also think it is important for councilmembers to keep open lines of communication to the taxpayers," he said.

Thompson sees the position of mayor as someone who leads and guides the council. "The mayor should challenge the council but never guide and lead in his/ her own direction. It should be a team decision."

Thompson says he will miss serving on the council, but will step back for now. "I enjoy board work. Eventually, I will be involved someway, again."

Broadcast journalism club to begin at LHS in January

By Thadeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Beginning in the fall of 2000, Lowell High School students will have the opportunity to enroll in a broadcast journalism class.

The educational opportunity is made possible through a gift to the district from Video Trax, 2600 Horizon Dr., Grand Rapids.

If purchased new, the equipment would cost approximately $100,000.

Video Trax sold the equipment to the district for $58,000, but then donated $20,000 of its worth, lowering the district's actual cost to $38,000.

The equipment includes a Sony camera with case, broadcast lens, dockable recorder, power adaptor, four batteries and a complete video edit suite production system.

Lowell High School principal Scott Vashaw said the equipment is to be installed prior to the beginning of the second semester.

A broadcast journalism club will then be run from January to June to develop interest and information of the equipment capabilities.

The board also accepted gifts from the Alto Lions Club ($1,000) to purchase books for Alto Elementary's accelerated reader program; Jeffrey and Renee Jones, trombone and case ($150 value) for Lowell Middle School band; Ajacs Die Sales, computer monitor ($25 value); Grand Rapids Art Museum, two large weaving looms ($400 value) for the art department; Gerald Persha, ($500) for the Alto Elementary Globe Project; Sandy VanStee, Macintosh computer, color printer, modem and scanner ($800 value) for the Cherry Creek media center; and Dean Lonick, upright piano ($2,500) for the Cherry Creek Elementary School.

When you come to a fork in the road, take it.

Council approves variances

•••• The city's action allows for Main Street Restaurant/Lounge and Banquet Facility to be built at 901 W. Main.

A local business has finally received the approvals it needs to move across the street.

At its Monday night meeting, the Lowell City Council approved two variances for the Main Street Restaurant/Lounge and Banquet Facility, which will soon be the former Kaptain Jack's, located at 916 W. Main.

Lois Sherman, who is purchasing Kaptain Jack's from owner Ron Potter, was seeking the variances so she could construct a 4,600-square-foot building located at 901 W. Main, where her new business would be located.

The only questions raised by the council concerned an easement Potter has with Erb Lumber for the use of its parking spaces during the evening. Potter said the easement is on file with the Kent County Clerk's office and is to stay with the property.

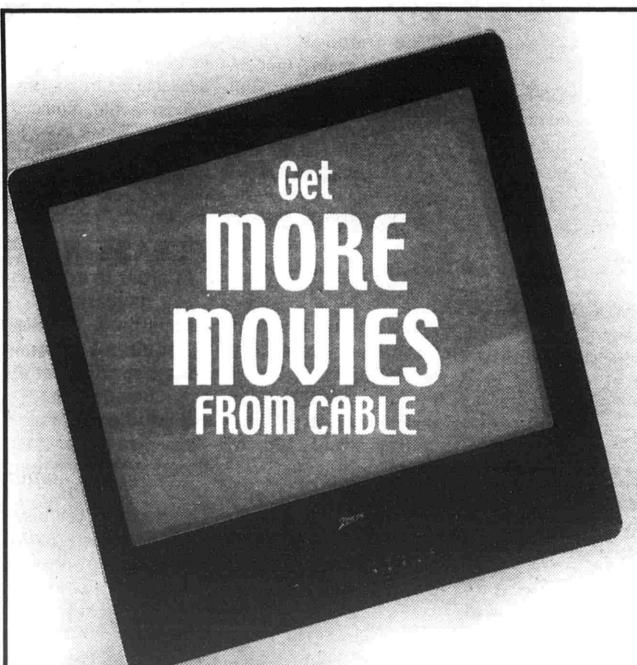

"We have no business during the day time and, vice versa, they have no business during the night," Potter said, adding that the easement agreement has worked well for both organizations over the past few years.

The council did question whether the business would accept parties during the day. Potter said he still would have 40-plus parking spaces available to him without using the Erb Lumber spaces.

According to the ordinance, 65 parking spaces would be needed for the proposed establishment. According to the plans, the business has 58 spaces, which includes Erb Lumber's spaces of 23. This would leave the business seven spaces short.

Also, for safety reasons, Sherman was asking for a variance in the rear of the property. This would give her building 24 feet instead of the required 35. At the planning commission meeting in November, Sherman explained she wanted to push the building to the back and have all of the parking in front so patrons would be in the light of traffic from Main Street and officers would have a better view of the parking lot from the road.

The council, acting as the Zoning Board of Appeals, unanimously approved the variances following the planning commission's contingencies involving frontage landscaping, detailing of lighting and drainage, and providing a masonry trash enclosure.
