LAAC exhibit celebrates Lowell community's talent and artistic diversity

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Lowell Area Arts Council's "Celebrate Lowell," a six-week exhibit which opened Friday, inspired Lowell High School art teacher Bill Ingraham to make prints from some old negatives.

"I took the pictures when I was 20 and teaching at Albion," Ingraham explained.

The intent of the exhibit is to give gallery time to Lowell amateur and professional artists who may not otherwise have considered showing their work.

"I think this exhibit is an opportunity to compare and show off the talented arts and crafts of people in the Lowell community and the quality of their work," said freelance artist Gary Eldridge, who also has work exhibited in the show.

While Eldridge is a familiar name linked to the Lowell art community, many of the other artists, while familiar in name, are not necessarily associated with art.

The exhibit has changed that. Gary Dietzel is a prime example. Five years ago, he began sculpting on a piece of walnut tree that he gathered up after the city of Lowell cut down a number of walnut trees at Oakwood Cemetery 13 years ago.

Dietzel completed half of the sculpture titled "Walnut Wail Remains." This exhibit energized him to complete it.

"I felt connected to the piece," Dietzel said. "The walnut trees were something Lowell felt strongly about."

The Lowell resident said he would probably not show any of his work again.

"First, in all, I've probably only done four or five pieces," Dietzel explained. "It's just not part of me."

The non-juried exhibit which includes sculpture, water-colors, photography, oils, and weaving runs through Feb. 29 at the gallery, 149 South Hudson.

"I don't always support the idea of competition," said Lowell Area Arts Council director Lorraine Smalligan. "I think it's important people be able to just show their work."

Smalligan said well over 100 art patrons viewed the show at its opening on Friday.

"I like the diversity of medium that is in this show. There is a wide range of art being created in the Lowell community," Smalligan concluded.

KCDL seeks township's support for February millage proposal

•••• The proposal calls for the millage to increase from .6431 to .93.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

The Kent County District Library (KCDL) must feel like a bookmark being squeezed in the midst of a 1,000 page hardcover.

The $1 rental fee for its headquarters is being pulled in favor of providing much needed space for the county extension program.

A federal grant which provides money for materials for the blind and physically handicapped is being pulled, leaving the funding responsibility to the KCDL.

"We can't meet our budget with the mills we're currently getting," said KCDL deputy director, Ruth McCrank, which is what brought her to the Lowell Charter Township meeting Monday night.

The deputy director and KDL board member Carol Wieland asked the township board for its support in asking voters for an increase in millage on the Feb. 22 state presidential primary election ballot.

We can't meet our budget with the mills we're currently getting.

KCDL deputy director, Ruth McCrank

The KCDL proposes an increase from .6431 mills to .93. For the owner of a $100,000 home, that would mean an extra $46.50 per year or 85 cents per week.

If the KCDL gets an increase in its county library millage, it proposes to:

• increase books and other materials

• add more hours

• rearrange open hours to make them more convenient ... including opening some libraries on Sunday

increase support to provide programs for children and adults improve and maintain equipment and software for electronic access to information

• and provide additional funding to KCDL for the blind and provide additional funding to KCDL for the blind and physically handicapped.

In 1999, 2.7 million items were borrowed from the KCDL.

In 1999, 2.7 million items were borrowed from the KCDL; over 350,000 reference questions were answered; 67.000 attended KCDL programs; and 1.8 million visited the libraries.

There were 63,000 visitors at the Englehardt Library and 16,000 at the Alto Library.

McCrank said the KCDL is seeking property in the county but not in the city limits for a new headquarters' building.

Unsolved Mystery

•••• Lowell Middle School science teachers insist students know the material, and the dilemma may lie in understanding the probing questions found on the MEAP science test.

By J.N. BoorsmaContributing Writer

Science question of the day: Why does the Lowell Middle School continue to get low science scores on standardized tests when the students know the information?

It is the question eight Lowell Middle School science teachers hope to unravel.

For the last four years, since the new Michigan Educational Assessment Program has administered its new science test, Lowell's eighth grade students have consistently scored low.

"We're simply not showing a lot of progress," said Jim White, assistant superintendent for instruction and curriculum.

In 1995/96, the first year the test was administered, 23.9 percent of the students met or exceeded the test requirements. In 1996/97, the score dropped to 20.5 percent and then jumped up to 32.4 percent in 1997/98. However, in 1998/99, that score dropped to 27.7 percent, meeting or exceeding the requirements.

"We are convinced that our students know this stuff, they just don't understand the questions," said sixth-grade science teacher Russ Bacon. "The questions the students are expected to ask are much more probing and involve more writing than the simple questions of true and false."

Students are tested in three areas on the MEAP science test: physical science, earth science, and general science.

"We are not talking about having to know a volume of facts to take these tests," said seventh-grade science teacher Dave Strejc. "This is taking what they do know and putting it together in a logical order to solve the problem."

With that in mind, the teachers have worked to align their curriculum more with what the state is expecting. This includes adopting the KC4 curriculum (the Kent County Cooperative Curriculum) along with following the state guidelines for goals in science education.

The middle school teachers also noted that there has been a move to teach the scientific method to students, something that districts and the state had been moving away from years

It's no secret that my wife and I are big dog lovers. We are suckers for dogs of all kinds, but this dog was making me real nervous. Our friends don't own a dog. Never have. They don't dislike dogs, but if this bad boy was making me nervous, I can't imagine what my friend must have been thinking. His life was details, but I am going to have to look for a pair of long pants probably passing before him.

The wives were seated on the inside of our booth. They with some friends. The plan was to get lunch and to just knock had seen the big Rottweiler come in, but couldn't see over the around. After considerable debate, we finally decided on an edge of the table to know what was going on. I overheard my open air restaurant in the marina. There is a huge sailboat race wife assuring my friend's wife that Rottweilers are mean taking place this week in Key West. I've heard as many as 300 looking but are really big babies. I nudged her and said, "Oh yeah? Check this out." She leaned over for a look just in time for the third growl. She immediately retired to a place where we found a table at the Turtle Kraals Restaurant. No waiting in line. That made me happy. After standing in countless chow the dog had to eat his way through me to get at her.

Item #4. ZONING ORDINANCE AMENDMENT - HARD SURFACED ACCESS TO OFF - STREET PARKING FACILITIES - TABLED FROM PREVIOUS MEETING. Planning Commission Chairman Daniel Brubaker received a letter from City Attorney Richard Wendt concerning the City Zoning ordinance amendment involving hard surfaced drives. He explained Section 19.03 of the ordinance states all parking facility, access driveways and commercial storage areas shall be hard surfaced fication in which the City Attorney can represent the City tained in a section of the zoning ordinance which deals agreement. primarily with commercial parking. Wendt believed the wording would be more clear if it was found in the beginning of the chapter. Brubaker explained the change had an effective date of January 1996 because this was only an attempt to clarify what the ordinance already required.

Councilmember Shores verified this had been a requirement since January, 1996. Public Works Director Dan DesJarden responded yes, stating the majority of drives have been paved.

written to Mark Batchelor. City Manager Pasquale re- Councilmember Quada questioned how many drives would not be paved, if the effective date of ordinance amendment was established for 2000. DesJarden believed there would be approximately five drives.

> Councilmember Myers asked DesJarden how he felt the ordinance addressed the paving issue. DesJarden responded there is a section which states the City can enforce pavement to the right of way. He believed this Councilmember Green said the ordinance covers the approach, meaning the length could be whatever is necessary. He did not believe the rest of the driveway needed to be paved for safety reasons.

Green also noted there is a criterion which must be met during the zoning variance process and financial hardship was not one of those.

Quada supported a hard surface access to off street parking. He had concerns regarding if this is simply a clarification. Then, it would seem Wendt would be informing the Council this can be accomplished through a consent to the ordinance. Quada believed the ordinance should be amended with a new date. He also felt the homeowner could say if the ordinance was so unclear to the City it had to be amended, how can the City expect a resident to do anything different than what has already been done?

Mayor Blough asked DesJarden if the premise on this was simply clarification. DesJarden responded yes. Blough concurred and felt a simple statement of support rather than an amendment to the ordinance may be in Councilmember Shores believed this may work. However, she questioned whether or not these individuals could be forced to pave their driveways.

Green said if this were to be approved, it should have a future effective date.

Myers also agreed clarification of the ordinance was appropriate rather than an amendment

IT WAS MOVED BY QUADA and seconded by MYERS to support the existing ordinance regarding the paving of driveways and proceed within the rights of the ordinance which currently provides and insists upon the installation of a hard surface to the remaining driveways.

Green verified the ordinance would remain as is with the understanding these individuals must comply. Quada responded these individuals would have to comply with DesJarden said the current ordinance does not state there must be a hard surface for the entire drive, but to the approach of the right of way. He said the zoning ordiearned during the bank deposit before distributing these nance does not mention there must be a hard surface.

> Quada responded if this was correct and there was no language in the zoning ordinance to this effect, then he would withdraw his motion.

Brubaker respectfully disagreed and said the ordinance states all parking facilities, access driveways and commercial storage areas shall be paved with asphalt or

Police Chief Valentine noted an amendment to the ordinance must be submitted to the District Court. He agreed with Quada stating if an amendment is submitted, it would be effective 10 days after adoption. Valentine said this would be the effective date as opposed to an interpretation and clarification of the existing ordinance.

Valentine said he would rather have an ordinance clariwith a pavement consisting of either asphalt or concrete in a legal action instead of an amendment which would binding. Brubaker said this particular provision is contake effect ten days after it was passed. Brubaker was in

"I called a timeout because we were being dominated physically," Bush said.

The Red Arrows then got things going as they rallied to trail by just four after one period, 13-9.

East Grand Rapids increased its lead to five at halftime. 21-16. It looked as if it would be eight, but Brady Foster netted a momentum-building three right before half.

"Lowell came at us. They outplayed us. They did a great job on their offensive boards," said dismayed Pioneer coach, Scott Tompkins.

The Red Arrows opened the third quarter with a press. It allowed East a few easy buckets, but it changed the tempo of the game and "got us into a rhythm offensively," Bush said. 'We switched defenses throughout and I thought that kept

Red Arrow hockey team takes two over weekend

This past weekend the Lowell junior varsity hockey team defeated East Lansing by a score of 4-2 and shut out Carson City-Crystal by a score of 6-0.

On Saturday, the Red Arrows faced off against East Lansing for the second time this season. Lowell lost the first meeting between the two teams earlier in the year by a score of 2-1 and was determined to even the score.

Lowell's aggressive forechecking paid off early when center Andi Larisch scored at the 11:05 mark of the first period on assists from David Blair and Jeremy Hanson. In the second period, Blair put Lowell up 2-0 with his first goal of the season on an assist from Chris Rybicki. East Lansing added two goals late in the period but Lowell's Eric Austin kept the Red Arrows in front with a goal at the 3:22 mark on assists from Eric Bailey and Larisch.

Lowell's Bailey opened the third period with a goal at the 14:40 mark on assists from Larisch and Austin to increase the score to 4-2. This margin proved to be enough as Lowell's defense held East Lansing scoreless for the remainder of the game. Most notably, goalie Jay Blair made several key saves on breakaway opportunities to secure the victory for the Red

"This was a great divisional victory for us and the team really played a great game, especially in the offensive zone," said head coach Paul Jacobus. "Our forwards really pressured the puck all night long and Jay Blair came up big on some saves late in the game."

On Sunday, Lowell faced off against a team from Carson City-Crystal at an outdoor rink in Lansing. The Red Arrows scored early and never looked back en route to a decisive 6-0 victory. Offensively, Eric Bailey led the way with a hat trick (3 goals) while Daniel Woods, Eric Austin and Josh Baker each added one goal apiece. Jay Blair and Rob Latva combined for Lowell's third shutout of the season.

The Red Arrows continue play this weekend with games against Grandville and Lansing. The Lowell team is a cooperative team with Caledonia.

Lowell's Sheppard seeks out learning opportunity as city council student representative

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

At a glance, Matthew Sheppard is just your average 14-year-old freshman in the Lowell School District.

A longer look reveals Sheppard is not even your average Lowell resident.

Sheppard attended the January city council meeting not because his parents were there seeking a zoning ordinance or because it was a school assignment.

No. Sheppard was at the January meeting as well as the November and December meetings because he has an interest in city government.

After expressing this interest to his school counselor. Sheppard drafted and sent a letter to Lowell city manager Dave Pasquale stating his interest in serving as a student representative on the city council.

"The main thing is this provides a learning opportunity and helps give him a sense of community service," Pasquale said.

Sheppard describes the meetings as interesting and fun. "I know a lot more about what's going on and what goes into decisions," he explains.

One of the more interesting issues Sheppard has listened to discusses whether the Spice channel should be a pay per view choice for cable subscribers. "I think the cable company should be able to offer what it wants and the subscribers should choose to buy it or not," said the student representative.

ENGLEHARD

Matthew Sheppard, student representative, has been attending Lowell City Council meetings since November.

Through this opportunity as a representative, Sheppard has also been able to keep his mother (Edine Bronold) aware of what's happening.

"I think she's surprised that I was interested in city government," Sheppard said. "It's not something she thought I'd ever get into."

Through a program sponsored through Kent County, student representative attendance at city meetings was described as a mixed bag from spotty to rarely miss.

"Matthew has not missed a meeting and has shown a real interest in learning about city government," Pasquale said. "He's learning about the city government process."

Sheppard's interest after high school includes law enforcement and becoming a fireman.

Resolve to Be Energy-Wise and Save

New Year's resolutions are a tradition. This year, resolve to become energywise.

You can save money on your electric bill each month by taking just a few simple

• Turn off lights and appliances when not in use.

• Replace incandescent light bulbs with energy-saving compact fluorescent bulbs.

• Check your home's level of insulation. (Call us to learn how much insulation your home should have.)

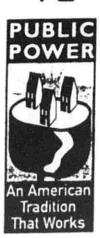

• Use caulk and weather-stripping to stop drafts around windows and doors.

• Direct warm air where you want it by closing heating vents in unoccupied rooms.

chance to voice their opinions about the Lowell Area School District's efforts to reduce crowding in its build-

Superintendent Bert Bleke said a demographics study committee and school officials are working to set up four community forums. At these forums, residents will be presented with various options in changing the district's demographics.

"We do not want to sur-Residents will have a prise anyone," Bleke said at the Jan. 10 Board of Education meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to inform as many people as possible of the district's plans and to give everyone who wants an opportunity to ask questions and make comments about the options, he explained.

"We have tried to design the meeting so that it would be accommodating to everyone - first, second, third shift people as well as those who work on Saturdays," he said.

The forums, all in February, have been set for Feb. 22 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Alto Elementary School; Feb. 26 at the Lowell Schools' administration offices (the board room) from 10 a.m. to noon; February 28 at Cherry Creek Elementary from 7 to 9 p.m.; and February 29 in the board room from 9 to 11 a.m.

Bleke said the district plans to heavily advertise the meetings so as to encourage as many people as possible to

"Our plan is to present these options to the board in April with final approval at the May board meeting," Bleke said.

For the past couple of years the district, through the Demographics Study Committee, has been working to help solve the district's overcrowding problem.
