City Council to create committee to study cable business

•••• A nine-member committee will be formed to conduct a comprehensive review of the desirability of continuing to offer cable television in the community

By J.N. Boorsma Contributing Writer

Many of the people in the Lowell City Council's audience were expecting to hear a definite decision on what the council was going to do about adult programming on the Lowell Cable TV. Instead, they got another study.

After almost an hour and a half of debate over how the adult channels arrived on Lowell Cable, whether they could be removed, and that the results of the survey indicated residents wanted the channels removed, the council unanimously decided to place a moratorium on the addition of any new adult cable channels and (if technically possible) any new pay-per-view customers for the existing channels. The moratorium would exist for about three months while Mayor Mike Blough and a councilmember put together a committee of nine people from the community to determine whether the city of Lowell should even be in the cable business.

"This is a different day and age from 13 years ago when we decided to bring cable into this community," said councilor Ray Quada who proposed the resolution for the moratorium and creation of a new committee.

Quada said when looking at the quality of television, it isn't just adult channels carrying adult programs, but other stations that are carrying specific adult programming. He believed the entire system needed to be reviewed with a committee holding public forums for people to voice their concerns about what is available on Lowell Cable.

"There is equally offensive material on the TV that our children can watch tomorrow without any lockouts," Quada said, adding that he felt it was time for the city to consider whether it should still be in the cable business at all.

For councilor Don Greene, however, the main issue was whether the adult channels should even be offered by Lowell Cable. He asked for an amendment to Quada's motion putting a moratorium on all existing and future adult pay-per-view channels until the committee had a chance to make its recommendation. The amendment failed.

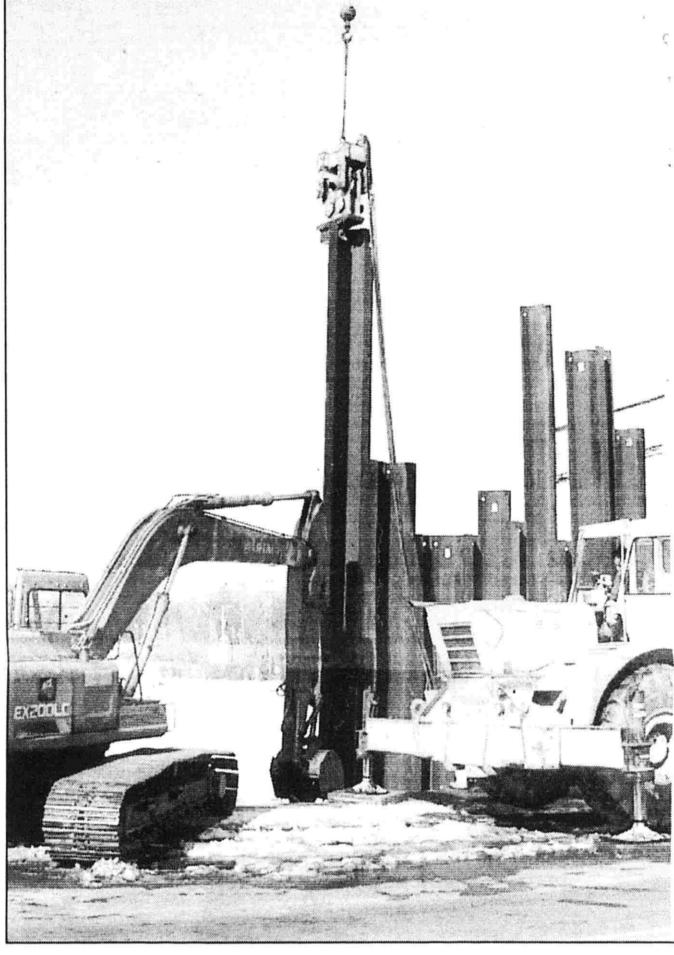

The council did approve Quada's resolution along with having the committee report back to the board by May 1 and the board making a final decision on the matter by June 1.

All of which went against what the Lowell Cable Board proposed, which was to keep everything status quo. Lowell Cable chairperson Norman Borgerson presented a letter to the council, which was read by Lowell Cable general manager Ron Holcomb. He offered the following reasons for keeping Lowell Cable's current line-up: Competition - by not offering it the cable company could lose shares in the cable market; customer- supported enterprise - the cable company is supported solely by those who subscribe and not by the taxpayers; customer/subscriber survey - the survey was inconclusive since only about 22 percent of Lowell Cable subscribers responded; and reception of controversial programming - customers have to make three conscious steps to make a pay-per-view purchase.

Councilor Jeanne Shores did disagree over one point: the survey had 443 people vote to remove adult programming to 417 people who voted to not remove the programming. About 3,019 subscribers did not respond to the survey.

"What do I say to those who say I voiced my opinion and the city didn't care about what I said?" Shores questioned. Several members of the audience got up to say they felt like

Driving Home Steel Sheet Piling

Davis Construction, of Grand Rapids, began the sheet piling work on the Main Street Bridge. The sheet piling will help brace and stabilize the retaining wall. Once approximately 70 feet of sheet piling is driven into the river bed, a bridge railing will be put up and the damaged sidewalk will be replaced when weather permits. The bridge has been without a rail for roughly two years.

For the first time in eight-10 years, Vergennes Township will hold an annual meeting.

It will serve as a precursor to the November ballot in which voters will be asked if they favor the township holding such a meeting on an annual basis.

The annual meeting is scheduled for Saturday. March 25 at 10 a.m. at Vergennes Township Hall.

"This will give township residents a chance to experience what an annual meeting is like," said township clerk Mari Stone. "In the fall they will be able to vote whether they want one or not."

An annual meeting is intended to provide opportunity for officials to report to citizens on board decisions and on progress or lack of it. Citizens are also given the opportunity to question and criticize elected officials. It is also an opportunity to review the budget.

something that is too tough for you to take on by yourself. If nothing else, you'll need an ally when it comes time to face death. You'll want Someone who is strong enough to beat the Grim Reaper. The only one with documented success in this arena is Jesus, the Son of God, who after he was raised from death was seen alive by more than five hundred people (1 Corinthians 15:6).

Don't wait. Get to know Him now. They say there are no atheists in a foxhole but when the shells are bursting overhead, it's a pretty bad time to say, "Okay, I guess I will learn how to pray now!" You need His support. He wants to give it. It's that simple!

Viewpoint.

I'm going back a couple of months for this week's column I should have written about this as soon as it happened; at my advanced age the details become fuzzy in a hurry. Two months is a real stretch. I reported for duty at our Florida Keys business in mid-December to work on the January edition of our monthly publication. I don't remember just how the schedule worked out, but Terese and I managed to sneak in a day of fishing. I can't remember if we caught anything, but as they say, "A bad day fishing is better than a good day working." The routine after fishing is to hang the boat in the davits, bow high so that the water runs freely out the stern scuppers when we wash it down. The boat is a 25- foot cuddy cabin with twin 150 horsepower outboards. Everything is 1985 vintage. I picked it up used several years ago. The davits are two miniature cranes bolted to the dock that hoist the boat. One davit's cable hooks to the bow. The other davit's cable hooks to a spreader bar with a short drop cable and hook on each end. The spreader bar drop cables hook to stern lift rings on the port and starboard of the boat. The operator simply switches on the electric wenches for each davit and the boat is lifted out of the water.

The foregoing, extremely mundane, paragraph has been a quick dose of information needed to understand the somewhat complicated series of events that follow ... sorry. So, there's the boat ... hosed down and hanging in the davits just out of the water. We didn't hoist it higher because it is more difficult to get in and out of when lifted higher. I'm guessing the tide was somewhere on the low side. Normally we get about a foot and a half tide. Nothing different in the routine than we've done hundreds of times. Ahh, but just because I didn't change my routine doesn't mean things don't change on their own. In other words, the world does not revolve around me. Imagine that, seems like I learn something new every day. The next morning I was in the office at about 5 a.m. writing one of these weekly offerings. The sun wasn't even up, but in the gray pre-dawn. Terese had noticed something peculiar about the boat when she was at the kitchen window making coffee. She came down to the office, grabbed me, and we went out to investigate. Terese's first inclination was to throw up. If she had, I would have seconded the motion. The boat was hanging by the bow cable and the starboard drop cable on the spreader bar. The port drop cable on the stern was not attached.

entails, and thank them for all the effort.

Most of the port side of the boat was underwater. The port engine was completely underwater and the starboard engine was partially submerged. It has been a good and reliable boat, but a submarine it is not. As I found out later, the full moon we were experiencing was causing extra high and low tides because the moon was closer to the earth than in the last 130

My theory on the sinking goes like this. The extra high tide floated the boat in the night. The keeper on the port lift cable hook has rusted away allowing the hook to slip out of the eye. During the ensuing extra low tide, the boat hung at an awkward port side down angle. An easterly breeze lapped small waves over the stern and flooded the boat. When the tide came back up, the boat would have sunk completely had it not been for the starboard stern and bow cables holding it up. It was an ugly sight. If it hadn't been so early in the day, and if I'd eaten breakfast, I probably would have lost it right there in the canal. I stripped down to my underwear and climbed into my flooded boat. I had Terese hit the down position on the davit motor When I had enough cable, I re-hooked the port drop cable (the port lifting eye was about two feet under the surface) and had Terese hit the up position on the switch. Slowly, slowly, slowly we were able to inch the stern up as the water drained. I climbed aboard again and pulled the drain plug. I hoisted the boat plenty high and left it to dry out. I toweled off, put on some dry clothes and finished my column while waiting for a respectable hour to call my mechanic. Even though I felt the situation qualified as an emergency, I doubted my mechanic would share my

Here are a few facts to consider while trying to imagine my situation. I had nearly twenty guests due to arrive for the holidays in just a few short days. Of course, they all planned on air. fishing, water skiing, diving and beaching. The boat was the key to all this activity. Furthermore, in the past couple of years have spent considerable money on a new power head for the starboard engine and a complete rebuild of the port engine. The boat is old enough that it would be very difficult to justify thousands of dollars for two new engines. Good used engines are non-existent. An insurance claim might make a feeble down payment on a new boat. The bottom line was, none of my options were good ones if the motors weren't salvageable. crossed my fingers and called my mechanic. The "Bilge Rat's" answering machine informed me that he was gone on a snow skiing vacation with his daughter and wouldn't be back for Treasurer. more than a week. Now I was ready to throw up.

If you've read my stuff for any length of time, you've probably noticed that the more one of my fiascoes costs me, the more lineage I try to milk out of it in my column. True to form, the other four also came down with measles, but survived. you'll have to wait 'til next week to see how this dilemma turns remembering far more of this incident than I want to.

ULTRASOUND OF THE PROSTATE

Prostate cancer will claim the lives of 40,000 men this year in the United States, according to recent statistics. Prostate cancer is also the most common cancer among men. To reduce the chance that prostate cancer will go undiagnosed, men are screened with both a digital rectal exam, where the prostate is palpated directly and a PSA (prostate specific antigen) which is a blood test drawn in the office. Depending on the findings of these tests, a patient may be referred to a urologist for further evaluation with transrectal ultrasound of the prostate.

Transrectal ultrasound is performed at an ultrasound lab usually at a hospital. The procedure involves a probe, which directs sound waves into the prostate via the rectum. The waves produce an image on a television monitor revealing the overall architecture and density of the prostate gland. On many occasions, the gland is biopsied with a thin needle projected from the ultrasound probe. The biopsy is a thin "core" of tissue, which is examined by a pathologist for unusual or cancerous cells. Diagnosis and treatment regimens are guided by the findings of the prostate ultrasound and Digital rectal exams of the prostate should be performed annually starting at age 40 and PSA screening at age 50 along with continued annual rectal examinations.

These are the same guidelines the local commission and property owners have been following for the past three years. We have been a State and Local Historic District since November 1996.

Doyle also took the time on behalf of the Historic District Commission and the property owners in the district to thank the Lowell Area Community Fund Board Members and the Grand Rapids Foundation for their commitment, by providing over $100,000 in grants to the Commission. The Commission in turn makes smaller grants to properties in the district creating incentives for rehabilitation to the exterior of their buildings. We have had about 1/3 of the properties participate in this program since its inception 18 months ago.

Root-Lowell Manufacturing Co. petitioned the City to establish an Industrial Development District under Public Act 198 in order to qualify for property tax abatements in connection with future improvements to its facilities.

Root-Lowell received site plan approval for a 70,000 square foot expansion to the rear of the plant for warehousing and wished to take advantage of the abatement. At their August 23, 1999 meeting, the Planning Commission reviewed the request with the applicant. Based on not meeting criteria D, E and F. the Commission did not recommend the variance involving hard surfaced parking be granted. However, the Commissioners did suggest the petitioner meet with DPW Director Dan DesJarden to determine the length of driveway pavement necessary to avoid washout onto Grindle.

At the Council meeting of July 3, 1999, an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance was reviewed to clarify the issue. After this was reviewed, a motion was passed to not approve the amendment as presented and continue to support the existing ordinance regarding the paving of driveways.

As requested by Council, a letter was received from City Attorney Richard Wendt which stated under Section 19.03B all parking facilities, access driveways and commercial storage areas shall be hard surfaced with the pavement having an asphalt or concrete binder. It shall be graded and drained so as to dispose of surface water which may accumulate within or upon such area and shall be completely constructed prior to a certificate of Boardmember Blough asked if the Planning Commission agreed on paving 75 feet. DesJarden responded yes.

Myers noted the ordinance requires the entire drive to be paved. DesJarden said the Code of Ordinances state all new construction must have sidewalks, retaining walls and driveway approaches consisting of a hard surface. However, under the Zoning Ordinance book it states all facilities must be hard surfaced. DesJarden felt this pertained to parking lot applications.

He stated with a single or two family residential area, the applicant would not have to apply to the Planning Commission to build a house.

City Manager Pasquale noted the letter from City Attorney Richard Wendt which recommended the drive be Boardmember Quada questioned if the current definition in the ordinance was with respect to access driveways. Pasquale was unsure if there was a specific definition.

Quada questioned if there was an alternate way to collect the wash-off from the property. DesJarden said spillways could not be placed in his mother's (Osburn's) yard. DesJarden said 75 feet would bring the pavement back interpretation was over 75 feet of paving and noted the by the first part of March. Planning Commission could insist upon paving the entire drive of 670 feet.

Myers valued the decision given from the DPW of 75 feet.

Osburn questioned where it states in the Zoning or Code of Ordinances Book that he is responsible for the easement, just because he received a variance to have an access drive.

Myers said the easement provides access to the property. Quada stated if he did not have this easement, Osburn would have no way to access his house and noted the ordinance does not have to do with easement issues. Quada mentioned it is a matter of state law to obtain an easement.

Osburn stated he was willing to pave from the centerline 30 feet in.

Green said there is a difference between the approach and the driveway. According to the ordinance, the interpretation from the City Attorney and Council, the driveway must be paved all the way to the house. Green noted the approach must be paved automatically. In the Zoning Ordinance, it states the driveway, which results in the installing a new fence. entire drive being paved.

Green stated the City is offering the option of paving only 75 feet. If Osburn is using the easement, then he is responsible for it.

LMS art students honored at Calvin College

Three Lowell Middle School students were honored on Thursday at Calvin College's Fine Arts Center. Their artworks were a part of the Region 9 Exhibition of the Michigan Art Education Association. A reception was held and each participant was photographed with their artwork.

Alan Ingraham, grade 6, created a tempera painting titled "This Is Where Alvin Aquino, grade 7, turned his classmate's portrait into a "Russian Icon. - LMS Style" complete with designed halo and three examples of symbolism. His work was selected to go to the state adjudication for the middle school art exhibition in Lansing on March 11.

Brittany Dietz, grade 6, changed her shoe drawing into a "Hiding Shoe Lizard." Her assignment covered all of the elements of art. Her lizard was also selected to go to the state adjudication in Lansing.

These students participated in M. Karen Thomure's art classes.

Alto man killed in snowmobile accident

•••• Caledonia woman incurs serious injury.

An Alto man was killed Friday evening just before midnight along Timpson Avenue, just south of 52nd Victor Mast, 29, died after being thrown from his snowmobile.

Mast, the driver, and passenger 17year-old Jamie McCall were southbound on Timpson when Mast lost control of the snowmobile. It left the gravel road and hit some trees, ejecting both the driver and passenger, according to the Kent County Sheriff's De-

McCall incurred serious injuries and was transported to Spectrum Health Downtown and is listed in serious condition.

Kent County Sheriff deputies said the snowmobile may have struck a dog in the road, causing the accident. A dead dog lay at the bottom of the hill near the accident site.

Mast and his wife of two years, Bethany, were visiting a friend's house in Alto when Mast and McCall, of Caledonia, decided to go for a ride. After being gone nearly an hour, friends began looking for them.

Mast was a construction foreman for Alferink Steel Erectors of Grand Rapids.

Spouse Retiring Before You? Better Plan Ahead

You and your spouse probably share many of the same dreams for retirement. You may want to start a small business together, or travel around the world, or just relax with your family at your vacation home. To achieve your retirement goals, you will need to do some comprehensive planning. And one of the things you may need to plan for is the possibility of one spouse retiring before the other.

If it seems likely that one of you will retire several years before the other, consider taking the following steps:

Make needed changes to your portfolios. Of course, you and your spouse will own some investments in common. But you may also want to maintain separate portfolios, with each one containing different types of investments. This will result in greater overall diversification — always an advantage to

If you're going to retire at different ages, then you might need to adjust your individual investment portfolios accordingly. For example, if you are the older spouse, or at least the one who is going to retire sooner, you may want to shift some of your assets from growth stocks to fixed-income securities.

However, given the fact that you may spend 20 to 30 years in retirement, you will want to maintain some elements of growth in your portfolio; otherwise, you risk losing purchasing power to inflation.

On the other hand, the younger spouse will have more working years left, and can better afford to take a bit more risk

VERGENNES TOWNSHIP PUBLIC NOTICE

A Public Hearing for a Special Exception Use Application will be held at the regularly scheduled meeting of the Vergennes Township Planning Commission on Monday, March 6, 2000 at 7:00 p.m. at the Township offices located at 10381 Bailey Dr. Lowell for the purpose of receiving comment from the public.

The following application concerns 2 property locations described below.

Kent County Road Commission, 1500 Scribner Ave. N.W. Grand Rapids, MI 49504 owner of 1000 Cumberland Ave. N.E. Lowell, in the SW 1/4 of Section 33, parcel #41-16-33-301-001, is requesting a Special Exception Use Permit to produce and store 40,000 cubic yards of gravel for maintenance and construction of gravel roads in Vergennes Township and neighboring townships. This site is located on the east side of Cumberland between Foreman and Bennett. The Road Commission expects the processing to take approximately 60 days.

The second site is owned by Kent County and is located at 13800 McPherson St. N.E. Lowell, in the SW 1/4 of Section 13, parcel #41-16-13-300-003 and the NW 1/4 of Section 24, parcel #41-16-24-100-031. This site is located across the bridge east and north of Fallasburg Park. The request for a Special Exception Use Permit at this site is also to produce and store 40,000 cubic yards of gravel for maintenance and construction of gravel roads in Vergennes Township and neighboring townships. The processing is expected to take approximately 60 days.

The applications are available for public inspection at the Township offices on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Written comments will be considered in received by the Township Clerk or Planning Coordinator before 7:00 p.m. on March 6 in exchange for potentially higher returns.

Vergennes Township Planning Commission

Decide when you'll take your retirement plan distributions. If you have a 401 (k) or other retirement plan where you work, you will probably have several options for collecting the money when you retire. If your spouse is still working, you may not need to tap your retirement funds right away. Instead you could keep your money in your employer's plan, if allowed. Or, if you're eligible, you could roll the funds over to an IRA. If your spouse has already retired, you may have a greater income need, so you might want to start taking your distribution as soon as you retire. Before you accept any distributions, however, consider how they will affect your

Update your health care and disability coverage. If your spouse retires before you, and he or she carried the health care coverage through work, you'll need to assume this responsibility. And if you're the spouse who's still working, you should consider purchasing disability insurance to protect

Plan ahead — and take action.

By taking the appropriate steps, you can ensure a smooth transition period between the times that you and your spouse retire. So, get started soon. One day, you'll be glad you
