Wittenbachs' educational legacy grows with construction of center

•••• Donation of $200,000 provides grand opportunity for environmental and agri-science studies.

By Thaddeus J. KrausLowell Ledger Editor

"If Dad knew what was happening he would be so proud," said Mary Dewey, the daughter of June Wittenbach serve as the and the late Everett Wittenbach.

One could argue that because of Everett Wittenbach's information pride of and vision for the Lowell community, he already knew, and the rest are just now catching up.

It was announced Wednesday that construction of land preserve. the Everett and June Wittenbach Agricultural and Environmental Science and mother

"This is representative of the feelings both Everett and I have about this community, its people and how important farming and the environment were to him," said June Wittenbach, his wife of 50 years.

The donation just further enhances the educational imprint the Wittenbachs have had on the community.

"It is a tremendously generous gift which will provide a wonderful educational opportunity for the school, community and outside communities," Lowell Area Schools Superintendent Bert Bleke said. "Ideally, we hope to be able to use the facility next fall. It will have an impact on the K-12 curriculum."

In 1992, they stepped forward and volunteered to sell 180 acres of their land for the development of the new state- of-theart Lowell High School.

The new center will be located adjacent to a 60-acre parcel of property that is owned by the Land Conservancy Organization and has been designated forever by that group as a

Through his business networking, Wittenbach Sales and Service made an impact not only on the Lowell community but outlying areas as well.

"He helped a lot of franchises in neighboring communities," June Wittenbach said. "There are plans to make the facility available to the schools and community groups outside the area with agricultural and environmental interests."

The Lowell 4-H and Future Farmers of America organizations also knew and experienced Wittenbach's generosity.

He served for many years on the 4-H Board and was actively involved in the FFA during the 1970's and 80's.

> Pete Siler. teacher and sponsor of the Lowell FFA chapt e r praised the Wittenbachs' for their longstanding commitment to the school's agri-science program and to the community at large "Everett and June have served Lowell's agricultural community in many ways over the years." he said, "and the center will be a fitting tribute to both of them."

Wittenbach's son Stephen said his dad had a special appreciation of Lowell area farmers and understood their value to the community. "To be able to contribute to the school's foundation to construct this new building would have made him very happy. I know my mother is pleased."

"Sticks and Stones" can't distract from show's level of excellence

•••• The 14th annual arts competition recognized 71 pieces of art and 56 artists, nine of which were from the local area.

By Thaddeus J. Kraus Lowell Ledger Editor

Ron Pederson, juror of the 2000 West Michigan Regional Competition, noted that he is attracted to artwork that is visually clear, visually interesting, dynamically whole.

In part, that is why he awarded Molly Alicki Corriveau's "Sticks and Stones" piece with Best of Show.

"Her interior/exterior treatment of the portrait was innovative," Pederson explained. "It also possesses that spark of life that I thought reflected something of the spirit of the artist."

Corriveau was one of 56 artists represented in the 14th annual competition at the Lowell Area Arts Council. The 71piece exhibition will run through April 12.

Corriveau explains that "Sticks and Stones" varies from most of her work. "I like to hide symbols and leave messages with my work. I did not do that with this piece."

When finished with her prisma color sculptural drawing, it was clear her work was that of a sad woman who hurt inside, pain not incurred from sticks and stones.

Corriveau's work has been a popular and clear choice of the West Michigan Regional Competition jurors over the last half dozen years. During that time she has earned Juror's Choice twice and Best 2-Dimensional.

"This is a really good show. It's small and selective and there is always really good work here," Corriveau explains.

Pederson concurred. "I could have made another show with what wasn't selected. The level of excellence was that close."

Other artists earning awards include: Jim Marble's "Foggy Morning," Best 2-Dimensional; Steven Peters, "Warrior/ Inner Voice," Best 3-Dimensional; Annie Morgan, "Music and Dreams," Creative Use of Material; and Neil Mullally. "Earning His Supper," Juror's Selection.

by Roger Brown

I met a guy recently who is mid-fifties and out there with It would take a better sociologist than me to give you a the oldest of Babyboomers. He retired last year after a lifelong career with a large company. He and others like him are the canaries in the coal mine for all of us to be following them into retirement. I hate to tell you this but he's already a little short pent-up GI's came back from overseas. It ended twenty-some of breath.

> This guy and his wife are trying to move to a warmer climate. They bought a house in south Florida and are still trying to peddle the family home in Washington state. That may have something to do with his attitude.

In his view, their biggest problem is finding services in their new domain. Any services, such as doctors and dentists to carpenters and mechanics, are hard to find. Even decent restaurants with reasonable service or efficient check-outs at a grocery store are hard to come across. In typical "change the with all the hoopla over the war, the draft, peace, love, etc. world" Babyboomer fashion, the guy has come up with a Throw in some great music and movies and we had ourselves solution to this problem.

His fix amounts to semi-retirement. He says we're going Now we're all couch potatoes and it is pretty obvious we to have to take turns taking care of each other. If you were a dental technician, then Tuesday is your day down at the clinic replacing ourselves. I caught part of a program on public radio cleaning teeth. If you were a mechanic, then the last week of the month you get to wrench on Fords at the dealership. If you didn't do anything in life that is worthwhile to the system. Boomers have created for ourselves. The raw numbers tell the corporate executives, for example, then you get the non-skilled jobs like bagging burgers, grocery store check-out or video 55 million "Generation X'ers." I don't think we were that lazy store clerk.

Somehow, I get the feeling this plan isn't going to work. On the other hand, I don't have a solution. It's too late for us Boomers to have more kids to support us. They locked up Doc Kervorkian, so that option is gone. Somehow I don't think 60's enough X'ers in the work force to fund Social Security, then style communes are going to work any better now than they did there aren't enough X'ers to fix our cars, fill our teeth, grow our back then. I guess we'd better just resign ourselves to working food, build our roads or bag our burgers. We're never going to forever. Speaking of which, it's time to wrap this thing up and go hustle up some business. Work, work, work!

Steelhead can be caught on spawn, spinners, wigglers, crank baits, and artificial flies. You might guess - as with any type of fishing - there is a lot to learn about equipment and technique. Because this fishing often takes place in public areas, you can learn a lot by just watching other folks fish.

Actually, even if you're not interested in fishing, watching others fish is a great spectator sport. Steelhead will average about eight pounds, so when someone hooks up with one in fast water the action can be fast and furious. More often than not

Suddenly a silver torpedo cartwheeled out of the swift water. The rod arched into a full half circle as the large fish made a run for freedom. This is steelhead fishing in Michigan. This is what keeps normally sensible people standing in cold water for hours in all kinds of weather, casting until their arms

The steelhead is actually a rainbow trout that is returning home from the Great Lakes to spawn. The warm weather this year seems to have moved the timing of their journey up a bit, and if the trend continues, they could complete their task and be gone in a hurry. Locally, fish have entered the Grand River system. Some of the more popular fishing sites are the Grand

Cherry Creek fourth-graders sponsor Fitness Fair

Fourth grade students Blake Simon and Devin DeCator help first grade students Jillian Johnson and Emma Duvernay with their "Stay Healthy" worksheets.

First grade students from Bushnell participated in a Fitness Fair sponsored by Cherry Creek fourth grade students on Feb. 25. The Cherry Creek students taught the Bushnell students to stay healthy by eating the right kinds of foods, saying "no" to tobacco and getting lots of exercise.

The first grade students were treated to a free roller skating pass from Roll-Away Family Fun Center.

The PTO provided "Say No To Drugs" pencils, and Kropf Orchards provided apples for everyone.

manager of the Lowell hockey club. "There is no difference in cost to run a varsity hockey program as opposed to a club."

In its first year, Blair and head coach Paul Jacobus had eight Lowell players come out for the team. This year there were 15. In a cooperative team effort, five players from Caledonia also skated.

"We are excited to get hockey back as a varsity sport in the Lowell school district," Jacobus said.

A middle school and elementary study was completed to measure the sport's interest among students.

It showed there are 70 fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders currently playing hockey. Of those, 18 are in a program such as GRAHA. The study went on to show that 220 expressed an interest in playing hockey.

The varsity hockey program will begin on a one-year probationary basis. Hobrla said he is not sure if Lowell and Caledonia will form a cooperative team (e.g., Forest Hills/ Lowell swim team).

"If we have enough players of our own, we probably won't enter into a cooperative team effort with Caledonia,' Hobrla explained.

Freestyle Wrestling Results:

The Lowell Freestyle Wrestling Club is off to a great start with the season just beginning last weekend. The Freestyle Club is a feeder club to the high school wrestling program. A high-speed car chase which began on U.S. 131 between Grand Rapids and Rockford came to a controlled, non-deadly

The car chase took place on Tuesday, March 21. State police identified the stolen car and began in pursuit on U.S. 131. The chase led them east on M-57, then south on Lincoln Lake.

Once on Lincoln Lake the Lowell Police Department was notified. Officers Trevor Slot and Sandy Lee were alerted and deployed spike strips just north of town near the airport.

The spike strips are intended to bring a controlled deflation of the tires.

"Had the vehicle reached the city limits traveling at a high rate of speed, the results could have been deadly," said Lowell Police Chief James Valentine.

Instead, the stolen vehicle, after riding over the spikes, traveled a quarter of a mile before coming to a stop. The driver and front seat passenger fled the car. The passenger was found later in a bed of a nearby pickup truck The driver, Justin Scott Speet, of Grand Rapids, made his way to Sam Noon's where he was able to start up one of the cars on the lot. His run from law ended a couple of hours later in Grand Rapids where police apprehended him following a second car chase which resulted in an injury to another person. Two female passengers who were in the back seat crawled into the trunk from the interior during the initial chase. Approximately 30 minutes after the chase ended, police heard noises from the trunk and uncovered the two passengers. Speet was charged with receiving and concealing stolen property of more than $1,000 but less than $20,000. He also was charged with two felony counts of fleeing a police officer.

The other male passenger was charged with obstruction of

There was a pick-up order on one of the juvenile females. The parents of the other female were contacted.

of their assets for college expenses — compared to less than six percent for parents.

A possible benefit

Are there any potential benefits to shifting financial assets into your children's names? There may be — depending on your individual situation.

For example, if your estate is large enough — $650,000 in 1999, rising to $1 million over the next several years — to incur estate taxes, then you may be able to reduce your estate tax liability and help your future heirs by giving away some assets to your children while you are alive. You and your spouse can each make annual tax-free gifts of up to $10,000

If you give an actual security, such as a stock, to your child, then he or she will be responsible for any capital gains taxes. If you sell the security while it's in your name, so that you can give cash, you will most likely want to increase your federal and state tax quarterly estimates so you won't incur underpayment penalties.

See your tax adviser

There are many issues involved with the concept of gifting assets and shifting investment income to your children. So, before you take action, you'll want to make one important call — to your tax adviser.

VanNoller begins process to open miniature golf course

By Thaddeus J. KrausLowell Ledger Editor

A miniature golf course often requires golfers to position their golf ball around obstacles in order to get a clear shot at the Bob VanNoller, owner of Roll Away Family Fun Center, wishes to build such a course on his property at 805 E. Main. Monday night, he took the initial steps in positioning himself for final approval on such a project.

VanNoller was successful in attaining the Lowell Planning Commission's recommendation for a variance regarding lot size and the minimum number of parking spaces required.

A miniature golf course is considerd an open air business and requires a minimum of one acre. VanNoller's property contains 34,980 square feet or .8 acres.

Horatio St., while not part of the property, is a public right of way used for parking by the family fun center owner. The commissioners agreed it should be counted as part of VanNoller's lot.

The 11,880 square foot right of way enables the owner to meet the one-acre minimum requirement.

VanNoller's property is considered unusual in that all four sides abut against streets, thus there is no property to purchase to allow for expansion.

The city ordinance states that a miniature golf course requires three parking spaces per hole (54 parking spaces for 18 holes). VanNoller's proposal calls for 36.

Because the location sets in a residential area, VanNoller said he suspects many kids will walk or ride their bikes. He added that the miniature golf season would not compete for parking space with bowling leagues which take place during the winter season.

The planning commission, based on the location and the fact that it felt three parking spaces per hole were excessive, granted a variance on the number of parking spaces.

In addressing screening, for the property, VanNoller proposed three-foot-high hedges which would extend three feet from the six-foot -high security fence, thus preventing debris from collecting at the fence.

The planning commission set a public hearing for April

LAAC receives variances for sign and front yard setback for porch

By Thaddeus J. KrausLowell Ledger Editor

Pointing to safety and visual impact, the Lowell Area Arts Council sought variance recommendations from the Lowell Planning Commission.

The building, owned by King Milling, is located at 149 S. Hudson in an industrial zone. At best, an odd fit for an arts council. Therefore, the need for variances on the installation of a permanent sign and porch.

The needs of an arts center would be better met with a C-2 (Central Business).

LAAC proposed placing a permanent 48-square-foot canvas sign, hanging perpendicular to the building facing S.

Industrial zoning allows for horizontal signs and they can be no bigger than 32 square feet.

The LAAC will utilize the banner as a way to recognize and tie into the aesthetic character of the downtown and also improve its visibility.

In the industrial district, a 50-foot front yard setback is required. The proposed porch would extend six feet into the Ottawa Street right of way as a necessary safety feature and handicap entrance, preventing ice build-up.

The planning commission, while approving the variances, strongly suggested that the arts council work with the Kent County Road Commission to make sure the road work planned for South Hudson will not change what the LAAC is looking to accomplish.

The industrial zoning setback requirements would not allow for such improvements.

King Milling approved the exterior improvements.

The planning commission voted to recommend variances to install the permanent banner and a front yard setback for a
